Carl Sandburg Dies— but the Ballad Goes On

FLAT ROCK, N. C. (AP) — White-topped Carl Sandburg, Pulitzer Prize-winning poet, historian, novelist and Lincoln biographer, died quietly at his beloved goat ranch in Western North Carolina Saturday.

His wife, Paula described his death as "a beautiful passing," said her husband "slowly breathed away."

Sandburg, one of the great men of American letters, had celebrated his 89th birthday last Jan. 6. He had predicted, on the occasion of his 88th birthday, that he would die in his 99th year.

In Washington, President Johnson mourned Sandburg's death, saying: "Carl Sandburg gave us the truest and most enduring vision of our own greatness . . . there is no end to the legacy he leaves us."

The usually smiling writer had spent much of the last year reading, most of the time in bed, and keeping up with current events. He occasionally took a halting stroll around his small ranch, and during good weather strummed his guitar on the front porch.

About a month ago he suffered what was described as a "heart stroke," and had been conscious only at times since then. But Mrs. Sandburg, 80, said she had not expected his death.

He fell into a semi-conscious condition Saturday morning, Mrs. Sandburg said.

"He had difficulty in breathing from about 8 o'clock," she said.

The two nurses who had been in constant attendance in recent months attempted to keep him alive with artificial respiration. His physician, Dr. D. I. Campbell King, was called. The poet died shortly after King arrived.

A private funeral service will be Monday at St.

FLAT ROCK, N.C. (AP)—Here are some of poet Carl Sandburg's best-known lines:

"Time is a sandpile we run our fingers in"

"Man is a long time coming.
"Man will yet win.
"Brother may yet line up with brother:
"This old anvil laughs at many broken hammers.
"There are men who can't be bought."

"The fog comes on little cat feet."

"I am the people—the mob—the crowd—the mass.
"Do you know that all the great work of the world is done through me?"

"Hog Butcher for the World,
"Tool Maker, Stacker of Wheat,
"Player with Railroads and the Nation's Freight Handler;
"Stormy, husky, brawling.
"City of the Big Shoulders."

"The Republic is a dream.
"Nothing happens unless first a dream."

"Time is a great teacher.
"Who can live without hope?
"In the darkness with a great bundle of grief the people march."

Black Power Meeting Erupts in Free-for-all

The Associated Press

Racial violence spread to the streets of Birmingham, Ala., Youngstown, Ohio, and Wadesboro, N. C., Saturday and a black power news conference at Newark, N.J. erupted into a fist-swinging, chair-throwing melee.

A crowd of Negroes estimated at 200 bombarded store and automobile windows with rocks and soft drink bottles in downtown Brimingham after officers shot a Negro man who ran from police trying to arrest him.

Two gasoline fire bombs were tossed without damage and two stores were reported looted. Two white persons — including a 7-year-old child — reportedly were injured in the rock-throwing.

At Newark, angry Negro delegates protesting the presence of white newsmen stormed into a jammed news conference, smashing television equipment and punching and shoving reporters.

* * * *

SEVERAL newsmen suffered minor cuts and bruises, other reporters were chased by Negroes down a back yard area and into an alley. Negro reporters joined their white colleagues in fleeing.

The outburst climaxed growing signs of hostility toward whites by some of the delegates, particularly young militants attending a national conference on black power.

Before the news conference began, one Negro delegate harangued newsmen outside the building, shouting, "Get out of here.

Action Line is your service, solving your problems, getting your answers, cutting red tape and standing up for your rights. To get action, write ACTION LINE, Box 230, Long Beach, Calif. 90801, or dial 432-3451 between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m., or 5 p.m. and 9 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Q. We're trying to organize a choir at Long Beach Teen Post 119, but we need our piano tuned, some sheet music, and some volunteers to help teach our group to sing. Can Action Line lend a hand? C.W., Long Beach.

A. You bet we can. Get your group ready to sing out, because Robert Goldblatt, will tune your piano, Morey's Family Music Store, is coming up with some sheet music for choirs, and with an assist from Don Drury, public relations director for Long Beach City College, a couple of music majors — Steve Bunton and Steve Warner — who'll try to lend a musical hand to your project.

Q. Last month, I was bitten by a dog, and my suit trousers were torn, along with my leg. I contacted the owner and filled out some forms for an insurance company, but so far I've heard nothing. Now, I'm worried about the dog's condition and the claim. Can you help? H.B., Long Beach.

A. Sure. First, the dog was examined and found healthy — no inidcation of rabies. Secondly, Miss Gale Foster, claims representative for the owner's insurance company, will contact you to arrange a settlement for the damages since she has your file.

Q. There's a fire hydrant in front of our house which is badly in need of paint. We've contacted both the city and the fire department several times, but the hydrant remains unpainted. We take pride in our home, so the fire department should take pride in their hydrants. Can you get some action for us? Mrs. A.B., Norwalk.

A. Yes. In fact, after ACTION LINE sounded the alarm to Capt. Glen Hyde, of the Norwalk Fire Department, he says the hydrant will be painted immediately. The firemen devote one month each year to touring their sectors and sprucing up fire hydrants, but somehow yours was overlooked.

Q. My husband and I are producing an anti-war play, "Five Days" to be presented during services at the Long Beach Unitarian Church. We urgently need a military rifle with a shoulder sling to use as one of our props, but we've been unable to borrow one. Can Action Line help? Mrs. P.R., Long Beach.

A. Yes, Jim Johnson, manager of Long Beach War Surplus, 3515 Long Beach Blvd., agrees to loan you just the rifle you'll need, if you'll give him a letter relieving the store of liability. Contact Johnson at 426-4469, to make arrangements to pick up the rifle.

Fear 1,000 Dead in Turkey Quake

Disaster Claims 500 in One City

By BENNET M. BOLTON

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — An earthquake spread a wide arc of devastation through western Turkey Saturday and it was feared the death toll would exceed 1,000.

The semiofficial Anatolia News Agency said reports filtering in from the disaster area indicated at least 1,000 persons may have perished. It said the city of Adapazari, 80 miles southeast of Istanbul, was hardest hit and hundreds of the city's 80,000 inhabitants were buried in rubble of collapsed homes, shops and mosques.

Turkey was preparing to receive Pope Paul VI when the quake hit. Vatican informants in Vatican City said the Pope would go through with the Tuesday and Wednesday trip despite the earthquake.

The undulating shock waves hit at 6:58 p.m. (9:58 a.m. PDT) and collapsed a building in Istanbul. Thousands fled their homes in panic.

* * * *

ANATOLIA NEWS Agency told of whole towns and villages leveled by the shock waves that rolled over western Turkey from Istanbul southeast through Anatolia, the Asiatic part of Turkey.

In the capital of Ankara, the government ordered army units mobilized to rush to the quake area for rescue work and to transport food, medicine and clothing.

A hospital was reported to have crumbled at Izmit, a city between Adapazari and Istanbul.

Ho Chi Minh Trail in A Shau Valley Again Target

SAIGON, Sunday (UPI)—Giant U.S. bombers returned early today for the fifth consecutive day to the A Shau Valley to blast Communist truck depots, base camps and storage areas, military spokesmen said.

The North Vietnamese use the strategic valley as a main artery of the Ho Chi Minh trail to smuggle men and supplies into South Vietnam.

The huge bombers also rained tons of bombs on suspected Communist troop miles north of Saigon and in the Mekong Delta, about 70 miles south of the capital.

Other U.S. planes streaked into North Vietnam and bombed a military barracks and storage area 81 miles west of Hanoi. The pilots said they tore up 150 feet of tracks, destroyed or damaged 10 trucks and eight boxcars and set off a number of secondary explosions.

In ground action, American and allied troops, in a rash of battles that broke an 11-day lull in the ground war, killed at least 462 Communist soldiers during the past 24 hours, military spokesmen reported Saturday.

The heaviest fighting was just south of the demilitarized zone where U.S. Marines swept inland from two seaborne assaults.

L.B. Woman Killed When Hit by Car

A 60-year-old Long Beach woman was killed Saturday night when she was struck by an auto while crossing Seventh Street at Rose Avenue, near her home.

The victim, Mary W. Harvey, of 1725 E. Seventh, was dead on arrival at St. Mary's Hospital at 9:20 p.m.

Midwest Tornadoes Kill 1, Injure 4

ST. CLOUD, Minn. (UPI) — Tornadoes tore through parts of Stearns and Sherburne counties south of St. Cloud Saturday night, killing one woman, injuring at least five persons and damaging several farms.

A woman was killed by a tornado that hit northwest of Becker in Sherburne County, authorities said. She was not identified.

Jimmy Scott, 4, was injured near St. Augusta, Minn., south of St. Cloud in Stearns County and hospitalized in St. Cloud. Four other persons were hospitalized in Monticello.

The Scott boy was visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Barney Kronenberg of St. Augusta when a tornado hit there.

Getting Your Child Ready to Read

More than 4 million youngsters will start school next term. Those who have a good foundation will learn to read faster and get more enjoyment from school. In six articles, a noted authority tells how to give that foundation to children before they start to school.

FIRST IN A SERIES

By PAUL J. KINSELLA
Director, Development Reading Center, Inc.

"What should I be doing about helping my child learn to read?" is a question being asked more and more by the parents of preschool children. Above all, the answer lies in understanding that before a child can really learn to read he must be ready.

Simple and obvious as this may seem, it is nonetheless a realistic, time-proved facet of the total reading process. And this fact is too often assumed or overlooked in many of the currently popular teach-your-preschooler-to-read programs.

First of all, a parent should know whether the youngster has what can be thought of as the foundation for reading skills. Without this foundation a child cannot effectively and efficiently be given formal reading instruction.

To attempt such instruction before a child has an adequate preparation is to take unnecessary chances with his entire educational future.

Formally instructing a child in reading before he has the foundation for reading skills can result in permanent dislike for reading. In addition, when a child is given formal reading instruction before he has the necessary foundation he may easily pick up poor reading habits.

As seen in older children

PEOPLE IN THE NEWS

Hughes Buys $15-Million Vegas Hotel

Howard Hughes has purchased the Sands Hotel on the Las Vegas Strip for about $15 million, it was announced jointly Saturday night by representatives of Hughes and the former owners.

The wealthy industrialist bought the Desert Inn, less than a mile away, for $13.5 million three months ago.

Details of his latest purchase were worked out in an afternoon meeting Saturday between Hughes representatives and Sands stockholders headed by Jack Entratter, a spokesman said.

An application is to be made by Hughes to the Nevada State Gaming Control Board, detailing the sale. There were reports Hughes may have purchased only the physical assets of the Sands, formerly owned in part by Frank Sinatra.

Hughes recently purchased the 518-acre Krupp ranch west of Las Vegas from the widow of German industrialist Alfred Krupp.

GEMS STOLEN

Connie Stevesn, financee of singer Eddie Fisher, reported Saturday the loss of jewels worth more than $100,000 dollars.

"I was debating making a home in London. Now I'm not so sure," she said.

Miss Stevens and Fisher discovered the theft on returning from filming to their hotel, the Grosvenor House in London's Mayfair. The haul included watches, a large sapphire ring, a diamond necklace, ornaments of gold and some trinkets of sentimental value.

BEST GIFT

John Edwards, a former Army medic blinded by a grenade in Vietnam, got a surprise present on his 23rd birthday — his wife. Edwards, a patient at Hines Veterans Hospital, Chicago, told friends he'd like to see his wife, Brenda, 18. They called Eastern Airlines, thinking a pass might be obtained for Mrs. Edwards. That would be against federal regulations. However, a spokesman called back an hour later. Airline employes had donated enough money for Mrs. Edwards' plane fare to Chicago. Edwards knew nothing of all this until he arrived at the Vorderers' house for a birthday party and found his wife there.

WRITER WED

The double wedding of their son and daughter was celebrated Saturday night at the Tel Aviv suburban home of Israel's defense minister, Gen. Moshe Dayan, and his wife, Ruth, just six weeks after the end of Israel's victorious war against the Arabs. Yael, the novelist daughter of the Dayans, married Col. Dov Zion, a professional soldier in the Israeli armed forces. Their son, Assaph, an actor, married Miss Ahrona Malkind.

David Ben-Gurion, former prime minister and political associate of Dayan, was best man for Col. Zion. Danny Kaye, the American comedian who has been entertaining troops in Israel, was present and kissed Yael after the ceremony.

AN OLD GRAD

Prince Charles, 18-year-old heir to the British throne, finished his pre-college school days Saturday and joined the cheering as his mother, Queen Elizabeth II, gave his mates a couple of presents. Charles' father, Prince Philip, also came for the term-closing celebrations as an alumnus of Gordonstown, Scotland. The queen opened the school's new sports center, then announced the school was getting a new sailing ketch, "probably to develop some future Sir Francis Chichester" to circumnavigate the globe. She followed this with a request to the headmaster to give the boys an extra long weekend next term.

QUEBEC AGOG

Gen. Charles de Gaulle steps ashore today at Quebec City, where the British won the decisive battle for Canada two centuries ago, and such is the hoopla that one might think the French president had come to liberate Quebec." Steaming like some emperor of old up the St. Lawrence River between bonfires lighted on its banks, De Gaulle will land from the French cruiser Colbert at Wolfe's Cove, named after the English general whose 5,000 men beat Montcalm on the Plains of Abraham.

Th official nature of De Gaulle's visit is as one of 52 foreign government heads who accepted the Canadian government's invitation to come here on the occasion of Expo 67, marking the centennial of the confederation of Canada.

BUYS MANSIONS

Entertainer Phyllis McGuire has purchased two expensive homes in the secluded Rancho Circle area of Las Vegas. Miss McGuire, the eldest of the singing McGuire sisters, bought two houses for well over $100,000. Miss McGuire has been linked romantically with underworld kingpin Sam Giancana for the past several years.

ON THE TOWN

Lynda Bird Johnson spent an hour at the fashionable Mayfair Club of British female impersonator Danny La Rue in London, a club spokesman reported. The 23-year-old older daughter of President Johnson was accompanied by three security men. It was her first reported visit to a London nightspot since she arrived on vacation two weeks ago.

Kidnap Suspect Captured as Teen-ager Outwits Him

By TERRY SATTORIA and WALT MURRAY

A burly barber — who poilce say stole an auto in Norwalk, kidnaped a 17-year-old hitchhiker in Costa Mesa and held him captive while robbing a Santa Ana liquor store — was nabbed outside a Long Beach bar Saturday after the teen-ager asked aid from two off-duty policemen.

The barber, Marian Dale Cook, 37, a transient, was booked by Long Beach police on investigation of kidnaping, armed robbery and grand theft auto at 1:15 a.m.

* * * *

OFFICERS SAID Cook and the teenager, John W. Fletcher, 17, of 1826 Placentia Ave., checked into a motel before walking to the Beachcomber Tavern, 5345 E. Second St., where Cook was arrested.

The badly shaken teenager told police his four-and-one-half hour ordeal began Friday at 8:30 p.m. when he left his home to hitchhike across Costa Mesa on Harbor Boulevard.

After a brief wait, Fletcher told police, he was picked up by Cook in a late-model pickup truck.

Soon after he got in, the youth said, the suspect pulled a gun from concealment beneath his leg and asked, "See what I got here?"

"Yes," Fletcher replied, "what do you intend to do with it?"

"I'm going to use it to make money," the suspect said.

"Oh' well, I'll get out of here," the youth said.

"Oh, no," the gunman retorted, "you're going to help me."

Fletcher told police the suspect drove around Orange County until he told the man his mother was expecting him home soon. The gunman stopped at a telephone booth and ordered Fletcher to call his mother and tell her he'd be late, police said.

* * * *

FLETCHER got out of the truck and placed a call to Mrs. Rae Williamson, 2536 W. Ninth St., Santa Ana, because his mother had no telephone.

Fletcher, with the gunman at his elbow, pretended he was talking with his mother.

Then, the boy told police, the kidnaper went back to the truck for a minute. Fletcher blurted out to Mrs. Williamson that he had been kidnaped by a man with a gun who was going to force him to help rob a store.

The startled woman immediately called Garden Grove police, who relayed the information to Santa Ana authorities.

About 20 minutes later, at 10:55 p.m. the gunman entered M&B Liquors, 410 N. Harbor Blvd., Santa Ana, and waived his weapon at clerk Maria Rodriguez.

Santa Ana Sgt. Walt Bullington said the suspect parked the truck in front of the store where he could watch the teen-ager while inside. Mrs. Rodriguez gave him $75.

Officers said the gunman then drove to Long Beach and checked into the Bayshore Motel, 5395 E. Second St., about 12:15 a.m.

* * * *

THEN, POLICE said, the suspect marched the boy a block down the street to the Beachcomber Bar where he ordered a drink.

When the gunman's attention was diverted for a moment, the boy whispered to two male patrons that he was being held against his will by the older man.

The two patrons were off-duty Long Beach police officers Jerry Parker and James Furman.

Parker walked outside and flagged down Officer E. J. Fabarez, who patrols Second Street on a three-wheel motorcycle.

"I radioed for a black and white unit and Parker and I went back in the bar," Fabarez said. The gunman spotted Fabarez' uniform and made a hasty exit out the back door. The three officers stopped him in a rear patio.

"I fould a clip and a portion of an automatic pistol in his right pocket," Fabarez said. "We placed him under arrest."

Officers said they recovered several .32-caliber cartridges from the floorboard of Cook's truck parked nearby.

Oil Plowed Under Beach

A film of crude oil from a leaky transfer valve on oil island Esther was plowed under the sand at Seal Beach Saturday with help from a Standard Oil Co. tractor crew.

City lifeguard Capt. Andy Seymour said the beach was back to normal "except for a foam residue that won't bother anyone."

He said the oil company volunteered a tractor and plow Friday night after a Seal Beach rescue boat traced the oil flow to Standard-operated Esther Island, three miles off Seal Beach.

Oil crews on the island refused comment on the spill. Standard Oil Co. officials were not available for comment.

The Coast Guard said about 50 gallons of the unrefined oil escaped from the valve before the spill was discovered late Friday afternoon.

The spill was much less serious than last summer, when oil from an unknown source formed tarry globs along Orange County beaches.

Oil from Saturday's spill coated sands between Seal Beach pier and Anaheim Bay. Huntington Beach lifeguards said that although some oil was seen in their offshore waters, very little washed up at Surfside or beaches further south.

Seymour said a disc plow was used to turn the oil under the sand at Seal Beach.

"There's no way we could scrape it off without taking a lot of the beach with it," Seymour said. "We've used this method before, and we've found that once the oil is plowed under, it won't turn up again."

Racial Violence Erupts in Four Cities

We don't want you white newsmen."

Meanwhile, quiet prevailed in Minenapolis where violence erupted earlier this week, and officials worked to head off a recurrence of sniper fire and fire bombings in Cairo, Ill.

Assitant Police Chief Carmen Bruno said the Youngstown trouble first broke out among youths at a downtown Negro hangout, then spread to an executive club cross the street where some white men were roughed up and two Negroes arrested.

Other trouble followed, Bruno reported.

He said a dynamite blast shattered windows in a roller sakting rink catering to Negroes, a fire bomb which failed to ignite was hurled into a Negro billiard parlor, and a dynamite bomb was exploded outside a bar in a racially mixed neighborhood.

Police said three white men were being questioned in the attempted fir bombing.

AT WADESBORO, police said the death of James William Moore, 25, set of a racial disturbance which included rock-throwing by Negro teen-agers and adults. However, officers said cause of the Negro man's death was not immediately determined.

Anson County Cornoner Harvey H. Levitt Jr. said Moore had been shot in the arm with a .25 caliber weapon, but added there were indications he had been run down by an automobile.

Another development came at New Orelans, La., where the Bogalusa Voters League announced plans for a Sunday night march across 21 miles of southeast Louisiana piney flatlands.

League President A. Z Young, said some 300 Negroes would march from Bogalusa to Franklinton to express outrage for their "interior status under law."

He said one purpose of the march would be "to demonstrate that Negroes may safely traverse the highways of this state at night without fear of violence or intimidation."

AT ASBURY PARK, N.J., that state's Conference of Mayors announced it will move for legislation to protect municipalities from damage claims resulting from riots.

Mayor James W. Kelly Jr. of East Orange, the conference president, noted a court test is developing over whether Newark, where 25 died in recent race incidents, may be liable for an estimated $15 million in damage to private property.

Kelley said an 1877 state law holds a municipality with a paid police force liable for riot-incurred damages.

Nixon, Reagan Confer in Secret Forest Site

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — Richard Nixon and California's Gov. Ronald Reagan, two Republicans mentioned as possible 1968 GOP presidential nominees, got together Saturday for a secluded, secretive conference.

It could be a long while, if ever, before what they said becomes public.

The Republican 1960 standard bearer met with Reagan 80 miles north of San Francisco at Bohemian Grove, an exclusive, guarded 2,600-acre retreat. There, on invitation of members, notable guests have guaranteed privacy for whatever they wish to discuss in the cool shade of ancient redwoods.

Both men said before going to the meeting there would be no talk of political deals, although the 1968 campaign could be a topic.

L.B. 'Crew' Off to London in Pursuit of Queen Mary

By GEORGE LAINE

A 7-man contingent from Long Beach was scheduled to arrive in London this morning to begin negotiations designed to bring the 1,019-foot liner Queen Mary to a Long Beach dock.

The price of the 81,237-ton vessel was estimated by Long Beach Vice Mayor Robert Crow, leader of the London-bound delegation, at "between $2 and $3 million." He allowed that it could cost more.

"We are prepared to meet — and beat — any price in order to acquire the ship," Crow said Saturday morning at a press conference held at Los Angeles International Airport prior to the group's departure.

* * * *

CROW WAS accompanied by City Attorney Leonard Putnam, Harbor Commissioner H. E. Ridings, Jr., special counsel Clark Heggeness, of the Long Beach law firm of Ball, Hunt, Hart and Brown, as the Pan-American jet soared up from the International Airport strip shortly after noon. The group should be in London at 6:25 this morning. They'll be followed by Harry Fulton, assistant to City Manager John Mansell; Llewellyn Bixby Jr., chairman of the Harbor Commission and Samuel C. Cameron, general manager of The Independent, Press-Telegram, who left via TWA at about 9:30 p.m., Saturday.

THE CUNARD LINE, owners of the Queen Mary, have indicated that the company expects to open the sealed bids on the liner on Wednesday and announce the award on Thursday. The members of the delegation said that the announcement could come earlier than that.

Long Beach is one of eight bidders remaining out of an original list that totaled more than 300. Cunard officials said they weeded out all except the eight finalists, but declined to identify them. Some have identified themselves.

* * * *

THE LONG BEACH group expects to go into negotiations with Lord Mancroft, deputy chairman of the Cunard board, on Monday, Crow said.

When a television reporter asked Crow if the city was prepared to go as high as $6 million to get the Queen Mary, the vice mayor shook his head.

"I don't know where you got that figure," he retorted, "but it's ridiculous. It's way out of line." Highest offer on paper (reportedly) is the $2.7 million offered by the Red Chinese.

* * * *

LONG BEACH has set aside $6 million from the city's tideland oil revenues for a maritime museum. Purchase of the vessel would allow the balance of the money to be used for renovation of the ship and refitting for the Long Beach location at Pier J.

Crow said the city had placed no maximum on the offer the delegation could make to Cunard "at this time," but that the Long Beach group didn't plan to return from London empty handed.

"We're going to have a ship when we come back," Crow vowed.

Sharpshooting Edson Sails In

By BUCK LANIER
Navy Editor

Despite Radio Hanoi reports of her sinking, the Long Beach-based destroyer USS Edson returned home Saturday from six months duty with the 7th Fleet off Vietnam.

Accompanying Cmdr. Jay J. Vermilya's hard and accurate-shooting ship was the guided missile frigate USS England and the destroyer USS Arnold J. Isbell.

Cmdr. Vermilya lives at 791 Salida Ave.

An overflow crowd at the Naval Station's Pier 15 hailed home the 1,000-plus Navymen.

The England, commanded by Capt. R.H. Ewing, San Pedro, rescued five pilots in the Tonkin Gulf and brought her rescue total to 23 for two deployments.

Edson's gunfire feats were termed "remarkable" by Capt. H. B. McClure, commodore of Destroyer Squadron 13, who rode Edson and England during the deployment.

In late February, Edson first steamed into North Vietnamese coastal waters and started shelling assigned targets in "Sea Dragon" — operational name for the Navy's patrol and gunfire mission.

A coastal defense unleashed a heavy barrage, but Edson finished her assigned targets and then shifted to the challenging artillery.

Then she moved seaward, laying a smoke screen. This prompted Radio Hanoi's announcement several days later. Following this, Edson returned to another area, nailing some additional supply route targets.

This was the ship's pattern. Finally in May, frustrated North Vietnamese gunners got some measure of revenge while Edson was providing gunfire support for Marine units in Operation Hickory.

The ship sustained a hit, which wounded 10 men, but maneuvering amid the splashing shells, Edson silenced the shore batteries. All but one of the injured are recovered now.

"England never lost a pilot she had a chance to get," Commodore McClure, 3618 Pacific Ave., said. The frigate was teamed with the Isbell for one month in the sea-air rescue (SAR) mission.

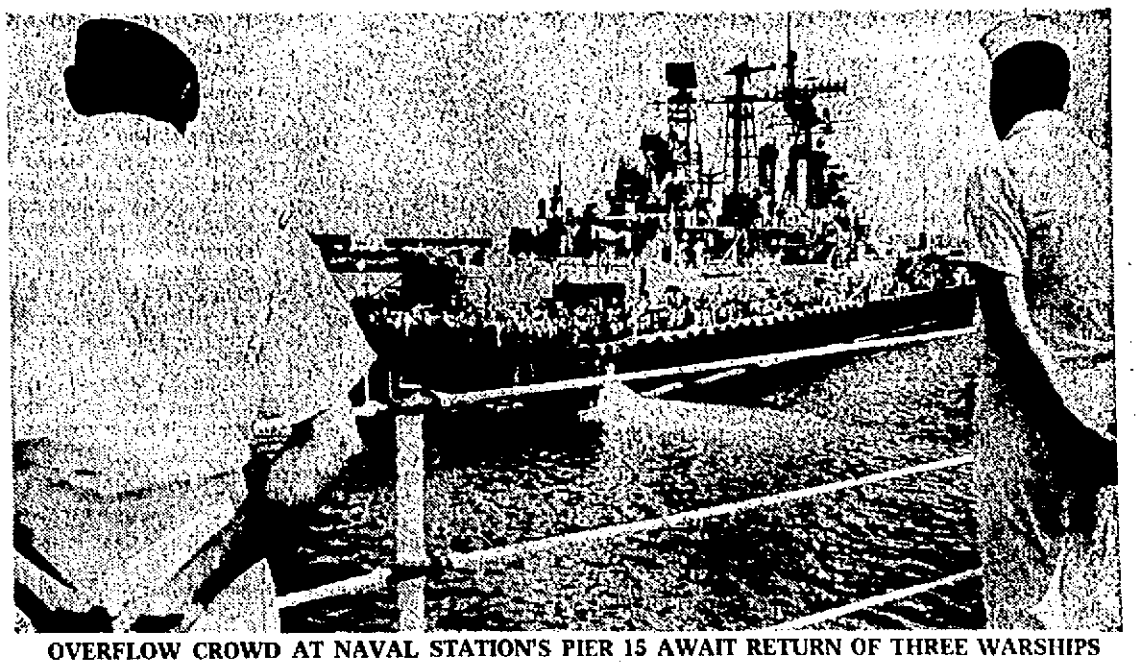

Isbell also worked a period as an antisubmarine screen for the attack carrier USS Hancock and other 7th Fleet carriers.

The destroyer changed skippers during the deployment. Cmdr. Mark Lechletter Jr., was relieved by Cmdr. D.G. Walker of Long Beach.

"This welcome home is something difficult to describe," McClure said as the England nestled toward her berth.

"The men all deserve it and I know they appreciate it. It would be a waste of words to say anything more than 'well done' for their job on the deployment."

All ships of Squadron 13 are back home now except the USS Brush, Hubbard and Moore, still operating with the 7th Fleet.

Mother and 4 Die in Flaming Home

SHERMAN, Tex. (AP) — A mother and four of her children died Saturday when pre-dawn flames swept through their frame house in this North Texas city.

Fire Marshal Reece Brown identified the dead as Nancy Nell Smith, 29; John Wesley Smith, 10; Steven Leslie Smith, 8; Suzanne Smith, 5; and Julie Kay Smith, 4. David Wayne Smith, 3, was critically burned.

Compton Boy Shot in Park Gang War

A Compton youth's leg was shattered by a high-powered rifle bullet Saturday in a gang fight in the Firestone Park area, and one suspect was jailed, sheriff's deputies said.

Lawrence Reyes, 16, of 1212 Hyatt St., was in serious condition at Harbor General Hospital Saturday night, after the predawn shooting.

Physicians said Reyes' right leg may have to be amputated, but he had not gone to surgery yet, according to a nursing supervisor.

Firestone sheriff's deputies booked Trinidad Casarez, 22, of 15404 S. Central Ave., Compton, on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon.

Investigators said they found Casarez in the Neighborhood of 155th Street and Nestor Avenue, where a sharp exchange of gunfire had been reported.

Deputies said Saturday night that some 20 youths belonging to two neighborhood factions apparently were involved in the battle about 2:30 a.m.

They said all had fled on their arrival, except Reyes, found lying in the street, and Casarez, who was arrested as a suspect. No weapons were found.

Dope Raiders Nab 4 in Garden Grove

Four men were seized Saturday on narcotics possession charges when Orange County sheriff's officers and Garden Grove police raided a residence at 13342 Redbird St., Garden Grove.

The narcotics agents said they confiscated two kilos, 26 cans, and five cigarettes of marijuana. They said the marijuana would be worth $1,500 on the market. All four will be charged with intent to sell marijuana as well as possession, agents said.

Arrested and booked into Orange County jail were Edward Earl Barnes, 20, and Keith David Wilson, 20, both of the Redbird Street address; John Joseph Shepard, 21, of 13812 Bewley St., Garden Grove; and Maurice Gerald Steffy, 20, of 10382 Patricia Drive, Garden Grove.

Only Shepard had made bail at a late hour Saturday. He posted $1,100 bond to appear July 28 in Anaheim Municipal Court.

BUT WHY?

$275,000 Gift Stumps Hospital

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Mount Zion Hospital officials were "pleased but mystified" Saturday after receiving a $275,000 bequest from the late Joseph Venable of Los Angeles.

A spokesman said the bequest came in the form of a brief, non-explanatory notice from a Los Angeles law firm. It asked that the money be labeled the "Joseph Gibbon Venable and Lloyd Venable Memorial funds," but put no restrictions on its use.

"We don't know who Mr. Venable was or why he chose us," the spokesman said. "We are pleased but mystified."

How to Get Your Child Ready to Read

who do not read well, poor reading habits at best are very difficult to eliminate, but what is of even greater importance is that these poor reading habits can help upset a child's emotion to the point of seriously delaying his progress in school.

Since it is most important that a child have the foundation for reading skills before he is given formal reading instruction, we should find out whether or not the child has that foundation before we do anything.

Usually, there are 11 things a child must be able to do before it can be said that he has the foundation for reading skills. A parent can give an informal "test" himself.

The best approach is to check out the child's various abilities in sessions of about five minutes' duration in a let's play games fashion over a period of several days.

A school-like atmosphere should be avoided and care should be taken both to praise success and to ignore failures. The same guidelines apply for "retesting."

In most instances, before he can successfully be introduced to the beginning reading skills a child must be able to:

1. Use sentences of at least six words. Listen carefully for six-word sentences in his daily conversations.

2. Pronounce words correctly. He must be able to speak without signs of baby talk.

Kabout. I.

3. Appreciate that reading is a desirable activity. Does he enjoy having stories read to him?

4. Interpret simple pictures. Given the typical dime store picture book, he must be able to tell simple but logical stories about what the pictures actually show. The more things he sees and tells about, the better, but he should not make up details which are not shown. Those creative youngsters who may naturally want or be able to tell about unpictured ideas should specifically be asked not to do this when one is trying to determine his ability to interpret his simple pictures.

5. Give a logical ending to an unfinished story of three or four ideas. Given a simple story beginning, "What do you think happened next?," he must be able to finish the story with a reasonable ending. The following is an example of a simple story beginning:

It was early in the morning. Billy was up getting dressed.

As soon as he finished dressing, Billy was going to . . . Acceptable ending to this story would include such as ". . . eat his breakfast" " . . . watch television" and ". . . wake up his brother."

Unrealistic endings such as " . . . eat his dinner," " . . . take a nap," " . . . take a bath" and " . . . watch the stars come out" would suggest that the child had not yet sufficiently developed his ability to complete an unfinished story logically.

6. Recall in sequence the events of a story with two happenings. Told a short, two-event story and asked, "Now what happened first and what happened second?", a child must be able to tell in correct order about the events which occurred. Examples:

The lady went to the store and bought some bread.

Johnny found a little red ball and took it to Susie's big brown house.

Father came home from work and Helen went out to play.

In telling about the events, the important thing is that the child is able to capture the general ideas in proper sequence. It is not necessary that he be able to repeat what happened word for word.

7. See differences in the sizes of like objects. For example, if four tin cans of different sizes are placed before him on a table, he must be able to point out which is smallest and which is the largest.

8. Coordinate his hand and eye movements with a degree of accuracy that can be estimated from his abilities to color and scissor-cut. When the colors in the typical dime store coloring book, the child must be able to stay pretty well within the lines. And, if a three-inch diameter circle and a three-inch square are drawn for him on a piece of paper, he must be able to cut them out fairly accurately with a scissors.

9. Follow simple, two-step directions. Here are examples of appropriate tasks:

Please, bring me the two books from the table in the kitchen, and then go sit down.

Please, give this piece of paper to your father and then turn on the television.

Please, turn out the light in the living room and then go pick up your books.

10. Tell the difference between left and right. When asked to do so, he must consistently be able to perform such simple tasks as pointing to a chair with his left hand, placing a pencil on the right side of a book, touching his right ear with his left hand.

11. Recognize simple differences in word sounds. Orally given a group of simple, one-syllable words and asked, "Which word sounds different?," he must be able to pick out the word which does not rhyme. The following are examples of simple, one syllable grouping which could be used to test this ability:

dog - fun - run - sun
see - talk - bee - tea look - book - hook - cat
top - was - hop - pop

If it is found that a preschooler is not able to do all of the eleven things just discussed, the parent should not atempt to give his child any sort of formal reading instruction. Instead, the parent should concentrate on stimulating the child's development by playing with him, talking with him, reading to him, taking him places and providing him with educational playthings.

One may not think of these familiar activities as ways of preparing a child for learning to read, but they are nonetheless the most influential means of doing just that. Through such, the child acquires his foundation for reading skills and thus gets ready to learn to read. (Five subsequent articles will deal more specifically with ways in which parents can help a child to build his foundation for reading skills.)

AUTHOR

Dr. Paul J. Kinsella, author of "Getting Your Child Ready to Read," has concentrated all his academic and professional career on the education of children. His college degrees, including a Ph.D. from Northwestern, were in reading, school administration, and child growth and development. He is director of a Developmental Reading center in Lake Forest, Ill.

At what age should a child be expected to have acquired the all-important foundation for reading skills? This must be answered with respect to the individual child, not with an arbitrary number of years and months for all children.

Children differ in their rates and paths of development, and many youngsters require all of the pre-school years just for building the foundation necessary to, a good start in reading. In fact, it is not necessarily unusual or abnormal to find that a child also needs the additional year of kindergarten for firming up his foundation and getting ready for learning to read.

* * * *

AFTER THE CHILD has acquired the foundation for reading skills, he is ready for activity of a more formal nature. This does not mean that he should be plunged haphazardly into reciting the alphabet, listening to phonic records or memorizing words on sight; but rather, that he should be introduced to the beginning reading skills which help later to make effective reading possible. The proper development of these beginning reading skills is absolutely essential to the right start in reading because failure to develop them adequately invariably results in reading handicaps.

The more than a dozen beginning reading skills can be developed by having the child work through especially constructed learning-to-read exercises which are available in books from several sources.

What is to be done about the preschooler and his learning to read is a matter of properly guiding the child with respect to his own individual development.

Before a child can learn to read efficiently and effectively, he must be equipped with a certain background of experience and some very essential reading skills. Seeing to it that a child is thus readied should, then, precede any attempt to give him formal reading instruction.

NEXT—When a parent's skill pays off.

FIRESTORM AREAS FROM 100 MEGATON BOMBS
This chart, which has been circulated on Capitol Hill, identifies possible bomb placement which would render the United States powerless in the event of an attack. Indicated are nine warheads on industrial/population centers; eight over retaliatory missile complexes. One warhead in the Pacific Ocean capable of creating a tidal wave to damage Hawaii and Alaska is not shown. Bomb fire-storm diameter: 170 miles; storm area would be 22,500 sq. miles.

Hosmer War Report a 'Scenario of Hell'

By BAXTER OMOHUNDRO
From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — A scenario of hell was circulated on Capitol Hill Saturday to dramatize a congressional nuclear authority's thesis that "megatons do count."

Rep. Craig Hosmer, R-Calif., chairman of the House Republicans Nuclear Affairs Committee, sent to his House and Senate colleagues a four-page document which outlines in chilling detail the effects of a hypothetical attack upon the United States by Soviet superbombs.

The Hosmer report dwells on his contention that 100-megaton bombs believed to have been developed by the Russians could wipe out 120 million Americans through their firestorm effects and could minimize any effective counter attack through electromagnetic pulsation.

Hosmer, ranking minority House member of the Joint Atomic Energy Committee, issued the dramatized report to reiterate his outspoken opposition to many administration nuclear policies.

* * * *

HE HAS frequently rapped the nuclear test ban treaty, failure to deploy an antiballistic missile system and the Pentagon position that a larger number of missiles with small (1 to 5 megaton) warheads are an effective deterrent to fewer missiles with larger warheads of the 20 to 100 megaton monsters believed to have been developed by the Soviets.

Hosmer's report hypothesizes an attack by only 18 missiles, each tipped with a 100-megaton warhead, which would leave the United States a nearly airless crematorium.

Seventeen of the bombs envisioned in the Hosmer attack devastate heavily populated industrial centers along both coasts and in the midwest. The 18th explodes nearly a mile deep off Alaska to create a giant wave that inundates large coastal areas of Alaska, Hawaii and the West Coast.

"Fire storms . . . raged in part or all of 34 of the 50 states. Habitable portions of 2 more states were 80 per cent destroyed by ocean forces. Neither fallout nor blast effects of the bombs added much damage. They were designed to kill with heat and fire," the report imagines.

"But considerable loss of life outside the firestorms occurred from suffocation. Major casualties also resulted from winds of more than hurricane proportions feeding oxygen to the blazes. In all, a fair portion of the continent's oxygen was used up by combustion. Not enough was left in many places to support life."

* * * *

HOSMER SEES the likelihood that the Soviets have learned to use the large thermonuclear bombs' surging electromagnetic pulse to jam communication and firing circuits to interfere with the launching of retaliatory missiles.

A central figure in the Hosmer scenario is a victim of the attack who, in his dying moments, ponders technological information gained by the Russians in the high energy tests they made just before the treaty went into effect and the failure of Defense Secretary Robert McNamara to order an antiballistic missile system.

Hosmer concludes that the Russians' ABM system has successfully coped with the few ICBMS that escaped the surprise attack and with the Polaris missiles launched from submarines. This contemplates the use of long range nuclear radiation instead of an explosion in the paths of our missile — "The difference between using a shotgun and a rifle."

Hosmer's report was prompted by a July 11 study conducted by an American Security Council report that the USSR is surpassing the U.S. in deliverable megatonnage.

The same report also inspired a criticism from another California Republican, Rep. H. Allen Smith, who said that failure to deploy an ABM system is "a dangerous game with the lives of millions of Americans at Stake."

Air Force Claims Advantage in War

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department issued a statement Saturday strongly disputing the claim of Rep. Craig Hosmer, that the United States would be powerless against a Soviet attack.

Air Force Secretary Harold Brown declared: "The assertion that U.S. nuclear forces could be rendered ineffective by 18 Soviet 100 megaton weapons — or 180 such weapons — has no foundation in fact. Our deterrent capability is assured by the fact that our strategic nuclear force consisting of landbased missiles in hardened silos and submarine-based missiles and alert bombers can survive an enemy attack, reach the enemy and penetrate his defenses to inflict damages on him. "And on each system, we have an advantage over the Soviet Union."

Brown concluded: "The Soviet Union knows this. It is equally important that the American people know."

Reds Catch Girl

VOHENSTRAUSS, Germany (AP) — Czechoslovak border guards have caught a young girl trying to flee to the West in the trunk of an automobile, Bavarian border police reported Saturday.

They said travelers arriving from Czechoslovakia reported seeing border inspectors pull the girl from the back of the car, where she had been hiding, and lead her away, along with the driver of the car. They said the car had a Berlin license number.

Russ Say Mao's Set to Flee

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Communist Chinese leader Mao Tse-tung has begun to transfer money to Swiss banks and is holding a jet plane ready to flee his country, according to Moscow Radio.

Moscow Radio made the charges in a Chinese-language broadcast on July 15. A transcript of the program has now become available here.

"Mao Tse-tung and his group have a jet plane ready at all times to facilitate their flight from the wrath of the Chinese people," Moscow Radio claimed.

"The following fact is good proof: Those rotten and infamous leaders . . . have begun to deposit money squeezed from the people in neutral banks in Switzerland."

Russ and Israel Envoys Depart

NEW YORK (AP) — The foreign ministers of the Soviet Union and Israel departed for their homelands within minutes of each other Saturday, and each had parting words about the Middle East.

Andrei Gromyko of the Soviet Union blamed the position taken by the United States for the failure of the U.N. General Assembly to take action on the crisis.

A few minutes before, Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban said the United Nations "cannot solve problems for nations that do not want to solve them." He said the solution to the Middle East crisis "must be found in the area between the state themselves."

Gets Things Done! Action Line

Q. Can you help me square things with my father? This is the first time in 30 years I didn't get him a Fathers Day gift, but I was ill and unable to get out. He's always wanted a musical cigarette lighter, but I can't find one. Can Action Line give me any leads? Mrs. B.S., Long Beach.

A. Sure, We'll even go one better — although you're a month late — because cigarette lighters are tough to find. About 10 years ago, the Boraxo Company gave away musical cigarette lighters as part of a television promotion, and John Michaels, staff assistant for the firm, somehow managed to find one of the lighters, so you're father's eyes will surely light up as his musical lighter tinkles the Boraxo theme every time he lights up.

Action Line

Q. I'm 11 years old, and I've got some toys I'd like to donate. They're in real good condition. Can you tell me someone who could use them? R.T., Lakewood.

A. Yes. Your toys will be welcome to youngsters in the Head Start program. "The children in our program need dolls, wagons, tricycles, small chairs and tables, puzzles, records, games, books and outdoor play equipment," says Ernest Clark Jr., director. Toys can be donated at the Head Start office, 2101 Atlantic Ave., between 8 a.m. and 5:30 p.m., or you can call Ada Reed at 591-3351, to arrange to have them picked up.

SOUND OFF!

I have a gripe, and I'd like to sound off about it. I'm the mother of six children, and I keep a good eye on them — perhaps more than most — but at least I'm proud to say I can take them out of the house and know they'll behave. Other's certainly can't say the same. I recently parked my car in a lot at Los Coyotes Diagonal and Palo Verde Ave., and left to do some shopping. When I returned, I found that the youngsters in the next car had thrown three unfinished chocolate and licorace ice cream cones into the front seat of my car. As the car pulled away, the children were snickering and pointing at me. Might I just say to that mother, and others, that it would be a good idea if they'd watch their children more closely. The bad habits they learn to get away with today, will grow to worse habits as they grow older, and it will make life tougher for them. Mrs. J.F.A., Long Beach.

REACTION

In response to the sound off about the so-called "pirate" radio station being planned off Long Beach, perhaps there is another side to the problem. It seems the problem really is "truth," and with all the regulations that have been written to control regular radio stations — and all the restrictions that are imposed — such broadcasts are those from the "pirate" station might be of interest not only to me, but to the writer of the sound off letter. I think perhaps it's high time for just such action as the backers of this station are planning. At least, maybe some of the hidden truths will come to light, and be relayed to an interested public. Such a station could force other regular stations to give more news, and oppose more regulations. J.D.H., Long Beach.

Food Price Boost Seen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman said Saturday retail food prices will probably go up during the next few months, but the rise will not be a result of higher farm prices.

At the same time, Freeman said the Johnson administration is moving to expand its programs to give food aid to needy. He left open the possibility that the federal government might take over direct food distribution operations in areas where local officials fail to cooperate.

He said the higher prices at the grocery store will result from increased costs of processing and distributing food instead of higher prices to farmers.

John's of the Wilderness Episcopal Church near the ranch.

Mrs. Sandburg said the body will be cremated and the ashes scattered around "Rememberance Rock" near Sandburg's birthplace at Galesburg, Ill. Original copies of many of the author's works and memoirs are at Galesburg.

In addition to his wife, survivors including three daughters. They are Mrs. Barney Crile, wife of a Cleveland surgeon, and Margaret and Janet Sandburg, who reside at the Flat Rock ranch.

Sandburg had lived at the little ranch, Connemara, in the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains for the last 22 years. He hadn't done any serious writing since being hospitalized with an intestinal condition in 1965.

The sparkling white house was built by Christopher G. Memminger, treasurer of the Confederacy during the Civil War. It was there that Sandburg, known as the "prairie poet," wrote much of his Lincoln biography, hailed by many critics as his greatest work.

AN AVOWED LEFTIST, Sandburg loved to sit on his porch and swap jokes and sing old labor songs with his close friend, author Harry Golden. Of Golden and himself, Sandburg once said: "We're two old-time soapbox Socialists, yet we're now North Carolina land owners."

He would have nothing to do with communism. Red China invited him to attend a celebration marking the 100th anniversary of the publication of Whitman's "Leaves of Grass."

Sandburg declined the invitation, saying, "I would like to see a little more of the spirit of Walt Whitman — a great apostle of liberty — in the land of China."

Born Jan. 6, 1878, in Galesburg, he served in Puerto Rico during the Spanish-American war and later was graduated from Lombard College in Galesburg. His alma mater and 14 other colleges and universities later awarded him honorary doctorial degrees.

Sandburg first excited attention in the literary world with his poetry — free verse that used the language of the people, including slang, and the topics of the everyday world.

"Slang," he once said, "is the language that rolls up its sleeves, spits on its hands and goes to work."

His first volume was "Chicago Poems," published in 1915. This was followed by several volumes of poetry and the "Rootabaga Stories" he wrote for children.

He won the first of two Pulitzer Prizes in 1940 for his four-volume "Abraham Lincoln: The War Years." His second was for "complete Poems," produced in 1951.

In 1958, the 81-year-old Sandburg told a joint session of Congress, commemorating the 150th anniversary of Lincoln's birth:

"Not often in the story of mankind does a man arrive on earth who is hard as a rock and soft as drifting fog, who holds in his heart and mind the paradox of terrible storm and peace unspeakable and perfect."

* * * *

SANDBURG received the presidential Medal of Freedom from President Johnson in the White House Sept. 14, 1964. Johnson gave the writer an autographed picture of himself and Sandburg on his 87th birthday in 1965.

In 1963, Sandburg celebrated his 85th birthday at a gala party in New York City. The occasion also marked release of his latest collection of poems, "Honey and Salt."

President Kennedy sent his greetings, and referred to Sandburg as "the interpreter of the nation's traditions and shaper of its great myths. Through him we know Lincoln the better — and we also know ourselves the better."

After visiting Kennedy at the White House in 1961, Sandburg said of the President: "Chances are entirely he's going to rate as one of the great presidents." At the same time, Sandburg described Dwight D. Eisenhower as "the most ungrammatical president we've ever had," adding: "He has yet to know the people of the United States."

Sandburg's writing was confined to no single literary form. He won Pulitzer Prizes in history and poetry, yet he wrote a novel, stories and an autobiography. He was a magazine editor, a newspaper editor and a foreign news correspondent.

As his personal formula for happiness, Sandburg once listed:

"To be out of jail, to eat and sleep regularly, to get what I write printed in a free country for free people, to have a little love in the home and a little affection and esteem outside the home."

Arsonist Sets Garages Afire

An arsonist who may be influenced by Orange County's expert and widely publicized "Thursday firebug" set two garages ablaze in the Baldwin Park area of Los Angeles Saturday night.

Firemen dispatched to the $7,000 blaze at the rear of 1460 S. Norton Ave., rolled the only car in the 11 stall facility to safety and extinguished flames in 12 minutes.

Arson investigators sought to determine whether the fire could have been set by Orange County's phantom firebug, responsible for $300,000 worth of damage.

Plunge Off Cliff Injures Sailor

A Long Beach sailor strolling with his brother along cliffs near White's Point in San Pedro was injured Saturday when he slipped and plunged to the rocky shore below.

Ernest J. Martinez, 20, a Los Angeles man stationed aboard the USS Waddell, Long Beach Naval Station, was taken to Harbor General Hospital in critical condition.

The youth struck his head on rocks at the base of the 100-foot cliff and suffered a concussion, investigators said.

Quake Devastates Western Turkey

earthquake to strike Turkey within a year. Eastern Turkey was hit by severe quakes on Aug. 19, 1966, and the death toll was estimated at 2,300.

The national security branch of the Turkish Interior Ministry said troops were sent into the damaged area but were hampered by darkness in their efforts to remove bodies.

* * * *

A TURKISH news reporter who covers Adapazari, completely cut off from all communications, raced by car into Istanbul to his newspaper to tell of 500 dead in Adapazari alone.

The earthquake there lasted 90 seconds and knocked over 150 buildings and apartment houses, he said, many of them five stories high.

President Cevdet Sunay, when told of the magnitude of the disaster, left his Ankara residence to drive to the earthquake area.

All train lines between Istanbul and Ankara pass through Adapazari. The earthquake tore up the tracks, breaking rail connections between Turkey's two major cities.

Hospitals in the Adapazari area rapidly filled. Rescuers began carrying injured earthquake victims beyond the rail break for movement by special coach to Istanbul hospitals.

* * * *

THE FIRST tremor in Saturday's quake was felt in the entire region around the Sea of Marmara, from the Bosporus Strait down to the Dardanelles.

In Istanbul, a 16-year-old girl was killed and six other persons injured when a building collapsed in the old quarter of the city.

A second shock, of lesser intensity, struck at 8:14 p.m., but caused no further damage in Istanbul.

The first tremor sent guests in Istanbul's largest hotel, the Hilton, fleeing from a ground level terrace where an orchestra was playing. The hotel's three elevators stopped working.

It was also felt in central Turkey, the Black Sea and Aegean coasts, including provinces of Samsun, Kayseri, Ankara, Bolu, Balikesir and Bandirma and Izmir.

First reports from Izmit, 55 miles east of Istanbul, said three persons were injured, and many walls cracked.

At the Aegean port city of Izmir, reports said people rushed into the streets in panic.

Gyalmo, Chogyal Having a Baby

NEW DELHI (AP) — The Gyalmo — Queen — of Sikkim, the former Hope Cooke of New York City, is expecting her second child this winter, the royal palace in Gangtok, the Sikkimese capital has announced.

The Gyalmo, 27, is the wife of Palden Thondip Namgyal, the Chogyal — king — of the landlocked eastern Himalayan state.

Alpinists Killed

TRENTO, Italy (AP) — Two Italian mountain climbers fell 328 feet to their death Saturday as a rock they grabbed for support on the edge of a glacier slid down the slope. Giuseppe Boza, 33, and Franco Fraccaro, 27, were killed.

Castro 'Show' Nears

By FRANCIS L. McCARTHY
UPI Latin American Editor

Fidel Castro's annual Communist spectacular goes before the footlights in Havana July 31.

This one is known as the Latin American Solidarity Organization, Act II of the production which made its debut in January 1966 as the Tricontinental Solidarity Congress.

The plot — the export of revolution and subversion of the American continent — is the same. So is the cast of characters — communist leaders from the Americas and their Soviet, Red Chinese and Eastern European satellite advisers.

While preparing for the second act, the stage has already been set for Act III, to be held in Havana next January and to be known as "a cultural congress of Asian, African and Latin American writers, artists and scientists."

* * * *

THE FACT the Cuban sponsors of the annual spectaculars can plan so far ahead in advance would indicate the program for Act II, still to be held, is cut and dried.

However, although the scenario, cast and theme for the July 31 meeting runs true to pattern, some surprises may be in store for Castro and his cohorts, or so they would seem to fear. Host Cuba, for example, is picking and choosing what delegations should attend.

The Venezuelan Communist Party was not invited to attend the July 31 soiree because of what Castro terms its drift away from the true principles of revolutionary struggle. Yugoslavia, whose Marshal Tito drifts in and out of the true Communist camp, also has been rebuffed.

This would indicate Castro fears an eruption of the deep ideological differences within the Communist camp.

* * * *

CUBA HAS carefully placed the Havana Libre (nee Havana Hilton) hotel, where the solidarity meeting is to be held, off-limits to all but conference delegates as of Monday, or a week before the congress is to start.

As usual, newsmen will be barred from all conference sessions other than the closing ceremony Aug. 8.

The Tricontinental Solidarity Conference in Havana in January 1966 stirred up a political storm in the Western Hemisphere because of its call for "wars of national liberation" throughout the Americas.

The conference action resulted in a formal protest of the Organization of American States to the United Nations.

A first result of the 1966 Havana conference was a major outbreak of leftist student terrorism in a half-dozen American republics, followed by intensification of guerrilla warfare in Venezuela and Guatemala and the opening of guerrilla fronts in Peru, Colombia and Bolivia.

* * * *

AS A RESULT, emphasis in U.S. military aid to Latin America since has been on development of counter-insurgency capabilities.

Sponsors say 700 delegates and observers will be on hand in Havana July 31 representing 85 organizations, including 27 national committees of Communist parties and 11 "progressive" institutions.

An approximate idea of the "final declaration" to emanate from the conference may be gleaned from the assignments of four working committees:

"The anti-imperialist struggle in Latin America"; "position and action against political-military intervention and economic-ideological penetration of imperialism in Latin Amrica"; "the solidarity of Latin American peoples with struggles of national liberation," and "statutes" for organization.

GROUPS BATTLES MARINA

Facing Extinction, Cabrillo Beach Fights Back

By DICK EMERY

The lifeguard tapped his big bare foot on a splintery plank of the Cabrillo Beach pier.

"They tell us this old pier comes out, next September, when they break ground for the marina," he said. "The beach goes. It'll all be boats. So they say."

On the sand beside the old pier on San Pedro's Cabrillo Beach, small children carrying red buckets and toy shovels whopped and scampered. Nearby, singly and in clusters, oldsters snoozed or watched the kids. A transistor radio whimpered of broken hearts. In the harbor's flat water near shore, two fat swimmers windmilled, whuffing whale-like. Sunshine poured over everything and everybody. And the air smelled of seaweed, popcorn, sunburn oil and harbor mud.

"That's what they say," the lifeguard repeated. "But, you know? Every year since I first came to work here in 1954, they've been telling us the marina was coming. Every year was the last year for the beach. And the beach is still here, and they're still talking marina."

* * * *

THE KIDS with the red buckets and toy shovels waved at the lifeguard and showed no symptoms of knowing that only last Tuesday, the Los Angeles port board ordered all speed to a plan to turn the beach playground into a profitable marina. Cabrillo Beach has two sections, one facing the ocean and the other facing the harbor, with the San Pedro breakwater dividing the two. The ocean side has 1,500 feet of usable sandy beach and another 500 of rocky beach. The harbor side has 3,200 feet of stillwater beach. The whole thing covers 69 acres, of which one 15-acre plot has been paved for parking at 50c per car per day. Aside from the parking fee, use of Cabrillo Beach is free to all comers, under Los Angeles city supervision.

The beach has been a popular recreation area since dredgers first pumped harbor silt there to make the beach, back in 1914. Attendance runs 7,000 a day in summertime.

The port board wants to change Cabrillo Beach into a small-craft mooring center which would use 52 of the 69 acres. Boat owners would pay. Shops would pay. Everything on a businesslike basis!

* * * *

GALLED BY the port board's announced aim, an anti-Cabrillo Beach marina group sprang into wordy action last fortnight as "The Committee to Save Cabrillo Beach." From an office at 127 W. Eighth St., San Pedro, the group has spouted angry circulars.

The group — "30 members, 12 working members, financed out of our own pockets" — accuses the Los Angeles Harbor Commission of people-dumping and money-grabbing.

The group says, "Spare Cabrillo Beach for public free recreation! Build your marina at Reeves Field instead!"

Reeves Field lies three miles northeast, across Los Angeles Harbor, from Cabrillo Beach. The 99-acre field has stood mostly unused since World War II.

"It's already city-owner," said the committee's Anthony Souza. "It's protected by the breakwater. It has good access. It's just lying idle. And using it for a marina would not take anything away from anyone!"

Over at the Harbor Department's office in the Pacific Trade Center building, three blocks from the committie's office, not an eyebrow quivered under the committee's attack.

"Full steam ahead!" said the department's public relations director, Bob Robinson.

* * * *

STATUS OF the marina project at the moment, in a nutshell, he said when quried, is, "There will be further studies, recommendations and planning. And a land-use study firm has been requested to revise Phase One and to complete Phase Two of its study."

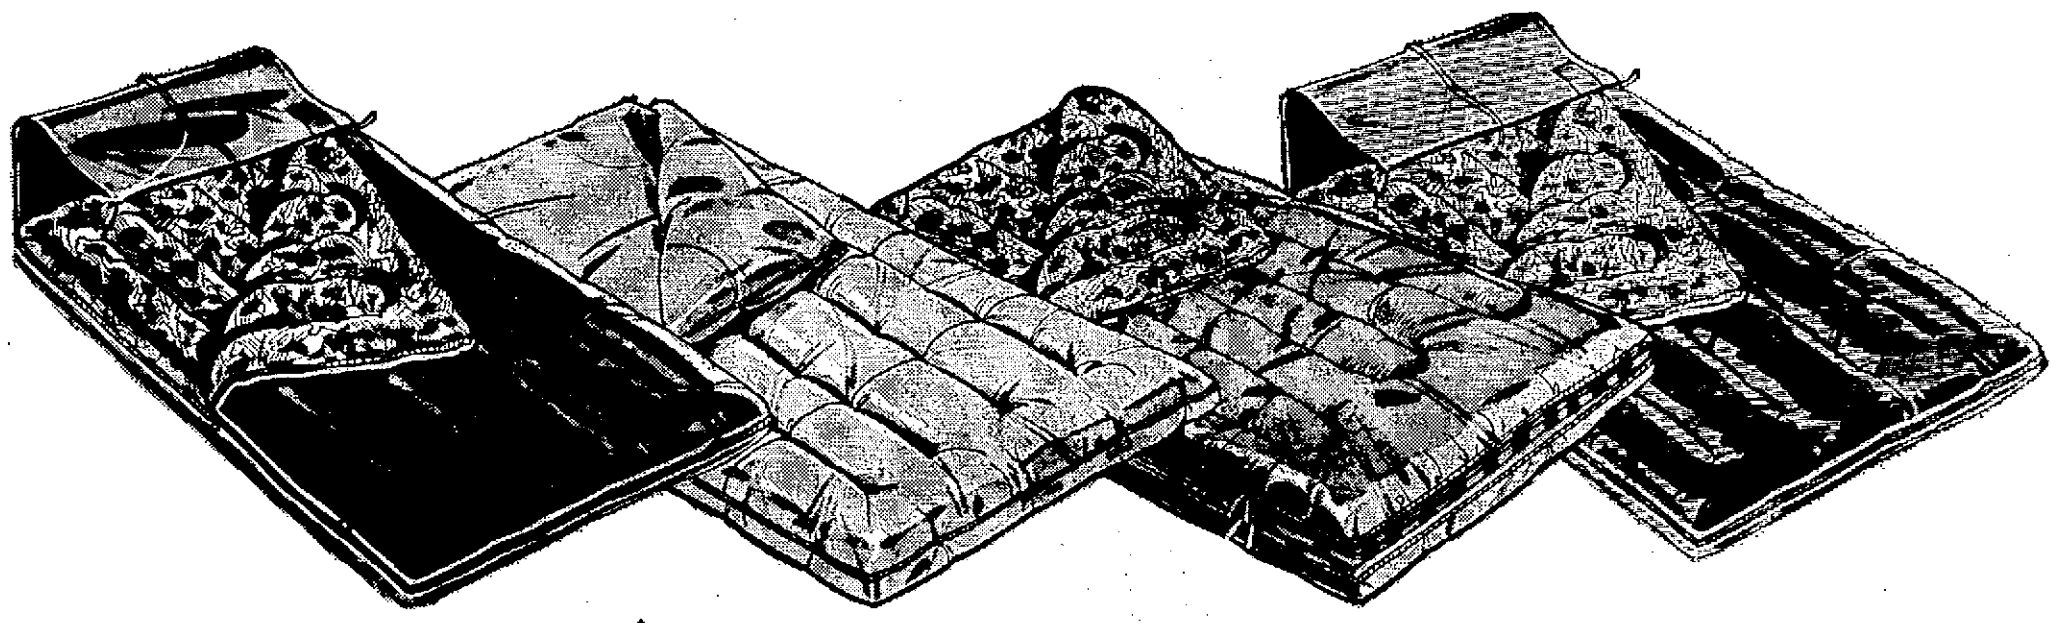

Earlier — much, much earlier, as old news clips tell — there were other studies for a Cabrillo Beach marina, other recommendations, other plannings and other phases, as years drifted along, all costly. Ocean currents and harbor surge have been studied. And methods of wringing a bit of land cherished by Ft. MacArthur from the reluctant grip of Uncle Sam — they've been studied.

* * * *

ANYHOW — to get back to the beach, there, and the lifeguard with his big bare foot tapping the splintery plank — the lifeguard squinted at the sky, which was bright blue for a change, and he flickered his eyes over bobbing heads of the young sand-castle builders and the whuffing, whale-like windmilling swimmers.

"They tell us this is the last year for the beach," he said, lightly scratching his hairy, leather-colored leg. "Marina? Well, I'll believe it the day I see it!"

Registration Set for City College

Appointments to register for Long Beach City College's second day summer session may be made from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday in the student personnel office at 4901 East Carson St., college officials have announced.

Starting July 31, the six-week session will continue through Sept. 7 on the Liberal Arts Campus. Printed schedules are now available at all City College offices.

Enrollment is open to all high school graduates, and up to six units of college credit may be earned during the second session. There is no tuition chargge.

The first day session ends Friday at the two main LBCC campuses, and the eight-week evening session continues through August 11. First-session enrollment totaled 6,292 day and evening students, a 12 per cent increase over 1966.

L.B. Dinner to Honor Mason Grand Masters

A dinner and reception honoring the grand masters of the Masonic order in two states will be given at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Long Beach Masonic Temple, 3610 Locust Ave.

Hosting the event, expected to draw several hundred Masons and their wives, will be the masters of the 17 lodges in the Long Beach area.

Honored will be the Most Worshipful Laurence E. Dayton of Oakland, grand master of Masons in California, and the Most Worshipful J. Quimby Wilson of Seminole, grand master of Masons in Oklahoma. The fraternal leaders head nearly a half-million Masons in the two states.

Dinner hour entertainment will be provided by Bill Mason, 12-year-old organist, and vocalist Frank Van Ee, member of the Long Beach lodge.

The women will be transported to the Long Beach Community Playhouse for a special performance of the current production, "The Late Christopher Bean."

Russ Told U.S. Launching Campaign of Vilification

MOSCOW (UPI) — A leading Soviet newspaper charged Saturday the United States has launched a massive government campaign using "lies, blackmail and God" to discredit Russia on the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution. It said the effort was directly controlled by President Johnson.

The newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda, official publication of the Young Communist League, said the alleged U.S. effort was being directed by a secret agency whose leaders include Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and other government figures.

It said the U.S. agency was coordinating the work of 226 anti-Soviet organizations in the western world and is making full use of Stalin's daughter, Svetlana Alliluyeva, whom it described as "an hysterial woman . . . a sick woman with a sexually troubled face."

The newspaper made its charges in a 4,000-word article by Arkadi Sakhnin, a Soviet writer who recently visited the United States.

Sakhnin said the U.S. government, using financing by the Ford, Rockefeller and Carnegie Foundations, has enlisted 146 American organizations and 80 foreign groups to help the campaign. Among those cited were highly regarded Russian research institutes at Harvard, Princeton, Stanford and Columbia Universities.

CARL EDDINGTON
Magician to Appear

Escape Artist to Perform

Carl Eddington, magician, escape artist and nationally known swimming professional, will appear at the Gold Crutch Swim Capade Aug. 19 at 1 p.m. in the Lafayette Hotel pool.

The Cerritos Communities Pool for the Handicapped, Inc., founded by Evelyn Dempsey duPont, is sponsoring the fifth annual swim festival in which 100 of her young swimmers, some with serious handicaps, will appear.

Eddington has appeared on many TV shows and in films. Challengers from all over the world have attempted to tie him with 100 feet of rope in such a manner that he could not escape.

However, each time he manages to free himself within the specified three-minute time limit.

Eddington had duplicated many of the feats of the great Harry Houdini. He has escaped from handcuffs, mail bags and from a packing case lowered 20 feet off the Santa Monica pier.

The affair is part of a CCPH drive for funds to finance a large pool someplace in the city to afford swimming facilities for the handicapped, both children and adults.

Boy Scouts Set to Attend Jamboree

Boy Scouts and Explorers from the Long Beach Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, will leave Tuesday for the 12th World Jamboree to be held in Farragut State Park, Idaho, Aug. 1-9.

The eight scouts who are selected to represent the Long Beach Area Council are William Baker Jr., Denny Grandle, Mel Markham, Gregory R. Phillips, James W. Rottman, Jim W. Tomlinson of Long Beach, and Gary Robinett and Steven Scheitzer from Lakewood.

Dr. Don Markham, vice president of the Long Beach Area Council, has been assigned to attend the 13,000-Scout encampment. He will be working with the medical staff.

The local scouts will travel as part of a contingent from Region 12 which includes the states of California, Hawaii, Nevada, Arizona and Wyoming.

On the way to the World Jamboree, they will visit Seattle, Mt. Ranier, Vancouver, B.C., Manning Provincial Park and Glacier National Park. They will return to Southern California on Aug. 10.

The scouts will all converge on the northern Idaho park where preparations have been underway for almost two years, and boy-filling grub — including 49,154 hamburger patties — is already on order.

In all, 26 languages will be heard throughout the wilderness site. Jamboree business will be conducted in three languages — English, French and Spanish. But the unofficial language — the great outdoors — will underline the Jamboree's theme: "For Friendship."

Motorcycle Accident Prevention Sought

In 1960, 45,000 motorcycles were sold in the United States. Last year, more than 377,000 were sold across the nation, mushrooming the trade in the buzzing, two-wheeled vehicles to a $500 million annual business.

"With the increase in sales, naturally, came an increase in accidents involving motorcycles," Don Brown, director of operations for the U.S. Suzuki Motor Corp., told three score listeners at a seminar convened under the auspices of the state association of motor vehicle examiners held in Edgewater Inn Saturday.

"What we need to know, we manufacturers and dealers, is what can we do to help agencies such as the Department of Motor Vehicles, the California Highway Patrol and the local police departments in reducing and preventing these tragic accidents," Brown continued.

"Prior to 1960," he said, "no federal or state agency seemed the least bit interested in the rise of motorcycle riding.

"Today — because of the increase in their use — the federal and state governments are vitally concerned."

Brown told the audience — which also included representatives of the Long Beach Police Department, the California Highway Patrol, the Automobile Club of Southern California, and representatives of other motorcycle manufacturers and motorcycle publications — that standards issued by the new U.S. Department of Transportation appear, at first glance, to be the strictest code ever enacted to govern cycling.

"we feel that this legislation might have been hastily enacted, that it was considered in an emotional light," he said.

"There can be no doubt that there is a substantial amount of prejudice attached to motorcycling."

Such approaches, Brown told the audience, are not calculated to become effective tools in the reduction of cycling accidents.

"More logical," he said, "is the approach taken by the Downey police working through the Downey school district."

Det. Bob Vance, of the Downey police traffic bureau, then said that the 7-month-old cycle education class conducted under department auspices on school district property had proved highly successful.

Twice during the 6-hour seminar at the Edgewater, the assemblage adjourned to the parking lot area for demonstrations of good and bad cycling habits, demonstrated by Motor Officer Dick Johansen, of the Long Beach Police Department's Motor Traffic Division, and by Patrolman Jerry Godnick, of the California Highway Patrol's South Los Angeles station.

The Department of Motor Vehicles examiners were in unison on one matter: They want someone — manufacturers, dealers, law enforcement agencies . . . anyone — to set forth guidelines on which to conduct more comprehensive inquiries on motorcycle licensing.

"We watch the kid take off up the block, turn and come back," one examiner related. "They we sign the guy off as a motorcycle rider.

"We're not experts on cycles. We sometimes have the feeling we're signing the boy's death warrant."

Mobutu Plans Tshombe Execution

KINSHASA, The Congo (AP) — President Joseph D. Mobutu held a special cabinet meeting Saturday apparently to decide when and how to execute former Premier Moise Tshombe.

There was one hint that the execution would not be immediate. In a broadcast exulting about an Algerian decision to permit extradition of Tshombe, Radio Congo said. "Before paying for his crimes, he will have to reveal the names of the counterrevolutionaries who plotted with him."

But Mobutu said that in so far as his government was concerned "Tshombe is a dead man. He has been sentenced by our courts."

He was convicted last March 13 of treason stemming from his leadership in the secession of Katanga Province from the rest of The Congo after Belgium granted independence in 1960.

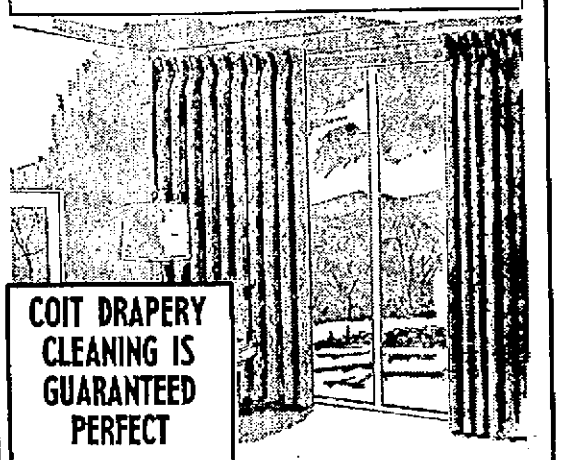

Algeria was reported ready Saturday to approve a plan to put Tshombe on public trial before an international tribunal before he is sent back to face death.

Col. Houari Boumedienne, the Algerian president who holds the final decision on when to deliver Tshombe to Congolese President Joseph Mobutu, was reported willing to accept the public trial suggested by African diplomats in Algiers.

The proposal was advanced after the Algerian Supreme Court declared Friday it considered Tshombe a criminal and ruled that he should be extradited to the Congolese capital of Kinshasa.

Tshombe was kidnaped and flown to Algeria after his jet plane was hijacked in flight over the Mediterranean June 30. He blamed the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency, his friendship with French President Charles de Gaulle and his "popularity" in the Congo for his capture.

John S. Page Rites to Be Held Tuesday

Service for John S. Page Sr., president and general manager of Page Oil Tools, Inc., will be held Tuesday at 1 p.m. at the First Brethren Church, 3601 Linden Ave.

Page, of 4112 Country Club Drive, Lakewood, died of a heart attack Friday on the eve of his 62nd birthday. A native of Decatur, Tex., he began in the oil industry in the Signal Hill boom of 1922.

After inventing a successful anchor for tubing in wells a quarter of a century later, he was able to establish his company and plant, located at 3356 Lime Ave.

Freight Almost Derailed

LANCASTER (CNS) — Two transients were arrested Saturday after they almost derailed a Southern Pacific freight train on the newly completed Colton cutoff of the SP spur line.

Sheriff's investigators said the suspects wanted to hop a train. So they took an abandoned 100-pound cook stove and placed it across the tracks near the dead end of East 67th Street.

The train was doing about 50 miles an hour when it crashed into the stove. No one was hurt, but there was minor damage to the train's engine. The suspects fled.

A short time later, investigators captured the two men who reportedly were making plans to slow down another train.

They were identified as Gregory Maldonado Valez, 20, Bryte, and Lynwood Rogers Riggs, 20, Newbern, North Carolina. Both were jailed on suspicion of train-wrecking.

Store Roof Collapse Injures 17, Traps 4

BELLINGHAM, Mass. (UPI) — A 50-square-foot section of a department store roof loaded with rainwater collapsed Saturday, injuring 17 persons, trapping four for several minutes and narrowly missing two babies who were saved by the shopping cart they were riding in.

Store guards, other employes and customers rescued those trapped within 10 minutes, before fire departments and rescue units sent to the store from 10 towns could arrive, officials said.

One woman was admitted to Woonsocket, R.I., Hospital with a broken ankle and the others were treated for cuts and bruises and released. The injured woman was in good condition.

Several hundred customers were in the single-story Warwick Shoppers World when the ceiling over the men's clothing section started falling with "a loud, grinding, popping, peeling noise," according to Russell Sweeney of Bellingham, manager of the television department in the rear of the store.

"I saw the roof cave in on top of a shopping cart with two babies in it. The cart held the roof off the kids.

"There was no panic," Sweeney said.

Yellowstone Pair Disappear in Canoe

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK (UPI) — A search continued Saturday for two Yellowstone National Park summer employes reported missing on a 20-mile canoe trip to the southern part of Yellowstone Lake.

Officials said the two were Steve Smith, 21, of Dallas, Tex., and Kenneth Ables, 19, of San Marino, Calif.

Semisolid Jet Fuel Developed

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP) — The Newport News Daily Press said Saturday the Army has developed a semisolid jet fuel just as powerful as and 90 per cent safer than liquid fuel now used in jet aircraft.

Such a fuel, the paper noted, could cut combat losses in Vietnam, where slow-moving turbojet helicopters, carrying highly flammable fuel, are extremely vulnerable to small arms fire from the ground.

The newspaper said the new fuel is emulsified and closely resembles white lard in its semisolid state, but atomizes whem sprayed into the burner section of a jet engine.

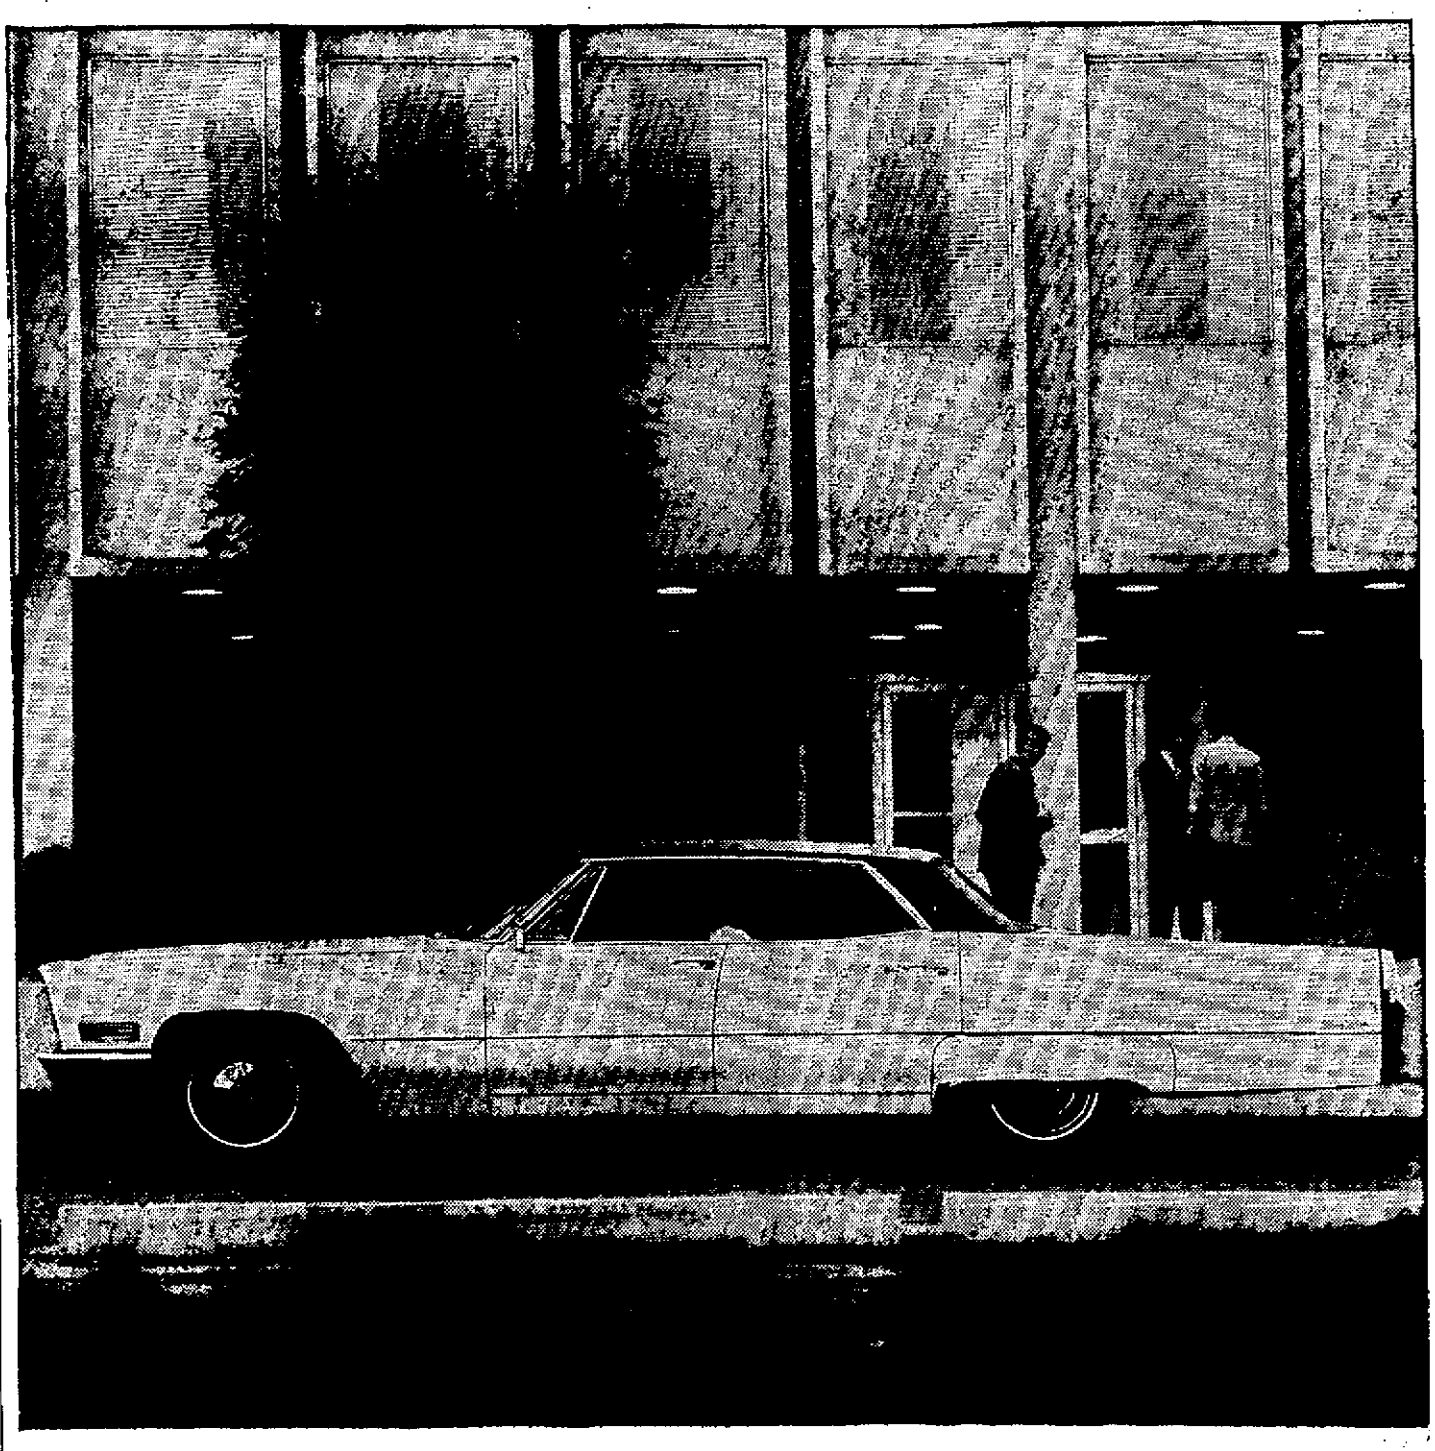

It is safer than liquid fuel, the paper said, because in its semi-solid state it burns more slowly. Thus there will be less danger of death or injury by fire following aircraft crashes.

You could pay more. You could pay less. But should you?

If you are seriously considering a new car purchase this summer, there are some facts about a Cadillac investment that should have an important bearing on your final decision. To begin with, more money will not bring you more car. For Cadillac is the accepted Standard of the World... emphasized by the fact that the 1967 Cadillac is the most popular luxury car of all time. And certainly, a little less money will get you a lot less car: less distinction, less luxury, less comfort, less performance, less size. Cadillac's famed high resale value will probably more than make up for its modest, extra initial cost. Tradition indicates that, after one or two years, the Cadillac you buy today will be worth more than any other car you can buy at or near its price. Further, Cadillac's advanced engineering historically gives its owners a measurable lead on the fine car field. Consider all these facts—then visit your authorized dealer for dollars-and-cents proof that Cadillac is the season's most logical and rewarding motor car investment. You would be wise to come in soon. Your dealer's current selection of models has never before been so attractively priced.

White Woman Asks Percy 'Revise Stand–Visit Watts'

By CHARLES SUTTON

A white woman whose work with Negro orgaizations has taken her into the Negro community almost daily in the past three years has invited Sen. Charles Percy R-Ill. to reconsider his recent decision not to visit Watts.

Percy had been dissuaded from entering the area last week by unidentified advisors who said the trip might be dangerous.

* * * *

THE INVITATION to the Republican lawmaker was made by Mrs. Tiger Slavik, a public relations woman with wide contacts in the black community. The contacts range from moderate civil rights groups to the Black Nationalists.

Mrs. Slavik has been active in Long Beach, too — notably in the campaign to save the State Service Center here.

A tall, slender blond, Mrs. Slavik wired Percy and invited him to attend the opening of the second annual Watts Festival Aug. 7. The festival will run through the 13th.

In her message, the public relations woman said Percy had obviously been given "poor advice" and was missing a golden opportunity to meet "the wonderful poeple of Watts."

"It is time that men such as yourself, in positions of power and influence, stop listening to leaders who lead no one . . . and come and meet the people.

* * * *

"AS A WHITE woman working daily in Watts and moving about with complete freedom and safety, I invite you to be my personal guest (at the opening). If anything frightens you, it will not be human beings, but inhuman conditions."

Mrs. Slavik told newsmen she was particularly anxious to correct what she said was "an erroneous impression created by (Percy's) statement."

Vacuum Dealers Fined

An Anaheim engineering firm and a New Hampshire vacuum cleaner sales organization have been fined in a U.S. District Court in Concord, N.H., for oral misrepresentations in a referral-selling plan.

Interstate Engineering Corp., of 522 E. Vermont Ave., and New England Enterprises, Inc., of Manchester, N.H. were convicted Friday by a jury of 10 men and two women after a trial that began June 19.

Interstate was given a $1,000 suspended fine by Chief Justice Charles Wyzanski Jr. of the U.S. Court Massachusetts Division, who presided.

He suspended the fine on condition that starting Nov. 1 the firm disclose "in its forms in clear language, red lettering, and print of such size as to command attention the experiences of customers of franchises of Interstate."

The jury found the Anaheim company guilty of aiding and abetting by supplying sales literature with vacuum cleaners, while knowing of fraudulent misrepresentation. Evidence showed customers were promised reductions in price for referring salesmen to prospects, but that only 10 per cent of these actually purhcased cleaners.

The New England firm and several officers and salesmen were fined a total of $10,250.

$1.8 MILLION SLANDER ACTION

Fired Santa Ana Officer Suit Lost

Fred Hopper, a former captain of Santa Ana police and now a law student lost his first case — on a technicality.

He filed a $1.8 million slander action against Police Chief Edward J. Allen of Santa Ana, who fired Hopper in November 1964 and who had to reassign him to the department in March 1965 after the City Personnel Board ordered Hopper reinstated.

Hopper claimed that Chief Allen made defamatory and derogatory statements about him on his return to the department, and demanded the $1.8 million damages in a suit in Santa Ana Superior Court.

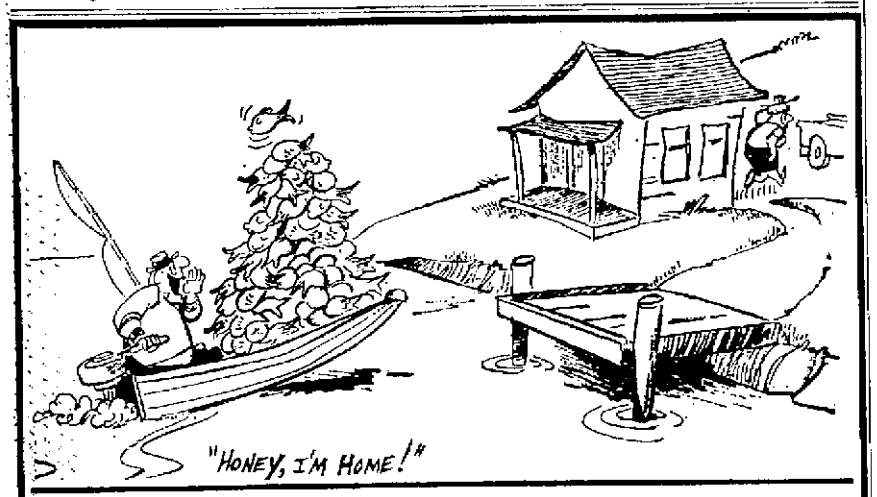

Judge William Spiers ordered the case dismissed because Hopper had not complied with the formality of filing a claim with the Santa Ana City Council, and because the statute of limitations had expired before he filed the suit.

Hopper had contended that Allen made the alleged statements against him as a private citizen and so he did not have to file a claim with the city. He said he might appeal the dismissal by Judge Spiers.

Bond Set for Pair in Gold Smuggling

NOGALES, Ariz. (AP) — Bond was set Saturday at $10,000 each for two men charged with failing to declare a half ounce of gold they allegedly brought into the United States from Mexico.

Garland Boggus, 44, a Sierra Madre, Calif., contractor, and Alvin Curtis Hartley, 47, who described himself as a Tucson mining man, both waived preliminary hearing when they appeared before U.S. Commissioner Albert Rios.

SWEDISH HEIR LINKED TO PRINCESS ANNE

Royal Romance Plans Stir Gossips

By Bjorn F. HELJER

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Handsome Crown Prince Carl Gustaf of Sweden is not expected to marry for several years, but already royal family followers are musing about his romantic plans.

If the 21-year-old Carl Gustaf marries a Swedish commoner while he is still crown prince, he will lose his rights to the throne.

If, however, he waits until he ascends the throne — once he is 25 and after his grandfather, King Gustaf Adolf, dies — he can choose whomever he likes.

The blond, blue-eyed crown prince would be under no restriction now or later if he chose to marry a commoner from a foreign country, but this is not considered likely.

* * * *

VIEWED BY many as the most attractive blue-blooded young man in Europe today, Carl Gustaf sets tongues wagging wherever he is seen with young ladies.

During a recent world tour on board a Swedish naval training ship, he was photographed with daughters of Swedish diplomats, Australian office girls, and a Tahitian dancer.

Frequent visits to Britain have given rise to rumors that he has become found of 16-year-old Princess Anne and that a royal romance is not far off.

The crown prince usually goes abroad every year during his summer holidays to visit relatives and to perfect his foreign languages.

PRINCE CARL GUSTAV
Stirs Gossip

HE VISITED Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip at Balmoral Castle in 1962 and Lord Louis Mountbatten in 1963. He often visits his sister, Princess Margaretha, now married to London businessman John Ambler.

The crown prince also visits another sister, Princess Birgitta, in Germany. The princess is married to Prince Johann Georg of Hohenzollern, of Gruenwald, near Munich.

Carl Gustaf is serving a two-year military obligation in the Swedish royal navy. At the end of his training, he will be commissioned an officer.

* * * *

THE CROWN PRINCE was born April 30, 1946, the fifth child of Prince Gustaf Adolf and Princess Sibylla at Haga Castle, just outside the walls of Stockholm.

A male heir to the throne was awaited eagerly by the family as well as the Swedish people. By coincidence, Carl Gustaf was born on the day the Swedish people greet the arrival of spring with bonfires and a carnival.

A year later, the new prince's father was killed in an airplane crash on his way back to Stockholm from the Netherlands.

The Swedish government, in cooperation with the royal family, then appointed a four-man council to supervise the boy's education.

After preparatory school, the crown prince entered a boarding school in Sigtuna, near Stockholm. During his five years at the school, he was addressed as "prince" by the teachers and "tjabo" (slang for "hi you") by his schoolmates.

Driver Stopped, Draws Gun, Shot

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A 22-year-old motorist remained hospitalized in serious condition Saturday after he was shot by police when he allegedly drew a loaded pistol on officers who stopped him for a traffic violation.

Police said William E. Long sustained bullet wounds in his chest and stomach during the incident in South Los Angeles.

The arresting officers, G. V. Tam and R. A. Parmalee, fired three shots at the motorist after he was pulled to the curb for a traffic citation.

The officers said the man got out of his car and pulled a pistol from his waistband and pointed it at them.

Johnson Aides Go to Asia

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson dispatched two of his most trusted advisers to the Far East Saturday to find out if allied governments will contribute more troops to the Vietnam war and to lay groundwork for another Asian summit conference this fall.

The mission of Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor and Clark M. Clifford is expected to take about 10 days with stops in six countries — the Philippines, New Zealand, Australia, South Korea, Thailand and South Vietnam.

Taylor is a former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and a former ambassador to Vietnam. Clifford, a Washington lawyer, is chairman of the administration's Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board.

* * * *

IN ANNOUNCING the trip this week, the White House described it as a followup to Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's visit to the war theater earlier in the month.

Press Secretary George Christian also said the Taylor-Clifford mission would provide opportunity to discuss with allied leaders "a future summit meeting at an appropriate time."

The White House has given no hint as to where or when a summit might be held as a sequel to the Manila Conference in October 1966. But there has been strong speculation it would take place in the Thailand capital of Bangkok next October after the South Vietnam elections are out of the way.

The willingness of the six allied governments to commit more troops to the fighting will have a direct bearing on how many more American men Johnson will have to send to Vietnam.

The President has assured Gen. William C. Westmoreland of an increase in his fighting strength over the present 1.2 million-man allied force now in the theater.

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng. (AP) — Dr. Horace King, 66, speaker of the House of Commons, was married at Southampton register office Saturday to Una Porter, 60, a retired schoolmistress. Miss Porter was a close friend of Dr. King's first wife, who died in May 1966.

Mine Tunnel Collapses, Home Plunges Into Pit

PICHER, Okla. (UPI) — The earth collapsed over a zinc mine tunnel Saturday, plunging three houses and parts of two others to the bottom of a 50-foot pit. Officials said there was danger of additional cavein.

All occupants of the houses, including a family of 12, awoke in time to escape serious injury. Several suffered bruises and dislocations.

A large section of city street, a garage and two automobiles also fell into the huge hole.

* * * *

THE AREA was roped off and at least 15 homes were evacuated.

Utilities were cut off to prevent fire, and state highway patrolmen, sheriff's officers and National Guardsmen were brought in to keep out curiosity seekers.

George Foote, who helped his wife and 10 children through upper windows to safety, said he first thought it was a tornado or a sonic boom.

"Then I felt the whole room drop," Foote said. "When I saw what it really was, I couldn't believe my eyes. I was surprised how fast I called off the names of my family, one by one, and we got out of there — fast.

* * * *

THE COLLAPSE of the old mine left a gaping hole 400 feet long, 150 feet wide and 50 feet deep. The Highway Patrol said cracks radiated from the hole as far as 40 feet. The chasm straddled West B Street in this community of 3,000 in the extreme northeast corner of Oklahoma.

Three one-story frame houses and most of two others lay crumpled at the bottom of the pit. About one-third of each of the two damaged houses clung to the edge of the crater.

Regatta, Air Show to Begin Sea Festival

By JACK BALDWIN
Marine Editor

An air-sea show, including a parade of lighted boats followed by a fireworks spectacle, will be staged Aug. 12 to begin the nine-day second annual California International Sea Festival at Long Beach.

Sandy Kemp, festival director, says a crowd of 100,000 persons is expected to line the bluff between Junipero Avenue and Alamitos Avenue to witness the twilight to-dark aquatic events.

This year the Sea Festival will follow a split schedule. The early schedule, featuring events planned to interest spectators as well as participants, will be staged from Aug. 12 to 20. The second series of events, including the classic Long Beach-to-San Francisco powerboat race, will be held in October.

Here is a description of the events to be held during August:

OPENING DAY SPECTACULAR—Aug. 12

A three-hour twilight-to-dark air-sea show will be staged on and over the waters along the Long Beach strand beginning at 6:30 p.m. The air show will feature a trio of free-falling sky divers. They will perform aerobatic stunts before attempting to make a bullseye landing on a target on the beach.

Spectators will see a fly-by of the antique, wire-wheeled planes famed in fact and fiction for their dog-fights over France during World War I. Among the planes will be Spads, Nieuports, and Fokkers.

Three low-flying stunt pilots will stage a demonstration of aerobatics at wave heights over the water.

In one of the first events of its kind, kite-skiers will run to their skis on the beach in a LeMans style start and race suspended from their kites behind powerful speed boats to a point out to sea and back.

After dark, decorated yachts, commerical boats, and a dozen or more Navy captain's gigs will pass in review against a backdrop of four "dressed" and lighted Navy fighting ships.

Bright beams of anti-aircraft searchlights will spotlight the unlighted boats.

Climaxing the evening shoreline show will be the firing of a barrage of multi-burst skyrockets and other fireworks.

The entire show is free to the public.

$5,000 I, P-T FISHING DERBY—Aug. 12 to Sept. 10.

Other opening day events include the start of the $5,000 Independent, Press-Telegram's Annual Fishing Derby. Winners of the Derby which ends on September 10 will be awarded cash prizes and trophies for fish caught and registered during the contest. A fish-off will be held aboard a sport fishing boat on Sept. 16. Prizes will be awarded for the biggest fish caught each day, each week, and during the entire derby.

ROWING REGATTA—Aug. 12.

A new event added to the Sea Festival program this year is the Rowing Regatta on opening day. The paddling and rowing competition will include a race for outrigger canoes — one of which will be "manned" by an all-girl crew. Other races will be held for kayaks, lifesaving dories, canoes and racing shells. The event will be staged in the Marine Stadium from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

SPEEDBOAT REGATTA—Aug. 13

Plenty of action is in store for power boat racing fans during the Speed Regatta Aug. 13 at Marine Stadium. Scheduled are 10 classes of hot boats from hydroplanes to cracker boxes. Included is a Powder Puff race for women drivers.

GRAND NATIONAL CATALINA SKI RACE—Aug. 13.

Many of the nation's top skiers will attempt to crack the one hour and 15 minute record for the 60-mile rough-water race between Long Beach to Avalon Bay and back.

Start and finish of the grueling cross-channel race will be off the Golden Avenue launching ramp in front of the Reef Restaurant at 8 a.m.

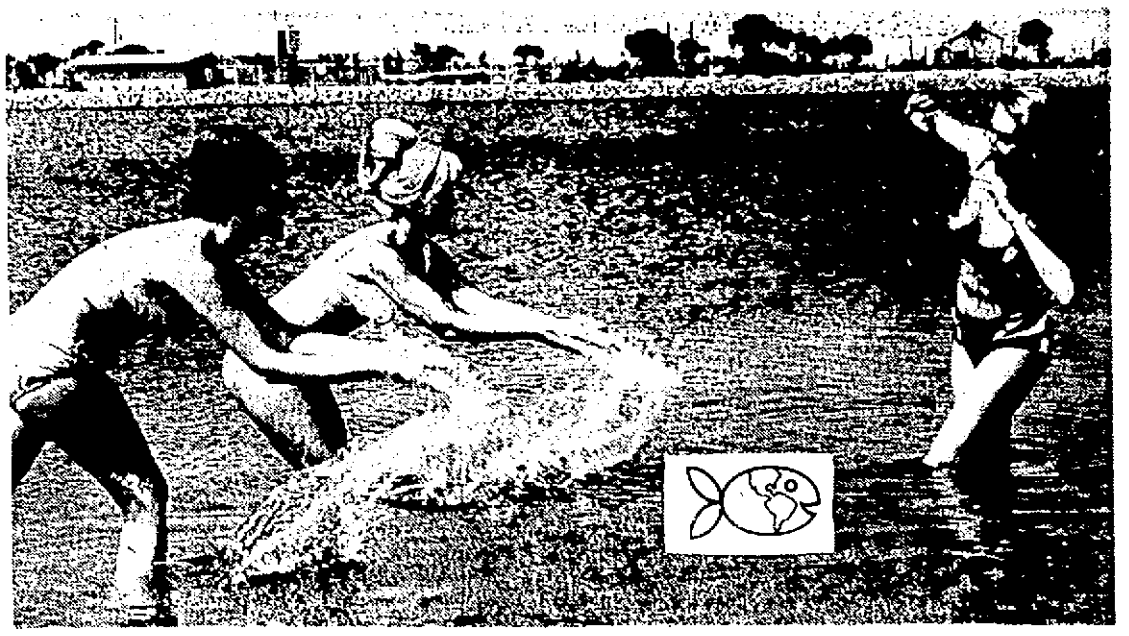

The race is sponsored by the Long Beach Boat and Ski Club.

START HENNESSY CUP RACE—Aug. 15.

Start of this year's race which will see some of the world's fastest boats and drivers take a pounding during the 257-mile open ocean two-day race between Long Beach and San Diego and return.

Drivers of the rugged off-shore boats will be competing for $5,000 prize money and the coveted Hennessy Cup.

BEACH COMBING

MALCOLM EPLEY

IN THIS country, we've figured out this simple formula for the solution of public problems:

The idea is that you can buy anything with money. The bigger the problem, of course, the more money is needed to buy a solution.

Hence somebody has proposed that the public purse be tapped for $100 billion for the next 10 years to eliminate poverty and other conditions blamed for current disturbance and unrest.

I think this is a fine idea, provided we can devise a good way to get the money into the right places. I've noticed that sometimes we appropriate money first and try to figure out how to spend it later. This has led to makeshift schemes and cries of dissatisfaction from those supposed to benefit.

So first let's plan on how to get this $100 billion out and I have a proposal to offer.

MY IDEA comes from an experience with a slot machine that was allowed in a private club to which I belonged some years ago.

One day a couple of fellows were playing it and by accident discovered that it would play, whether or not a coin was put in the slot.

It paid off on cherries, oranges, plums, bells and bars when properly lined up. Everything about the operation was normal except that no coin insertion was required.

The players had a lot of fun with that machine until the club manager got wise and wheeled the generous gadget off for repairs.

NOW you can see what's coming. Get a flock of slot machines, fix them like that one, place them at strategic spots over the country, and tell the folks to go to it.

It would take some time to run $100 billion through the machines, which is o.k. because it ought to be meted out gradually. It would be fun while it lasted and it would be a direct way of getting the money to the people.

(I suppose it would be desirable to keep people from playing who don't need the money, but I'll leave simple details like that to others.)

In the case of some recent anti-poverty appropriations, some of the intended beneficiaries have been quoted as asking "where's the money?" It was a good question.

With our slotless slot machines in operation, the answer would be easy. The money would be in one of the gadgets down at the corner, ready to dribble out into needy hands with a few pulls of a handle.

THIS program should bring an end to civil disturbance.

Who would want to riot or lie down in the street or throw fire bombs if he could spend his time working a slot machine that required no coins to make it go?

The fascination of these contraptions is universal, as anybody who has been to Nevada knows well.

I know of one little old lady in Northern California who goes to Reno each month and runs her old age pension through the slots. With our plan, she'd get her pension out of the machines and would have the dough to spend.

THIS whole thing is such a great idea it would be only fair to put the fellow who dreamed it up in charge as the top administrator.

He wouldn't need to have a regular salary, either.

Just put a nice, loose dollar machine in his office.

Campus Casuals

What do you do on a day when the temperature hovers near 80, the humidity is up and the smog smarts your eyes. First of all you cancel all plans to do "important" things and you relax. Take it easy. You can kick off your shoes if it pleases you or you can fill a picnic basket with goodies and head for a park. You can flop on the grass with a good book (or maybe summer school homework) or you can just stroll the nearest grassland. The surrounding scenes—all photographed Saturday at California State College at Long Beach—depict the ways beach area residents can enjoy a hot summer day . . . And they didn't even go near the water.

JEFF SIZEMORE

Orphans' Favorite GI Back Home

By MARK CLUTTER

"All I wanted was a pass, so I volunteered for the orphanage detail," said Jeff Sizemore, 3452 California Ave. "When I saw those kids I knew there was something I wanted more than anything else. I wanted to help them."

That was in the fall of 1965. Sizemore a private first class, wrote a letter to The Independent, Press-Telegram about conditions in the Korean orphanage of Ui Jung Bu. The place was a wreck, and little children had died of the cold the year before. Soldiers could repair and rebuild the ramshackle building, but there was nothing they could do about children's clothes. Would the people of the Long Beach area help?

His earnest appeal was published as a feature story and it touched the hearts of people. The children of Ui Jung Bu received between 1,000 and 1,500 pounds of clothes. They also received toys, candy, story books and money.

"It made me feel like I was 10 feet tall, just because I had written a letter," Sizemore said. "The response was touching. One woman with six children sent a lot of new clothes.

"The whole project was really the work of Sgt. Maj. Howard R. Evans. He took charge of everything. There were about 25 of us who helped the orphanage. I was transferred to Vietnam a little later, but I heard that no children even got sick that winter. The sergeant major wrote thank-you letters to everyone."

Sizemore's mother, Mrs. Evelyn E. McCans, 6721 Walkerton St., helped in getting the aid project going. Some church groups and a Boy Scout troop participated. Many of the gifts, however, were from individuals.

In Vietnam, Sizemore smelled some angry gunpowder. He also met his bride, a girl named Binh (pronounced Bing).

He was discharged in April as a T-5. He works at Douglas Aircraft Co. and, like most veterans, is glad to be out. But he has some happy memories, one of the happiest being the good Christmas that came from Long Beach to the children of Ui Jung Bu.

LITTLE AD, BIG SALE

Tom Scaglinone, 16281 Mercury Dr., Westminster got big results from a little ad on his little car. He says: I'm very pleased with service and results from my ad. I had many calls and sold my VW for the asking price to the first looker."

Independent, Press-Telegram classified ads go where your best prospects are every day. To sell your car, or anything else, the fastest, most economical way is to call the Independent, Press-Telegram classified advertising department at HE. 2-5959.

LONG BEACH, CALIFORNIA, SUNDAY, JULY 23, 1967 — Page B-2

Tax Bill Brings Old Political Formula

From Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO — Oldtime political pros long have contended in jest that this is the best formula for political survival as a lawmaker:

Always vote yes on an appropriation, but no on any tax-bill.

At first blush, one might suspect Sacramento is using this rule book for the 1967 legislative session. A $5 billion budget has sailed through the legislature, but facing an uncertain fate and prolonging the session into late July is a $1 billion tax bill.

The administration tax program, carried by Sen. George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach, squeaked through the Senate earlier this month by a thin 27-to-12 margin — the minimum two-thirds vote required for a measure with an emergency clause.

The proposal to increase sales and income taxes plus raise the tax take on cigarettes, liquor and insurance is so controversial that it will generate prolonged Assembly debate. Any tax increase is laden with political dynamite — and hence controversial.

It is no secret that some Republican senators lacked the political intestinal fortitude to carry the Reagan tax package. But Sen. Deukmejian of Long Beach has braved the political peril of linking his name to a tax bill.

JAMES McCAULEY

In return, it has enhanced Deukmejian's prestige and influence within the administration.

Significantly, many of the 12 senators voting "no" on the revenue measure were members of the Upper House due for re-election battles next year.

The Democratic bloc of no-votes from Los Angeles County included Sens. Anthony Beilenson, George Danielson, Mervyn Dymally, James Wedworth and Joseph Kennick. Sen. Ralph Dills, who won't be up for re-election until 1970, voted yes. But the others all must face voters in 1968.

The lone Republican no-voter, Sen. John Schmitz of Orange County, didn't follow the old rule book of supporting appropriations but opposing tax measures. Schmitz previously rankled the administration by also voting against Gov. Ronald Reagan's budget.

Other Sacramento Soundings:

COUNCIL RESOLUTION PROD — Assemblyman Frank Lanterman, R-La Canada, read a Long Beach City Council resolution to the Assembly in a last-ditch bid to win Long Beach-area votes for his bill to extend the sales tax to gasoline sales as a revenue-booster for rapid transit. The Long Beach Council had favored the new transit revenues, according to Lanterman. Meanwhile, Assemblyman James Hayes, R-Long Beach, led the floor fight against the Lanterman measure as being premature. Later, Assemblyman Mike Cullen, D-Long Beach, moved for reconsideration on the Lanterman bill after it won passage 41-32. Also voting no were Assemblymen Vincent Thomas, D-San Pedro; Kenneth Cory, D-Anaheim, and Robert Burke, R-Huntington Beach.

SESSION ENDER — Capitol jokesters suggest legislative sessions never went into the hot summer in the old days. Their proposal for a fast end to the 1967 legislature: chopping off the Capitol air conditioning. Sacramento's sizzling climate would do the rest.

KENNICK CREDIT — Sen. Joseph M. Kennick, D-Long Beach, put up such a tremendous fight over the Long Beach tidelands in recent years that the tidelands foes of yesteryear sought out Kennick after his Senate election as a future "Senate ally." It is no secret that Sen. Stephen Teale, D-West Point, onetime adversary of Kennick, has helped line up Kennick for choice committee assignments. It is a tribute to Kennick's statesmanship and legislative effectiveness.

Rats, Riots Just Aren't Humorous

WITHIN 24 hours after passing an anti-riot bill b ya 347-70 majority, the House of Representatives refused by a vote of 207-176 even to consider an anti-rat proposal.

Congressmen ascended to stratospheric levels of indignation when they decreed that no one may cross a state line with intent to incite riot.

By contrast, some of them found it extremely funny that they should be asked to help control rats in the slums.

This conjunction of decisions, and of moods behind them, will not pass unnoticed by the slum dwellers who furnish the human raw material both for riots and for rats.

The keynote of the lampooners was set by Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, who remarked that the bill might lead to a "high commissioner of the rat corps."

Some other Republicans were not so amused. One of them, Rep. Theodore R. Kupferman, whose New York city district borders on Harlem, accused his colleagues of inconsistency.

"If you were a father coming home from work to find one of your children bitten by a rat," he said "you might very well start a small riot yourself."

No one is so innocent as to suppose that the eradication of rats will in itself prevent future riots.

But it is reasonable to surmise that the attitude of laughing off one of the most vicious hazards to the health of the urban poor will incite more anger than chuckles in the slums.

The traveling agitators who move from state to state calling for rebellion could not have asked for a more timely ally than the House in this moment of carefree fun-making.

It is questionable whether the anti-riot measure will put many of these agitators in jail. If it does, others will rise to take their places in rat-infested tenements across the nation, and without crossing a state line.

Riots are not funny. Neither are their causes. They will not be cured by lawmakers who laugh at one cause, rat infestation, and thus myopically encourage another, the extremists who thrive on frustration and despair.

Vote Device Can Banish Long Count

THE ISSUE OF automating Los Angeles County's voting process is scheduled to be aired Tuesday with a report by the Election Devices Committee of the Board of Supervisors.

If the county decides to move away from the ordeal of hand-counting three million paper ballots every election, one of its major considerations appears to be whether the paper ballot itself should be retained.

On this question hinges the major arguments of competitors for county business in vote counting and tabulation.

The case can be dramatized in the proposals of a couple of the contenders, Automatic Voting Machine Corp. (AVM), and Cubic Votronics Vote Counter. AVM wants to sell mechanical voting machines. Cubic offers electronic counters of traditional paper ballots.

If speed were the only consideration, AVM or another mechanical voting machine would win because the machine tally is "right now." When voting ends, the total is on the machine for the mere reading in every contest, every proposition, every issue.

But the makers of ballot counters ride the old "audit trail" and the heretofore reluctance of California voters to abandon the hand-stamped paper ballot. The audit trail allows a recount traced back to the stored paper ballot.

AVM touts not only the immediate count but an added fillip called Printomatic. At the end of voting hours, a platen is rolled across the machine counters, embossing on paper the vote count for every candidate and measure as well as the machines' original "zero" readings to show that no votes were cast before the voting started.

Machine voting, AVM submits, eliminates the possibilities of ballots being spoiled by inadvertent marks or incorrect marking. They note that invalid ballots in the 1960 election far out-numbered John F. Kennedy's 119,000 vote plurality over Richard M. Nixon. And, says AVM, the voter cannot spoil his ballot. The machine prevents over-voting in any contest; there's no such thing as an identifying mark or erasure voiding a ballot. A voter may change his mind and his vote simply by changing levers in the machine booth. The machine eliminates possibility of tampering with ballots, and tampering with the machines before, during or after voting "is impossible without detection."

How soon would L.A. County get its results? With machines, a semi-official by midnight, an official tally by 2 a.m. With the vote counter, 7 a.m. or noon, depending upon the number of counters purchased.

Cubic frankly pitches on the themes of economy and its provision to handle absentee ballots. Its plan involves sending a special marker, bearing the same kind of ink used in the voting booth, to each absentee voter. Thus the absentee ballots can be fed into and read by its Votronics counter at the same time all other ballots are tabulated.

Costs? There are several variables and alternatives in bidding depending upon the kind of speed and efficiency the county wants to buy. But roughly, AVM's voting machines would cost about $1,740 each, with 20,000 needed at the county-prescribed specification of one machine per 150 voters. AVM submits an alternate — one machine for every 250 — which would cut the outlay from $36.8 million to $20.8 million.

Cubic's 1,000 vote per hour counters would cost about $31,900 each. With 300 counters for a noon result, the cost would be about $9.6 million; 450 counters for a 7 a.m. result would be about $14.3 million.

China Doll

It's Better Than City Now Has

WHEN THE General Telephone Co. declined to renew its franchise in July, 1966, Long Beach lost a 28-year-old source of municipal revenue. The annual rate of income had risen to $500,000.

Company spokesmen declared they were exempt from franchise charges under California court decisions that already had hit Los Angeles, San Francisco and San Diego. City officials decided eventually not to force the issue.

Now the Assembly by a 57-6 vote has approved a proposed constitutional amendment to reinstate the basic levy of 2 per cent of telephone company gross revenues.

According to Assemblyman John G. Veneman, R-Modesto, the companies are not opposing it.

The amendment is not exactly what some cities would have preferred. For one thing, the state would preempt the field in lieu of franchising by cities. Revenues would be distributed to local governments on a population basis.

Thus cities with a heavy concentration of telephones —and also special problems of accommodating utility facilities—would get no more per capita than others which contribute less to telephone revenues and to the service capabilities of the companies.

Because of the wider dispersal of the tax revenues, and the formula attached to it, Long Beach income from the tax would probably be less than half the amount that could be raised by a 2 per cent city franchise charge.

As Veneman observed, however, the measure would at least bring some equity among utilities. Southern California Edison Co., for instance, has made no public claim to exemption.

From a standpoint of state-wide support, the Venneman amendment appears to be the best that could be expected. Voters should be given an opportunity to ratify it.

OPEN FORUM

Cabrillo Beach

EDITOR:

Los Angeles is on the verge of losing one of its two remaining public beaches. It will soon be deprived of two thirds of the Cabrillo Beach Park without any real public notification. In its place, the Los Angeles Harbor Commission intends to erect a marina, designed and projected for use by the more affluent members of Southern California.

We, the Committee To Save Cabrillo Beach, feel this must not happen. We feel that there has been too much of our free public recreation areas slowly taken away from the low and middle income families and all too silently. We feel that this slow, unpublicized usurping of the last vestiges of public recreation areas must be brought to a halt.

Cabrillo Beach is used not only by the Harbor residents but by all of central metropolitan Los Angeles and the surrounding cities. According to the statistics of the Recreation and Parks Department, only 18 per cent of the users of the beach are from San Pedro. These beach goers are unaware of the planned destruction of their beach.

Unjust Cloud

EDITOR:

As one who has lived under the "unjust cloud" or stigma of epilepsy for many years I would like to thank you for your fine article.

It is most important that the public be more informed upon this affliction, and the stigma it holds be stamped out and the sufferers be given an opportunity to live as a person. To know there are clinics where help is always available for the seeking and in the majority of cases, as in my own, seizures can be kept under control by correct medication.

Unequal Law

EDITOR:

Boy, am I glad that our laws aren't applied equally to everyone. My brother and I were putting political posters up when a police car began following us. They just watched us as we put the posters up until we stapled one to a bus bench. Then they pulled along side and told us to take it down. They followed us again for several blocks, watching us put more posters up on telephone poles. I just now read where three boys received one year probations and $100 fine for putting a sign on a bus bench saying: "Bring Them Back Alive — Stop The War Now."

It's A Consumers Economy

Register and Tribune Service

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A great deal of trouble, to say nothing of money, could be saved by business executives if they had a keener appreciation of the new conditions in what is rightfully called a "consumers economy."

Passage in the Senate by a vote of 92 to 0 of the so-called truth-in-lending bill should be notice enough that consumers in this country are packing a heavier wallop. This bill requires lenders to tell borrowers honestly and precisely the cost of loans on autos, appliances, repairs, house modernization, with no razzle-dazzle that later shows up in higher than expected charges.

EVEN SUPPOSEDLY respectable banks have nasty little tricks like figuring interest rates on loans on the basis of a 360-day year, thus nicking the unsuspecting borrower for five extra days of interest in the real year. Other dodges in the lending business are too numerous, diverse and ingenious to mention, and have been practiced unashamedly by people belonging to the best country clubs.

The Senate has acted with unanimity in this one field, but still the message doesn't get across to many business executives that the public is determined to force upon them, through government, a greater concern for the public's interest.

The cigarette manufacturers, the motor car manufacturers, the drug manufacturers have been dragged kicking and screaming into the new world where the consumer's interest is asserting itself. They still have a long way to go to square themselves with a public which has found out that cars can be made safer, a really effective cigarette filter can be developed, and that outrageous overcharges are exacted on drugs where the makers and sellers can get away with it.

Each set of business executives seem to have to learn for themselves that they will have to take the public's interest more seriously. At the moment the meat industry finds itself embarrassed in Congress by the fact that there is no federal regulation of plants that slaughter 20 million cattle and process 8.7 million pounds of meat — 15 per cent of the total supply.

FILTHY, unsanitary conditions have been found in some of these plants under state, city and local control. This meat is for sale, or supposed to be for sale, within state boundaries and thus outside the jurisdiction of the federal meat inspection act.

Yet, meat packer groups are opposing bringing this part of the meat slaughtering and processing business under federal standards. The argument is familiar. Little packers who can get by under state control would be forced out of businsss in meeting higher federal standards.

The same story is heard from the coal industry which claims that the federal government's proposed clean air standards would put it out of business and "reduce to a crawl the wheels of industry for years and years." Experts say that is just nonsense and that proper measures against air pollution would result in use of more coal.

The coal industry might profit from the experience of the cigarette business. While the cigarette makers were spending big sums on publicity to defend themselves, a scientist working in his home laboratory and on his own money, developed an effective filter which the cigarette makers, with their huge funds available for research, should have developed years ago.

THE PUBLIC wants safe air, safe cars, safe drugs, safe meat and it is bound to get them in the new consumers world despite all the heel dragging and pompous statements from business and industry about killing the goose that lays the golden egg.

Wise words for the reluctant business executive, hyper-sensitive to all criticism and wrapped in his own little myths about private enterprise, come from an experienced free-enterpriser, Harold Brayman, retired director of public relations of E. I. du Pont de Nemours.

In his book written after retirement, "Corporate Management in a World of Politics" (McGraw-Hill), Brayman says: "The major objective (of business) must become public service — not of the eleemosynary type — but public service through technological development, through the creation of cheaper, better or brand new products for the use and benefits of human beings. The objective of just 'making money' is not sufficient.

"Business leadership must acquire a degree of political sophistication in dealing with government, rather than following techniques which may have been adequate in the early days of our century but which belong in antique shops today. Instead of regarding government as a nuisance or an enemy, it must regard government as a partner . . ." Those are words drawn from more than 20 years' experience directing the public relations of one of the great corporations of the world.

L. A. C. SAYS

What It Takes to Be a Leader

By L. A. COLLINS, SR.

THE JULY Readers Digest presents a list of qualities a leader must have, according to a speech by Gen. Mark W. Clark. It should be read by every parent and young person. It opens with the question: where does juvenile delinquency begin? It answers: in leaderless families. It goes on to list qualifications for leadership as:

"Confidence. If a leader does not believe in himself, no one else will. But confidence must be acquired. At every stage, there must be a steady buildup of assurance, a conviction of competence based on training and the gradual accumulation of experience and skill. Energy. A leader must be willing to do everything he asks of his followers — and more. He must be able to work harder, concentrate longer, face the extra danger, carry the extra burden, go the extra mile.

"Clarity. A leader must be able to reason logically, weigh alternatives, make decisions and then convey his thought lucidly. 'The man who can think,' said Pericles, 'and does not know how to express what he thinks is at the level of him who cannot think.' Tenacity. Courage, it has been said, is the capacity to hang on five minutes longer. The leader not only must have this ability himself, he must also inspire it in others. Perhaps the greatest leader of our time was Sir Winston Churchill, who never flinched from telling his people the truth, even when the truth was appalling. One of them said to him, 'I doubt if any man in history has ever made such grim utterances, yet given his people such a feeling of strength and exuberance — even cheerfulness.'

"Boldness. This strong and virile characteristic is akin to courage, but more dynamic. It reveals itself in a willingness to take chances, a readiness to experiment, a soaring optimism that rejects and despises the thought of failure. Concern. Experience has taught me that men will never follow anyone unless they feel that he really cares about them and their problems. So George Washington endured the miseries of Valley Forge with his men, sharing every hardship. Indeed, concern for others is a sign of imagination and vision, two key ingredients of leadership. Morality. A stern code of ethics, a strong sense of personal morality, 'obedience to the unenforceable' — these are qualities a leader must have at the core of his being. This is why military schools and colleges put so much stress on duty and honor, love of God and country. They know that without a firm moral base a man is too unsure of himself to be an effective leader.

"What can we do to improve the climate in which such attributes of leadership develop? The answer is that parents must do it. The job has to be done early, and it has to be done in the home. Take confidence, for example. The seeds of this quality are planted long before a child goes to school. It begins with the successful performance of limited tasks. Praise helps. Instruction helps. But if you really want your child to excel you must go beyond that. You must search out and encourage areas of interest and aptitude. You must offer guidance and time and involvement. You must be willing to give of yourself.

"You must see that certain values exist in the home: respect, pride, loyalty, honor. Talk and action reflect these things. Life must be revealed not as dubious and pointless struggle but as a magnificent privilege, a torch that must burn as brightly as possible before it is handed on to the next generation. Let no one think that being a leader is easy. Often it is a lonely and difficult businsss. As Nietzsche said, 'Life always gets harder toward the summit — the cold increases, the responsibility increases.' And there is never any guarantee of success. But the rewards are enormous for those who will strike for the summit, who will take the risks, dare the unknown."

Urban Growth Places New Burden on Country

RALPH McGILL

RACIAL RIOTING in Newark, N.J., has ended, but all the returns are not yet in. They may not be made clear for years to come. They are not yet clear in Watts-Los Angeles or in other areas where the ferocity and purposeless destruction of property and life were in the nation's headlines, on the TV screens, and in the consciences of the more troubled and thoughtful. Riots and violence must be put down. There is no other possible course. All that have occurred in this country have been put down.

There are the usual answers of poverty, bad housing, unemployment, and heritage of discrimination which is both economic and social and which derives from the many decades of segregation and its impact on the dignity and meaning of an individual's life.

NEWARK IS ONE of our oldest industrial cities. It reflects the hard core presence of chemicals, steel, construction, fabrications of many kinds, refineries, and shipping. The nation's unemployment average has risen to 4 per cent, but in Newark it was 16 per cent. There was in Newark the same factor of discontent that has been present in Watts, Chicago, Bedford-Stuyvesant, and Cleveland where the worst explosive violence has occurred.

The population of these areas includes thousands of out-migrants from Southern cotton fields who took with them little of possessions and less of schools and education. The new generation knows that considerable progress has been made, but it is not satisfied with that and it lacks the habitual restraints of its parents and its grandparents. In Harlem, as in other industrial crowded cities, the Negroes are, in great majority, poor and either unemployed or holding low paying, part-time or seasonal jobs. Their housing is a rebuke to a civilized society. Their education is deeply deficient. Their hopes and prospects for improvement are not visible to them.

There are other factors. Governor Hughes blamed the rioting on a relatively small number of Newark's residents, probably 3 to 4 per cent. This estimate is regarded as correct. Governor Hughes also said that much of the criminal activity, sniping and so on, was the "work of" an organization of people who hate America. Governor Hughes is correct in this. We do have a new thing in America. It is disassociation from civil rights.

There is no speculation about it. One may be factual. The Revolutionary Action Movement (R.A.M.), members of which were recently arrested and charged with a plot to murder NAACP's Roy Wilkins and Urban League National Chairman Whitney Young, openly boasts that it trains "urban guerrillas" for sniping and fighting in what it calls the urban jungles. SNCC, since it disassociated itself from the civil rights movement and became a revolutionary movement, also publishes material in its Chicago office, which is available to those interested in obtaining it. Field Director Monroe Sharpe explains that SNCC is strongly anti-white, and strongly anti-bourgeois Negro.

A Slice of Pork Carved for Wisconsin

DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Rep. Melvin Laird of Wisconsin is the Republican party's most vigorous economizer — except when he smells pork.

Recently Rep. Laird has smelled about $200 million worth of pork in the appropriation of the Food and Drug Administration, which needs a laboratory to test new medicines and drugs in its job of protecting the public. Food and Drug wanted this laboratory located in Beltsville, Md., near its main office in the capital, so doctors would be immediately available for tests and conferences.

However, Rep. Laird smelled pork To capture that pork he inserted in the appropriation bill of the Health, Education and Welfare Department, parent of Food and Drug, a very neat amendment. It stated that the new FDA lab could not be located within a 50-mile radius of Washington. This eliminated Beltsville, Md.

WHEREUPON it was mysteriously but conveniently decided to locate the Food and Drug lab in Madison, Wisconsin.

In return, the Department of HEW received Laird's help in putting its appropriation through the House of Representatives. The bill, one of the biggest of any civilian agency, passed by a voice vote and no cuts from the usually economy-conscious Congressman from Wisconsin.

Madison is an attractive Midwest city and the up-and-coming University of Wisconsin is located there. However, it will cost the taxpayers $5,400,000 more to construct the lab in Madison. It will also cost the taxpayers additional travel and expenses between Madison and Washington, plus the added expense of communications—and this will continue every year.

This aroused Rep. L. H. Fountain, D-N.C. He expressed concern. The GOP Congressman from Wisconsin chuckled.

"I put in a similar 50-mile restriction for the Federal Environments Health Center last year at the request of Congressman Fountain and the entire North Carolina delegation," he said. "That $50 million health center in now being built in North Carolina.

"I assume, until proven otherwise, that our two Wisconsin Senators have some influence in the Senate," continued Laird. "But if they don't keep it in, I'll be on the conferees appointed to compromise differences between the House and Senate versions of the bill, and I will insist on the 50-mile provision.

"That lab is going to be built in Madison. There's no question about it, no problem at all," said Rep. Laird with a broad smile.

WHEN PRESIDENT Rene Barrientos of Bolivia announced that the mystery man of Cuba, Che Guevara, was directing guerrilla forces in the Bolivian mountains, the story was discounted. However, U.S. military intelligence has now also reported that Fidel Castro's right-hand man is in the Bolivian mountains leading about 100 well - equipped troops highly trained in guerrilla fighting.

For about five years the whereabouts of Che Guevara was a mystery. He disappeared from Cuba, and some intelligence experts figured he was dead. They even speculated that he had been murdered by Fidel Castro.

Can Polls Influence National Policy?

By TOM TIEDE

(First of Two Parts)

NEW YORK (NEA) — There are 1,500 folks in the nation who next week may change the course of battle in Vietnam, who next year may influence legislation on homosexuality, who next year may abort the hopes of an entire political party.

Not congressmen or generals, but just folks.

One may be a night shift waitress in Fargo, N.D., another a Negro bootblack in Sacramento, Calif., and a third the town drunk in Green Bay, Wis.

In all, they are the Gallup Poll, adult American civilians 21 years and over who, for 32 years, have acted as the collective conscience of the land . . . and whose prolific pronouncements have altered more strategic decisions than any of them know.

A few weeks ago, as example, Gallup's 1,500 felt President Johnson had handled the Middle East war and Glassboro summit conference well enough to rate eight additional percentage points of national public support. Immediately after, 18 Democratic governors endorsed the more popular LBJ as their 1968 Presidential choice.

Coincidence or not? You can get arguments either way.

THE IMPORTANT thing is that there is room for argument at all. That there is even the slightest possibility that 1,500 people can influence anything so major. That, therefore, some men truly believe 1,500 people can speak for all America.

One man, George Gallup, obviously believes they can. Now 66 and still daily active in his Institute for Public Opinion, Gallup insists that a few "carefully selected" individuals can act as accurate spokesmen for the population as a whole.

The trick, he explains, is "careful" selection.

Here's how his system works:

The Gallup survey (called a "modified probability sample") slices the nation into four major and eight minor geographical areas. Cities in these regions are bracketed as to population. From this map, 300 "sample points" are chosen at random.

Part-time field employes are hired in the sample areas. According to Gallup, the employes have no freedom of choice, but receive all orders from the home office — when to survey, what to survey, where to survey, whom to survey, how to survey.

On a given assignment, each employe interviews five people.

The people are selected according to eight demographic categories, including race, religion, age, occupation, etc. Gallup says care is taken to include people from all walks of life . . . even the town drunk in Green Bay.

Certain types, however, are excluded from the polling. Inhabitants of prisons, hospitals, hotels, religious and educational institutions are not questioned. Neither are people under 21.

Field employes are provided routes and on each assignment are instructed exactly where to begin ("corner of Elm and Jefferson"). They are also obliged to obtain specific subject patterns . . . all men, say, or three men and two women.

Each interview is then held in the home.

Participants are asked several questions. If one household refuses to respond, the interviewer continues on his pre-determined search until he has his quota of five co-operating residents. The interviws usually take approximately a half hour.

Gallup assignments are normally completed in five days. Results are tabulated at the home office and distributed to nearly 120 newspapers by mail. Speed is critical because breaking news can often dramatically color public opinion.

And that's it.

Does it work? Is it valid? Gallup officials have no doubt. Says a spokesman: "When we total up the race, religion and other background data of our participants, we find that it very closely approximates the national census statistics.

"That is, if the census has determined the nation is 66 per cent Protestant, we find that 66 per cent of our participants are usually Protestant. I think this indicates that we are sampling a remarkably accurate crosssection of the population."

According to Gallup that town drunk in Green Bay represents about 150,000 American opinions . . . and such a fact summons up any number of intriguing possibilities.

Tomorrow we may all read that we are in favor of government-subsidized booze.

Secrecy Rules in Locating Navy Center

From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — As chairman of the House Armed Services Investigating Subcommittee, Rep. Porter Hardy Jr. has always been a tiger in fighting unnecessary Pentagon secrecy.

But Hardy has been transformed into a soft-stepping pussycat as chairman of a special subcommittee dealings with a matter of great interest to three of his California colleagues and their constituents.

In this latter role, Hardy has done his best to make opaque his group's investigation of a Navy proposal to relocate a vital research facility — the Naval Undersea Warfare Center — now situated in Pasadena.

The dapper Virginia Democrat last month was named head of a three-man committee to look into conflicting claims on whether the center would best be left in Pasadena, moved to Orange County as urged by the Navy or relocated in San Diego.

Since then, Hardy has conducted the committee's business in a manner that would do credit to the most secretive of Pentagon bureaucrats.

First Hardy held a closed-door session with the Navy, which might be defended on grounds that much of what the facility is and will be doing is highly classified.

But then Hardy held another session at which his committee heard the positions of Reps. H. Allen Smith, R-Glendale; Richard T. Hanna, D-Huntington Beach, and Bob Wilson, R-San Diego, each of whom wants the center located in his district.

BAXTER OMOHUNDRO

Each of the congressmen was heard separately and in private.

Then the Hardy committee last week visited the Southern California areas in contention and again scheduled separate, private conferences.

Hardy has also indicated that he doesn't intend to hold any sort of an open hearing on the matter, so that the first direct information on what his subcommittee has seen and heard won't come until he submits a report to the full committee.

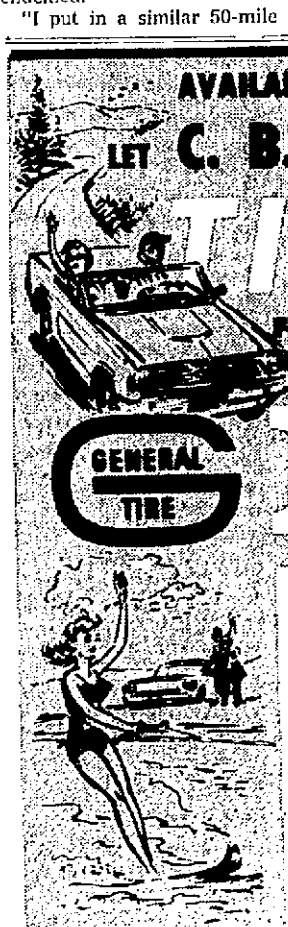

Thus the people most interested in the entire controversy have no way of knowing for sure what the other sides have told the committee and would have no effective way of attempting to refute contentions made by the others.

Hardy seems to be conducting his investigation in secrecy to avoid the possibility of stringent confrontations between the principals — particularly the congressmen involved — even though this would presume that these people are unable to comport themselves with dignity in arguing the merits of their case.

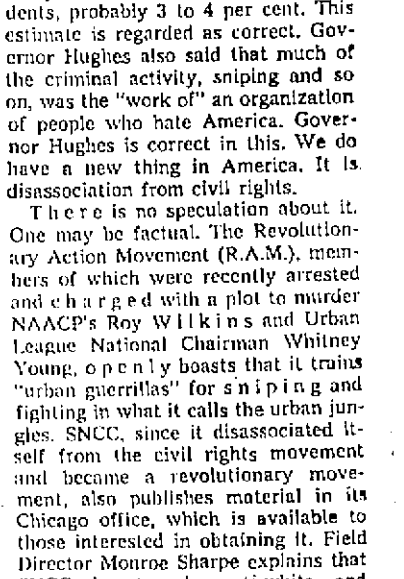

One of the unfortuante aspects of conducting public business in this manner is that it tends to give rise to ugly rumors, such as that Hardy may already have made up his mind on the case and would therefore just as soon not have the record as open as possible.

Those who know Hardy as an honorable and dedicated public servant are, of course, unable to believe such a thing.

REGIMENTED? NOT A BIT, say these female employes at Belmont Savings and Loan Association. Company-provided uniforms saves girls on clothing expenses, solves problem of what to wear to work.

Gal Bank Tellers Issued Uniforms

By DAVID SHAW

Men working for several Southland financial institutions are doing more work but enjoying it less these days.

They are looking at the right figures during office hours — the figures on deposit slips and in pass books instead of those in dresses and skirts.

Gone are the clerks and tellers who came wiggling provocatively to work in skin-tight miniskirts, clinging sweaters and dresses with plunging necklines. They have been replaced by the Don Loper ideal — the businesswoman tastefully attired in a trim, custom-made suit of conservative design and color.

Gradually and quietly, over the past few years, many banks and savings and loan associations have informed their women employes they could not longer wear their own clothes to work.

"We'll be giving you custom suits," the executives have said. "You'll have two suits (or three or four, depending on the institution). Every week, you will all wear one color suit. The next week, you'll all wear another color."

Reaction to the suits among many male tellers has generally drifted through three stages — from smug wisecracks ("What airline do you work for, honey?"), to acceptance ("the women concentrate more on their work when they aren't strutting around in sexy outfits trying to impress the men — and each other").

REACTION AMONG the women has varied from enthusiastic approval to scornful rejection.

At Newport-Balboa Savings and Loan, where Miss Agnes Bloomquist, the president, started the custom suit trend 13 years ago, the women think their outfits are the greatest thing since rubber-tipped bobby pins.

"I figure I save $500 a year on clothes this way," says Jean Hand, 26. "The suits are very stylish, and I like mine so much, I'll often wear the jacket with capris or the skirt with a different blouse when I'm out of the office."

Arlene Holenbeck, 29, says the suits are "marvelous."

"I'm lazy. I don't like to get up every morning and think about what I want to wear. Half the time, I have to clean or press something at the last minute. Now I know I'm going to wear the suit, so I always have it ready."

Don't the girls resent the regimentation, the submerging of their individual personalities?

"Not at all," says receptionist Rosemary Bristol. "We can wear whatever white blouses we want and we can vary our other accessories as much as we want. Of course, we don't have to wear the suits if we don't want to. It's strickly voluntary."

The suits at Newport-Balboa generally cost $100 to $120 each — wholesale. The company splits the cost with the girls, and the girls pay for the cleaning.

They get two suits a year and may keep the old ones for personal use. The suits — the 60 women are now wearing a blue checked jacket and Navy blue skirt and a checked skirt with Navy blue jacket — are selected by Paul Palmer, chairman of the board.

"We had the employes pick them at first, but there was so much disagreement that Palmer said, 'I'll be the suit committee from now on,'" Miss Bloomquist recalls.

REACTION TO THE tailored suits has generally been as favorable at Newport National Bank — where a former Newport-Balboa employe, Margaret Collins, instituted the program — as at Newport-Balboa itself — even though the suits are compulsory at Newport National.

Says George Woodford, president of Newport-National:

"Three employes pick out the suits and they all wear them."

Suits are also a condition of employment at Belmont Savings and Loan Association — where the company pays the total purchase price and the weekly cleaning bill.

"The women like them and so do the executives," says William Davis, vice president. "The customers get the impression of orderliness and efficency when th ewomen all dress alike and smartly."

Outside the Long Beach area, the suits have been far less successful.

A Beverly Hills savings and loan association surprised its women employes with an order to begin wearing the suits, effective immediately, and the resulting uproar shook the office vaults. Two women quit. Several others threatened to quit. Many flatly refused to wear the suits.

They objected to being robbed of the pleasure of selecting a dress in the morning, then flinging it impulsively aside and yanking another out of the closet at the last minute.

The resentment at that institution subsided in time, but officials at another association — Huntington Park First Savings — encountered so many objections, they finally abandoned the suit plan.

Robert Lynch, who gave women at his four branches the choice of wearing suits or not, said he had hoped to discourage women from wearing low cut dresses, cocktail gowns and other inappropriate apparel to work.

"They just didn't like the idea of the suits, though. No matter what we said, no matter how attractive the suits were, no matter how much money the women saved, the women thought of them as uniforms, and they insisted on choosing and wearing their own clothes," Lynch said.

HAS LYNCH OR ANY other savings and loan officials considered asking the men to wear the same custom suits every day?

"It's not necessary," he says. "They all wear suits, dark ones, already. They look uniform."

But there's more to it.

"The men would never stand for it. Too many of them were in the armed forces. They'd quit before they'd wear a uniform again."

Lynch was in the service, too. Doesn't he sympathize with the men — and women —who dislike uniforms?

"Not at all," he sayd. "I was an officer, a captain. I've always liked uniforms."

Sea Festival Featuring an Air Show

The 11 a.m. start can be best viewed from Belmont Pier. The boats will then speed northward to a turnaround marker off Pt. Vincente and make a high speed run past the end of the pier enroute to the finish line off Shelter Island in San Diego.

FINISH HENNESSY CUP RACE—Aug. 16.

The first boats are expected to cross the finish line off Belmont Pier at approximately 1 p.m.

The race is sponsored by the Pacific Offshore Power Boat Racing Association with sanction of the APBA.

WORLD SAILBOAT SPEED RECORD TRY—Aug. 17 to 18.

An attempt will be made to establish for the first time the world's official sailing speed record.

Vying for the honor will be some of the fastest catamarans and trimarans to be found on either coast.

The speedy multi-hulled craft will sail through timing traps to be set up along the east face of Pier J.

WORLD MULTI-HULL CHAMPIONSHIPS—Aug. 19 to 20.

This unique regatta for catamarans and trimarans will pit the world's fastest sailing craft in a series of handicap races.

The Long Beach Yacht Club will host the races which are sponsored by the Pacific Multi-Hull Association.

Scheduled for the bigger boats is an overnight race around San Clemente Island.

For the smaller craft there will be races around a triangular course outside the breakwater

INTERNATIONAL SABOT REGATTA—Aug. 17 to 20

The regatta, sponsored by the Alamitos Bay Yacht Club, is expected to draw several hundred entries including some from Australia.

Although the one-man boats are only eight feet long the blunt-nosed prams are on the world's most popular sailboats.

The races, to be conducted inside Alamitos Bay, are expected to draw large crowds of spectators since the races can be viewed from either side of the bay's wandering shoreline.

Classes will include A and B Juniors, Senoirs, and Saboteers. The races are open to any member of recognized yacht or sailing clubs.

NATIONAL DRAG BOAT CHAMPIONSHIPS—Aug. 18-20

More than 300 powerful dragsters, some capable of reaching 170 miles per hour in a quarter of a mile, will be gunning for new world speed records during the three-day series of races. Qualifying runs will be conducted from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. in Marine Stadium the first two days. Eliminations and Record Runs will be held from noon until 6 p.m. on the final day of the APBA-sanctioned event.

BELMONT SHORE-NAPLES AQUATIC MEET—Aug. 20.

The meet includes a variety of swimming events to cap the Sea Festival's Aloha Days celebration.

Highlights of the event is a three-mile swim around Naples Island.

All action will take place in Alamitos Bay along Bayshore Drive from noon until 4 p.m.

The Belmont Shore-Naples swim meet is the final event of the first stage of the summer Sea Festival.

Events scheduled during the second half, Oct. 14 to 22 include the offshore powerboat race between Long Beach and San Francisco, the Douglas Cup Regatta, featuring some of the top collegiate sailing teams, an Outboard Poker Run for pleasure boaters, a Sea Scout Regatta, and a two-day sailing regatta for boats ranging from eight-foot Sabots to 50 footers.

Due to Give Church Show

The Vocal Arts Ensemble, directed by Frank Allen, head of the choral department at stanford Junior High, will present a program of 16th century music tonight at 8 in St. Luke's Episcopal Church, Atlantic Avenue and Seventh Street.

The ensemble is composed of professionally trained singers, many of whom have sung with the Roger Wabner Master Chorale and with Robert Shaw. A chamber orchestra will support apart of the program.

The public is invited to the concert and a reception following. An offering will be taken to defray costs. Child care will be provided.

Balloon Pump Aids in Heart Failures

EVERETT, Mass. (UPI) — A pump to give an immediate boost to victims of heart failure was announced Saturday by an Everett laboratory.

Dr. Arthur Kantrowitz, director of the Avco Everett Research Laboratory and a vice president of Avco Corp., said the new device, called an intra-aortic pump (IAP), acts to lessen the work load of the heart by using a balloon to lower the pressure in the arteries into which the heart pumps the body's blood.

Noting that no successful clinical trials have been reported with previous balloon pumps, Dr. Kantowitz said, "The results we have had wtih the device using experimental animals have been most promising and we are hopeful that our experience and background in fluid dynamics will enable us to perfect a system suitable for human use."

Avco's IAP is a ballon 10 inches long and three-quarters of an inch in diameter, with a thin glass tube running down the center.

* * * *

THE BALLOON is inserted into the femoral artery of the thigh and then threaed into the aorta, the major artery leading from the heart and connecting with the femoral artery.

As the heart begins to relax after a pumping stroke, the balloon expands and forces blood through the body. Back pressure forces blood into the arteries of the heart itself, while the heart valve prevents blood from re-entering the heart.

The heart begins to contract for the next pumping stroke and the balloon collapses, creating an area of low pressure into which the heart can easily empty blood.

The pumping cycle is controlled by electrical impulses of the heart muscle transmitted through electrodes attached to the skin.

The IAP was developed in cooperation with Drs. W. Gerald Austen and Mortimer J. Buckley of Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston and the Harvard Medical School.

Dr. Kantrowitz said the National Heart Institute had awarded the laboratory two contracts totaling $338,000 for study of blood flow and its relation to clotting and red cell damage, and for further development of the IAP using experimental animals in cooperation with Massachusetts General Hospital.

Vocational Nurse Class to Graduate

The first class of 12 licensed vocational nurses will be graduated from Los Altos Hospital, 3340 Los Coyotes Diagonal, on Aug. 25, according to Sanford H. Kaplan, administrator.

Dr. Stewart C. Sale of the hospital medical staff will be the speaker at the commencement in Golden West Restaurant.

A new class will be formed. Interested persons should call the Vocational Nursing School of California.

Graduating nurses are: Mrs. Frances Carter, Bellflower; Mrs. Patricia Dunkin, Norwalk; Mrs. Selma Gaffey, Long Beach; Miss Hanna Klemm, Inglewood; Miss Maureen Llywelyn, Cypress; Miss Denise Landerville, Torrance; Mrs. Virginia McManus, Hawthorne; Miss Beth Messersmith, La Mirada; Mrs. Mary Alice Rubben, Cypress; Miss Armida Smith, Gardena; Miss Rosalie Sutherland, Hawthorne; Mrs. Catherine Wagner, Long Beach.

History Covered From Bikeway

NEW YORK (UPI) — A rolling testimony to the energy and imagination of one man is newly-opened Eastham, Mass. Bikeway, one of the nation's quaintest and shortest—2½ miles, the Bicycle Institute of America reports.

The historical bikeway brainchild of Frederick Jewell, 70 and curator of the Eastham Historical Society, has as sights a 1869 one-room schoolhouse, an Audubon Bird Sanctuary, Nauset Lighthouse, the town's hospitality center and a youth hostel.

Tracker Planes Weird

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — In the United States' next manned space flight, a fleet of the oddest-looking planes ever built will keep constant track of America's spaceship.

Douglas Aircraft Co. is remodeling the eight planes, converted C-135s, at Tulsa to eliminate a voice communications lag which now occurs when the capsules pass out of contact briefly with ground reporting stations. Work on the $27.3 million job is nearly done, with the fleet to be delivered to the Air Force in December.

What makes the huge planes strange appearing is a large disc-shaped antenna for tracking a spacecraft and locking onto it for transmission and reception of voice communication.

* * * *

IN ADDITON, the planes will provide broad general test range support to Department of Defense programs. Airborne equipment will receive, record and retransmit telemetry data as well as the voice commands from spacecraft or missiles to ground stations.

Four of the planes also will carry a lightweight optical tracking system for obtaining engineering sequential photographs of missiles during re-entry separation and staging, and possibly during re-entry.

Four of the planes will be in the air at all times during the space flight, with the others on standby.

One plane, first to be remodeled, was tested during the Gemini-12 flight. Douglas officials say the test was a complete success.

Red Chinese Says U.S. May Invade

TOKYO (AP) — Red China's foreign minister, Chen Yi, was quoted Saturday as saying there is a possibility — for which "our country is fully prepared" — of the United States extending the Vietnam war into China.

Boat Buffs Also Become Litterbugs

NEW YORK (UPI) — The shoreline looks lovely from the middle of the lake when you're on a boat. It's not quite so nice for the people on shore. They have a view of leftovers carelessly tossed overboard by boaters. Join the Keep America Beautiful movement. Keep waterways as well as highways clean.

FORECAST FOR MONDAY

ARIES (March 21 - April 19): Recognize limitations — your chance to succeed enhanced. Means take practical view. Avoid self-deception. Behind scenes activity stressed. Look beyond surface indications.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20): Be perceptive. Someone may be trying to give you a message. Read between lines. Piece together bits of information. Make use of intuitive intellect.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20): Avoid creating motor disturbance. You may assume role of leadership without upsetting previous advances. Gain friends through understanding attitude. Don't cast first stone.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22): Check details. Study Taurus message. Today, only successful approach is thorough one. Don't take persons for granted. Messages should be studied, answered. Be courteous.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22): Interest in unusual subjects comes to fore. Give full play to intellectual curiosity. Don't be discouraged by minor setback. Mostly situation due to be clarified. Welcome a change.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22): Follow through on promises, legal agreements. Emphasis today on marriage, partnerships, public relations. Keep check on valuables. Please one close to you with gift.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22): Concentrate on performing basic tasks. Finish little things — big ones take care of themselves. Key is to maintain steady pace.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21): Be generous without being extravagant. Spotlight on children, creative endeavors. Complicated situation turns in your favor. Give your all — success shines through cloud.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21): Face facts as they exist. Some who come to you for advice only want to hear one side. Realize this. Don't become involved. Family, home, concrete matters demand attention.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): Emphasis on ideas, visits, dealings with neighbors, relatives. Stress independence of thought, action. Follow through on creative projects. Be original. Lead rather than follow.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18): Spotlight on money, possession. Be receptive. If open to suggestions, day could be profitable. Don't jump at first offer. Give careful consideration to all.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20): Join forces with one whose sincerity is evident. Judgment is accurate today. New contacts are favored. Start things. Take initiative. Obtain hint from Capricorn message.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are loyal to family, capable of inspiring confidence. You make fine personnel director. You are able to help people find their niche in life.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for Pisces, Aries. Special word to Virgo: accent family harmony. Avoid domestic squabbles.

LEARNING WOODMANSHIP

Bruce Wilson, assistant executive of Dan Beard Boy Scout District, point out the right way to sharpen an axe for boys participating in a new program to acquaint non-Scouts with the advantages of Scout at Camp Tahquitz in Angeles Forest. Boys in the front, from left, are Mike Parks, 10 and Kenny Washington, 13. Observing in the rear, from left, are Ralph Esquer, 11, and Hentry Braithwaite, 10.

NON-MEMBERS WELCOME

Boy Scouts and Friends Go to Camp Together

Among the 2,000 Long Beach area Boy Scouts pitching tent this summer at Camp Tahquitz in the San Bernardino Mountains are a dozen young non-scout guests coping on equal terms with the mysteries of the great outdoors.

The 12 boys are the first group selected to participate in a new Long Beach Scout Council program to extend camping experience to youngsters who might otherwise never learn about scouting.

In industry, the pilot program might be termed sales promotion. The difference in the Long Beach Scout Council experiment is that the boys are under no obligation to join the scouts.

"Our main purpose is to promote a better understanding of scouting among all boys in the area," explained Bob Coulter, executive of the Dan Beard District, one of the five in the Long Beach Council.

"We know the boys in the first contingent will spread the word among their friends," said Coulter. "Next year we hope to expand the program to as many as 100 non-scouts."

* * * *

WITH FINANCIAL support from Long Beach United Crusade funds, the Scout Council now serves 8,000 boys throughout the five scout districts of the Long Beach Area.

"We know there are many boys in these areas who would be interested in scouting if they had the opportunity to see what it is all about," Coulter said. "The guest camping program helps us to reach these boys."

Under the program, the guest scouts provide only their own clothing and blankets. All other camping needs are furnished from council supplies normally used for National Scout Jamboree excursions.

The Long Beach Boy Scout Council campsite at Barton Flats in the Angeles National Forest offers ample facilities for hiking, swimming and other outdoor activity. Two more camps equal in size to Camp Tahquitz are planned in the same area for future expansion.

Bruce Wilson, assistant executive of the Dan Beard District, is in charge of the boys roughing it this year in mufti. Dick Smith, assistant commissioner of the Donner District (North Long Beach) assists as counselor.

* * * *

THE BOYS sleep on the ground, two to a tent, the same as the uniformed scouts. They also encounter experiences common to all tenderfoot scouts the first day in camp.

"First we put up the tent," recounted Leonard Jones, 11 who shared sleeping quarters with Kenny Widman, 10, another guest scout. "Then we put it up a couple more times. Maybe it'll stay up now.

"This morning I scraped both my knees and wrenched my ankle on the obstacle course. We just had a hike in the woods and Kenny caught a pollywog in a pond.

"Now we're waiting to go swimming in the pool. Oh, boy!"

Leonard speaks for each of the 12 youngsters attending camp for the first time. Your United Crusade dollars support the Boy Scouts of America plus 32 other local United Way Agencies and the Red Cross in the Long Beach area.

Orange County Fair Set for Big Opening Tuesday

The annual Orange County Fair with its rodeos, exhibits, carnivals, flower shows and celebrities will open Tuesday at the Costa Mesa Fairgrounds.

The 1967 fair, billed as the biggest ever, will get off to sparkling start with selection of the Aloha Queen who will reign over the six-day program.

TWENTY COUNTY beauties will compete for the title during ceremonies Tuesday at 2:30 and 8 p.m.

TV Star Pat Buttram will head up the variety show scheduled to go along with the contest in the fair's Amphitheatre.

For the small fry, there will be a Kiddie Carousel with clowns and fun three times a day — 3, 5 and 7 p.m. There will also be dances every evening for county teens.

Amateur entertainers will get their chance for exposure during the daily two hour Talent Showcare scheduled for 1 p.m. in the Aloha Go-Go Tent.

Thursday will be Senior Citizens Day at the fair, with a specially-scheduled jamboree for them set for 1 p.m. in the amphitheatre.

There will be four horse shows scheduled for the first two days of the fair as well as sxhibits of livestock, farm and home projects.

The championship rodeo is ready for Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Veteran Harry Macres will be doing the flower show again this year in the fair's new Floriculture Building.

UP, UP AND AWAY says Debbie Morrell of Tustin as she takes her mount over a hurdle in preparation for the Orange County Junior Horse Show to be held in tandem with the Orange County Fair opening Tuesday in Costa Mesa.

McNulty Heads Water Commission

Robert McNulty, president of Diamond Cab Co., has been elected president of the Long Beach Water Commission.

He succeeds Glen A. Gerken who was completing his second term as president. Gerken, first named to the commission in 1958, previously served as president in 1961-62.

Robert M. Mulvey, president of Ace Blue Print Co., was elected commission vice president, succeeding McNulty.

Mrs. Helen Penland, secretary to the Water Department general manager, was named commission secretary, marking her 21st year in that job.

Both McNulty and Mulvey were first appointed to the water commission in 1965 to compete unexpired terms of members then retiring. McNulty was reappointed earlier this month to a full five-year term.

McNulty is also a member of the city's Armed Services Commission and formerly served on the Civil Service Commission.

Girls' Club Gets $500

It's usually harder to get the first $500, but it was easy for the Buena Park Girls' Club. The money was donated this week by Allen S. Parkinson, who founded and heads the Movieland Wax Museum at Buena Park.

Mrs. Wallace Bagley, president of the Girls' Club board of 20 directors, accepted the check from Parkinson and pledged that it will go for the organization's first permanent home.

A city-wide drive for funds to provide a clubhouse for the girls will be launched.

Meanwhile, the organization moved into a city-acquired house at 7951 Court St., which will serve as interim home headquarters.

The Buena Park Girls' Club "almost" got $30,000 before it organized. A benefactor pledged $30,000 to start one, but he succumbed before the bequest was made. However, Mrs. Wesley Liesch had organized a committee and the Girls' Club was created formally Feb. 14, 1966, with a membership of 93 girls between ages of 6 and 16.

Court Collections Show Hike

Collections by the Long Beach Municipal Court increased $237,375, or 8.5 per cent over last year, according to the annual report released by Robert N. Hovard, clerk of the court.

During the 1966-67 fiscal year, a total of $3,015,371 was collected, including all fines and fees; during the preceding fiscal year $2,777,995 was collected, Hovard said.

The toal number of cases filed, both criminal and civil, increased 6,500 or 2.4 per cent, over the preceding year, the report said. During this last fiscal year, 276,543 cases were filed; during the year before, 270,043 cases wee filed.

THE AVERAGE CASE load figure per employe — the device used by the county's chief administrative officer to figure efficiency—was 717.93, Hovard said, compared to 734.82 for the preceding year. The desired average is 600.

Of the total money collected during the year, $2,758,256 collected in fines and fees was distributed to various government agencies and funds.

The City of Long Beach received $1,865,385 from fines, compared with $1,793,575 the preceding fiscal year. The City of Signal Hill received $60,343 in fines, compared to $65,167 the preceding year.

THE STATE of California received $24,250 levied as penalty assessments for police training, compared to $27,729 the preceding year; $292,919 levied as penalty assessments for driver education, compared to $209,535 the preceding year, in addition to $3,566 in fines, compared to $1,659 the preceding year.

The number of cases filed in all seven categories increased during the year. The exceptions were civil filings, which dropped from 5,457 during 1965-66, to 5,165 during 1966-67 and misdemeanors which dropped from 11,896 during 1965-66 to 11,483 during 1966-67.

The number of Small Claims Court filings increased from 6,522 in 1965-66 to 6,716 in 1966-67; 1,440 felonies were filed during 1966-67, compared to 1,389 in 1965-66; moving traffic violations increased from 85,044 in 1965-66 to 86,474 in 1966-67; parking citations increased from 158,090 to 161,871, and other vehicle code violations increased from 1,645 to 3,394.

Two innovations in procedure begun earlier this year were called "most successful" by Hovard in his report. One is the assigning of Municipal Court judges to hear Superior Court cases, and the other is using only one panel of jurors for both Municipal and Superior Courts.

Municipal Court judges heard 31 Superior Court cases from March 15, when the procedure began, until June 31, saving 298 hours of Superior Court time.

Using a single panel of jurors for both Municipal and Superior Courts, enabled the Municipal Court to hold jury trials every court day of the week, rather than just the one day available prior to the procedure.

Part of the increase in collections during the past fiscal year, Hovard said, was due to the legislature increasing the filing fee for small claims suit from $1.00 to $1.50 and the civil complaints filing fee from $9 to $11.

This money, amounting to $10,466, goes directly into the County Property Tax Reduction Fund.

The Legislature also increased the driver education penalty, levied on traffic violations to support driver education classes from $2 to $3.

Chamber Praises L.B. Police

The Board of Directors of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce this week adopted a resolution praising the Police Department for establishing an office of Community Relations.

The resolution specifically gave the seven-point program of the new office its blessing.

The Community Relations office was established to increase liason between minority groups and the department and to develop a human relations program in the department.

Mideast War Report Due in Seal Beach

An eyewitness report on the recent Mideast War will be presented Tuesday, 7:30 p.m. at Seal Beach Leisure World by Herb Brin, publisher of a chain of Jewish-American newspapers in California.

Brin, recently returned from Israel, also covered the Eichmann trial, and the Kennedy-Khrushchev summit meeting in Paris.

The meeting, open to all in the community, is sponsored by the Leisure World B'nai B'rith Lodge. It will be held in Clubhouse 3.

TOOL & DIE MAKERS • MOLDED PLASTIC BUILDERS

— TOOL DESIGNERS —

TOOL DESIGN ENGINEERS
Requires extensive background in the aerospace industry in forms engaged in the tooling and manufacturers of large airframes. Must be capable of layout of all types of convential tooling and have the ability to direct other designers through finalization of design.

SENIOR TOOL DESIGNERS
Must be capable to design all types of aircraft tooling with minimum information and instruction. Be knowledgeable of all machine equipment used in modern aerospace machine shop. Aircraft tool design experience required with machine shop or tool maker back ground required.

TOOL DESIGNERS
A minimum of 3 years' active experience in the detailing and design of airframe tooling required. Previous experience in assembly tool fabrication or machine shop desirable.

TOOL and OPERATION PLANNERS SENIOR

FABRICATION
Perform original planning of tools required and specify operational sequence for the production of the more complex sheet metal parts involving compound angles, complex contours, deep draws, requiring several stages of forming operations to fabricate.

ASSEMBLY
Perform original planning of tools required and specify operational sequences for the production of major assemblies and sub-assemblies such as wing, fuselage, empennage, control surfaces, doors, landing gear, etc.

MACHINED PARTS
Perform original planning of tools required and specify operation sequences for production.

TOOL FABRICATION

PLANNERS
Must have Business Administration degree or equivalent experience, plus working knowledge of aircraft tooling, with technical capability to perform tool sequencing and shop loading coordination. Must be tool-shop oriented and have ability to effectively coordinate between tool fabrication groups.

ASSISTANT PLANNERS
Must have a minimum of 2 years college with majors in Business Administration or Industrial Engineering, to perform manpower analysis and planning and the attendant function of cost control within tool fabrication organizations.

MANUFACTURING LIAISON

ENGINEER
To investigate all types of production and tooling problems—routine and complex—determine true cause of failure and initiate expedited corrective action. Technical capability to isolate errors relevent to Design Engineering, Master Lofting, Tool Design, Tool Fab., Planning, etc., is required. Must have a working knowledge relevant to complex sheet metal forming, precision machining, subassembly and final assembly of major aircraft components.
Two (2) years' College—Engineering or Math Major and five (5) years' related experience are required.

All-electric apartments from $80 per month!

Why rent anything but a Flameless All-Electric Gold Medallion Apartment when it's so easy to afford today!

The Gold Medallion Award tells you your new apartment is completely flameless—the easiest ever to care for—and fully equipped for the best of living.

Enjoy flameless electric heating—more comfort than you've ever known. Clean and quiet as sunshine too. Helps furnishing, drapes, carpets stay bright and new for longer.

Flameless electric water heating — the carefree way to have hot water instantly—without a hot, burning pilot light.

A modern all-electric kitchen—the cleanest and coolest!

Full "Housepower" wiring with all the circuits and outlets you'll ever need.

Fully insulated for maximum soundproofing, comfort and economy.

Move in now to cleaner, quieter, easier living in an all-electric apartment.

★ BE SAFE WITH PROFESSIONAL CARE—DEAL WITH A REALTOR ★

Right-Priced Property is Selling . . .

SEE A REALTOR!

He'll Save You Trouble!

Selling or buying a home can be a complicated business . . . and sometimes business and friendship don't mix! Don't risk losing a friend! Sell your home — or buy a new one — through a Realtor. He's a professional who'll smooth over all the details.

He'll Save You Headaches!

Can you imagine taking time off to sell or buy a home the "do-it-yourself" way? That's where the headaches come in. A Realtor is the specialist with training and professionalism regardless of your needs.

He'll Save You Steps!

A Realtor will save your valuable time and use up his own "shoe leather" to locate the kind of a home you need for your family . . . and at the price you want to pay.

Homes Are Not Getting Cheaper

Because of the steady influx of people into the Long Beach area homes are in great demand. Rising material and labor costs indicate that homes will not get any cheaper. All this means that now is the time to buy — you'll not buy any cheaper in the foreseeable future. Your Realtor is the one person who knows your needs, and is the one who will go "all out" to help you with your Real Estate transaction.

WEEK IN REVIEW

Racial Strife Plaguing the United States

THE NATION

Racial strife plagued the United States last week, with rioting in Newark reaching the grimmest toll since the 1965 Watts uprising in Los Angeles.

Shooting, looting and burning came to an end by Monday. Then Newark began to reckon the riot's cost; 26 dead, more than 1,200 injured, 1,316 arrested and more than $15 million in property damage.

Violence also cropped up in several other cities. From Newark, fighting spread to Plainfield, N.J., where a Negro mob beat, kicked and then shot to death a white policeman. Lesser violence was reported in Montclair and Jersey City and in Nyack, N.Y.

On Thursday, National Guardsmen were called to Durham, N.C., after two Negro men were shot, not seriously, as the city prepared for a meeting Thursday night on open housing and other social reforms. City officials said Friday that every effort was being made to meet the demands in a 72-hour ultimatum delivered by Negroes for improvements.

* * * *

NATIONAL GUARDSMEN were called out, too, in Minneapolis to quell a three-day outbreak of violence and vandalism. Gov. Harold LeVander acted minutes after Mayor Arthur Naftalin appealed to him for troops to prevent a series of disturbances becoming an "armed confrontation . . ."

A rash of fires, rock-throwing incidents and muscle-flexing between police and Negroes led to the calling of the Guard. Arrival of the National Guard troops was marked by a fire at a Catholic Church and school. Investigators late Friday night said they were unable to determine if the blaze was connected to the week's racial strife.

New Jersey's problems spread Friday night to Englewood where police officers were pelted with stones and store windows were smashed. City officials there termed the disturbances "minor," but policemen who were stoned, were inclined to disagree.

* * * *

A WILDLY CHEERING CROWD of black power advocates Friday night greeted the announcement that there is a plan to recall Newark mayor Hugh Addonizio.

Floyd McKissick, national director of CORE, told a night rally that stood time and time again to roar its approval:

"Too long white elected officials have . . . been immune from the wrath of the black population . . . We have consulted with the progressive black leaders of this community. It is agreed that there must be a recall election to get rid of Hugh Addonizio and replace him with a black mayor."

Mc Kissick said Robert Curvin and James Hooper, both of Newark's CORE chapter, will spearhead the task, and a black conference will choose "one black candidate who will be Newark's next mayor."

Ken Gibson, a Negro candidate for mayor in the last election promptly took the microphone to say he volunteered his services and would abide by the community's decision.

Negro comedian Dick Gregory, who also pleaded for the mayor's recall, said only 25,000 signatures are needed for such an election. Newark's population of 400,000 is more than half Negro.

THE APPOINTMENT, by President Lyndon B. Johnson of Simon McHugh, who married a White House secretary, to a $500-a-week job led to a demand that Congress abolish the Subversive Activities Control Board.

The apparent theory: If you can't take the man out of the job, take the job out from under the man.

The abolition call came from Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who said the board McHugh joined Monday — with Senate approval — is "a ridiculous extravaganza."

The board has virtually nothing to do, Proxmire said. "The job itself is a sinecure," he said, "the compensation of $26,000 is for doing little or nothing, the board had its last formal meeting some six months ago."

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., tried a different approach. He proposed that the Senate ask the White House to return McHugh's confirmation papers, then reconsider its action in approving the appointment.

* * * *

NEITHER HIS MOTION, nor the bill proposed by Proxmire, appeared to have much chance of Senate adoption. But the uproar could spell trouble for the Subversive Activities Control Board when the Senate Appropriations Committee takes up a bill containing its allowance for the year ahead.

"Frankly, I don't know what all the hullabaloo is about," said Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana.

The Wall Street Journal started the uproar Thursday with a front page story which said MHugh got the job because of his marriage to Victoria McCammon, once a favorite Johnson secretary.

CLEARING THE STREETS
Helmeted Minneapolis police, armed with shotguns, pass blazing store as they clear street during racial rioting that rocked the Minnesota city last week. Police marched shoulder-to-shoulder to make a path for firemen and to halt looting.

One Democratic source said the White House was anxious to have McHugh's nomination confimed by the Senate before any trouble developed. It was, and McHugh took his oath of office as a board member shortly after the Senate acted.

Board Chairman John W. Mahan said McHugh was sworn into his job Monday. A newsman who visited McHugh's office found it bare except for two vacant desks, some cabinets, and a color photo of President Johnson.

* * * *

MAHAN SAID HE DIDN'T know where McHugh was or when he would report to the office. "I wouldn't be surprised if he's laying low from you fellows," he said.

The board, which is supposed to name Communists, their organizations and front groups, has only one case pending, and this is tied up in the courts until next fall at least.

Supreme Court rulings have undone in large measure the law requiring registration of Communists. SACB findings about individuals and groups were to have been a key step in that operation.

But Sen. Karl E. Mundy, R-S. D., a sponsor of the Internal Security Act which created the board, insisted it still has work to do.

* * * *

"THE COURTS HAVEN'T completely prevented the SACB from doing some reporting work and investigative work," he said. "They still have a service to perform.

"Unless the Supreme Court completes its demolition of the act, I'm in favor of continuing the board," Mundt said.

And if the court does that, Mundt continued, he'll propose a new law.

As for McHugh, Mundt said:

"There's no question why he got the job, but that doesn't necessarily mean he isn't qualified, just because he married a pretty secretary."

WHAT BEGAN AS LOCAL walkouts Sunday halted service on 95 per cent of the country's 216,000 miles of railroad track by Monday.

However, the strike, the biggest since a two-day shut-Congress approved an administration bill blocking any down in 1946, came to a quick end Monday night, after shutdown for 90 days of mediation and then imposing a settlement if no agreement is reached. President Johnson signed the bill about two hours after Congress approved it.

A FEDERAL ACCOUNT of rural poverty was given to Congress by a member of one of the nation's wealthiest families, Jay Rockefeller, now a West Virginia Legislator.

Rockefeller, who spent two years as an antipoverty worker in the West Virginia hollows, said that isolation, poor education and lack of opportunity of the rural poor makes helping them extremely difficult.

"There are no riots, no social action there," he told the House Education and Labor Committee.

"Rural poverty does not present the threat that gets it the attention I think it deserves."

Rockefeller, 30, is a nephew of New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. He became a Democrat and a state assemblyman, with rumored higher political ambitions. His wife, daughter of Sen. Charles H.Percy, R-Ill., accompanied him to the hearing.

SECRETARY OF THE Navy designate John T. McNaughton, his wife, Sarah, and one son, Theodore, were among 82 persons killed Wednesday when a Boeing 727 jet and a small private plane collided over the Blue Ridge foothills of western North Carolina. Authorities said the smaller craft, carrying two Missouri buninessmen and their pilot, was 12 miles off course.

A FEDERAL APPEALS COURT temporarily blocked the proposed merger of American Broadcasting Co. with International Telephone and Telegraph.

The court ordered further hearings July 31 on the Justions Commission (FCC) order OKing the merger — which would be the largest in communications industrial history — pending further hearings on an order to block the consolidation until a full appeal is heard.

The court ordered fkther hearings July 31 on the Justice Department's request for a stay pending its appeal of the FCC decision, which prompted interagency fighting between Justice and the FCC.

In asking the three-member appeal court to stay the FCC order temporarily and set aside the FCC's two orders approving the compact between ITT and ABC, the Justice Department said completion of the merger posed grave danger to the national interest.

STAGE AND MOVIE star Basil Rathbone, who excelled in the portrayal of the suave, the sardonic and the sinister gentleman, died Friday of a heart attack. He was 75.

BASIL RATHBONE
As Sherlock Holmes

For seven years, midway in his career as a Hollywood star, he played the role of Sherlock Holmes, Arthur Conan Doyle's immortal nemesis of criminals. Then Rathbone walked out on the film series because, he said, his own personality was being obliterated by that of Holmes.

He was born of English parents in Johnnesburg, South Africa.

Rathbone's career as an actor spanned 55 years — from the day in 1911 when he first took the stage as a member of his cousin's Shakespearean troupe.

THE WORLD

Efforts to reach a settlement of the Middle East crisis bounced back to the U.N. Security Council Friday after the General Assembly adjourned its five-week emergency session.

The move back to the Council came after the Arabs voted against a Soviet Union peace plan, which included Israeli withdrawal from Sinai and Gaza in Egypt, from the west bank of the Jordan River, the Syrian border hills and other conquered territory. In exchange for this withdrawal, the Arab states could then conclude peace treaties with Israel.

The vote on the proposal found the Soviet bloc countries opposed to the Arabs and voting yes with the United States and Britain.

Israel declared on Wednesday that normal, peaceable relations with the Arab states was the price it would demand for withdrawal from conquered Arab territories in the six-day war last month.

ISRAELI INTELLIGENCE officials said Egypt has replaced at least half of the more than 400 planes it lost in last month's six-day war.

Unconformed reports said the replacements included a few of the latest MIG23 all-weather interceptors as well as the more commonly used MIG21s, Sukhoi ground attack fighters and TU16 bombers.

The officials said transport aircraft flew scores of crated fighters to Egypt in a crash rearmament program.

Other Soviet gifts to Egypt reportedly included advanced T55 tanks equipped with night guidance equipment to replace the huge quantity of armor Egypt lost to Israel's Sinai Desert juggernaut.

FIGHTING CONTINUED in the troubled Africannation of Nigeria. The Nigerian air force on Tuesday began strafing targets in Enugu, capital of the rebel Eastern region, which has declared itself the Republic of Biafra.

Both sides claimed victories in what was regarded as a general lull in the fighting, which began July 6.

ALGERIA'S SUPREME COURT on Friday approved the Congo's request for extradition of Moise Tshombe, former premier who is under a death sentence in the Congo.

Tshombe, mysteriously kidnaped on a hijacked plane three weeks ago, said he would accept the court's verdict but added, "I'm the victim of an American CIA plot." He did not elaborate.

The State Department in Washington denied the charge.

CHIEF ALBERT LUTHULL, winner of the 1960 Nobel Peace Prize for his efforts to secure rights for black Africans, died of internal injureis Friday after he was struck by a train at Stanger, South Africa.

Confined by government decree to his home village since 1959, Chief Luthuli, a Zulu and a Christian, has been president of the now-banned African National Congress.

THE WAR

A fighting lull in Vietnam came to an end with Allied victories on the land and in the air.

U.S. and South Vietnamese forces killed 335 Communists in two widely separated battles Friday and U.S. Navy pilots downed three — and possible four — Soviet-built MIG jet fighters.

American Marines swept two North Vietnamese battalions into the waiting guns of South Vietnamese paratroopers, and the government forces reported killing 245 Communists in heavy fighting just south of the demilitarized zone.

Nearer Saigon, American cavalrymen routed an estimated Viet Cong battalion trying to ambush them near the big U.S. air base at Bien Hoa, and killed 90 Reds.

* * * *

IN THE AIR BATTLE, fliers from the carrier Bon Homme Richard tangled with eight MIGs and escaped unscathed. The three downed planes would boost to 80, or 81 if a fourth plane was destroyed, the American score against the MIGs, compared with only 20 American planes lost in the dogfights.

A U.S. spokesman said 175 Americans were killed in Vietnam last week, 107 fewer than the week before, while the number of wounded was 1,443. The number of enemy troops reported killed in the same week dropped to 1,877, compared with 2,114 the previous week.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON announced Thursday he is sending two aides on a tour of the allied nations participating in the war to try to drum up more troops.

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor and Clark Clifford will visit South Vietnam, Thailand, Australia, New Zealand, the Philippines and South Korea.

Svetlana's Son Denounces Her

Stalin's grandson, 22-year-old medical student Josef Alliluyev, has taken a new hard look at his mother's defection to the United States. He related his and his 17-year-old sister's feelings in an exclusive interview with UPI Moscow bureau chief Henry Shapiro.

By HENRY SHAPIRO

MOSCOW (UPI) — Josef Alliluyev says a lifetime of personal unhappiness may have driven his mother, Josef Stalin's daughter Svetlana, to defect to the United States.

The 22-year-old medical student strongly condemned her, however, for fleeing her native land. He attributed her defection to "instability of character," and said he did not miss her.

The young man said Svetlana's relationship with the late dictator, her father, was a warm one. He found "indecent" Svetlana's published denunciation of her second husband, and expressed puzzlement over her conversion to Christianity.

In an exclusive interview with UPI, he said he and his teen-age sister, Ekaterina, wrote to their mother last spring and denounced her action.

With the exception of one badly audible telephone call from Switzerland last spring, there has been no contact between them and their mother.

Svetlana in that telephone conversation and later in an article in an American magazine said she knew that, no matter what her children said publicly, "in their hearts" they agreed with her.

Josef grew agitated and angry when this correspondent asked for comment on the magazine article which he has read and excerpts of which he heard on foreign broadcasts.

"We do not agree at all," he said. "I can see absolutely no reason for her abandoning us. I cannot quite understand why she did it and I cannot approve what she did."

Puerto Rico Votes Today on Status

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (UPI) — Puerto Ricans vote today in a plebiscite on whether their island shall remain a United States commonwealth, become a state or seek independence.

The present commonwealth is favored to win, but statehooders hoped to register gains as the campaigners made their final arguments and promises in a flurry of newspaper advertisements, radio commercials and election-eve television appeals by the Island's leaders.

Independence has no chance. Most of its leaders are boycotting the plebiscite along with the official Statehood Republican Party, which is trying to keep its followers away from the polls by holding municipal party meetings at the scheduled hour of the vote.

The island's 6,000-man police force is on duty along with 10,755 special election guards for the polling places. But little trouble is expected, although FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover warned that left wing independentistas might try violence.

Almost on plebiscite eve, the leader of the leftist pro independence movement, Juan Mari Bras, fired his representative in Havana for calling on Puerto Ricans to go into the streets and demonstrate against the plebiscite. Instead, Mari Brag ordered his followers to stay at home to boycott the vote.

The island's most powerful political leader, former governor Luis Munoz Marin, has led the campaign in favor of commonwealth, which he originated in 1952. The vote falls two days before the 15th anniversary of its inception.

Hancock Returns

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The 23-year-old attack carrier Hancock, veteran of two wars, returned Saturday from a third combat tour in which her five squadrons sent 7,000 tons of bombs, rockets and cannon shells against targets in North Vietnam.

'Rebel' Sikes Takes Two-Shot Lead

Arnie, Jack, 6 Others in Contention

WIN A FEW, LOSE A FEW

Dan Sikes, leader in the PGA tourney with 18 holes to play, didn't have it easy Saturday as tree blocks his path on fifth hole. Much happier are Julie Boros (center), who does dance step, and Bob Goalby, who doffs cap, both after sinking birdie putts.

—AP Wirephoto

DENVER (AP) — Dan Sikes, fiery rebel who led the recent threatened revolt of the tournament pros, soared two strokes ahead of the faltering Tommy Aaron and the rallying Jack Nicklaus Saturday for the third-round lead in the PGA Golf Championship—now a wild free-for-all.

Sikes, 36-year-old law graduate and chairman of the players' tournament committee, birdied the 17th hole with a magnificent iron shot and then scrambled for a par with a 12-footer at the 18th for a round of 70 and 209, seven-under-par for the tournament.

Nicklaus birdied three of the last six holes for a 69, and Aaron, who started the day with a gulping four-stroke advantage, struggled to a 76, both tied at 211.

Going into today's climatic final round, there are nine players within four strokes of each other and one of them is the great Arnold Palmer.

Bob Goalby, the bull-shouldered 195-pounder from Belleville, Ill., was alone at 212 after a smart 68, and then came five tied at 213.

They included Palmer, who missed a five-foot putt on the final hole for the birdie that would have tied Goalby and settled for a disappointing 72; defending champion Al Geiberger, 69; burly Mike Souchak, 70; Don January, 70, and the first-round leader, Davey Hill, who scrambled to a 74.

The morning round was played in cauldron heat over the 7,436-yard par 72 Columbine course but in the afternoon a strong wind blew in from a thunderstorm brewing in the mountains and scores soared.

Aaron was one of the victims. Holding a three-stroke lead over the rest of the field, he came to the 190-yard 10th, fronted by a small lake, and dumped his tee shot far to the left. He chipped long, made a bad return chip and wound up with a double bogey 5.

That turned a possible runaway into a horse race.

Sikes is a 6-1, 185-pound graduate of the University of Florida who forsook the courts for the life of a golfing gypsy.

Thirty-six years old, he served a hitch in the Army and didn't join the pro tour until 1961, at a relatively late age. He became a natural as chairman and spokesman of the controversial players' committee.

Sikes overtook Aaron with a birdie at the 550-yard 12th hole and forged to the front when Aaron bogeyed the 14th.

The golfing lawyer saved his advantage with a spectacular finish. At the 437-yard 17th, he laced his wedge approach to within inches of the cup for an easy birdie and then saved his par with brilliant recoveries on the 18th.

His drive on No. 18 bounced off a tree and his second went into the rough, still well off the green. He sent a five-iron to the green 12 feet from the cup and knocked the ball home.

Aaron, the winless pro from Gainesville, Ga.,

KEEPS HIS HEAD DOWN, BUT...

ONE OF THE first rules of golf is to keep your head down. That's what Jack Nicklaus did, but the result was an eyeful of sand following blast from bunker. As a reward, ball landed three feet from pin and big Jack saved his par.

Werhas Boosts Angels Into 3rd

By ROSS NEWHAN

Johnny Werhas, the former USC all-America, confides that he may seek a berth with the Anaheim Amigos of the American Basketball Assn.

"Al Brightman wants me to give it a try," the 29-year old Werhas told this paper. "But I'm concerned about my legs. I don't know if I can jump anymore."

It was Werhas, however, the former Dodger, who left Anaheim jumping Saturday night as he provided the bounce to a 2-1 victory over the Twins.

Werhas was Johnny on the spot with an eighth inning single which drove in the winning run and today it is the Angels who may be whistled for traveling violations.

They roared past Minnesota into third place with their fifth victory in a row and their 32 in 44 games since the memorable transformation of June 7.

With it, a crowd of 41,590 was left roaring as the distance between Anaheim and first place was reduced to one and one-half games.

There are now five clubs bunched within two games of the summit, but it is the Angels who lead the league in victories (52) and shock treatments.

They've now played 32 games which have been decided by one run and if it is the mark of a good club to win the close ones than the Angels have left their mark with an 18-14 record.

They went into this one with the knowledge that the White Sox had lost. The stakes were enormous.

Significantly, they then drew to a full house and it was the ace who picked up the jackpot.

Jim McGlothlin, making his first start since July 7, gained his ninth win in 11 decisions and the only thing bruised when it was over was Minnesota's pride.

McGlothlin's arm is again healthy as evidenced by a six-hitter which included only two walks despite the layoff. He emerged with an ERA of 1.70 after disembarking for a pinch-hitter in the eighth. Bill Kelso then registered his fourth save with a flawless final frame.

The Twins, who have lost five straight, scored their only run in the fifth on singles by Ted Uhlender and Cesar Tover and a disputed decision by second base umpire Frank Umont.

Uhlaender started it with a single and McGlothlin then went to second with him Merritt's sacrifice hunt. Umont ruled that Uhlaender beat it and Bill Rigney beat a path to Umont's door.

Rig's argument failed and Tovar followed with the single which scored on more run than Merritt had anticipated.

Supplied with just one run in his previous 23 innings the 23-year old southpaw from West Covina meticulously protected the thin advantage by allowing only one hit through six inning.

That one hit was a first inning single by Werhas, who was playing only because Merritt (6-3) was pitching. Of Werhas' six hits since joining the Angels, two-thirds had been

Dodger Streak Now at 6

By GEORGE LEDERER

NEW YORK — What is happiness?

For the Dodgers, it's a six-game winning streak and a 2½-game lead, even if both are against the Mets.

For Walter Alston, it's the knowledge that his bullpen has returned to 1965-66 form, even if it is a little late.

The Dodgers were assured of their first winning trip of the season Saturday night when they edged the Mets, 4-3, behind the scoreless relief pitching of Jim Brewer and Ron Perranoski.

Perranoski, the winner, turned in four rounds of blanks after Brewer had taken starter Don Sutton out of trouble with the score tied, a runner on third and one out in the fifth.

The Dodgers, due to return home around midnight tonight, have a 4-2 record for this trip with the bullpen contributing three wins and three saves. Relievers have allowed only one earned run in 17 2-3 innings.

Perranoski (3-4) has one win and two saves, Phil Regan came out of the bullpen to contribute a winning start, also picked up a save, and another win was by Brewer. The only regular starter to win was Bill Singer, Friday night.

The Dodgers made it six in a row over the Mets and boosted their eighth-place advantage to 2½ lengths with a seventh-inning run

Cubs Regain Tie for Lead

CHICAGO (AP) — Randy Hundley lashed a bases-loaded single in the ninth inning Saturday, giving the Chicago Cubs a 6-5 comeback victory over San Francisco, moving them into a tie for first place in the National League.

The Cubs, who blew leads of 2-0 and 3-2, mounted their final comeback in the ninth against Giant reliever Gaylord Perry.

Billy Williams tied it 5-5 with one out when he stroked his second homer of the game, and 17th of the season, into the center field seats.

Ron Santo followed with a triple to right. The next two batters were intentionally passed, setting up a double play possibility, but Hundley ended it with his shot to left.

The Cubs held a 3-2 lead going into the eighth, but the Giants' Willie McCovey tied it with a homer off Chicago starter Rich Nye, his 16th of the year.

Moments later, Willie Mays doubled off Cal Koonce and Jim Ray Hart was credited with a double when right fielder Clarence Jones lost his fly in the sun, Mays stopping at third. Rookie Bob Etheridge then singled in two runs, giving the Giants a 5-3 margin.

The Cubs got one back in the bottom of the eighth on singles by Santo and Ernie Banks and Hundley's double.

The Giants also lost ace righthander Juan Marichal, who was forced to leave the game in the sixth inning when he apparently injured his right shoulder.

Jim White in Sizzling Win

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

Remember the name Jim White. He doesn't play for the Rams, Dodgers nor does he throw the javelin. He's a well-bred two-year-old colt who Saturday captured the richest race in Hollywood Park history — the $165,050 Juvenile Championship and has the family background to capture next year's Kentucky Derby.

For his six-furlong running time of 1:09.4 — just two ticks of the stopwatch off the race record and extremely creditable since Jim was tackling this distance for the first time — Jim White picked up first prize money of $120,050. Jim graduated into high society Saturday — his previous total earnings were $8,800.

Third choice in the public wagering, Jim White paid $10.20 straight. He had a length and one-half margin over Poleax (20-1), with Broad Shadows (almost 7-1) capturing third money another half-length in arrears. The favored Dignitas, never in contention, snagged the fourth finisher's prize of $10,000 about two margins behind Broad Shadows. Second choice Trondheim was fifth.

The throng of 54,785 applauded both horse and jockey (Willie Hartack) when both entered the winner's circle. It takes two to tango and Hartack, once tabbed nationally as a "bad guy," rode a brilliant race in getting Jim White away from the 10-horse pack and into immediate contention as soon as the barrier opened.

In seven previous efforts, Jim White had gained a slice of the purse six times with two wins, a second, one third-place finish and two fourths. With Hartack on his back for the first time in his last start July 1 at Hollypark, the chestnut colt romped to a six-length triumph. Hartack got the mount on Jim White Saturday only because Johnny Sellers, who piloted Tumble

BRAVES BLOW 4-1 LEAD, TOPPLE CARDS IN 13TH

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Tito Francona's run-scoring single in the 13th inning lifted the surging Atlanta Braves past St. Louis 5-4 Saturday, dropping the Cardinals into a tie with Chicago for the National League lead.

The Cardinals fifth loss in their last seven games left them in a deadlock with the Cubs, who edged San Francisco 6-5.

The Braves, who have won three in a row and 11 of their last 15, blew a 4-1 lead in the ninth before pushing over the tie-breaking run in the 13th against reliever Jack Lamabe, the sixth St. Louis pitcher.

Orlando Martinez started the rally with a one-out single and winning pitcher Cecil Upshaw sacrificed before Francona bounced a single up the middle, scoring Martinez.

Tim McCarver drove in two runs with a two-out single in the ninth off Dick Kelley, the fourth of five Atlanta pitchers in the inning, to cap a three-run rally and lift the Cardinals into a 4-4 deadlock.

Ken Johnson, the Braves' starter, stopped the Cards on four hits until the ninth.

HALL OF FAME ADDS THREE, TOTAL AT 107

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — The late Branch Rickey, Red Ruffing and Lloyd (Little Poison) Waner will be inducted formally into Baseball's Hall of Fame Monday at ceremonies preceding the annual interleague exhibition game for the Hall of Fame Cup.

Commissioner William Eckert will preside at the outdoor induction ceremonies, after which the Baltimore Orioles will meet the Cincinnati Reds in the game at historic Doubleday Field.

The addition of the three new plaques brings the Hall of Fame membership to 107. Several of the 33 living members will be on hand.

Rickey's widow and his five daughters are to attend the ceremonies honoring the former big league executive, manager and player who founded the farm system and brought Jackie Robinson into baseball as the first Negro to enter the major leagues. Robinson, a Hall of Famer himself, also is expected to be present to honor the memory of Rickey, who died in 1965 at the age of 83.

Both Ruffing, a former righthanded pitcher who won 273 big league games for the Boston Red Sox, New York Yankees and Chicago White Sox from 1924 to 1947, and Waner, who boasted a .331 lifetime batting average with Pittsburgh, Boston, Cincinnati, Philadelphia and Brooklyn in the National League from 1927 to 1942 will be present.

CASH SLAMS YANKEES AS TIGERS ROMP, 11-4

DETROIT (AP) — Norm Cash clubbed a grand slam homer in the eighth inning for his fourth hit in the game, completing a 12-hit Detroit attack that buried New York 11-4 Saturday and extended the Yankees' losing streak to six games.

Cash, who connected off reliever Joe Verbanic with the bases loaded in the eighth, drove in five runs in all and Willie Horton smashed a three-run homer as the Tigers rolled to their third straight victory.

Earl Wilson, who pitched six innings in muggy, 90-degree heat, was credited with his 12th victory in 20 decisions, with relief help from rookie Mike Marshall.

Detroit jumped on right-hander Fred Talbot for four runs in the third. Singles by Dick McAuliffe, Don Wert and Cash brought in one run before Horton unloaded his 12th homer, a 400-foot shot into the upper deck in left center field.

In the sixth, Cash led off with a double and Jim Northrup, Ray Oyler and Lenny Green drilled RBI singles following an error by relief pitcher Bill Monbouquette.

Then in the eighth, Oyler's infield hit, a walk and a hit batsman loaded the bases for Cash, who crashed his 12th homer into the lower right field seats. It was the ninth grand slam of his career.

Troy Chant: 'All the Way With O.J.'

Johnny McKay's USC Trojans this season will boast probably the fastest trio of backs in America, but on the other hand the Men of Troy will face the toughest collegiate football schedule in the nation.

The Trojans won't lack speed, which they may need to get out of the way of their rugged opponents. O. J. Simpson (9.4) was a member of USC's 440 relay team which set a world record of 38.6. Already the Old Grads have adopted a slogan for Simpson: "All the way with O. J."

Former Long Beach star Earl McCullouch also was a member of the record-setting relay team. Their other speedster is flanker Jim Lawrence, who was only 9.8 this spring and couldn't make the relay team!

McKay has the not-so-enviable task of meeting Notre Dame, Michigan State and Washington on the road, with the "fortune" of opposing Texas and UCLA in the Coliseum.

One of jovial John's assistants, Jim Stangeland, who skippered Long Beach City College to some glorious times, voiced the thought the other day that USC might be playing four of the nation's top five teams (Notre Dame, Michigan State, UCLA and Texas) in '67. He easily could be correct.

The Trojans' other opponents will be Oregon, Oregon State, Stanford, Cal and Washington State . . . all conference foes who could eliminate both Pacific Eight championship and Rose Bowl dreams in a hurry.

McKay seems to have a problem at quarterback. His senior, Toby Page, throws what some wits term "a hanging curve," hardly the appropriate pitch for the speedburners who will be on the receiving line. His other man, Mike Holmgren, is a sophomore with the obvious lack of experience.

The season could be a long one for the red-and-gold, especially with that murderuous schedule.

* * * *

THE BLUE-AND-GOLD UCLA schedule is another story. The Bruins meet no Notre Dames, Michigan States nor Washingtons on the road. Their four travel games are against Pitt, Penn, Stanford and Washington State. Enjoying the luxury of six home games, Tommy Prothro's lads will contest USC, Syracuse, Tennessee, Cal, Oregon State and Washington in the Coliseum.

Clearly, UCLA holds a big advantage over USC in the '67 schedule, which was drawn-up for both universities so many years ago that nobody had the slightest idea in those days which opponents would fall over and play dead, nor which ones would be the tigers.

He won't admit it, but Prothro has his finest club in three years at Westwood. His defense will be the best he has presented. Quarterback Gary Beban should be a candidate for the Heisman Trophy. Split end Harold Busby was a member of the UCLA track squad which shared the 440 relay record of 39.6 until USC first tied, then broke it. Another split end is a bruiser named George Farmer, who runs a 10 flat hundred and hits 6-4 and 210.

UCLA should be an odds-on favorite to win the Pacific Eight title and also the point-system race. Probably the Rose Bowl, too, if Notre Dame and Michigan State give the nation the head-hunting contest they promised after last season's bitter 10-10 deadlock. Michigan State still may be licking its wounds on Jan. 1st.

* * * *

NOTRE DAME APPEARS loaded once again. Even the Notre Dame Alumnus magazine subscribes to that theory, while yet beginning an article on a tone of reservation, it quickly picks up steam:

"The beginning of a new football season poses any number of problems for the coach and team. But the situation is greatly compounded when this same coach and team are number one in the nation.

"YET, THERE IS LITTLE DOUBT THAT THE FIGHTING IRISH ONCE AGAIN ARE LOADED WITH ALL THE OFFENSIVE AND DEFENSIVE GUNS TO CAPTURE ANOTHER NATIONAL TITLE."

You'd better believe it. Ara Parseghian has both his excellent quarterbacks, Terry Hanratty and Coley O'Brien, returning. He's so high on both that Ara may alternate the duo consistently. At least they shared equal time May 6th when the '67 varsity wrecked the "Oldtimers" 39-0 before a national television audience. And how many schools secure national television for a SPRING GAME?

In that affair Long Beach's Paul Snow hauled in a 42-yard touchdown bomb from O'Brien on the last play of the game. And Paul, brother of former Notre Dame all-America, Jack Snow, currently with the Rams, is rated only No. 2 behind Jim Seymour. Probably anywhere else in the country, Paul would be No. 1

* * * *

THE IRISH CLUB has men coming up from its freshman team who compare favorably in the weight department with a professional squad. An indication: Kevin Hardy, a great one last season, was shifted to defensive end from his tackle post because a bigger and better prospect (Eric Norri, 240) moved up from the frosh. Last season, Hardy was the biggest of the front four . . . this year he is the smallest!

All-America Pete Duranko has departed, but in his place Parseghian has a little fellow named Mike McCoy (270).

Another all-America (linebacker Jim Lynch) graduated, but Ara didn't flinch. He just plucked into his frosh deep freeze and came up with Bob Olson (230). They seem so mean and tough I think they should be called Ara's Animals.

Oh, yes, Notre Dame has another sophomore, a barefoot punter (Rene Torrado) who averaged 45 yards in the spring game. Ara thinks of everything.

Pirates Plaster Astros

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Manny Mota, Roberto Clemente and Bill Mazeroski each crashed a two-run homer Saturday and led Pittsburgh to a 15-2 rout of the Houston Astros.

The free-swinging Pirates backed Woody Fryman's five-hit pitching with an 18-hit attack off five Houston pitchers, including starter and loser Bo Belinsky, who didn't last the first inning.

Jim Pagliaroni, who sparked a five-run Pirates first inning with a two-run single, Clemente and Mota each had three hits.

Fryman, making his first start since June 26, notched his first victory in four decisions.

After Julio Gotay nicked Fryman for a lead off single in the first, the big left-hander retired 16 batters in a row before Dan Schneider singled in the sixth.

The Pirates picked up two runs in the second, one of them unearned, then relied on the home run ball. Mota's inside-the-park drive in the seventh accounted for two.

Fryman, who had not won a game since last Sept. 18, was working on a three-hit shutout until a double by Jackie Brandt and Joe Morgan's fourth homer of the season gave the Astros their two runs in the eighth.

NEW YORK (AP) — Ken Boyer, veteran third baseman of the New York Mets, was sent to the Chicago White Sox Saturday for an undisclosed sum of cash and infielder-outfielder Billy Southworth, a young minor leaguer.

YOU CAN'T CATCH 'EM ALL

NO MATTER how hard you lunge, lean, dive or dig, you can't catch everything hit your way. The six major leaguers shown above gave it their all, but none "found the handle." Jim Fregosi and Jerry Buchek are shown making lunges in top photos; Al Ferrara (center left) dives and Charlie Smith (upper right) digs hard; Tito Francona (lower left) twists and, alas, catcher Jerry Grote does a belly-flop—all in vain and pain.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Solo homers by Mike Andrews and Carl Yastrzemksi and Lee Stange's three-hit pitching led the Boston Red Sox to their eighth straight victory, a 4-0 decision over Cleveland Saturday.

Andrews led off the Steve Hargan's second game by slamming loser pitch over the left field fence for his fifth homer of the season.

The Sox added another run in the first when George Scott singled home Tony Conigliaro, who had reached on a forceout and advanced on a throwing error.

In the third inning, Andrews singled to left and when Leon Wagner bobbled the ball he went to second. Andrews scored on Joe Foy's single.

Yastrzemski's homer in the eight was his 23rd of the season.

Stange (6-6) gave up singles to Wagner in the second, Hargan in the third and Vic Davalillo in the sixth. He struck out four and walked none.

Walker to Coach Houston

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Touting Harry Walker's hitting knowledge as the "best in baseball," the Houston Astros hired the former Pittsburgh manager as batting coach Saturday, just five days after he was fired by the Pirates.

Walker, ousted because the pennant-favored Pirates had dived to sixth place in the National League, will "really be his own boss" with the Astros, Houston manager Grady Hatton said.

"Harry Walker has a reputation of being the best fundamentalist in the study of batting," Hatton said. "He's made almost a science of it."

Walker said he had been contacted by four clubs after his firing last Tuesday.

The first to call, Walker said, was Judge Roy Hofheinz, president of the Astros.

After telling everyone he was going fishing in Maryland, Walker took a Tuesday afternoon plane to Houston. "Some people thought I was ducking out but I really couldn't say anything," Walker explained Saturday.

The Astros, who fired pitching coach Gordon Jones two weeks ago, have been without a batting instructor this season.

Hatton said Walker was signed to a two-year contract. His first assignment, according to Hatton, will be to help boost the batting averages of two young catchers, Dave Adlesh and John Bateman, who have been hitting in the vicinity of .200 over the season.

Allen's Bat Helps Phillies Drub Reds

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Rich Allen tripled in two runs to ignite a six-run rally in the third inning and lead the Philadelphia Phillies to a 7-2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds behind the four-hit pitching of Rick Wise.

The Phils sent 10 batters to the plate in the third inning while routing starter Jim Maloney and reliever Don Nottebart. The Reds also contributed four errors in the inning — three on one play.

Bobby Wine started the rally with a double and Tony Taylor walked. Allen then tripled home both runners and consecutive singles by Tony Gonzalez, Bill White and Don Lock made it 5-0 and knocked out Maloney.

The Reds scored a run in the fourth inning off Wise on a single by Pete Rose and a double by Tony Perez. They added their other run in the sixth when Vada Pinson hit his eighth homer of the season.

Faltering White Sox Riddled by A's, 9-3

KANSAS CITY (UPI) — Ken Harrelson hit a three-run homer in the third inning and winning pitcher Lew Krausse hit his first major league homer Saturday night to lead the Kansas City Athletics to a 9-3 victory over Chicago, cutting the White Sox' league lead to one-half game.

The Chicago loss, coupled with Boston's 4-0 victory over Cleveland, left the White Sox just one-half game ahead of the Red Sox in the tightest American League race since 1948 when Cleveland beat Boston in the only playoff in the history of the league.

Harrelson's 425-foot blast, his fifth homer of the season, came off John Buzhardt.

Surging Nats Win on 7-Run Uprising

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Ken McMullen capped a seven-run Washington sixth inning Saturday night with a three-run homer as the surging Senators downed the Baltimore Orioles 7-5 for their 12th victory in the last 14 games.

Washington had been blanked on four hits through five innings by Gene Brabender, who was recalled Friday from Rochester, but in the sixth the Senators sent 11 men to the plate in erupting for seven runs on six hits and a walk.

Washington is now seven games out of first place in sixth place with a 46-49 record.

The Orioles, who had scored a single run in the second, knocked out winning pitcher Camilo Pascual (9-7) in the seventh as Dave Johnson doubled home two runs.

Jackie Robinson

JACKIE ROBINSON STILL MAKES PEOPLE NERVOUS, BUT HE'S PROVED TO BE HONEST POLITICIAN

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Jackie Robinson, assistant to the governor of New York state, is no different from Jackie Robinson, Brooklyn Dodgers, on first base.

Jackie still has a habit of making people nervous. In baseball, he made the pitchers and catchers nervous every time he looked toward second base.

Now, in politics, he makes everybody nervous, including plenty of people in the Republican party.

It has been 20 years since Jackie Robinson broke the color line in baseball.

The years were turbulent, filled with controversy — and excitement. The next 20 years promise to be just as tempestuous because Jackie Robinson is living one of those perpetual motion, around-the-clock lives. Any minute, it seems, he's going to take off for second, wind up at third and maybe, with some luck, make it all the way home.

Robinson hasn't lost the appeal of his playing days. In fact he has more now because he is that rare product of our society, a political figure without personal political ambitions. He can afford to be honest.

"People have asked me why I don't run," Jackie said. "But if I ever had a falling out with Gov. Rockefeller, I'd get out of this business in 30 seconds. I respect him tremendously. He understands that I can't align myself with every Republican issue. Yet he has never been critical of me while others in the party have.

"You see, I'm not at all convinced the Republican party is dedicated to improving race relations. I know the governor is."

Jackie's official title is special assistant for community affairs. He acts as a liaison man between the governor's office and various city-state agencies: Bureau of Corrections, Narcotics Bureau, Housing Authority, etc.

"I have a relationship," Jackie said, "where a lot of people trust me. They know I won't sell them out. This is my cost important asset. Most people know me and they know my motives. Maybe some of the things I've said will cost me, but I know I've at least been honest."

His candor, while new to many politicians, is not surprising to the baseball community. He never has been popular with the hierarchy.

"I don't respect ownership in baseball," Jackie said. "They're still living in the 19th century when it comes to the Negro in front office activities. All it takes is one owner with the courage of a Mr. (Branch) Rickey to give someone a chance.

"I wouldn't go back to baseball for anything. I'm not one to look back, although I do appreciate all baseball has done for me. But I gave baseball something, too. Neither of us owes the other anything."

Jackie's contribution to baseball is evident in every major and minor league city. The Negro is the dominant figure in the sport. The transition began in April 1947. Now it is complete.

"I never thought about that at the time," Jackie said. "I was too busy making sure Mr. Rickey's experiment would work. The big concern then was the relationship between the abilities of the Negro and white ballplayer.

"Mr. Rickey kept telling me I would have the fight won when my teammates started to get behind me.

"I remember Dixie Walker, one of the most vocal men on the team, not the against my coming up, was one of the first to offer me help. I was on the rubbing table and he came over and gave me some tips.

"Eddie Stanky was the first one to start defending me verbally. It was against the Phillies in Brooklyn. We had been around the league once by then and the Phillies were pretty abusive.

"I was on first base and the Phillies started yelling at me. Stanky got up in our dugout and started shouting back at them I don't remember his exact words, but that was the start . . ."

Jackie Robinson is 47 now. His hair is gray, his body still that of the athlete.

And any second, he's going to stretch that lead into a stolen base.

Jackie Robinson, who broke baseball's color line 20 years ago, struck fear in the hearts of opponents with his daring base-running such as shown in this 1950 photo. Jackie, now 47, is in New York politics.

Chiefs, Packers Solid Favorites

As the pro football teams prepare to launch their longest season yet, there doesn't appear to be any drastic changes shaping up in the outcome of the various championship races from a year ago.

The same old familiar faces will be fighting it out next December and January.

For instance, the Green Bay Packers and Kansas City Chiefs are the early favorites to once again wind up in the Super Bowl classic. They played in the first one last January with Green Bay winning, 35-10.

Prior to that, the Packers figure to survive the NFL playoffs by beating the Dallas Cowboys in the finale, while the Chiefs will be the choice over either the Buffalo Bills or Boston Patriots in the East.

There is added interest in the NFL race this season because of the new "four fours" alignment. There will be two four-team divisions in each conference.

Green Bay is heavily favored over the Chicago Bears, Minnesota Vikings and Detroit Lions in the Western Conference's Central Division. The Packers' three rivals all wound up the '66 season on the minus side.

* * * *

IN THE WEST'S OTHER four-team group, the Coastal Division, the Baltimore Colts will head into the campaign slight favorites over the Rams and San Francisco 49ers with the Atlanta Falcons bringing up the rear.

In the East, Dallas is the choice over the Philadelphia Eagles, Washington Redskins and the new expansion team, New Orleans Saints, in the Capitol Divison. The Cleveland Browns and St. Louis Cardinals are co-favorites in the Century Division, which also includes the New York Giants and Pitt Steelers.

The division winners play off for the conference titles, and the conference champions then meet for the NFL crown.

The new NFL alignment posed quite a few headaces for the schedulemakers.

Drawing up a 224-game schedule is not as easy as some people may believe because of the various problems which must be overcome.

* * * *

THIS YEAR'S NFL SCHEDULE took four months to complete, and it wasn't until the 415th draft that the schedule was approved.

Over 400 starts on the schedule were aborted when it became obvious that it wasn't going to fall in place, while the first 14 complete schedules drawn up all had to be revised.

Bert Bell, the late commissioner, used dominoes with team names pasted on them and prepared the schedule by moving them around until all pairings shaped up.

Pete Rozelle and his aids used an IBM computer to arrange the schedule in recent years, but pro football has advanced even beyond the computer age.

A mammoth checkerboard with 224 squares and as many name tags representing the 16 teams is now used. This method is similar to the domino-system used by Bell . . . but on a much larger scale.

The Board has on it 14 blocks that read down, one for each week of the season. And it has 16 blocks across, one for each team. The tags labeled with team names are hung on nails in the blocks whenever a pairing is made.

* * * *

THERE ARE SIX MAJOR FACTORS in working out a schedule:

1—Attractive late season games for national television.

2—Availability of baseball parks in the early season.

3—The traditional Thanksgiving Day game in Detroit.

4—The cold weather problem late in the season.

5—Spacing — avoidance of too many home or too many road games in succession.

6—Avoidance of back-to-back games between the same teams.

Television does not dictate which games it airs, but the schedulemakers try to single out games of interest to all fans for the national telecasts.

These late-season TV games are scheduled first. Complicating things in November and December, of course, is the weather. It becomes a major factor in the Central and Century Divisions. Green Bay, Minnesota, Detroit, Chicago, Pittsburgh and Cleveland in particular are in the cold weather belt.

* * * *

AFTER THESE GAMES ARE scheduled, then they go back to the top of the slate and think in terms of baseball. The first four weeks always conflict with baseball.

These four weeks caused most of the early schedule-drafts to be aborted.

After schedule is finally completed, they go back and analyze the problems of each team, stemming from counter attractions, weather, etc, and try to solve them.

As one league official says, "every time you do a schedule, you have less problems than the time before. But as long as you have weather and as long as some of your teams play in baseball parks (eight at present), you're never going to have a perfect schedule."

Dean Has His Fortune, Now Wants Fame

By ROSS NEWHAN

Flag fever or banner banter:

"I am set financially and now I want the prestige," Dean Chance was saying as he lounged in ths clubhouse long after Friday night's game with the Angels was over.

"I'm all baseball this year," said Dean. "The farm has secured my financial future and now I want what every player wants — the pennant and World Series.

"When I go back to the farm, I'd like to think that my name will mean something in the history of baseball."

Bank book and record book, Dean wants 'em both . . .

"I'd like to strangle Eddie Stanky," Jim Fregosi was saying, still peeved at The Brat's reaction when the Angel shortstop was unable to run out a late-inning grounder because of the pulled groin muscle.

STANKY CHANCE

"Stanky thought I was a quitter," said Fregosi. "He stood on the top step of the dugout with his hands on his hips and just glared at me all through the ninth inning."

Fregosi has demanded to play, but it's doubtful the Angels will acquiesce before Tuesday in Boston. . .

Stanky locked the doors of the clubhouse, then angrily ordered his players to sit silently and listen to Buddy Blattner interview Moose Sknwron following Tuesday's Angel win.

The Big A's sound system is wired to KMPC and the Skowron interview filtered through Stanky's office and out in the clubhouse. All Moose talked about was the genius of Bill Rigney and they say that Stanky went wild . . .

Cal Ermer got the job, Alvin Dark turned it down and for three years Billy Martin was rumored as Sam Mele's eventual replacement as manager of the Twins.

The truth is that an embarrassed Martin went to Cal Griffith, said he was happy in the third base box and offered to sign a 10-year contract as a coach. Griffith said no.

For his work with the Latins, Martin should receive either the Nobel Peace Prize or a sizeable bonus . . .

"Harmon Killebrew has got to be the American League's MVP no matter if we win or lose the pennant," said Bob Allison . . .

"The good omens," said Bill Rigney, authenticating the Angels prominence as a pennant contender, "were beating Sam McDowell and Steve Hargan (June 13) on the same night and Gary Peters and Joe Horlen in the same series."

It all gets back to June 7 when the Angeles were crushed by Baltimore, 16-4 and 11-1. "Now," said Rigney, "you'd have to say that the experience of that night was the best thing for everyone involved.

"The hitters got rid of their bad swings,the pitchers their bad pitches and the fans all their boos."

Before leaving Seattle, Fred Newman was fined $100 for over-sleeping and missing a starting assignment. If Newman works in today's game, the plate umpire will be Larry Napp . . .

"The important thing," said Jimmie Hall, "is thinking that you can win. This team (the Angels) doesn't have the power, nor probably the talent, that we had in Minnesota in '65, but it's desire and aggressiveness is as great.

FREGOSI MARTIN

"It takes the field thinking win, and finds some way to get it." . . .

Rigney said it again. "Fregosi took the whole thing into his own hands. He's our heart, our spirit."

Stanky called Rigney a television manager, Rigney answered that Stanky should mind his own business and in Anaheim recently The Brat told Rig that he wasn't serious and assumed that Rigney's rebuttal was made in jest.

"Eddie," said Rig, "If you read it, I meant it."

Flyers Trip Shua, Play Crucial Today

Pitchers Mark Keller of the Flyers and Craig Swan of Shua dueled for 13 innings Saturday before the Flyers squeezed a run across to win a crucial American Legion game at Blair Field, 2-1.

The loss eliminated Shua from the Harbor League title race and the victory kept the Flyers in a first-place tie with San Pedro, which won by a forfeit over Samuel Thomas.

Each team now has a 13-3 record and they meet at Blair today at 2 p.m.

The winning run for the Flyers came when catcher Rob Sagehorn singled, moved to third on Ken Bailey's base hit and scored on a fielder's choice by Keller.

In the other game of the Blair doubleheader, Wilmington scored its second victory in a week over Peterson, this time winning 1-0. Peterson lost a 3-2 decision last Sunday.

The lone run of the game came in the seventh on a two-out single by Ben Natuarrette that scored Ron Cox, who had doubled.

collected off Merritt.

One was a pinch-hit home run and the other a triple last Sunday which lifted George Brunet to his 2-0 victory. So Rigney gave Werhas the assignment at third base and it was a one-hitter instead of a no-hitter which Merritt carried into the seventh.

ANGEL OF DAY

JOHN WERHAS drove in the winning run as Angels edged Minnesota, 2-1.

With two outs, he hit Moose Skowron. Correcting his marksmanship Merritt promptly hit the bats of Rick Reichardt and Bobby Knoop. Both singled to tie the game.

Now there was one out in the eighth. Jose Cardenal drilled a screamer into left-center and Jose never hesitated, Cah-chaing into second with a double. Three pitches later, Werhas delivered his decider and the Big A became the worlds largest outdoor asylum.

"I finally feel as if I belong," beamed the personable Werhas. "I'd like to be in there every day, but it's still thrilling to be part of this."

Off the field, the Angels took steps to replenish the righthand portion of Rigney's bench. Ed Kirkpatrick was optioned to Jacksonville in exchange for catcher Hawk Taylor.

Taylor received $100,000 from the Braves in 1957, made the final out of Jim Bunning's perfect game and hails from Metropolis, Ill.

that was fitting and proper for Shea Stadium. It was unearned and it was sloppy.

Dick Schofield started the seventh with a double against Reliever Don Shaw, was sacrificed to third by Willie Davis, but failed to slide and was out at the plate on Lou Johnson's tap to third.

Johnson went on to steal second on a tricky and planned delay, took an extra base on first baseman Ed Kranepool's overthrow and scored when Ed Charles was unable to handle Jim Lefebvre's squib hit to third.

Johnson actually was picked off first by Shaw and the inning was prolonged only by Kranepool's throwing error.

"It might have looked bad, but I planned it that way," said Johnson. "I knew Kranepool would try to make a backhanded tag on me if Shaw threw over, and I wasn't going to be there.

"Sure enough, he took a swipe at me, but I was going the other way." Shaw (2-4) was the loser in relief of Don Cardwell, who gave up a first-inning homer to Len Gabrielson and a two-run single to Bob Bailey in the fourth.

Ex-Yankee Hal Reniff finished for the Mets and extended his club record to 21 scoreless innings.

Gabrielson's homer was his sixth, one short of his best major league total, with the Cubs and Giants in 1965. He also singled before Johnson replaced him against the lefthanded Shaw.

Bailey's single came with the bases full and after an intentional walk to John Roseboro. It gave Sutton a 3-1 lead, but he quickly gave it back in the Mets' fourth.

With one out, Sutton hit Charles with a pitch, then yielded successive singles to Jerry Buchek, Ron Swoboda and Jerry Grote.

Grote had hit his fourth homer to start the third inning.

Perranoski had a couple of scares after having retired eight Mets in a row. Charles and Buchek singled, and Swoboda walked to fill the bases with two out in the eighth. He fanned Grote for the third out.

In the ninth, Bob Johnson led off with a pinch single, but Bud Harrelson and Cleon Jones hit into force plays and Tommy Davis grounded to short for the final out.

Don Drysdale, who will be 31 today, pitches against Bob Hendley in the windup this afternoon.

ASHE, RIESSEN WIN; U.S. PRESTIGE RISES

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Arthur Ashe and Marty Riessen struck a blow for the United States' sagging tennis prestige Saturday, fighting their way into the finals of the national clay courts tennis tournament over a pair of highly regarded foreigners.

Riessen, Evanston, Ill., smashed his way to a straight set 6-4, 6-3, 6-3 victory over young Mike Belkin of Canada. Ashe disposed of Brazil's Ron Barnes, 6-3, 6-4, 5-7, 11-9.

The victories assured all-United States finals in both the men's and women's singles Sunday. Nancy Richey of San Angelo, Tex., will be going after a fifth successive clay courts women's crown against Rosemary Casals of San Francisco.

Riessen used a powerful serve to oust Belkin, the upset hope of the tournament. The Canadian had dumped defending champion Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Nancy's brother, in the semifinals Thursday.

The all-United States final helped to take some of the sting away from the recent Davis Cup loss to Ecuador. The Ecuador Cup team of Miguel Overa and Francisco Guzman was ousted in the early rounds, Guzman by Riessen in easy 6-0, 6-1 sets and Olvera by Australia's Ray Ruffels, 9-7, 6-3.

Riessen beat Ruffles, the top foriegn seed, for his semifinals berth and Ashe had beaten another Aussie, John Cooper, for his berth.

FOOTBALL: A GAME OF STRAIN AND PAIN

RAMS BANKING ON TALBERT AS TEXAS LULU

By AL LARSON

Diron Talbert doesn't have to be wearing a ten gallon hat and boots and saying, "Howdy, Podnuh" for you to recognize a true Texan.

His Texas drawl and slightly bow-legged gait should convince you soon enough. And two minutes talk about when Hurricane Carla left the family home under 12 feet of water a few years ago in the Gulf Coast seaport of Texas City certainly will.

Oberservers who usually are given to caution freely predict a long career for the Rams' rookie defensive lineman.

The 6-foot-5, 244-pound defensive tackle, whose body looks like it was chiseled out of stone, combines three enviable attributes—size, speed and brains. But when you hail from Texas' foremost football family, that's nothing new. All four Talbert boys do.

Ever since Darrell Royal became head coach at the University of Texas in 1957, there's been a starting Talbert on the Forty Acres.

Don was the first, and he achieved all-America honors as a tackle in 1961. His pro career with the Dallas Cowboys was interrupted by a tour of military duty in Vietnam, and he's presently the offensive tackle for the Atlanta Falcons.

* * * *

NEXT came Charley, an unsung, but hibhly appreciated, end on the Longhorns' 1963 national championship team. "He's the brain of the family and went on to law school," Diron said during a break in practice at the Ram camp in Fullerton.

The third football-playing Talbert brother at Texas, Diron, showed so much promise as a junior that the Rams drafted him on the fifth round as a future in 1966 while the San Diego Chargers, of the AFL liked like well enough to make him their No. 2 pick.

That was 1965, the year he was all-Southwest Conference. Last year Diron was bothered by a recurring back injury and missed several games, but he came on with a rush late in the season as a defensive guard and participated in the North-South and Hula Bowl games.

But the tradition of the Talberts doesn't stop yet. Younger brother Paul will be bidding for a starting offensive end position at Texas this season. "If Paul comes through this year it would mean there's been a Talbert starting for 12 consecutive years at Texas," Diron noted.

"I've got two sisters and maybe one of these days some of my nephews will be playing there too," Diron laughed. "Actually, my dad had a good college career at Mississippi State Teachers College which is now Mississippi Southern.

"I'm hoping when we play Atlanta that I get into the game. There would be a good chance I'd be playing directly across from my older brother Don."

Diron, who turned 23 this month, possesses a devilish nature and enjoys reminiscing about some of his college experiences with his old roommate Tommy Nobis, who was named the NFL's rookie of the year last season with Atlanta.

Talbert also can't wait for Sept. 23 to arrive. That's the date Texas meets USC at the Coliscum. "I'll be out to greet the whole team when they arrive," Diron declared.

Coach George Allen enjoyed some movies he saw last week of the Ram-Cowboy scrimmage including the promising actor named Talbert. "I was impressed with his quickness and toughness," said Allen.

Talbert says the biggest adjustment he sees in pro ball is "learning to get off with the ball. In college about the only passing team we'd run up against was Baylor. Because most other clubs emphasized running, we'd sit back and wait for them to come to us."

No one expects Talbert to break into the "Fearsome Foursome" this season. But with age creeping up on Rosey Grier (he's now 35), the day will come when a replacement is needed.

Long, Hot Summer Ahead at Pro Football Camps

NEW YORK — (NEA) — For the next six weeks they will squint into the broiling mid-summer sun, sweat dripping from beneath their helmets into little pools on the ground . . .

Under their breath, they will curse the assistant coaches . . . the blocking sleds . . . the tackling dummies . . . the wind sprints . . . the endless blackboard sessions . . .

By 10 p.m. they will drop wearily into bed, the rookies, free agents and the aging 10-year men tossing, listening for the footsteps of the assistant coaches . . .

For some, the opening of a door, the dreaded words, "coach wants to see you . . ."

And then the words, "we're sorry . . . too much experience at that position . . . too old . . . we have a minor league team in Bridgeport . . ."

Head lowered, moving uneasily from foot-to-foot, finally leaving to toss and turn again until morning . . .

Then past the staring eyes at breakfast, eyes that know sooner or later an assistant coach will be opening other doors . . .

Into the locker room, over to the equipment manager, weak smiles on both sides of the equipment cage as the helmet is turned in, the shoulder pads . . .

Handshakes . . . quiet words . . .

Then a last look at the practice field, a slow walk to the car . . .

Thoughts of the long ride home, facing the family, the neighbors, the kids . . .

Back at camp now, the sun hotter, more sweating, more cursing . . .

Waiting for precious Fridays . . .

Equipment stuffed into the big duffle bags, air-conditioned buses at the dormitory for the trip to the airport . . .

The jet waiting, the excited stewardesses smiling, the captain with his welcomes and friendly-skies-of-United smile . . .

From airport to gleaming hotel, feeling like a basic trainee on a weekend pass . . . streiched out on the soft bed, eyes closed . . .

Down Sunday morning to the training table and huge steaks and the weak tea with toast and honey . . .

Out to the triple-tiered concrete and steel stadium, the early-comers gaping as the buses pull up to the clubhouse entrance . . .

Through the lines of kids with autograph books, into the clean, neat dressing room with its row of lockers and its fresh white uniforms . . .

The trainer taping ankles, knees, ribs . . . The knotted stomachs . . . smooth, quick, pre-game workouts . . . The return to the dressing room . . . stares at the concrete floor . . .

Finally, door opening . . . the rhythmic click of cleats on stone . . . stadium banners waving . . . cheers from one side . . . boos from the other . . . national anthem . . . how many times have I heard that . . . the referee's whistle . . . suicide squad . . . the kick . . . the tackle . . .

Sixty minutes . . . grown men clawing for jobs . . . for security in a profession that offers none . . .

And in the stands . . . fans sloshing more beer into pot bellies . . . sunday afternoon out . . . Monday morning to union-guaranteed jobs . . . eight hours . . . then home to television . . . white knights . . . white tornadoes . . . listerine . . . and ice-blue secret . . .

Scoreboard clock ticking the seconds . . . 00:03 . . . 00.02 . . . 00.01 . . . 00.00 . . .

Back to the dressing room . . . grimy now and cluttered . . . steam from the shower room . . . knots of sweating reporters . . .

Out of the air-conditioned bus . . . to the waiting jet . . . smiling stewardesses and their captain at the bridge . . .

Buses bumping back over country roads . . . to the little dormitory rooms . . . the broiling summer sun . . . the blocking sleds . . . and the footsteps of assistant coaches . . .

5 Brown Vets in Revolt

Combined News Services

Declaring that he will not be intimidated "by any person or group of individuals," Cleveland Browns owner Art Modell threatened suspensions and fines Saturday for five veterans who refused to report to training camp in a contract dispute.

Modell announced his stand after Cleveland attorney Carl B. Stokes informed him that the five would not report until they had signed 1967-68 contracts.

Joining in the players' strike were Leroy Kelly, John Brown, Mike Howell, John Wooten and Sidney Williams.

All were due to report to training camp Saturday at noon.

"There is no place for actions such as this in professional sports," Modell said.

Referring to the situation as unreasonable, Modell said Stokes had followed up his telegram with a telephone call at noon Saturday saying that "all five players have stated that if one of them is traded to another club in the National Football League that the remaining four also must be traded."

Cornerback Booker Edgerson signed his 1967 contract, ending a player strike against the Buffalo Bills. But in another development, the AFL club lost the services of all-league guard and team captain Billy Shaw, through injury.

Edgerson became the eighth and final man to return to the Bills training camp since the walkout began Thursday over pay raises. All the strikers were veterans.

Shaw suffered a torn ligament in his right knee during a scrimmage and will be sidelined for the duration of the training period and for the first five or six games of the regular season.

Admirals Emphasize Passing

Passing. That's what coach Shelby Calhoun of the Admirals has been concentrating on for the past few workouts and from the looks of things, he has aimed in the right direction.

The Continental League team, in workouts at St. John Bosco High School in Bellflower, went through "the best workout ever" Friday, according to Calhoun, and quarterbacks drew most of the praise.

Colorado State University's Bob Wolfe, who jumped the gun by reporting to camp two weeks early, is "throwing hard and is ready," said Calhoun.

Backing up Wolfe is Jack Reilly, all CCAA selection for two years at Cal State Long Beach and Jim Ferguson, former Washington State signal-caller.

On the receiving end of things, Calhoun noted that tight end Ron Coleman and flanker Jack Tucker of CSLB, were latching on to their share of the aerials.

The workouts, which are open to the public, are scheduled today at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. and week nights from 7 to 9:15 at the school, located on Bellflower Blvd., one block north of Rosecrans Blvd.

MOUNTAIN OF A MAN

Diron Talbert, the Rams' No. 5 draft choice who looks as large as Mount Rushmore — and his solid, raw-boned features are just as finely chiseled — has equipment aide Bill Dunn adjust shoulder pads at training camp. Talbert, one four brothers to play at U. of Texas, hails from football's version of the Cartwright family.

Mathis Set for Aug. 2 Ring Scrap

The arrival of big Buster Mathis and his middleweight stablemate Skeeter McClure from New York Tuesday will complete the roster for the new Pacific Boxing Club's all-star inaugural show scheduled for the Los Angeles Sports Arena Aug. 2.

Already on deck are Italian heavyweight champion Sante Amonti, who will take on popular Scrap Iron Johnson, and Irish Wayne Heath of Oklahoma, who meets the 245-pound Mathis.

Rounding out the Pacific Boxing Club Sports Arena card, California middleweight champion Joltin' Johnny Smith will face the promising McClure and popular teenager Tony (Kid) Longoria, tangles with Idaho heavyweight Lou Philipps in an opening 10-rounder.

Mathis, McClure, Amonti, Smith and Philipps will do their training stints at downtown Los Angeles' Main Street Gym while Scrap Iron, Heath and Longoria will workout at Jake Shugrue's Gym.

The Aug. 2 card will be the first West Coast showing of the 6-foot-4 Mathis.

Lakers Plan Free Clinic

Long Beach area boys will have a chance to learn basketball from the pros Monday when the Lakers stage a free instructional clinic at Lakewood High School at 12:30 p.m.

Coach Bill van Breda Kolff and several Laker players will be on hand to demonstrate drills and give individual instruction. The clinic is open to all boys 12 years of age and older. Boys who did not pre-register are advised to come early to sign up.

Other features of the session will be a showing of the Laker highlight film and drawings for Laker basketballs and t-shirts.

Each participant also will receive two free tickets to a 1967-68 Laker home game.

L.B. Falcons Prepare for 4th Grid Season

The Long Beach Falcons of the Western Football League pitch camp Wednesday, preparing for their fourth year of competition.

The first workout will be held at John Anson Ford Park in Bell Gardens at 6:30 p.m. The opening league game will take place on Aug. 27.

Expected back for the 1967 season are mainstays Gene Avery, Ron Chronister and Ray Mackey. Avery and Mackey anchored the defensive wall at tackle positions while Chronister developed into one of the Falcons' top running backs last season.

Coach Al Williams, looking at the coming campaign with an eye on the newcomer Admirals of the Continental League, said, "From all appearances, there'll be more balance throughout the league.

"We will have less material to start with but we hope to build up our squad as the season progresses."

Williams must reduce his squad to 40 players by Aug. 20, according to Western Football League rules.

Assisting Williams will be Wixie Robinson from Pepperdine and Jerry Baloga of UCLA.

All home games for the Falcons this season will be played at St. John Bosco field in Bellflower.

Now Is Time to Save Anchovies

This is an important week in the lives of all ocean anglers. The decision by the Fish and Game Commission on whether to allow the reduction of 200,000 tons of anchovies annually, instead of the present 75,000 tons, is expected to effect vitally every sportfisherman who comes to the Southern California coast to try for game fish.

The meeting of the commission will be at 9 a.m. in Room No. 115, Old State Bldg., 217 W. 1st St., Los Angeles, and this writer expects to be at the press table until the matter is finished. I only hope that I see dozens of Long Beach faces in the audience. Let's fill the place; there's plenty of room, and don't you forget that the commercials will be there with all the propaganda they can muster.

I am not going to repeat the many warnings about the danger of depleting our forage fish. Most of us who have the issue at heart have written postcards, letters and telegrams. All of that is behind us. Now let's turn out to show a bit of force in the hearing room.

There is one letter that I wish to print in the next section of this column. It was written by Nicholas A. Miraglia, of the FA Missile Systems Evaluation Group, Fort Sill, Okla., to the commission and Nicholas, who read about the problem in my column, sent a copy of it to men. The letter to the commission is as follows in the next section:

"I AM SERVING MY BELOVED country in the United States Army at Fort Sill, Okla. As a soldier I look forward with anticipation to going home after a long period of time to see my family and enjoy my favorite sport, ocean fishing.

"While in college my major was marine biology, which I am planning to continue when I serve my two years. I am quite familiar with the productivity of the sea and the most vital part anchovies play in it. Reducing the number of anchovies will only cause a gread reduction in game fish along our coast. We might not see the effect in our lifetime, but I would like for my son to enjoy the same thrills and benefits that I have enjoyed.

"Too often we Americans spoil and change what should be left to nature. Looking back in history, our great plains buffalo have virtually vanished from the face of the earth because people were trying to get rich quickly at the expense of others.

"As a fellow sportsman and human being, I plead with you to stop this reduction of anchovies and save something for our guys and fellow sportsmen to enjoy. You could possibly ruin one of the biggest sports in California. We are depending on you, our commissioners, to make the right decision."

DIRECTOR WALTER SHANNON and his Department of Fish and Game have my highest respect, but I and thousands of others refuse to bo along with this nonsense that 200,000 tons of anchovies may be taken without harm to the fishery. That amount and more could be taken without harm if the commercials would do their seining 50 to 100 miles at sea where the department's biologists have been doing their counting.

But show me a commercial fisherman who wants to go that far to net a few paltry tons of anchovies that won't bring him any profit. If he can net the fish just outside the breakwater, he can make a few dollars.— darned few, I might add, if the prices remain what they were for the last two years.

Not only that, but the department wants to extend the commercial season from seven to eight months to be certain that the commercial men have enough time to harvest that 200,000 tons. The fact that that 200,000 tons will be ground into protein supplement for livestock and poultry feed and fertilizer makes the blood of the average sportfishermen boil.

"And well it should because he remembers well that the uncontrolled sardine harvest by commercials ruined that fishery 20 years ago. I might add that the mackerel fishery seems to have gone the way of the sardines. If not, where are the mackerel?

OUTDOOR PERSONALS — The Long Beach Power Squadron has a busy August, starting with a fish luau at the Belmont Shore Lions' Club Saturday, Aug. 5. The Sea Bags will do the cooking. The Santa Cruz Island cruise is slated for Aug. 12 to 19, and the Sacramento River Delta cruise for trailered boaters, Aug. 26 to Sept. 2.

If you take the Santa Cruz Island cruise and want to go ashore, you'll need a permit. Telephone the Santa Cruz Island Company, 615 S. Flower St., Los Angeles 90017, at 628-1629, and ask for an application form. Return the completed form and $5. The permit, good for 30 days, will be mailed to you.

When 3,000 pounds of trout are planted at Irvine Lake next Thursday, it will make a total of 92,299 pounds that have been stocked in the lake this season, and all from private hatcheries. It's the highest plant of any lake in the nation. In addition, catfish totaling 9,480 pounds have been planted.

Next Thursday's plant will end the program for this year because the water temperature is too high for trout survival in August.

IN DAD'S FOOTSTEPS

Eddie McEwen Jr. shows that he, too, likes fishing, just like his father, skipper of the Pacific Queen, out of Pacific Landing. The Queen and other boats have been taking many albacore, and that's what Eddie Jr. is holding after a trip last week aboard the Queen.

Soccer Needs Hypo; Merger Next Step?

NEW YORK (AP) — One American professional soccer league has completed its season. The other is drawing to a close. No one is happy over 1967 attendance. No one is talking about quitting.

The Columbia Broadcasting System will make up its mind in about one month whether to renew its $1,000,000 yearly contract with the National Professional Soccer League. It was pleased with the ratings.

Merger talks are under way between the non-sanctioned NPSL and the internationally approved United Soccer Association. Both leagues agree a merger would be advantageous.

Ken Macker, commissioner of the NPSL, says his league invested about $8 million in the 1967 season, "but you can't say it is lost because much of it involves transfer fees — the purchase, in other words, of foreign stars."

Dick Walsh, the USA commissioner, said he could not estimate the profit or loss in his league, "but I think everyone is optimistic."

Jack Dolph, director of sports at CBS, declared:

"We were quite pleased with the early soccer ratings. They have come down a little, but that's normal for this time of year. They are about what we expected or maybe a little better.

"Our average Sunday audience has been about 2.5 million homes, or about 20 per cent of the available viewers which is pretty good."

Macker said NPSL crowds have "averaged about 5,000 which was what we expected at the start." The USA, which imported foreign teams intact, did better with 564,080 for 73 games of the regular season, or an average of 8,512. The USA championship game, in which the Los Angeles Wolves beat the Washington Whips 6-5 in a sudden death overtime after 121 minutes of play, drew 17,824.

"It was as good a game as I have ever seen in any sport," said Walsh, a former Los Angeles Dodger executive.

"Our owners felt the first year's results were just about as difficult as expected in introducing a new sport in this country," said Macker. "If we had any surprises it is that our audiences came from non-soccer people. Atlanta was our leading city and it has no ethnic soccer groups."

"We had a very good year considering all the problems we had," said Walsh. "I think most clubs feel it was a year of promotion and of organization. I think we left a good taste in everyone's mouths in all our league cities."

Both leagues were solidly promoted, with prominent professional football and baseball men among their backers. At the outset, the USA won the approval of the United States Soccer Football Association, which is associated with the Federation Internationale de Football Associations, or FIFA.

The NPSL, lacking FIFA approval, recruited individuals rather than teams. Next year the USA plans to start individual recruiting and buildings.

Crux of the merger talks is the fact six cities have rival USA and NPSL clubs: New York, Boston, Chicago, Toronto, Los Angeles and the San Francisco Bay area.

* * * *

UP TO six weeks ago, I felt we had six real tough obstacles to the merger," said Macker. "I feel we have solved two or maybe three of these. Our owners do not think survival is conditional on the merger, but a merger would immeasurably contribute to the game."

Macker set Aug. 15 as a target date to complete the merger, declaring that delay beyond that date would make the organization of teams for the 1968 season complicated and difficult.

didn't have a single birdie on his card Saturday and had to sink a 20-foot putt for his par at the 17th.

Nicklaus said he wasn't happy with his putting.

Goalby birdied two of the last three holes, sinking an 18-footer at the 17th.

"I think my chances are good on a course liike this," he said. "A guy can get sort of lucky and someone else not so lucky. Just a foot here and there can make a lot of difference."

Palmer started with birdies at the first two holes and then didn't get another. He missed putts of seven and five feet on the last two holes.

"I had a lot of birdie putts I didn't get," he said. "I don't know how many, I don't give a darn."

FAN CHEATS FOR PALMER; ARNIE MAD

DENVER (AP)—An overzealous Arnold Palmer golf fan tried to help Arnie but he'd have no part of it.

Palmer's second shot landed in the crowd banking the fourth-hole green. Quickly the ball spurted out and landed about six feet from the pin.

An irate Palmer demanded to know approximately where it had landed. The gallery was cleared away, Arnie dropped the ball and chipped onto the green.

He got his par 4.

Ryun and Earl on U.S. Team

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Ryun, holder of the world record in the mile and 1,500 meters, was among the 51 athletes named Saturday by the Amateur Athletic Union to participate in three international track meets in Europe in August.

The six world record holders on the U.S. team are Ryun, Ralph Boston in the long jump, Randy Matson in the shotput, Tommie Smith in 200 and 400 meters and 220 and 440 yards, Paul Wilson in the pole vault and Earl McCullough, who recently tied the record for the 110-meter hurdles.

The American team will meet a British team in London, Aug. 12; West Germany at Dusseldorf, Aug. 16-17; and Spain and Italy at Viareggio, Italy, Aug. 19-20. They will leave for Europe immediately after the special meet between the Americas and the All-Europe team in Montreal, Aug. 9-10.

In addition to the world record holders the squad also lists Ed Burke in the hammer throw, Gerry Lindgren in the 3-mile run, John Thomas in the high jump and Ron Laird, walker, all of whom own U.S. marks.

Slugger Jimmy Foxx's bronze plaque will be draped in mourning when baseball officials gather Monday for the induction of Red Ruffing, Lloyd Waner and the late Branch Rickey into the Hall of Fame.

Foxx, one of the greatest hitters in baseball history, choked to death on a piece of meat while eating dinner at his brother's Friday night.

* * * *

FORMER all-America basketball star Terry Dischinger, who also received all-pro honors with the Detroit Pistons has won the Army Commendation Medal for his work in the Chemical Biological and Radiological Branch of the Army.

GERMAN racing driver Gunther Klass was killed Saturday and two others injured when his Ferrari went out of control and hit a tree during practice for the Mugello Circuit race in Florence, Italy.

Klass' death ran the total to seven of people killed on the European circuit this season. Ferrari withdrew from the race in sign of mourning.

MAJOR LEAGUE baseball returns to Milwaukee Monday night after the city was abandoned by the major leagues in 1965.

A crowd in excess of 40,000 are expected to be on hand when the Chicago White Sox and Minnesota Twins meet, possibly the first time in baseball history that teams from the same league have played an exhibition contest after the season began.

Handsome Boy Soundly Whips Buckpasser in Brooklyn 'Cap

Combined News Services

Handsome Boy, taking full advantage of a 20-pound advantage in the weights, soundly whipped the great Buckpasser in the 1¼ miles of the $106,700 Brooklyn Handicap at Aqueduct Saturday.

Under 116 pounds, compared to the 136 toted by Buckpasser, Handsome Boy from Jack Dreyfus Jr.'s Hobeau Farm set all the pace and finished in front with an ever widening eight lengths separating him from the tiring Buckpasser.

It was another 4½ lengths back to Mr. Right with Ring Twice fourth and Yonder last in the field of five.

Handsome Boy, boldly ridden by Eddie Belmonte, covered the distance in a sizzling 2:00 1-5, only three fifths of a second off the track record to pick up the winner's purse of $69,355.

It was the second major victory in eight days for the 4-year-old son of Beau Gar-Mraullah, who a week ago won the $100,000 plus Haskell Handicap at Monmouth Park.

As the third choice in the small field, Handsome Boy paid $12.60, $3.60 and $3. Buckpasser, earning $21,340 for Ogden Phipps to run his bank account to $1,440,454, paid $2.60 and $2.20 while a $2 show ticket on Mr. Right returned $3.

The defeat cost Buckpasser his chance to join the select group of three who had won the handicap triple crown by taking the Metropolitan, Suburban and Brooklyn Handicaps in one year. The triple crown group is made up of Whisk Broom II, Tome Foo, sire of Buckpasser, and Kelso, the world's leading money winning horse.

Actually Buckpasser, whose only other setback this year came when he packed 135 pounds, never was in the chase. But his supporters in the crowd of 48,487 were waiting for him to turn on his torrid stretch drive — a style of running that carried him to a nerve tingling victory over Ring Twice in the Suburban July 4.

Trainer Eddie Neloy disclosed afterwards that Buckpasser had suffered a slight cut on his right front leg, but that "it had no bearing on his defeat."

In Reality, backed down to 3-10, breezed to an easy one and three-quarter length victory at Monmouth Park in the 30th running of the $55,000 choice stakes.

Going to the front at the start of the 1 1-16 mile race, In Reality led all the way and entered the stretch four lengths in front.

JIM WHITE—

Wind to the $117,900 Hollywood Derby winner's circle just two weeks ago, broke his collar bone.

Saturday's mating was perfect, even though Hartack had pre-race doubts.

"I thought this colt could run good," said Bill, to an exclusive group of newsmen, many of whom still won't talk to him because of past differences, "but I didn't really know if he could whip the likes of Trondheim and Dignitas. I just had to get him on the pace and keep him there. He responded perfectly."

"Perfectly" is the precise word. Trondheim broke on top, as expected, but Jim White kept him in sight without the aid of binoculars. After the first-quarter mile, Jim White had speared the lead, never to give it up.

His only threat, if that's the correct word, came from Poleax, a colt yet to win a race but one not to overlook in the future. Poleax, whose father was named The Axe, stumbled at the gate, appeared dazed for a period, then came on at the finish like Tarzan chasing Jane. The spirited move was a bit late.

Jim White has both quite a background and a group of owners, to say the least. He was bred in England, but foaled in California at the Yellow King Ranch, which is located in the neighborhood of Chino. His co-owners, Gordon Bowsher and Eric Micklewood, are as English as fish and chips.

He got his name from the English bloodstock agent who arranged the sale in which Bowsher purchased Jim White. "I knew this man got me a bloody good horse," said the exuberant Bowsher Saturday, "so I thought the only right thing to do was name the little baby after him."

Jerry Lambert who skippered Native Diver to victory in the Gold Cup one week ago, could have won this classic with Poleax, but encountered problems.

Snapped the former Fort Ord private, with reason: "What a hard-luck little dud he is. Everytime I've ridden him something has happened to keep him from winning. Today he went on his nose at the break and he was almost that way for the first sixteenth (of a mile). He broke so hard the ground cupped out from under him."

Lambert could have gone further. When Poleax straightened out, he started passing horses as if they were parking meters. On the turn for home, Lambert saw Dignitas (Bill Shoemaker) anticipating the same thing — an opening. Lambert took the long way to avoid an accident and thus circled four horses, losing all chance for victory.

Bill Mahorney (Broad Shadows) called the start a mess. So did Shoemaker, who maintained Dignitas could have won "if we ever got clear sailing—but the start was terrible, horses were going all which ways."

Alvaro Pineda (Trondheim) had a completely scarlet left-hand from the pressure of trying to hold-in his colt. "If I hadn't held him so hard," sighted the little Latin, "I could have eliminated those two horses on the outside that bothered me with no trouble."

Paul Revere didn't have to announce to the citizens Saturday that the British were coming. Jim White and his masters already had arrived . . . and don't think they won't be back for another victory banquet.

WALTER BLUM

Jockeys in Boost for Blum

The Jockeys Association, Inc., of which Walter Blum is not a member, unanimously adopted a resolution Saturday to support the nationally known rider who was given a 35-day suspension "for associating with undesirables".

Walter Mahorney, representing the board of directors, issued this statement:

"The Jockeys Association directors are not familiar with details of the investigation that led to the ruling by Hollywood Park stewards. However, we do know Walter Blum as a rider who has earned our respect. We feel that the penalty he has been given is disproportionate to the stewards ruling.

"The directors also believe that jockey Blum should have been allowed to confront the witnesses against him."

Blades Ice Skating Tourney Aug. 6-7

The Arctic Blades Invitational Figure Skating championships have been scheduled for Aug. 6-7 at the Iceland Arena, 8041 Jackson, Paramount.

Synonymous with top-flight competitive skating, the Arctic Blades were represented in the 1960 Olympics by bronze medalist Barbara Ann Roles and in the 1964 Games by Peggy Fleming, who later won National and World titles.

Start good from gate, won driving. Mutuel Pool $264,450.
OBAL, unhurried to the far turn, took a position along the outside, rallied steadily to wear down RARE QUALITY in the stretch and won all out over GLAD TIDINGS. The latter, slow to respond to urging on the far turn, passed horses on the outside, went to the rail for the drive, showed speed while under pressure and finished fastest of all. RARE QUALITY saved ground, took command in the upper stretch along the rail, swerved under a left handed whip and slackened.

6779—SECOND RACE. 6 furlongs. Fillies & Mares. 4 year olds and up. Purse $4500. Top claiming price $5000.

PROPER PROOF, allowed to race on his own courage early, found room along the rail to rally in the upper stretch, wore down BLUESTONE gradually and won all out. The latter broke on top, shared the early lead with DIEGO SECURITY, shook that one off then did not have enough left to match strides with the winner. DIEGO SECURITY forced the early pace from the outside and slackened.
SCRATCHED — Binora, Tile Dough, Scottish Imp, Chris, Hidden Clue, Not by Chance.

JIM WHITE broke alertly, shared the early lead from the outside while racing on his own courage, responded to pressure in the upper stretch to draw clear and won all out. POLEAX stumbled badly leaving the gate, was slow to recover, found his full stride on the turn, rallied coming into the stretch while wide and slackened in the closing strides. BROAD SHADOWS was taken in hand early, saved ground, encountered heavy traffic in the stretch and rallied when clear to finish with good speed. DIGNITAS lacked early speed, raced along the inside, had to check in the upper stretch when blocked and improved his position in the late stages. TRONDHEIM broke alertly, was under stout restraint early, remained along the rail and lugged out. RETAIL KING lacked early speed. EXALTED RULLAH raced between horses and weakened. CAPTAIN VANCOUVER was in close quarters and weakened.

LOS ORIENTALES dropped back at the start, lagged to the stretch turn, rallied along the outside to get by the leaders and won while drifting in. GRAND FINALE offered his best bid while along the rail on the final turn and lost some of his punch in the final furlong. TAMIRISH had to steady on the first turn when bumped, followed the pacemaker to the upper stretch, made his bid but was not good enough.

Salta Nine Rallies for Win, Tie

Salta Pontiac came from behind twice Saturday to pull out a 3-2, 10 inning victory and 2-2, 11-inning tie with San Fernando. Randy Guesno and Darryl Thomas will be on the mound today when the Saltans journey to San Diego.

Tony Guggana, who replaced the injured Mike Burns last week, made his first hit of the season a winning one — singling home Dale Duncan with two away in the 10th.

Down 2-1, the California Collegiate Baseball League leaders rallied with two gone in the ninth, Gene Dusan walking on a full count and Thomas running for him. Rod O'Brien, who singled in the first run, doubled to left and Thomas scored standing up.

42-DAY MEETING AT DEL MAR OPEN FOR BUSINESS TUESDAY

DEL MAR (Special) Thoroughbred racing fans will head south once again when Del Mar opens for its 28th season Tuesday. Featuring a climate perfect for summertime racing, the competition always is exciting "where the turf meets the surf."

Races will begin at 2 p.m. six days a week, Monday through Saturday.

Chief objectives during the 42-day seaside session will be records established last year when 487-329 fans attended Del Mar for a daily average of 11,603. The mutuel handle averaged $1,114,018 per day. Considering the talent, both equine and human, which will be on hand at Del Mar, the 1966 standards definitely are in danger.

As always, the two richest races of the season are Del Mar's companion classics for two-year-olds, the prestigious $100,000 Del Mar Futurity on closing day, Sept. 12, and the $60,000 Del Mar Debutante exclusively for fillies on Saturday, Sept. 2.

Other coveted races on the schedule, which this summer will offer more than $2 million in stakes and purses, are the $20,000-added San Diego Handicap on Aug. 5, the $25,000-added Ramona Handicap on Aug. 19, the $25,000-added Del Mar Derby on Aug. 26 and the $30,000-added Del Mar Handicap on Sept. 4.

Added to the slate is the $10,000-added Futurity Trial, a final prelude to the Del Mar Futurity which will be inaugurated Aug. 30.

California's first equine millionaire, Mr. and Mrs. L.K. Shapiro's amazing Native Diver, who went over the top with his third consecutive victory in the Hollywood Gold Cup, will head the handicap division again. The 'Diver, long a favorite with Del Mar racegoers, pushed his earnings to $1,002,850 with his Gold Cup triumph.

Foes of the 'Diver are expected to include such formidable campaigners as Old Mose, "Horse of the Meeting" at Del Mar in 1966 when he won three stakes; Quicken Tree, Fleet Host, Hill Clown, Nasharco, Wingover, Chiclero, Carang, Sledge, Biggs and Traveling Dust.

Desert Trial, acclaimed best filly or mare of the Del Mar season although a mere three-year-old in 1966, will return in quest of additional laurels and foremost on her schedule is the Ramona Handicap, which she won easily last summer over older distaffers.

Also racing at Del Mar will be Admirably, America's finest feminine sprinter; Amerigo's Fancy, Fleet Treat, Ormea, Mellow Marsh, Nevada Marga, April Dawn, Khal Ireland and First Invitation.

Ruken, upset victor in the Del Mar Futurity a year ago, will be among three-year-olds competing at the seaside course and among his likely rivals are Rising Market, Dr. Roy E., Jungle Road, Hill Shine, Duncan Junction, Kahl Kabee, Wild Lark, Pagan Gem, Wolfgang and San Devil.

The feminie branch of the three-year-old division appears particularly strong, with such outstanding fillies as Fish House, Mira Femme, Spinning Around, Forgiving, Native Honey, Deauville and Desrt Law expected to battle it out.

YESTERDAY'S HEROES

'Orchid Man' Carpentier Was Idol of U.S. Women

There is no flower a woman adores more than the orchid. And there has never been a fighter the women of America idolized more than Georges Carpentier, "The Orchid Man."

Boxing had been strictly a sport attended by males until the incredibly handsome Carpentier journeyed from France to do battle with Jack Dempsey for the world heavyweight championship in 1921.

Besides his good looks, Carpentier was a genuine French hero of World War I — winner of the Croix de Guerre, the Legion of Honor and the Medalle Militaire.

Thousands of women flocked to Boyle's Thirty Acres in Jersey City for the fight, which drew 91,000 persons and a gross gate of $1,788,236. It was the first million-dollar gate in boxing history.

As a fistic contest, the match probably should never have been held. Carpentier, although world light heavyweight champion, was nothing more than a blown-up middleweight at 168. Dempsey broke the Frenchman's nose in the first round and "The Orchid Man" was counted out in the fourth.

Carpentier, however, loves to relive one moment of glory.

"It was in the second round," he recalls, "I saw an opening and hit him with a right hand. But there were only 10 or 15 seconds left in the round and I didn't have time to follow it up.

"Dempsey will tell you he was badly hurt. That is what I always have liked about Jack. He is a regular fellow."

Carpentier, now 73, runs a popular bar and restaurant in a swank area of Paris near the Madeleine, a famous church. His young wife, Bridgette, is in the dress business.

Carpentier is amused by the number of people who claim to have been at Boyle's Thirty Acres that day in 1921. "It was the first million-dollar gate, but if all those people had been there it would have been a 10-million-dollar gate," he laughs.

Carpentier is impressed with Cassius Clay, deposed heavyweight champion. "No one has ever had such speed," he marvels.

Plaza Bullring Opens

TIJUANA — The grand re-opening of Plaza Monumental, third largest bullring in the world, is scheduled here today.

The beautiful arena, known as the "Bullring-by-the-Sea," has been closed for three years. It is situated on the coast of Baja California just across the international border from the United States.

The plaza's inaugural corrida will feature Gaston Santos, Mexican rejoneador who fights bulls on horseback; Robert Ryan, an American matador, and the Mexican star Alfredo Leal.

GOLF WINNERS

Climax Cracks Record

By DAVE TAYLOR

Three American Power Boat Assn. quarter-mile world speed records took the deep six as Fresno's Jim Ramsey lead-footed his blown fuel hydro "Climax" in a 170-mph sprint to spark a field of 80 of the West's fastest water dragsters in qualifying at Marine Stadium Saturday.

The drag boats, more than 100 strong, will roar off the starting line in boat-for-boat elimination runs today at the Stadium beginning at noon.

Ramsey started the record-breaking fever early in the day when he piloted his 17-foot Sanger, powered with a 440-Chrysler blown fuel engine, through the traps at 170.77.

He could not back up the time, however, for a world record at that mark as the most he could squeeze out of "Climax" in his second run was 165.44.

This was enough to establish the 165 mph time as a world record since the prior APBA mark had been 159 plus. Ramsey will be shooting to back up the higher 170 mph mark in racing today.

"Climax" has been clocked at speeds over 174 in the quarter mile.

The unblown fuel hydro record was also topped in Saturday's qualifying runs as Yorba Linda's Jerry Gleason rocketed his hydro flite 170-Chevvy powered "Avenger" for a 122.78 mark.

And the outboards came in for their share of glory as A.S. Passantino of Los Angeles did the quarter-mile trip at 76.97 mph in his De Silva hydro outboard "Snicky" powered by 100 horsepower Merc.

The dragsters went through their qualifying workouts before more than 1,200 people who basked on the sunny strand of the newly refurbished Marine Stadium Saturday. The weekend meet marks the first speedboat event in more than three years where fuel mixtures have been allowd as propellants in Marine Stadium.

The dragsters have until now been restricted to straight gasoline power which has resulted in a considerable limitation on their maximum speed. The Marine Stadium facelifting has resulted in additional racing space which makes the use of fuel preparations safe for events there.

Double Mat Main

A double main event tops the wrestling card at Municipal Auditorium Tuesday night. Mark Lewin engages The Mad Butcher in the nightcap, Mike DiBiase-Karl Gotch meet Pedro Morales-Victor Rivera in a tag bout.

Schorovsky Wins Virginia CC Stakes

Don Schorvosky fired a 75-10—65 to capture this week's Virginia County Club Sweepstakes Saturday.

Class A Low Net — Don Schorovsky 75-10—65, Paul Albert 79-13—66. Class A Blind Bogey (74) — Ralph Murray, Al Davis, Luke Foto, Dan Ridder.
Class B Low Net — Roger Young 87-17—65, Art Jones 86-18—68, Ed Drum 83-15—68. Class B Blind Bogey (78) — Res Dupuy, Roger Dunn, Carlos Gates, Dr. Harry Jacob.

City Baseball

At City College: 12 noon, L.B. Angels vs. Mustangs; 2:45, Tigers vs. Lakewood Moose.
At Wilson: 12 noon, Little Jims vs. Pirates; 2:45, L.B. Traders vs. Braves.

Karate Tournament Switching to Arena

The fourth annual International Karate Championships are moving. Because of consistent sellouts in the Long Beach Municipal Auditorium, the July 29-30 tournament will be held in the Long Beach Arena.

The Century Club will again act as official host with Ed Parker returning as executive director. Many Hollywood celebrities will be on hand to present over $3,000 in trophies.

EARL WILSON'S BROADWAY

Christopher Basks in Success; Offers Pour In

New York — "Poor Sybil" Jordan Christopher said. "She was all full of chat the night I opened . . . talking to me . . . trying to keep my mind off being nervous.

"I said to her, 'It could be worse. It could be a musical. Then I couldn't get a note out. This way maybe I just wouldn't be able to get a word out.'"

But Sybil's worries were needless, and her 26-year-old husband was excellent in the Michael Crawford role in "Black Comedy," playing opposite Geraldine Page in his first Broadway show. To the extent that producers are talking to him about other shows and "the things offered me for the movies are all of a sudden on a much higher level."

Previously Jordan had only done school plays at Buchtel High, Akron, and some summer stock with the Kemley Players there, though he came to New York and studied acting, and went to an open call for a part he didn't get. But there a friendly soul named Jerry Love heard him sing and said:

"You know, you got a great voice. Why don't you make some records?"

THAT LED HIM to "The Wild Ones" rock-n-roll group, to Arthur, and eventually to become Sybil's husband. That also took him out of the assorted jobs that would-be actors from out-of-town find in New York.

"I worked as a service bartender in Manhasset, I unloaded trucks at United Parcel to get money to go home for Christmas, I worked for a record shop on 9th Avenue making record deliveries, six days a week, nine hours a day, $72.50 a week, and I also worked as a commercial artist, which decided me not to be a commercial artist. I pasted up things mostly. The pupils of my eyes were like pinheads.

"My parents were always wiring me money, and I got to know the woman at Western Union. She said, 'You have marvelous parents.'"

JORDAN HOPES his acclaimed performances in "Black Comedy" will indeed bring him better movies.

"I'm not satisfied with what I've done. Not at all," he told me the other afternoon at Gallagher's. "That picture 'The Return of the 7,' which we made in Spain, with Yul Brynner — the trip to Spain was the best part of it.

"I've been offered a lot of variety things on TV, but I'm trying to squelch the rock-n-roll image. Oh, I'll still record and write music, but now that I'm on the stage, I want to stay on it at least part of the time."

He and Sybil are taking over their country place at New City this weekend. "It's not big or ostentatious, it's a little country house with a pool that we think is beautiful," he said.

With their own 9-week-old baby daughter, they're expecting to be hosts to many relatives with lots of children from California to Wales. Jordan may even have some movie stars out and if he does he may tell them they don't always work too hard, though they think they do.

"You guys don't know how made you got it," he has told some western stars. "You go out and play cowboys and Indians and then you get all that bread. You ought to work in a rock-n-roll group once. That's labor."

THE WEEKEND WIND-UP: Bob Newhart, who hates to fly, has made so many cross-country trips by train that on his last jaunt the porters gave him a gift — monogrammed sheets for his berth . . . Playboy asked for photos of the star who appears undraped in one scene in "The Swimmer" — Burt Lancaster . . . Singer Al Martino'll work with a vocal group for the first time at the Royal Box, July 25 . . . Barbara Parkins (of "Peyton Place") is visiting John Philip Law, who's filming "Diabolik" in Rome. Ghost-hunter Hans Holzer'll head a "haunted tour" of England — including a "haunted" burlesque club. (Maybe the ghost doesn't wear a sheet) . . . "Guide For the Married Man," a big hit, was turned down by five film companies before Dick Zanuck took it for 20th Century-Fox . . . The trailer for "Half a Sixpence" cost $500,000 — more than the stage version of the show . . . Lionel Hampton and his Jazz Inner Circle will tour the Far East. Joey Heatherton, back from London, says the new fashion there is "psychedelic make-up" — flower patterns stenciled on forehead, cheeks, chin . . . The next Sandler & Young album, "More and More," is due Aug. 1 . . . Paper fashions are growing; William Guggenheim III plans a chain of his "in-dispensable disposables" . . . Frank D'Rone'll follow his Copa starring stint with a Las Vegas Sands date.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Larry Mathes met a liquor expert who can watch a Dean Martin TV show and tell you what year it was made.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Definition of a mummy: An Egyptian who is pressed for time. — Webster's Unafraid Distionary.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Some people who say they're willing to bury the hatchet make the mistake of burying it alive."

EARL'S PEARLS: Rip Taylor suggests a Republican slogan for '68: "For President, Ronald Regan, for Vice-President, Extra Added Attraction."

"We're so poor," sighs Bob Orben, "I bet we're the only family on the block with a wind-up TV set." . . . That's earl, brother.

Duce Son Producer

ROME (UPI) — The jazz-playing son of late Italian dictator Benito Mussolini has turned producer of horror movies, sources at Milan's Rodia Cines Company said Saturday. Mussolini, one of Italy's leading cool jazz pianists and composers, is married to a sister of actress Sophia Loren.

AMUSEMENTS

Monsters Very Big to Japan

TOKYO (AP) — For a people who love the delicate beauty of flower arranging and tea ceremonies, the Japanese can dream up some of the most nightmarish monsters ever projected on movie screens.

The reasons are simple: Monster films are hits and great money makers.

Japan's five major movie studios all have created their own pet monsters and nursed them into box office stars.

But Japanese monsters are — excusing a pun — litterally from out of this world.

For example, there's Gilala, a 15,000-ton refugee from outer space. It emits strong thermal rays — more powerful than nuclear weapons — from its sucking disks and hands. Built into its neck is a super radar which can detect any phenomenon on Earth.

Gilala is 197 feet tall. As if that isn't enough, it's got big round baby-pink eyes, no teeth and a piercing falsetto that makes listeners' hair stand on end.

* * * *

THEN THERE'S a Gappa. A Gappa is a triphibian born on a South Pacific island and capable of cruising undersea faster than a nuclear-powered submarine and flying faster than a Mach-2 jet.

Like Gilala, a Gappa emits death rays. But a Gappa can also belch flames from its mouth and melt buildings with temperatures of 4,000 degrees centigrade.

HAPPY HEPBURN

Katharine Hepburn has a reason for being happy in her role in Columbia's "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner." Appearing with her, and portraying her screen daughter, is her real life niece, Katharine Houghton. Heading the cast are Spencer Tracy, Sidney Poitier, Miss Hepburn and Miss Houghton.

George Kirby Says TV Broke Color Barrier

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Negro comedian George Kirby ("It took me 26 years to be an overnight success") thinks television is largely repsonbile for cracking the color barrier.

"In the last few years, American middle-class families have had Negroes visiting them almost nightly — right on the living room television set," said Kirby, himself no stranger to the picture tube.

"This guy sits there drinking a beer and suddenly there's me, Sammy Davis Jr., Bill Cosby or some other Negro entertainer talking to him.

"We're not doing any buck dance or wearing baggy pants, and the guy is being entertained. Next thing you know, he goes to a nightclub to catch the act in person and maybe he stops by and says, 'You know, you're not a bad guy.'" That's integration on a person-to-person level and that, baby, is what it's all about."

Kirby, a multi-talented entertainer who can sing, dance, mimic and do comedy routines, believes television turned to Negro entertainers "as a last resort — when some of the other faces and routines started to get old."

But, he said, the important thing was the exposure. "You get on television and you make an instant nationwide impression. Suddenly, everybody wants you."

* * * *

KIRBY IS currently one of the hottest properties in show business. He's had three weeks at Harrah's huge theater restaurant in Reno, may get his own television series and had a role in the movie, "Oh Dad, Poor Dad, Mama's Hung You in the Closet and I'm Feeling So Sad," although "my part was shorter than the title."

The burly Negro got his start in small "tan" clubs in Chicago where "the white comedians used to come by and steal material from a lot of us.

Film to Chronicle W. C. Fields' Life

By A. H. WEILER
New York Times News Service

NEW YORK — That legendary comic known variously as Micawber, "The Bank Dick," Mamatma Kane Jeeves or just plain W. C. Fields, is headed toward the screen.

Movie rights to "W. C. Fields: His Follies and Fortunes," the biography of the late comedian by Robert Lewis Taylor, have been acquired by Bill Todman. He will produce the film in association with Mark Goodson, his longtime partner in Goodson-Todman on a variety of television productions such as "What's My Line?"

The line on this subject, Todman said the other day, is that "we've always loved Fields but we also know that he has been 'discovered' by a new generation of movie-goers and that he's very much in demand. So, we looked around for a property that would do the trick and we found that this biography by Taylor was the best source for a film."

"The present plan," he went on, "is not only to make this a biographical film that will include some of the routines he did in vaudeville and in films, but also those from films he wrote under such fictitious names as Mahatma Kane Jeeves. And we also plan to include facets of his personal life, of course, that will show his philosophy and comedy."

HAVING succeeded with "How To Succeed In Business Without Really Trying," writer-producer-director David Swift now is trying in another area. He has quietly begun the production and direction of "Short Ends" for Columbia Pictures with the aid of four recent university graduates specializing in filmmaking. The film, based on Swift's original story, deals with a group of college students involved in their own movie production. Diana Gould of University of California, Los Angeles, and Marc Norman, of the University of California, have started on the script, and Chris Wilson (Stanford) and Charles Lippincott (USC) are assisting Swift in planning the film.

"The idea," Swift said, "is to show, within the boundaries of the central story, the production of films by students on various campuses — there are hundreds actually being made — and to shoot the film entirely on college campuses in California, starting in September."

"The whole purpose — and I think this has not been done before — is to bring these young people who are vitally interested in movies into the professional ranks," Swift added.

BRITAIN'S Beatles, who clicked handsomely with their first two films, "A Hard Day's Night" and "Help!," now are involved in their first animated movie and the first feature length film to be made by King Features. Titled "Yellow Submarine," a tag borrowed from one of the quartet's hit tunes, it is a direct descendant of the Beatles and King Features successful television series.

The film is planned as a wide-screen, color subject starring animated characterizations of John Lennon, Paul McCartney, George Harrison and Ringo Starr. "They are involved," executive producer Al Brodax explained, "in an original script by Lee Minoff, which spins a tale of the Beatles' search for an imaginary land of submarines under the guidance of a blustery old sea captain who previously has never left dry land.

Sandie Shaw Wows Them With Songs and Scandal

LONDON (UPI) — Sandie Shaw could be called the barefoot girl with cheek.

At 20, the freckle-faced, lank-haired singer is rated Britain's top female vocalist even though she always sings with her shoes off, and has already been named the "other woman" in a divorce case.

"A spoilt child who felt she was entitled to do anything to gain her own ends," was how the divorce court judge described her last February.

But two months later, the judges of the annual Eurovision Song Contest voted her the winner of the competition by an overwhelming margin.

Her bouncing rendition of "Puppet On a String" was watched by 200 million viewers in 17 East and West European countries — many of whom apparently were instantly converted to Sandie Shaw fans. Record sales of the song zoomed.

* * * *

THE SECRET of her popularity, especially with teen-age girl fans who make up the bulk of the pop record buying public, lies somewhere between the decision of the divorce court judge and the judges who voted her Europe's top singer.

Explorer 35 Hits Perfect Moon Orbit

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — America's fifth moon satellite, Explorer 35, swung into a lunar orbit "right on the money" Saturday and began beaming back reports on potential radiation and space dust hazards to astronauts.

"It looks beautiful," said a spokesman at the Greenbelt, Md., control center. "It's just another one of those 'textbook' things."

The 230-pound windmill-shaped spacecraft is the first American moon satellite equipped to take precise readings on the moon's rediation, micrometeoroid and magnetic environment. It is the last planned experiment of its kind before Apollo astronauts start flying to the moon.

Explorer 35 zipped into lunar orbit at 5:19 a.m. after a 23-second burst of energy from its small braking rocket slowed it by about 3,400 miles per hour. That was enough to put it within the grasp of the moon's gravity and hold it in orbit.

'Many Moons' a Howling Success as CSLB Closer

By RALPH HINMAN JR.
Drama Critic

"Many Moons," Cal State Long Beach drama department's summer show closer, was a howling success by the only critical standards applicable to childrens' plays — the kids' own reactions.

During the final performance Saturday afternoon, a nearly full-house in the campus Little Theater laughed and applauded at the right times, gave an excellent cast the courtesy of rapt attention.

What more could be asked?

* * * *

THIS MODERN fairy tale — from a short story by humorist James Thurber — follows the classic pattern of the Brothers Grimm and Hans Christian Andersen. That is, it's jam-packed with a wise king, beautiful princess, wicked stupid courtiers and a jester whose japery saves the day. And all to the accompaniment of broadly pantomimed sight-and-sound gags.

(Even a blase adult could watch this action and recall from somewhere in memory's dim recesses, childhood's pleasures in a story which begins, "Once upon a time. . . .")

Thurber's story, transformed into a stage play by Charlotte Charpenning, revolves about a beautiful princess, Christina Mitchell, who'll wither and die unless she gets her wish — the moon. King Michael Cohen is in a tizzy as he seeks the bauble.

His wise men, Lord Chamberlain Gary Squire, Royal Wizard Mark Koontz and Mathematician Les Pratt come up with nonsensical reasons why they can't supply the golden orb. Their shrewish wives, Gail Skoien and Deldee Kittrell, fail to help, either. Nor can the goldsmith's daughter, Judy Hulen, who also seeks to wed the mathematician.

* * * *

BUT JESTER Joel Rogo applies common sense, supplies the moon as imagined by the princess — a little golden necklace to hang about her neck. But what happens when the real thing shines in the sky?

There's the real lesson for the young audience: they learn, precisely as does the princess, that humans don't always get their heart's desires, that compromise sometimes is necessary.

The moral, of course, it told far more subtle. It's disguised in the high, rollicking good fun on stage — which receives a substantial contribution from the antics of the Royal Nurse, Susan Thomas, and the Lullaby Lady, Kathy Roxby, who introduces the play to the audience.

Directing was Kenneth Lyman, with scenery by Dennis King. Rich, medieval costumes were designed by Timoth King. Staging the dances were Ruth Glunt, Les Pratt and Joel Rogo.

Ross Hunter Will Produce Sweet Charity at Universal

Ross Hunter has been handed the important assignment of producing Universal's forthcoming "Sweet Charity" by Edward Muhl, vice-president in charge of production.

Starring Shirley MacLaine and based on the Broadway musical hit, "Sweet Charity" is planned as one of Universal's all-time biggest productions, and already has been earmarked for roadshow engagements. The multi-million-dollar picture, which is scheduled to start Nov. 1 for release in October, 1968, will be filmed in 70mm Technicolor with stereophonic sound.

The production reins were given to Hunter, whose "Thoroughly Modern Millie," Universal's first roadshow attraction since "Spartacus," is rolling up tremendous grosses in its initial engagements.

Bob Fosse, who did the staging and choreography of the stage production, will direct the picture

Television - recording star Roberta Sherwood will be featured Wednesday night in Disneyland in "Vaudeville '67" along with the all-time favorite banjoist Eddie Peabody, the Jimmy Owens Singers, Vaudeville Pit Band and the acrobatic team of Rola and Rolan.

'Mags' Hottest Thing in Automotive Field Since Power Shifts

By ROBERT BECKMAN
Progress Section Editor

"Mag" is the magic word in the auto accessory business.

Last year, approximately 125,000 Americans — and not all of them teen-agers, at that — went to their neighborhood automotive supply store to purchase the status-setting road wheels.

Say enthusiastic spokesmen in the industry:

"It's the hottest auto accessory item since the introduction of the automatic transmission."

BY FAR THE MOST numerous in the Long Beach-Orange County area is the EMPI-GTV, a Volkswagen with the "new look."

Each day, dealers who have their freshly arrived Volkswagens made showroom ready by Auto Bubble Bath, 2226 E. Sepulveda Blvd., Long Beach, designate how may are to get the "new look."

EMPI (Engineered Motor Products, Inc., of Riverside) is the largest manufacturer and distributor of special parts and accessories for Volkswagen autos in this hemisphere.

Recently, EMPI established an installation center at the Auto Bubble Bath grounds to install its special GTV options for the mushrooming number of EMPI-GTV dealers in the Southland.

THE GTV, IN ADDITION to the smart road wheels, arrives at the dealer's plant with walnut dash, custom steering wheel, deluxe floor mats, heavy duty bumper stiffeners, tachometer and striping.

"Hot-rod-ready for the customer," the spokesman declared.

The striping at the Bubble Bath is done by a personable Fullerton State College student, Dean Taylor of Anaheim. He learned the trade at a racing sulky plant and — when the fad caught on with car enthusiasts — he was ready.

In the larger car category, a major portion of the "Mags" are supplied in the Southland by Cragar Industries, South Gate.

CASTING PRODUCTION for Cragar's road wheels is carried out under contract by Peat Manufacturing Company, Division of Textron, Inc., 10700 E. Firestone Blvd., Norwalk, a leading die casting and finishing concern.

Construction of these popular wheels calls for the die casting of an aluminum spoke and hub section which is delivered to Cragar for polishing and welding to steel rim.

The aluminum is an alloy, consisting of 4 per cent copper and 8 per cent silicon.

"Testing," Cragar president Roy Richter recently told a national magazine, "showed that the more common steel wheel was permanently distorted when test-load pressure reached 26,000 pounds."

"MAG" WHEELS, however, withstood a minimum static load of up to 41,000 pounds, he added.

Originally, "Mag" wheels were made of sand-cast magnesium alloy for use on high-performance, racing vehicles.

However, as popularity of these custom-engineered accessories grew among sport and stock car enthusiasts — notably in the Southland — automotive equipment designers realized they were on the threshold of a new — and important — market.

That they met the challenge is evident on new cars and old, almost in any direction you look.

Viewing Glasses Give Home TV, Movies 3-D

Special to the Progress Section

Three-dimensional effects when viewing television in the home without modification of the TV set have been achieved.

Marks 3-Depix viewing glasses, which produce 3-dimensional effects on the conventional home television set when worn by the viewer, have been introduced to the public by Marks Polarized Corporation of Whitestone, N.Y.

"The Marks 3-Depix viewing glasses make use of special light filters we have developed after nearly 35 years of research," said Alvin M. Marks, president of Marks Polarized Corporation.

* * * *

"THIS IS the first time that 3-D viewing for home television has been achieved," he said. "The viewing glasses can also be used for home movies," he noted.

The viewing glasses will be sold initially directly to the public for $9.95 a pair by Marks Polarized Corporation. They will be available in both regular and clip-on versions for those who normally wear glasses.

"The 3-D effects are achieved by means of a newly discovered principle of physiological optics that involves the manner in which the left and right eyes cooperate with the brain to produce 3-dimensional images," Marks explained.

* * * *

ALTHOUGH THE effect varies somewhat with individuals, most people who have normal vision or wear corrective glasses readily experience the 3-D effect, he said.

During the demonstration conducted by Mortimer Marks, executive vice president, those present viewed several excerpts from network TV shows along with commercials reproduced on a television screen.

The 3-dimensional effect was clearly evident, but especially pronounced when viewing movement on the screen which produced the illusion of depth and perspective.

* * * *

SOME OF the best scenes involved sporting events, dancé routines, adventure scenes, parades and other action.

The viewing glasses also eliminated the bluish tinge and glare and produced a sharper definition of images on the TV screen.

"No modification or adjustment of the home television set is required and the glasses are equally effective for black-and-white or color TV," Marks emphasized.

The glasses will be manufactured by Marks Polarized Corporation at its Whitestone, N.Y. plant.

"The introduction of Marks 3-Depix viewing glasses foreshadows the ultimate development of full 3-dimensional TV which will be built into each television set and will not require special viewing glasses," Marks said.

His Word Is His Contract

There are no written contracts, not even a handshake. Yet securities worth $75 million change hands every day on the American Stock Exchange.

This is part of the drama of trading on the Exchange, where a man's word is his contract.

The growth of the 118-year-old Exchange from the curbstones in New York City to one of the world's largest securities markets is described in story and pictures in the new edition of Nerve Center, an informative booklet just out which explains the Exchange's purpose and operation.

Close to 700 million shares are traded annually on the Exchange, against 355 million shares in the first half of the 1960's, 182 million in the 1950s, and 74 million in the 1940s.

The Exchange has geared for this increased business by expanding and refining facilities and applying advanced technology to the auction market.

Corporation Boards Growing; More 'Outsiders' Getting Seats

Special to the Progress Section

American boards of directors have grown larger and more dependent on outside directors during the past 20 years.

The trends were uncovered in a recent study encompassing six categories of business activity: industrials, insurance, utilities, merchandising, banks and transportation.

All showed increased board membership; in merchandising only was there a drop in the ratio of outsiders to insiders.

* * * *

THE COMPANIES examined in the study are those listed in the 1947 and 1967 editions of "Poor's Register of Corporations, Directors and Executives," published by Standard & Poor's Corporation, a leading investment advisory firm and financial publisher.

Board growth was largest in the case of banks, which now average 24.6 directors compared with 19 back in 1947. The ratio of outside to inside bank directors currently stands at 5.6 to 1 versus 4.7 to 1 two decades ago.

In the case of industrials —which comprise 80 per cent of the Register-listed companies — average board membership has risen from 10.7 to 12.6 over the 20-year span.

* * * *

NON-COMPANY affiliated directors have become more predominant. Today's 1.43 ratio in favor of outsiders — an average of 7.4 outsiders to 5.2 insiders — compares with a 1947 ratio of 1.2 — or 5.9 outsiders to every 4.8 insiders.

"The two trends may indicate, in part, the internal corporate growth and the external growth via mergers and acquisitions that have taken place in the post-war period," observes Harold L. Wyman, S&P senior vice president, who has been in charge of the Register since 1942.

"This growth has been accompanied by an emphasis on diversification and a demand for more objective board management," he added.

* * * *

INDUSTRIAL companies, on the average, manage to get by with the fewest directors. Utilities, which 20 years ago claimed this distinction with an average board membership of 10.6, currently average 13.6 directors per board.

Merchandising firm boards showed a similar increase from an average of 11.7 members to 14.7. However, the ratio of outsiders dropped during the period from 1.4 to 1.1 for every inside director.

The latter, said Wyman, may reflect the strong family management that still exists in many department stores and other large retail businesses.

Peace in Vietnam Would Leave Construction Backlog

By KEN CHILCOTE
Business Editor

With more than $17 billion backlog of construction, California is assured of strong industrial development when the Vietnam conflict comes to an end.

This construction backlog does not include the huge sums to be spent on housing developments in the future. So with the major construction projects ahead, plus the need for housing, the state's potential for continued leadership in this field remains good.

This construction backlog includes a highway construction budget higher than that of any other state and a potential in revived housing starts that would equal 15 per cent of the nation's volume.

California-based contractors — 46 of them — did 19 per cent of the dollar volume of all work contracted for in 1966 by the contractors on top 400 list.

The California firms did 28 per cent of the overseas work done by these contractors. Eight design-constructor firms based in the state handled 43 per cent of all the foreign work designed and constructed by such U.S.-based organizations, and 37 per cent of all work, both foreign and domestic, handled by such organizations.

THESE ORGANIZATIONS INCLUDE Bechtel Corp. of San Francisco; Ralph M. Parson Co. of Los Angeles, Fluor Corp. of Los Angeles, C. F. Braun & Co. of Alhambra, Kaiser Engineers of Oakland, Homes & Narver of Los Angeles; Vinnell Corp. of Alhambra; Utah Construction & Mining of San Francisco; William Simpson Construction Co. of Los Angeles; Gordon H. Ball Enterprises of Danville, and Guy F. Atkinson Co. of South San Francisco.

California design firms shine, too. Fifty-six California based design firms that appear in the Engineering News and Record's top 500 design firm list for the U.S. did 14 per cent of all the work done by such firms in 1966.

This list includes Daniel, Mann, Johnson & Mendenhall, Los Angeles; Welton Becket & Associates, Los Angeles; Dames & Moore, Los Angeles; Adrian Wilson & Associates, Los Angeles; International Engineering Co., San Francisco; Charles Luckman Associates, Los Angeles; Woodward-Clyde-Sherard & Associates, San Francisco; Victor Gruen Associates, Los Angeles, Tudor Engineering Co., San Francisco.

According to Engineering News-Record, the focal point for California growth remains Los Angeles County, an area with a number of problems. The main one, says the magazine, is roads. More than 6,800 of the 17,000 road miles in the county and its 76 cities are reported as now being deficient or will be by 1974.

KAISER STEEL CORP. ESTABLISHED new records for sales and net earnings during the second quarter of 1967, it was announced by Jack L. Ashby, president and chief executive officer.

Net earnings for the quarter were $9,751,000 on sales of $104,719,000. This net earnings mark surpassed the previous quarterly record set in the first three months of 1957 by nearly $2 million.

The current quarter earnings represent $2.67 per common share after provision for dividends on the preferred stocks and compare with 1966 second quarter earnings of $7,172,000 or $1.92 per common share and first quarter 1967 earnings of $3,247,000 or $.75 per common share.

The record second quarter operations were strong enough to pull the first half of 1967 ahead of the first half 1966. For the current six months, net earnings amounted to $12,998,000 or $3.42 per common share as compared with $12,393,000 or $3.25 per common share in the 1966 period.

Results for the first half of 1967 reflect a rising level of shipping volume, particularly in line pipe and fabricated products, a generally good product mix and improving cost performance starting with raw materials and continuing through finished products.

INCREASING BUSINESS FOR THE Long Beach office of Coast Federal Savings and Loan Association has necessitated aquisition of an additional 50 per cent office space, according to Raymond R. Martin, Coast Federal director of branches.

The new office space is at 250 Locust Ave., adjoining Coast's present Long Beach facilities at Third and Locust.

According to Martin, the signing of the lease with Dr. Robert Buffum, co-owner of the Buffum Hotel property, will provide Coast customers and employes with more efficient and comfortable office area. The present quarters will be remodeled and redecorated.

In announcing the lease signing, Martin stated that the growth of Coast Federal's home loan operations and savings capital gains in the Long Beach area necessitated enlarging and renovating the office.

"Since opening our temporary Long Beach quarters in 1958, the operations of this office have grown to the point where it is the most active and successful of our six area offices," said Martin. "Our belief in the Long Beach area economy has been fulfilled," he concluded.

OPENING OF A NEW 20,000-square foot plant in Santa Fe Springs near here has been announced by Elio E. Tarika, president of Union Carbide's Food Products Division.

The Santa Fe Springs plant will warehouse cellulose sausage casings and related products to provide faster and more efficient service to the meat packing and poultry industries in the western states.

In addition to warehousing casings, the plant will have complete printing and finishing facilities for precision cellulose and fibrous casings.

Union Carbide's Santa Fe Springs plant will be managed by Frank Lucas, who has more than 30 years of service with the food products division. Most recently he was supervisor of printing and finishing operations at the Chicago plant.

The food products division has additional operations in Chicago, Ill., Loudon, Tenn., and Centerville, Iowa.

BANKAMERICARD OFFICIALS announced the all-purpose credit card enjoyed a 53.4 per cent sales increase in California, and nationally, passed the 5,000,000 mark in cardholders during the first six months of 1967.

Mid-year figures released by John A. Dillon, vice president and California director, show total gross BankAmericard sales reached a record $142.8 million, an increase of $49.7 million over the same period last year.

BankAmericard sales nationally reached $190,000,000, including $47,000,000 from banks licensed to issue the card outside California. Most of these banks, however, did not begin BankAmericard operations until March or April so their sales do not represent a six month period, Dillon explained.

BankAmericards used in states other than the ones where they were issued brought in $6,000,000 in gross sales (mostly in the last three months).

Dillon said that at the end of June there were 2.4 million BankAmericard holders in California and 75,000 merchant members.

The total number of cardholders represents an increase of 22.7 per cent since January, and 37.9 per cent compared with 1966 mid-year figures. Fifteen thousand more California merchant outlets joined the program during this period.

A RESUMPTION OF PRODUCTION and employment growth in the American economy depends upon a substantial increase in business sales during the next six months, Harris Trust and Savings Bank, Chicago, said in its monthly economic letter, Barometer of Business.

In the past year, business sales have increased only 2½ per cent while inventories have grown at a rate close to 9 per cent. This has brought inventory-sales ratios to the highest point since the 1960-61 recession, the bank notes.

The sharpest excess of inventories relative to sales is found in the manufacturing sector. Manufacturers' inventories have risen 13 per cent in the past year despite the leveling off in sales since last July.

About half of the increase in inventories has been in work-in-process, partly because of the longer processing time required for a large military output, but stocks of finished goods also have risen as rapidly as work-in-process in 1967. Raw materials grew with production last year but have leveled off this year.

THE CONTINUED BUILDUP of inventories reflects over-optimistic sales projections. In the last two quarters of 1966, actual sales gains were 50 per cent below forecast levels. In the first quarter of 1967, actual sales fell by $1 billion compared with a predicted rise of $2 billion.

Second quarter sales rose but were still less than anticipated. The predicted $4 billion increase in sales for the third quarter is unlikely to be attained.

Since sales failed to reach expected levels, stocks rose far more rapidly than anticipated in the last three quarters of 1966. Accumulation in the first quarter of this year equalled planned buildups but because sales were low, inventories are above desired levels.

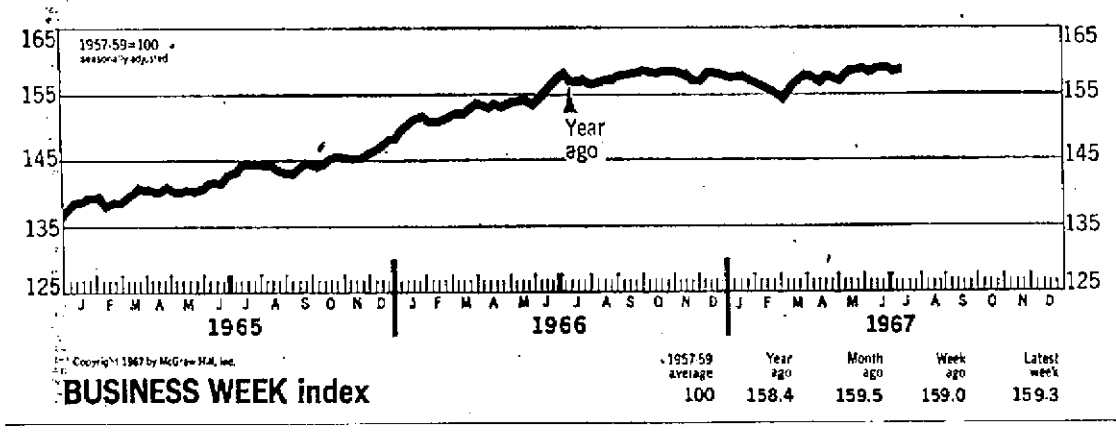

New Car Sales Continuing to Climb

This week's Index turned in one of its best showings for a holiday season. Despite the Independence Day holiday fever, the chartline held its own in the latest week, after a downward revision of week-ago figures.

Steel pushed ahead, after seasonal adjustment, to a level 6.4 per cent greater than a week ago and 4.2 per cent greater than a month ago. The long-awaited upturn in the industry is finally beginning to appear in a continued growth in orders from auto makers and producers of other consumer durables.

In Detroit, production slipped 2.2 per cent—due to the shortened work week. But new car sales continue to climb. Auto production remains 4 per cent above the like 1966 week as the model change-over continues, and the industry readies itself to produce the maximum number of 1968 units before a strike situation occurs.

Carloadings took a sharp 10.4 per cent slide in the latest week and registered 8.7 per cent below the year ago level. The decline can be attributed to the decrease in coal loading — due to the annual vacation of coal miners which had a more severe effect this year than ever before.

Forest Lawn Interests Sell Mottell's Mortuary to J.D. Flanagan, F.J. Smith

Mottell's Mortuary, one of the pioneer firms in Long Beach and established in 1909 under the leadership of Joe Mottell, and later operated under the guidance of Lon E. Peek, has been sold by Forest Lawn interests and now is operating under the local ownership of John D. Flanagan and Fred J. Smith.

Flanagan, of Rolling Hills, chairman of the board of Mottell's, is a native of Ojai. He was raised and educated in Long Beach, having attended James Russell Lowell and Fremont Grammar Schools, Jefferson Junior High and Woodrow Wilson High School.

He is a graduate of the California College of Mortuary Science and a licensed mortician.

* * * *

CO-OWNER and president of Mottell's, Smith who was born in Missouri and received both his elementary and college education in that state.

The new owners announced there will be only a few minor personnel changes.

Clifford T. Gill has recently become associated with Mottell's as vice president and general manager.

* * * *

JERRY SIMS remains as vice president in charge of prearrangements, and Edward C. Purnell continues in his role as vice president in charge of public relations and advertising.

Other members of the staff long associated with Mottell's are Ted Severson, operations manager; Harry Minnick, in charge of veteran affairs; Charles Runells, chapel director; Charles Clayton, supervising mortician; Gene Driskill, music co-ordinator and chapel organist; Joseph Farrell, Catholic funeral director, and William Courtiour, Masonic funeral director.

TEN APARTMENT units directly west of the mortuary will be torn down to make way for a new and more convenient parking lot, permitting much easier access to the mortuary buildings.

According to the new owners, orders have already been placed for a fleet of 1968 De Luxe Cadillac limousines and funeral coaches as part of the overall program to continue the high standards by which Mottell's has been so well known during the past nearly sixty years.

* * * *

MOTTELL'S Garden Room, a favorite meeting place for so many local organizations will be enlarged and will include the addition of a new Mission Room which will permit more local organizations to avail themselves of this public service.

New air conditioning units have already been installed in the present Garden Room area.

Walker & Lee Reports All-Time Sales Record

Walker & Lee President Frank R. Hart announced an all time sales record — for any six-month period — of 2,140 home units at a dollar volume of $51,485,521 from Jan. 1 through June 30.

RECOGNIZED

William R. Brooks, member of Long Beach District Board of Realtors, has been inducted into Omega Tau Rho (Old Time Realtors), honorary fraternity of National Association of Real Estate Boards, for contributions to real estate profession. Board President Woodrow W. Smith presented Brooks with medallion.

"We have access to a wide range of statistical records," Hart said, "and we believe that our sales volume in home units for the first six months of this year represents an all time national record."

Quoting Walker and Lee statistics, he added that of the total 2,140 home units, resale homes sold were 1,448 units for a dollar volume of $31,414, 288.

New home sales totalled $20,071,233 for a total of 692 units. Of the resale homes 1160 were Walker & Lee's own listings. The remaining 288 were listings of other brokers.

The average price for resale homes was $21,800. Each new home sold for an average of $27,200, Hart concluded.

PROSPECTS were never brighter for an owner contemplating the sale or trade in of his present home, according to Hart.

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE TRADE TIPS ON THE WORLD MARKET

Foreign buyers are ringing the school bell for U.S. manufacturers.

Ethiopia is seeking school furniture. Viet Nam wants music books. Uganda is in the market for musical instruments. Austria wants school supplies. And Columbia is looking for educational aids.

Other requests this week include canned foods for Denmark, irrigation equipment for Venezuela and drugs for Trinidad.

Because export sales mean added profits for Long Beach-Orange County businessmen, the Department of Commerce each week furnishes the Progress Section a series of tips.

Here is a selection from this week's list, with names and addresses of prospective buyers:

'PATIOS ARE FOR THE LIVING'... Is 2-Month Macco Theme

Macco Realty to Sponsor Series of Discussions on Patio Living

A series of discussions on patio living are being sponsored during this month and August by Macco Realty Company, Robert H. Richards, the firm's director of marketing and sales, announced.

The events — featuring guest speakers, all experts in their field — are scheduled as Hospitality House programs at five Macco Leadership Home developments.

"In our series on 'Patios are For Living' we will discuss the newest outdoor furnishings; the latest lighting and heating equipment and methods of using them; the most modern equipment for barbecuing and outdoor cooking; and of course, recipes and entertainment ideas," explained Shirley Collins, home economist for Macco Leadership Homes.

* * * *

"PATIO LIVING is the California way of life," continued Mrs. Collins. "Macco Leadership Homes are designed to make the patio a focal point for entertaining and family enjoyment. It is an outward extension of the home — and in our programs we hope to show our homeowners and prospective buyers how to get the most out of the patio life."

Demonstrations and equipment and various methods of outdoor cooking will be held, displays viewed and questions answered by the guest speakers.

* * * *

THE FIRST program was held in Macco Leaderhsip Homes-Del Amo community, on Avalon Boulevard at the San Diego Freeway, on July 12.

"Patios Are For Living" is scheduled for Porter Ridge in the Porter Ranch, 19109 Derwent Place, Northridge, on July 19; and in Glenbrook, Imperial Highway and Associated Road in Brea, on Aug. 2.

* * * *

AUG. 9 is the date for the event in Capistrano Highlands, at the La Paz Road turnoff of the Santa Ana Freeway in Laguna Hills. Wynnewood, the new Macco Leadership Homes development in Santa Ana, at 220 W. Talbert Ave., will have the program on Aug. 16.

According to Mrs. Collins, all presentations are free of charge and will be held from 1 to 2:30 p.m. at all developments, with the exception of Porter Ridge, which will be from 2 to 3:30 p.m. Refreshments will be served and a door prize is to be awarded.

TO TALK

Ed Frank, president of Moreddi, Inc., Long Beach, will address National Association of Furniture Manufacturers' annual convention to be held in Washington, D.C., Aug. 12. His topic: "Design Direction for the Future."

ELECTED

John E. Babregas Jr. has been elected vice president of Diversified Builders, Inc., subsidiary of Paramount Pacific, Inc., Paramount. Babregas previously was division sales manager for the Austin Co.

Become Life Care Facility

Bixby Knolls Towers, the landmark high rise building at 3737 Atlantic Ave., Long Beach, is to become a licensed life care facility for elderly persons. The announcement was made by the Rev. Clark Harshfield, executive director of Retirement Housing Foundation.

Retirement Housing Foundation is a church-sponsored nonprofit corporation which develops and operates facilities for the care of elderly people.

The foundation now is related to six other such facilities in California and Arizona. Three more are in various stages of development.

THE AFFAIRS of the local facility will be guided by a board of directors made up of ministers and lay people of the United Church fellowship. They include the following Long Beach people: Dr. Emerson Hangen, pastor of the First Congregational Church; Duane George of the Department of Recreation; Clive Graham, Realtor; Wayne McCain of the Bixby Knolls W. T. Grant Store, and Mrs. W. L. Freeman.

THE REV. Robert Klein, administrator of Bixby Knolls Towers, explained that the life care plan as operated by the Foundation at Bixby Knolls Towers has been developed to provide the greatest security possible for elderly people, while at the same time demanding the least regimentation and preserving the dignity and privacy of the individual.

PORTS O'PROGRESS

By JACK O. BALDWIN

The Vincent Thomas Bridge spanning the main channel in the Port of Los Angeles, once dubbed as the "bridge to nowhere" by its proponents, showed the greatest percentage increase in tolls during the month of June of all seven of the state's toll bridges.

An increase of 61,407 tolls paid during June of 1967 compared to June of 1966 represented a gain of 16.4 per cent.

While the giant of California's toll bridges, the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge showed an increase of 102,573 tolls during June of this year compared to a year ago, the percentage gain was only slightly more than 2 per cent.

Viewing the increase in traffic over the Vincent Thomas Bridge one can only come to the conclusion that there are a lot more people going "nowhere" than they did a year ago

IKUO KASHIMA, the adventuresome, lonely mariner who sailed his 16-foot sailboat from Long Beach to Japan, will return to his starting port on Aug. 4.

The 38-year-old sailer left Long Beach April 3 and arrived in Japan 101 days later.

Frank Black, director of public information for the port says he has received "tons" of newspaper clippings describing Kashima's risky Pacific crossing.

IN AN EFFORT TO EASE the serious shortage of licensed officers for the government-operated General Agency ships, Governor Ronald Reagan recently granted to state employes who hold a valid license "full return employment rights" if they go back to sea.

The employes may return to their current civil service positions at the conclusion of their Merchant Marine sea duty with up to a limit of 18 months leave from their state responsibilities.

The governor issued a plea to state employes holding valid licenses either as deck or engineroom personnel to contact the nearest office of the Maritime Administration and volunteer for sea duty.

THERE IS A NEW SOUND along the seashore in Long Beach.

The U.S. Coast Guard reports the Belmont Pier fog signal has been relocated to the end of the new pier, sounding a deep-throated two-second blast every 20 seconds—when it is foggy.

Summer Good Time to Sell Homes, Says Builder Lyon

With summer temperatures soaring, so are new home sales at three William Lyon-built communities in the area, reports the builder.

"Traditionally, we have found hot weather drives people out of their homes into the family car," Lyon explained. "Invariably, they stop at air conditioned model homes at some time during an outing. Even people who are not seriously in the market for a new home often are swayed to purchase, the reason being that many new architectural features and general home improvements are available today. And when the visitor returns to his home he becomes even more dissatisfied with his present living conditions."

Typical of increased sales is Lyon's Fairmont Place in Fountain Valley. This limited edition executive home community is now 50 per cent sold out. There will be just slightly over 100 homes in this choice Orange County location near the beach, Disneyland, Knott's Berry Farm and Angel Stadium.

The model homes, open daily from 10 a.m. till 9 p.m. are on Brookhurst between Warner and Heil. Fairmont Place is priced from $26,990 to $34,990, with five different floor plans, in both one and two-story versions, and from three to five bedrooms, up to three baths.

* * * *

LYON'S NEWEST JEWEL in his crown of Southern California residential communities is Shadow Downs, a close-in rural setting in Cerritos on Norwalk Boulevard between Del Amo and 195th Street. Wide open spaces surround this development, yet it is centrally located at the hub of our freeway system. It is just less than a mile from the new 605 Freeway which quickly links homeowners to the San Diego, Santa Ana or Garden Grove Freeways.

Shadow Downs homes also begin at $26,990 with no down VA, FHA financing available.

Now more than ever, residents of Franciscan Fountains (Huntington Beach) are appreciating their new homes located on Slater Avenue between Golden West and Edwards. The Pacific Ocean, just a rise away, cools the area and there is never a need to have air conditioning here.

Franciscan Fountains prices begin at $26,990 and there are 17 different exterior designs from which to choose.

For those who like a Spanish living motif, Lyon's community offers an authentic copy of old Spanish monastery, The Monteray. It has four bedrooms, and two and one-half baths.

TWO-STORY ENTRY . . . Dramatic Touch at Wynnewood

Preview Activities Reveal Beauty of Wynnewood in Orange County

Last week a score of Orange County dignitaries and industrial leaders attended three days of preview activities at Macco Realty Company's ninth active master-planned community in Southern California — Wynnewood-Santa Ana, in Orange County.

Festivities began with an English accent when the distinguished group boarded an authentic double-decker bus that originally transported passengers down Fleet Street, London. Departing from Wynnewood's sales office, 220 West Talbert Avenue, the attendants were shuttled to Macco's company boat, the Dover Queen, for a tour of Newport Harbor. Later, back at Wynnewood, the preview ended on a Western note with the serving of a barbecue dinner.

* * * *

FOLLOWING the preview showing hundreds of prospective homeowners, about to locate in this nation's fastest growing major county, attended grand opening ceremonies

To keep Wynnewood as lively as its environs, grand opening events will continue throughout the summer. Activities will include weekend art, boat and antique car exhibits and family nights.

Wynnewood, sited at Talbert Avenue and South Main Street, is located at the hub of the cultural, educational, recreational and industrial facilities that have been responsible for Orange County's phenomenal growth.

* * * *

AT WYNNEWOOD three, four and five-bedroom, two and three-bath homes are available with up to 2,023 square feet of living space. Twelve elevations are offered in single and two-story designs, from $27,950.

True to the Macco tradition, all homes have bonus features indoors and out and a variety of optional extras. Homes are community-planned with underground utilities. Concrete sidewalks, curbs, gutters and driveway approaches are in.

Streets are uniquely engineered for safety and ornamental street lighting is installed. Wynnewood is walled for complete community privacy.

* * * *

EVERY AREA in a Wynnewood home has a host of outstanding features which are included in the sales price. Kitchens are designed completely with O'Keefe & Merritt built-ins, including a double oven with black glass doors, range, dishwasher and disposer.

Sliding serving windows and bars create a patio view from each kitchen. Paneled cabinets are of mahogany. Counters and serving tops are laminated for ease of cleaning. Floors are of vinyl asbestos and ceiling lighting is luminous.

Genuine ceramic tile is used in bathroom areas. Full-sized polished mirrors and over-tub showers are installed. Fixtures are elegant and exciting and complement luxurious pullmans with cultured marble tops. Medicine cabinets are recessed and safety glass is used in shower doors.

Toastmasters of Future to Speak

Group presidents, vice presidents and businessmen and businesswomen of the future will get their first taste of toastmastering at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

Club 1201, Long Beach, Toastmasters International, is sponsoring a father-son-daughter meeting at Uncle John's Pancake House. The young people, 7 to 16, will speak and awards will be made.

Foremost, McKesson Merged

The merger of Foremost Dairies, Inc., with McKesson & Robbins, Inc., under the name of Foremost-McKesson, Inc., became effective last week, it was announced by Rudolph J. Drews, president and chief executive officer of the merged company.

Simultaneously with the merger, the company closed its agreements with the insurance companies providing for loans in the aggregate principal amount of $150 million maturing July 1, 1987; $90.5 million of this principal amount was delivered at the closing, including $62 million principal amount exchanged for previously outstanding promissory notes of Foremost Dairies, Inc.

* * * *

THE BALANCE is to be delivered by the end of 1968.

Also, simultaneously with the merger, the company received $22,752,000 from the sale of 911,000 shares of its common stock offered to the public at $26⅜ a share. The underwriting group was managed by Blyth & Co., Inc.; Allen & Co., Inc., and Goldman, Sachs & Co.

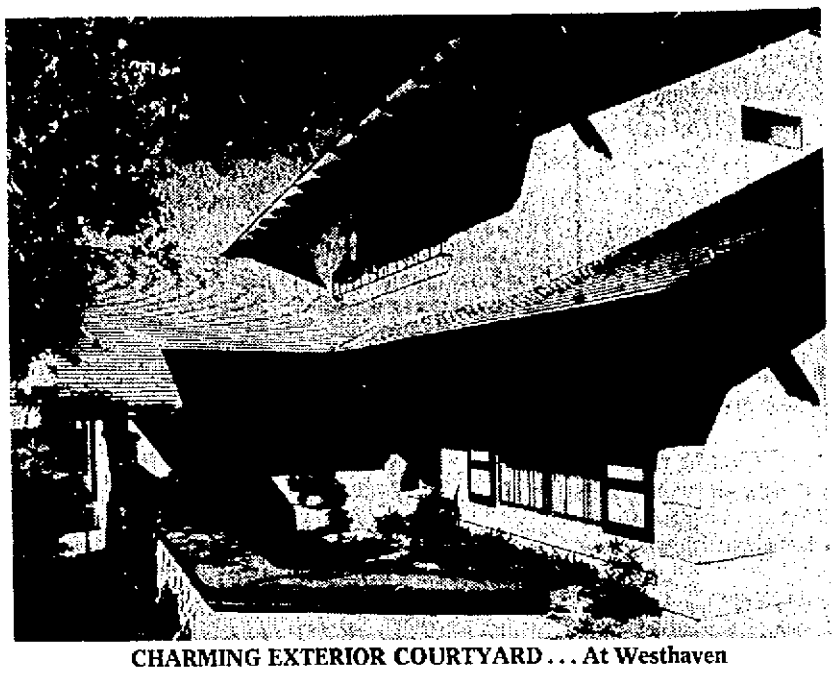

* * * *

THE NEW diversified company will serve the food, health, beverage, chemical and related fields with manufacturing and distribution facilities in 42 states and in 25 countries.

The company's corporate headquarters will be located in San Francisco.

The combined net sales of the two companies last year totaled approximately $1.4 billion.

"Operations of the two predecessor firms will continue much as they have in the past," according to Drews.

CHARMING EXTERIOR COURTYARD . . . At Westhaven

Sales Hot at Shield's Westhaven Development

Sales in the recently opened third unit at Westhaven are "progressing in at a more than satisfactory level" according to officials of the McFarland Co., sales agents for builder-developer Larry Shields' master-planned community in the Westminster-Fountain Valley area.

Westhaven marked its first anniversary June 30, with a total sales figure of more than $4 million for the first year — a sales record that Frank McFarland, head of the realty firms, predicts will be bettered this year.

"A VARIETY of factors have been responsible for the public acceptnce of Westhaven," he said, "some of the main reasons being the excellent location, the many exterior stylings and floor plans available, price range and favorable financing terms."

The homes at Westhaven are offered in a choice of 18 one and two-story stylings, based on four floor plans, providing three or four bedrooms, two or three baths, family and dining rooms.

All the homes feature the famed "patio kitchen" with its handy serve-through window to the patio bar. Adjacent family rooms have sliding glass doors to the patio for outdoor entertaining.

TWO NEW exterior designs have been added to the Plan 400, a two-story home which is the largest — and most popular — model at Westhaven.

Westhaven may be reached from the Garden Grove Freeway by driving south on Brookhurst to McFadden, in Westminster.

New Jobs Decreasing, Says NFIB

New job formation by the nation's 4,500,000 independent business proprietors took another drop in the second quarter of the year, it is revealed by a computerized analysis of the continuing field survey of the National Federation of Independent Business.

Nationwide, the drop was 25 per cent in the second quarter over the first quarter, according to the computerized analysis. Only 27 per cent of the employers changed their job structure, and after deducting jobs eliminated from those added, this 27 per cent of the firms show only a gain in new jobs of six-tenths of one job.

* * * *

IN NEW ENGLAND, new job formation dropped in half, with only 1.5 new jobs created, with this area still the brightest spot for employment.

In the Middle Atlantic, the rate of new job formation dropped from 1.8 to 1.4. There was no change of 1.1 in the east north central, but in the west north central, the rate cropped from 1.1 to 0.4, and in the South Atlantic from 0.9 to 0.4.

In the east south central where during the first quarter no net gain was shown, firing in the second quarter exceeded hiring to give a minus 0.5 job gain, and in the west south central, the rate dropped from 0.7 to zero.

INSTANT TRADE-IN PLAN

Before Wynnewood was opened, we advised homebuyers to "Hold it–Don't make a move." A lot of people must have been listening, because smart families keep coming and buying– every day now that

Wynnewood is open

See four exciting new furnished Wynnewood homes in their Sunday Best. Then you'll know why Wynnewood is the ideal home to buy—any day of the week.

Feature-filled one and two story models equipped with balanced power, offer up to 2,023 sq. ft. of living space with 3, 4 and 5 bedrooms—2 and 3 baths. Choose from 12 elegant, exciting elevations. Prices start at just $28,200.

There's plenty of excitement outside too. Wynnewood is in Orange County's most cosmopolitan community. Shopping is never a chore—always a pleasurable experience because the new South Coast Plaza is only 3 minutes away. The University of California at Irvine is five minutes away. So school is never out as far as educational and cultural advantages are concerned.

Highly-rated elementary, junior and senior high schools, plus parochial schools are close, too. Orange County airport is just a three-mile drive from home. And adjacent to the airport is the huge Irvine Industrial Complex, offering a variety of challenging employment opportunities. Disneyland . . . Angel Stadium . . . and the West's finest beaches are also at your fingertips. Think we're kidding? Come on out. Feel the cool ocean breezes.

In fact, WYNNEWOOD IS AT THE HUB OF EVERYTHING THAT MAKES ORANGE COUNTY SO FAMOUS—AND SO MUCH FUN. You simply drive three blocks from your Wynnewood home to the Newport Freeway, or a few blocks farther to the Santa Ana Freeway (and soon the San Diego, too)—and you're on the way.

That's more than the good life. It's the best. So make the move now.

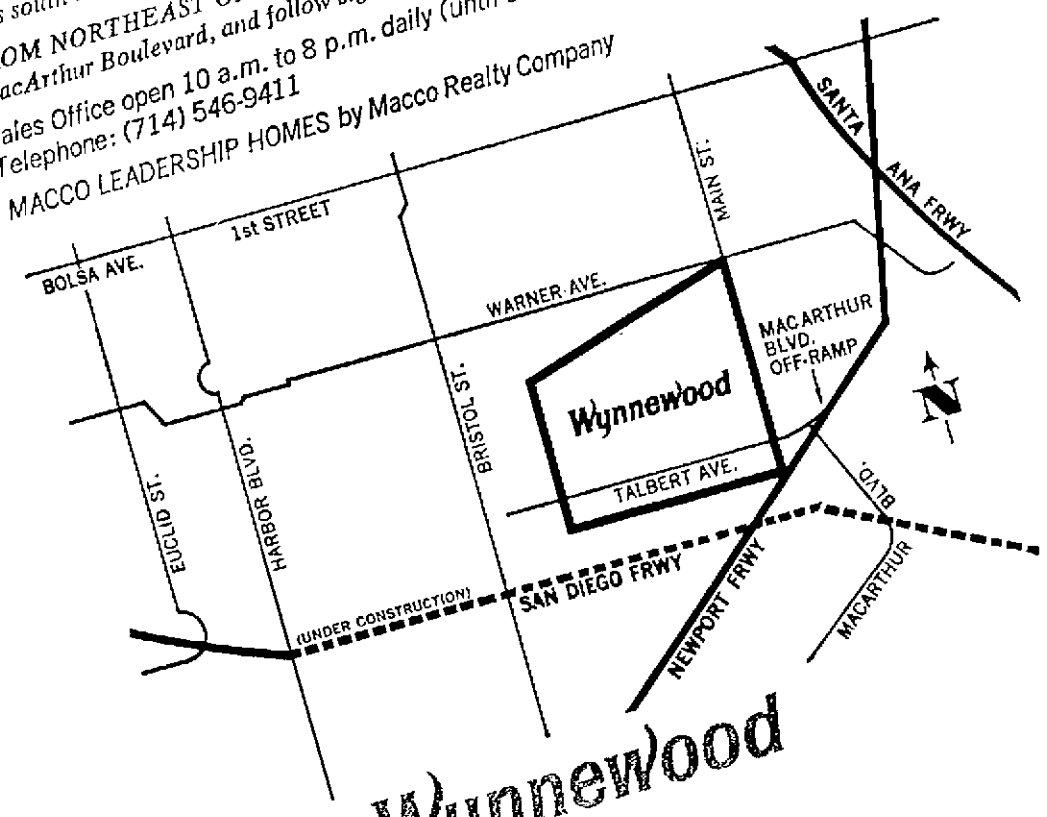

FROM LOS ANGELES: take Santa Ana Freeway to Newport Freeway. South on Newport Freeway to MacArthur Boulevard exit, and follow signs.

FROM LONG BEACH: east on Warner Avenue to South Main Street, then follow signs south to Wynnewood models.

FROM NORTHEAST ORANGE COUNTY: take Newport Freeway to MacArthur Boulevard, and follow signs.

BRT Official Finds Japanese Transit Problems Similar to U.S.'s

Kenneth R. Moore of Lakewood, general chairman for the 2,500 Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen bus operators in the Southern California Rapid Transit District, hosted a contingent of touring Japanese transportation safety leaders during their Southern California visit.

Welcomed by Moore to the BRT offices in Los Angeles were Shigeru Otsuka, vice president of the 73,000 member All Japan Express Workers' Union, Tokyo; Kenichi Nakatani, president of the Kinki Nihon Railway Workers' Union, Osaka, which represents 15,000 employes, and Kazuo Fukuda, member of the Central Executive Committee of the 62,000-member National Railway Locomotive Engineer's Union, Tokyo.

* * * *

"WE FOUND that the Japanese labor officials operate on a much different basis than is done in the U.S., although the basic precepts of labor unionism remain similar," Moore said. "Unions in Japan do not have the same organizational formula, and the procedures for processing grievances are very dissimilar."

However, Moore pointed out that in Japan, as in the U.S., unions are emphasizing safety as a prime consideration of employment.

* * * *

"THE GENTLEMEN were very interested in our joint safety program with management, which has proven so effective over the years," Moore explained, "and they also wanted to know all of the details concerning our current campaign to protect operators and their passengers from holdup men."

The local union officials said exchanges of information and ideas by labor officials from various nations provides a great insight into the attitudes which exist within those countries.

* * * *

"OBVIOUSLY a country which has a strong labor movement and militant union officials is one which takes interest in the well-being of its working people," he observed. "We are particularly proud to know that many of these countries are utilizing some of the theories of responsible unionism which were developed in the U.S."

During the past year the BRT has hosted labor leaders from numerous foreign nations including Iceland, Ghana, Vietnam and Uganda.

"We are gratified," Moore said, "that the BRT has become a meeting place wherein labor leaders from throughout the world are able to join with us in discussions which are always of mutual benefit."

Security's Remodel Job Ends

Remodeling construction at Security First National Bank's Lakewood Plaza Branch will be completed Tuesday, reports Branch Manager Albert R. Boysen.

About 1,000 square feet of floor space are being added to the branch at 6351 E. Spring St. to give it a total of more than 9,000 square feet. The project also includes the addition of four more teller windows to the branch's existing bank of seven windows.

Total cost of the remodeling will be about $36,000, of which more than $10,000 will be construction cost. New fixtures, furniture, equipment and signs also are part of the project.

HANDY ARM

In multiple exposure made at Hughes Aircraft Co., Culver City, handy "hand" that will claw at moon's surface (a "soil mechanics surface sampler") from aboard Surveyor 4 soft-moon-landing spacecraft gets initial workout. Claw will drop dirt before television camera, enabling scientists to judge density of spilled dirt.

L.B. Realtors Set Football Speaker

Guest speaker for Tuesday's 7:15 a.m. breakfast meeting of the Long Beach District Board of Realtors will be William K. Winterble, president of the Long Beach Admirals football organization.

Sid Rodd, program chairman, said Winterble will tell why he is optimistic about the team's first year here. The breakfasts are held at the Crown Cafeteria.

WORLD OF WHEELS

By ART STEPHAN
Auto Editor

Security wouldn't let her reveal much about the car, but a pretty West Coast beauty — clad in what could pass for a gold lame track suit — was in town last week to promote American Motors Corporation's fall entry in the personal car field.

And, while she couldn't mention the car's dimensions, hers are 35-24-35.

Called "The Javelin Girl," she is promoting AMC's two-door, all-steel hardtop which is named, appropriately enough, the Javelin.

Conceived as a clean, sharp thrust at the sporty car market, the Javelin is aimed at the young-in-heart, the high performance enthusiast and those who see the personal car as just that — personal — with no need to haul around more than three friends at one time, in comfort, says "The Javelin Girl."

Although details and pictures won't be available until later, we did get a little information.

In appearance, the new car will be distinguished by a long hood with a short-'n-fast rear deck, and our pretty tipster promises it will be a delight on the open road and, with high-performance options, a versatile athlete in motoring events, well able to deliver the decathlon performance implied by its name.

To underscore her points, the traveling promotion girl carries a 7-foot-4 javelin — a piece of luggage, she says, that has caused her no small amount of trouble boarding cabs and airplanes.

Landmark Previewing New Designs of Homes

Landmark Homes marketing director, Bob James announced the building firm is introducing new housing designs in Cerritos.

Enjoying enthusiastic preview response by area house-hunters is the Landmark Plan 20, he added. It was designed exclusively for builders Shattuck & McHone by Robert J. Marvick & Associates.

The plan contains up to 2268 square feet of actual living area in a two-level design. An array of pleasing exterior designs are available James added. The community offers other four and five-bedroom, two and three-bath arrangements.

* * * *

LANDMARK Cerritos is said to be situated near all important conveniences such as fine schools, shopping, recreational and employment centers and all houses of worship.

The home site is midway between Norwalk and Pioneer boulevards on Artesia Blvd. in the new city of Cerritos.

GIs Urged to Act

Although veterans of World War II are scheduled to lose their veterans eligibility for GI home loans Tuesday, there still may be time to save them, reports salesmen for Fashion Shores, the beach development only 12 blocks from Huntington Beach State Park.

Vets are asked to take their discharge papers to the development as soon as possible. Even if they previously owned a GI home, they may find they still are eligible to buy.

* * * *

FASHION SHORES three and four-bedroom homes, in either one or two stories, some with big dining rooms and family rooms, include many quality features. There are up to three baths, cedar shake or shingle roofs, matured trees in front yard, front lawns are installed and have sprinklers.

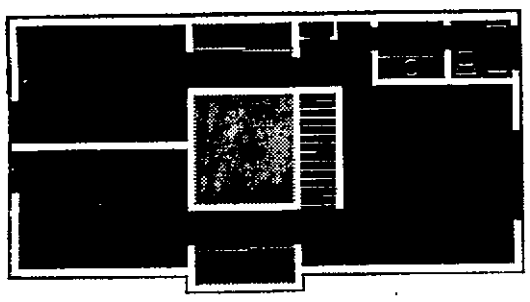

There are electric Hotpoint kitchens with snack bar, wall-to-wall carpeting, custom fireplace with loglighter, concrete driveway, underground utilities and the lawns are fenced.

Priced from $27,950, the homes are available on VA, FHA or conventional financing from 5 per cent down.

To reach the homes take Brookhurst Street south to Fashion Shores, one mile north of Pacific Coast Highway at 9972 Effingham Drive, Huntington Beach.

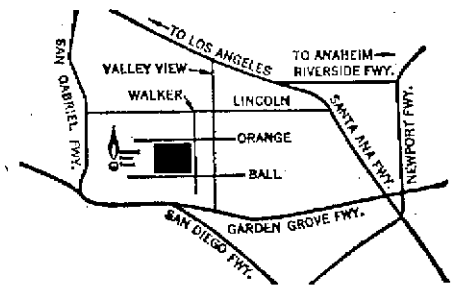

Pacesetter introduces the house and a half!

the half.

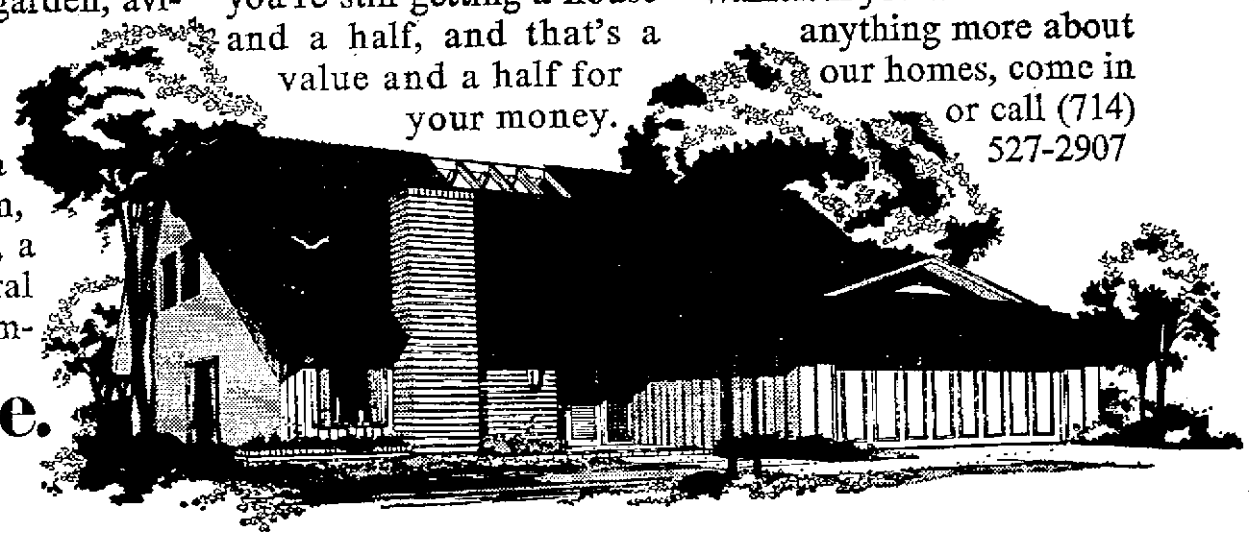

The way it works is this: right now you can move in downstairs. That's 1744 sq. ft. of living space. Three bedrooms that include a huge master suite with its own dressing room and bath. A kitchen with Balanced Power built-ins. A central atrium that you can use as a patio, garden, aviary, or nursery. Go ahead, use your imagination. There's a big living room, a dining room, a beamed cathedral ceiling in the family room. A garage for two cars with plenty of storage. Then, when you need more room, complete the second floor with two more bedrooms, a playroom and a bath. 858 sq. ft. of insurance, so when your family grows, you'll move up, not out. Do-it-yourself (plumbings stubs are already in), and save money. Have a contractor do it for you and save time. Of course, if you want the rooms now, we'll be happy to build them for you at a nominal charge. No matter which you choose you're still getting a house and a half, and that's a value and a half for your money.

How to get here.

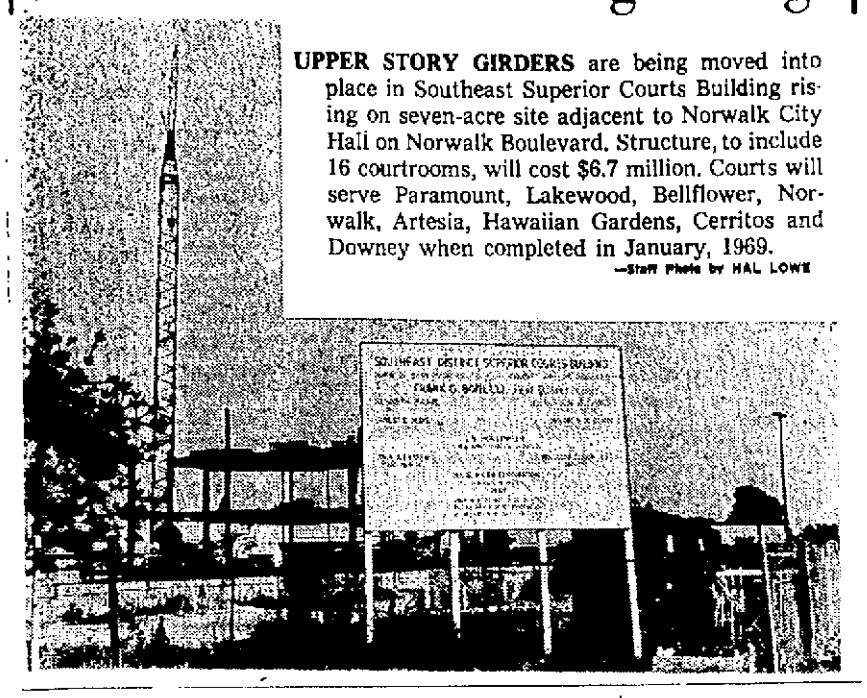

The Santa Ana Freeway (101) turnoff is Valley View, south to Orange. Or, take the San Diego Freeway, to the Valley View turnoff, north. Our sales office and model homes are located at 5469 Hanover Drive, between Orange and Ball on Walker. If you want to know anything more about our homes, come in or call (714) 527-2907

Golden West Designed for Year-Round Outdoor Living

"Nowadays a new home in California without a patio, deck or balcony is like a dog without a bark — it hardly ever happens," says Jerry Henderson, marketing director for S&S Construction Co., builders of Westminster's newest executive community of Golden West.

"Life in California is practically lived outdoors — and each Golden West home meets this requirement by providing an outward extension of the home in the form of a patio, deck or balcony. Whether it's used for outdoor dining, be it a formal luncheon of smoke-filled barbecue, each outdoor design element at Golden West meets the life the home buyer wants to lead."

LOCATED in the center of the West Coast's recreation complex, Golden West homes offer up to five bedrooms, three baths, in an award-winning choice of five floor plans.

One and two-story and split-level designs feature exteriors that include Spanish, contemporary, traditional and modern stylings.

More than 12,000 families have purchased an S&S home in Southern California during the past decade.

* * * *

PRIMARY reasons for such a sales record are attributed to the company's involvement in diligent research, engineering and superior construction.

Appointments include genuine lath and plaster construction, parquet flooring, 100 per cent nylon DuPont carpeting throughout, General Electric built-ins, custom lighting fixtures and sunken living rooms and faily rooms.

* * * *

IN ADDITION, S&S also offers home buyers the opportunity to "customerize" their own fireplaces from a choice of more than 35 different types of fireplace designs and materials.

Priced from $28,950 Golden West homes are availabe on the best FHA, VA and conventional terms.

To reach Golden Wet take San Diego Freeway (or Garden Grove Freeway) to Golden West St. turnoff. South on Golden West (toward beach; to McFadden Avenue. Left on McFadden to beautifully furnished models.

Douglas Names Director of Advanced Cargo Systems

Lloyd B. Aschenbeck of Pacific Palisades, a specialist in air cargo activities for 15 years, has been appointed director of advanced cargo systems for the Douglas Aircraft Company's Aircraft Division, Jackson R. McGowen, group vice president-aircraft, announced.

Aschenbeck, who will report to Robert E. Hage, vice president-advanced commercial development and planning, will head a group of transportation economists and design experts in a systems approach to the development of a family of aircraft designed specifically for cargo operations.

ULTIMATE goal of the effort is establishment of a total air cargo system capable of meeting the mushrooming needs of the air cargo age.

Previously deputy director-advanced cargo systems program, Aschenbeck spent seven of his 25 years with Douglas on design requirements and marketing of cargo aircraft. His work is based on continuing coordination with domestic and international airline cargo research working groups.

His work has included direction of transportation economists in support of the introduction of cargo aircraft and in constantly broadening the scope and identification of air-shippable commodities.

IT ALSO has involved the use of automated data processing, both for demonstrating the distribution economics of air shipment and coordination with planning and engineering in the establishment of design criteria for cargo aircraft.

During his early years with Douglas at the company's Santa Monica facility, he performed a variety of engineering functions relating to the design of aircraft, aircraft performance analyses and the development of visual aids and presentation techniques for marketing activities.

AS MANAGER of Market Research from 1955 to 1964, he used automated data systems in cost analyses and market identification to obtain long range planning data for management as well as to provide support for marketing activities.

Aschenbeck came to Douglas in 1940 from the University of Minnesota, where he received his aeronautical engineering training. He also studied at UCLA, taking advanced courses in engineering, economics and business administration. He has conducted graduate level marketing seminars at UCLA, Cal Tech and MIT.

Option, Trade-ins Big Influential Home Point

A new option program enabling purchasers to personally tailor their new Influential Home to their needs and the proven Instant Trade-In program are key factors drawing home shoppers to the New Executive Series at Influential Homes-Orange, according to Sales Manager Emogene Harding of Walker and Lee.

"Our Personalized Planning program enables a family to obtain exactly what it wants in its new home. This not only includes all the wonderful things that may be added to the house, but such basic changes as adding doorways, archways, etc."

Among the exterior extras available are: Tiled front porch, concrete patio decking, wood patio covering, gas-fired barbeque, gas patio heater, and gas lights.

* * * *

FAMILIES MAY select from more than two dozen interior options, including wallpaper, paneling, draperies, mirrored wardrobe doors, ceramic or terrazzo tile floors, air conditioning, refrigerator, washer, dryer, intercom, and tub enclosures. Buyers may also include other options to tailor their home to their needs.

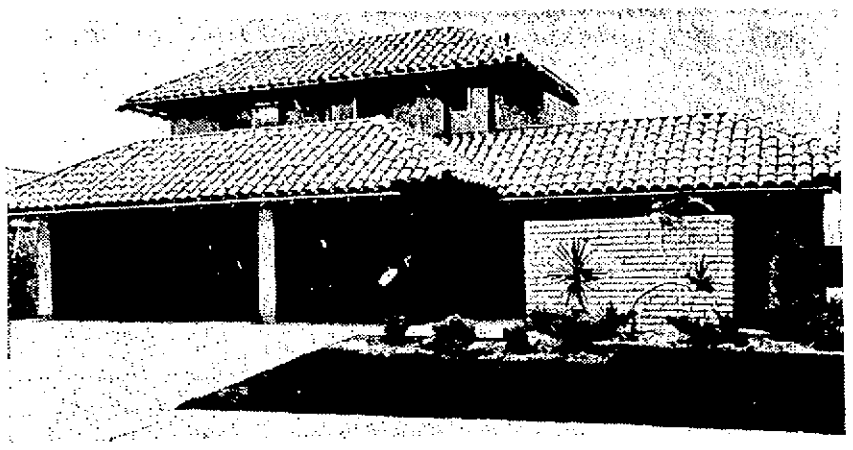

"Our Instant Trade-In provides three distinct advantages," said Mrs. Harding. "First, it works quickly: it would actually be possible for a family to buy a new home and move into it the same week. Second, it takes all the worry and waiting out of selling the family's old home: to all intents and purposes, it is sold as soon as the family agrees to accept the appraised selling price. Third, by speeding up and simplifying the selling process, it can actually save the family $1,000 or more."

THE NEW EXECUTIVE Series — created by Butler-Harbour Construction Co., the builders of 4,300 quality homes — features spacious new models with up to four bedrooms, and new low prices, $27,950 to $29,650. In the 288-home walled community of Influential Homes-Orange, the homes offer such high quality features as concrete driveways, concrete block walls and underground utilities.

Three new floor plans are available in the series. The Kingston has two bedrooms and an entertainment center, or three bedrooms, plus two baths and a family room. The Montrose has three bedrooms, dining room, and a den or fourth bedroom, along with two baths. The Amhurst has four bedrooms, two baths, and a family room. The plans are zoned, providing separate areas for children, family, adults, and outdoor living.

The homes are available via either no-down VA or low down FHA terms.

Just south of the Riverside Freeway, the homes may be reached via the Dowling Street off-ramp. Signs lead the way to the new models, which are open daily from 10 a.m.

SECOND-STORY SUNDECK . . . On Sol Vista's Newest

Sol Vista Showing Distinctive Community of New Model Homes

A new and distinctive community of homes is sprouting up in rapidly growing Fountain Valley. This huge, planned 409-home development is Sol-Vista's new "Designs for Living" homes.

Located just one-half mile north of the San Diego Freeway, and two miles south of the Garden Grove Freeway, at 16300 Magnolia, Fountain Valley, the "Designs for Living" project is conveniently situated adjacent to major transportation arteries as well as near shcools, shopping and recreational facilities.

In addition to existing recreational and educational facilities, a new elementary school and a five-acre park will be built within the boundaries of the 160 acre development.

* * * *

NOW ON DISPLAY from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily, at the development are five fully furnished models. These homes are available in 15 different exteriors and with a wide variety of features.

The three, four and five-bedroom homes range in price from $26,950 to $33,575, with VA, FHA or conventional financing available. Homes range in square feet up to 2,270. Both one and two story designs are also offered.

FAST SELLERS

Brookhurst Gardens, a community of four-unit investment properties, reports a two-thirds sellout in ten weeks since opening. The community shows a 99 per cent occupancy level and offers seven different plans priced from $57,950 to $60,950. Down payments are from $2,500 with financing available to fit each individual buyer's situation.

Xerox Breaks Ground for Santa Ana Building

Officials of Xerox Corporation and the City of Santa Ana have broken ground in an orange grove near the Santa Ana and Newport Freeways for the new 107,000-square-foot home of Professional Library Service, Inc., a wholly-owned Xerox company.

Professional Library Service offers books and tailor-made cataloging and processing that goes with them to school and public libraries throughout the nation. The new building will be located just a few blocks east of the present location at 1201 E. McFadden Ave., Santa Ana.

THE PLANT, is said by company officials to be the largest and most modern library service facility in the world.

Said Dr. Robert W. Haigh, Xerox group vice president and general manager of its education division: "The McFadden-Newport freeway area offers Professional Library Service the advantages of being close to the present facility, gives freeway identification for the company and provides enough land for possible future expansion with reasonable economy."

R. M. DRYSDALE president of Professional Library Service, noted that the new facility would have several features that would allow Xerox to provide creative solutions to the problems of librarians.

Burt Smith Urges Realtors to Expertness

By HAL LOWE

Putting professionalism in the field of real estate was the theme of a speech by the state commissioner of real estate, Burt Smith, before a joint meeting of the Downey and Compton Lynwood Board of Realtors last week.

Smith told the breakfast audience: "Real Estate people do not have a good image. This is a tough statement to make." He said, "Though the Realtor may be considered a professional in his own community, to the public at large, he is not."

* * * *

SMITH SAID the way for realtors to gain recognition as professionals was through a better education program for those entering the field, and continued learning for those already in real estate. In addition, he noted, people in the real estate profession must conduct themselves as professionals.

Smith, from Bellflower, is the former president of the California Real Estate Association. He was appointed to his present position by Gov. Reagen last year. His department is charged with the enforcement of real estate license requirements.

* * * *

THE DEPARTMENT of Real Estate if financed by the license fees paid by those in the real estate business. Eighty per cent of the money is used in the field of enforcement, while 20 per cent is used for education.

"I would rather see more money spent in the educational field" Smith said, "This is the way that real professionalism can be injected into our business."

In the past 10 years, he said, his department has spent about $5 million from the license fee money for education programs. This money has been used for the research and study of the real estate field at college and junior college level.

* * * *

SMITH SAID of the 75 junior colleges in the state 68 offer real estate classes while 44 offer AA degrees in real estate. All four major universities in the state have graduate courses in the field.

In the field of enforcement, Smith said that last year, his department handled 550 cases in which real estate licenses were either revoked or suspended.

He said continued education of those now in the field would mean less cases of revocation and suspension for violations of the law.

* * * *

THE COMMISSIONER said at the next session of the legislature, he will ask for a law making one of the requirements for a real estate license in the state, that the applicant have at least 12 units of college level study in the field.

"Little by little," he said, "we must gain the professional status which the public now has for doctors and attorneys."

Carolina Crest Is Popular

More than 600 persons attended the special grand opening party last Sunday afternoon at Carolina Crest, Transamerica Development Co.'s new community in Placentia.

Sales Director Dick Martin said Carolina Crest is a new community of one and two-story homes priced from $30,450 to $36,650, and available in a variety of interesting and unusual floor plans, providing three or four bedrooms and two or two-and-one-half baths.

Among interior design innovations are cathedral ceilings, sunken living rooms, balconied second-floor hallways, and many more.

* * * *

MARTIN SAID a number of excellent financing programs are available and purchase terms feature down payments from 10 per cent. Interest rates of 6¼ per cent are obtainable on loans with a normal down payment, he added.

Numerous luxury features are included in the homes, and kitchens are fully equipped with built-in appliances, including side-by-side double wall ovens. Front landscaping with sprinklers, and six-foot high block wall fencing for rear yards are also provided.

Carolina Crest is ideally located in a sheltered valley less than five miles from Fullerton and Anaheim. It may be reached from the Riverside Freeway by driving north to the development.

Model homes are open daily.

Larwin Helping Veterans

"We're doing everything we can to make it possible for World War II veterans to buy a new Larwin home before their entitlements expire Tuesday midnight, July 25," stated Michael L. Tenzer, vice president and director of marketing of Larwin Company.

"We've put on extra staff at all Larwin developments to serve vets until 12:01 Wednesday morning. We're going to work around the clock each night if necessary until every vet is served.

"We're expecting big crowds, so we've had to establish a first come, first serve policy," Tenzer continued.

* * * *

"WE HAVE made special parking and service arrangements to accommodate vets who bring our ad to the sales offices along with their certificates of eligibility," he said.

Tenzer also stated that special prices to vets will be in effect until Tuesday midnight, and that vets can move into a Larwin home with no down payment.

* * * *

FIVE LARWIN developments will feature this special veterans service.

They include Meadowbrook planned units in Buena Park with prices from $24,950; Greenbrook homes from $26,950 in Cypress; Tanglewood Townhomes from $19,950 in Cypress; Summerhill homes in Simi, priced from $18,950 and Mountain Valley Homes, also in Simi, with single family homes from $23,750.

Compton Realtors to Meet

John Lumbleau, president of the Lumbleau Real Estate School, will be the guest speaker at the Compton-Lynwood Board of Realtors' 8 a.m. sales clinic meeting Monday at the board annex, according to clinic chairman Ted Vian.

Speaker for the board's 8 a.m. breakfast meeting Wednesday at Bateman Hall will be Howard Jarvis, vice president of the United Organizations of Property Owners.

Program chairman Mae Martin said his topic will be "Why We Must Abolish Property Taxes in California."

Top Students Eligible for Insurances

Special to the Progress Section

SAN FRANCISCO — A "good student" discount for young drivers, both young men and young women, ranging up to 25 per cent on automobile insurance rates will become available in California this fall under a rating plan developed by insurance companies belonging to two countrywide rate-making organizations.

The discount, to be put into effect Oct. 4, will be offered by companies affiliated with the National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters and the National Automobile Underwriters Association.

* * * *

THE PREMIUM credit will apply to young men until their 25th birthday and to young women until their 21st birthday, provided they meet certain scholastic requirement, namely a "B" average.

The reason that women 21 years old and over will not get the discount is that they now pay the regular adult — or base — rate, with no surcharge because of their age. Therefore, if they were to get the discount they would be paying less for their insurance than most adult drivers.

This is the first time the good student discount is being offered to both young women and young men.

DollyGrams Popularity Is Growing

Five, impish-faced message-carrying dolls, called DollyGrams, are fast becoming a new million-dollar annual business, Western Union reported last week.

The idea of dolls as unusual messengers for carrying birthday, congratulations, cheer-up and other assorted greetings was launched by Western Union early in 1965.

In 1966 the public sent more than 200,000 gay, amusing, moppets with charming smiles and wild, raffia hair . . . and Western Union is delighted as the sales curve mounts upward.

* * * *

SURVEYS show women are the biggest senders of DollyGrams, which cost $2.35 plus telegraph charges based on the destination and class of delivery service desired, immediate or overnight.

The six-inch, endearing doll cuties have their message embroidered across their mid-sections and are delivered in gay, velour-covered boxes.

Popularity explanation? They're wired for happiness, says Western Union.

New San Pedro YMCA Building 'Concrete Winner'

The Southern California architectural firm of Joncich, Lusby and Associates has been named a winner of the fifth annual Awards Program of the Prestressed Concrete Institute.

The firm, headquartered in San Pedro, was one of eleven selected for the honor in the Northern Hemisphere. Four United States architects were among those honored — two from the West Coast.

Presentation of the awards to Andrew Joncich and William Lusty, principals of the architectural firm, will be made Oct. 9 in Montreal, Canada, during the Concrete Institute's annual convention being held in conjunction with Expo 67.

* * * *

THE STRUCTURE winning the PCI honor was the $2 million San Pedro YMCA Community Center, 301 S. Bandini St., which the PCI jury labeled . . . "an exciting example of . . . architectural variety."

The San Pedro facility, along with the 22-mile elevated system for the Bay Area Rapid Transit System in San Francisco — by Tudor Engineering Co. — were the only West Coast winners.

The Los Angeles Harbor structure is a full YMCA complex, featuring an Olympic size indoor swimming pool, three gymnasiums, handball courts, social-multipurpose hall — capable of accommodating more than 350 persons — clubrooms, activity rooms, administration and kitchen facilities.

* * * *

THE BUILDING encloses 52,000 square feet and completely utilizes the five-acre site.

In explaining the design problem involved, Joncich said the existing land contours were used, preserving the natural beauty of a rugged canyon site within a city.

"It's a rare opportunity when an architect can preserve the natural beauty of a silderness area, especially in the center of a populated area," Joncich added. "Without the backing of farsighted and sensitive clients, the opportunity would have been lost."

* * * *

THE BUILDING, constructed of masonry, concrete and glass, utilizes prestressed, precast concrete elements to preserve the integrity of the site. Large cantilevered beams project off the terraine providing a dramatic contrast between the work of man and the handiwork of nature, yet were blended harmoniously.

The awards jury noted: "The modular concept . . . created an environment appropriately combining excitement, restraint and quietness."

The building was designed to not only accommodate the men and youth of the community, but to fill all the needs for the family to participate together, Joncich said.

ARE YOU

Going to pioneer a remote area, or maybe buy in a massive tract in order to own a new home for $27,900? Or...

ARE YOU

going to enjoy the security, convenience and individuality of our New Executive Series of homes in the City of Orange for $27,900?

We think you'll like the latter... especially after you see the new ideas, features and designs of the all-new Executive Series.

Equally important is the location. Downtown Orange is quaint. Awnings shade the sidewalks. A pleasant circular mall with shade trees and park benches dots the center of the city. Yet minutes away are the most fashionable shopping centers ever. Fashion Square, Town and Country, and the new Sears Center.

Convenience is yours. If you work at Hughes, Autonetics, General Electric Orange, Beckman Instruments, Collins Radio or Hunt Foods you are 5 to 15 minutes from work. Chances are that wherever you work in Orange County it's less than 20 minutes. Downtown Los Angeles is 35 minutes away.

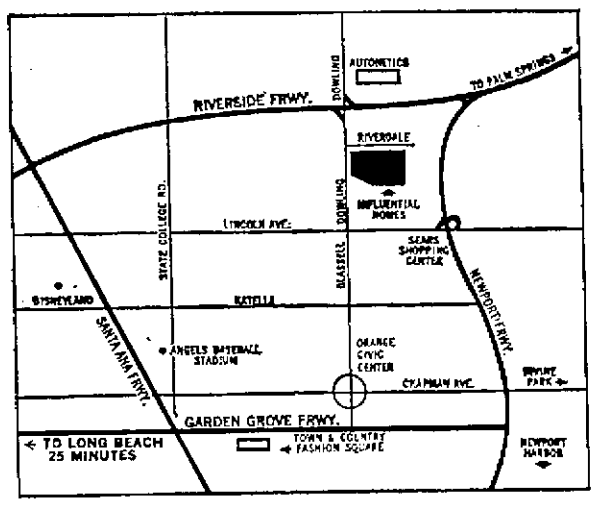

Here in the new Executive Series you'll live in a private, walled community with a custom home atmosphere, perfect for children. An area with proven investment values. The established schools are among the best, both the public and many parochial.

POODLE PAT HOPES FOR ATTENTION AS FERDE GROFE WORKS ON NEW SUITE

Starlight Serenade --salute to Grofe

By ELISE EMERY

When Ferde Grofe comes to Long Beach Tuesday night to attend the season's first Starlight Serenade in Recreation Park, he will return to the city he remembers as a happy little seaside resort.

It was when he was a lad of 19, in 1911, with fame still waiting in the future, that Grofe lived for a year in a house built by a retired sea captain at Alamitos Avenue and Ocean Boulevard. Most of the time he worked in Los Angeles, but he recalls occasional engagements playing for dances at the gracious old Virginia Hotel with its air of elegance and its emerald lawns sloping to the blue Pacific. He sometimes played piano, too, at the old Majestic Dance Hall on the pike.

"Many a time I jumped on a horse on the carousel at the pike," he reminisced. "I loved to try to catch the brass ring!"

He did catch it—and its promise came true—a life rich in friends, fame and money.

Because he has written his own humor, optimism, integrity and vitality into his music, Grofe has an enduring place in the hearts of people.

The Starlight Serenade committee, headed by Marvin Cloyd, has chosen an all-Grofe program for the 8 p.m. concert. Grofe himself will conduct his favorite, "Mardi Gras" from his "Mississippi Suite."

Akira Endo will conduct the rest of the program which will open with the pulse quickening "March for Americans," to be followed by Grofe's arrangement for the famous Paul Whiteman Orchestra of Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue." Pianist Virko Baley will be pianist for this work.

After intermission, will come Grofe's arrangement of Lecuona's "Malaguena," "Huckleberry Finn" and "Mardi Gras" from "Mississippi Suite."

The evening of music in the outdoor setting under a bright, lopsided moon will end with "On the Trail," "Sunset" and "Cloudburst" from "Grand Canyon Suite," perhaps Grofe's most popular composition.

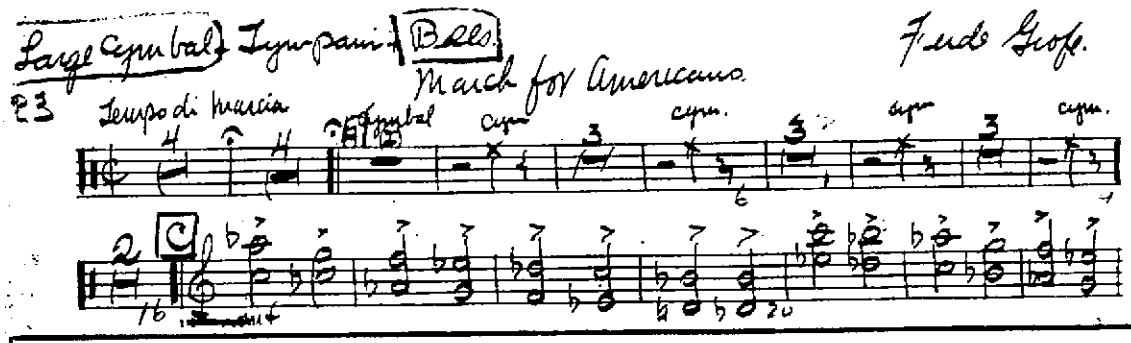

In his big white, turquoise-trimmed home in Santa Monica, Grofe looked out the window past a coral tree of noble proportions, across bright green grass and brilliant geraniums spilling riotously to the walk. He gazed at the white-capped ocean and talked of his career.

"My mother taught me my musical alphabet before I learned my A, B, Cs," he smiled.

He was born in New York City March 27, 1892 to Emil and Elsa von Grofe. His father was a Bostonian actor and baritone, his mother a musician of note. He has a fine oil portrait of her, seated with her cello, a woman of beauty and warmth.

Shortly after Ferde was born, the family moved to Los Angeles, where the youngster later started

FILM ACTRESS

Many-talented star succeeds sans minis

By PAT McDONNELL
Staff Writer

It takes more than one portrait to create a true image of Mary Ann Mobley.

One day the former Miss America is an East Indian princess who speaks with a Scottish brogue, the next day she's a demure cockney housemaid, the following week the Mississippi-born beauty is a bouncy coed earning her way through college as a song writer.

Next Saturday, the multi-faceted actress will play the role of advisor when she discusses "Current Teen Fashion Trends" at first of a series of "IN" Session self-improvement programs for teen-age girls.

Back stage at Melodyland, where she is co-starring with Noel Harrison in "Half a Sixpence," Miss Mobley admitted she's "old fashioned when it comes to teen-age fads."

The oldest of two daughters of a Brandon, Miss., attorney, Miss Mobley says she was 16 before she had her first date.

"MANY TIMES I wanted to go along with whatever it was ALL the kids were doing, but I soon learned to avoid extremes. As for mini skirts, I don't feel comfortable in them. I think it's best to leave something to the imagination."

It was her singing and dancing ability which won her the talent championship during the 1959 Miss America pageant.

"I'd studied voice and dancing during my three years at University of Mississippi," she explained, "but when I moved to New York, I had to learn all over again."

Her opinion on why so few beauty queens remain in the public eye once their reign is completed?

"Unfortunately, a girl who's held a beauty title doesn't have the privilege of starting at the bottom and working up. She's received so much acclaim everyone is waiting for her to make a mistake and fall on her face.

"My parents constantly reminded me that while I was sought after by fans, it wasn't Mary Ann Mobley's autograph they wanted, it was Miss America's. They'd hasten to add that next year would bring another Miss America and she'd be better than I because she'd be Miss America of 1960."

Would she repeat the experience if she had the choice?

"I doubt if I could go through the grueling routine of public appearances now that I know what it entails. I would have breakfast on a plane, appear at a luncheon, attend a groundbreaking, fly to another city for a banquet and end the day at some formal event.

"The schedule never let up for one year, with the exception of Christmas and the two weeks I was hospitalized with pneumonia. BUT I wouldn't trade the experience for anything. How many other girls have the opportunity to meet the President or travel in every state?"

"I've always wanted a career in the theater. Once my year as Miss America was up, I moved to New York, studied drama under Lee Strasbourg and received training at International School of Ballet."

AFTER A series of summer stock productions and a stint on Broadway ("I think it was the shortest run, ever — nine days — in 'Nowhere to Go But Up' ") Miss Mobley landed in Hollywood, where she has appeared in movie and TV roles.

Her latest film, "The King's Pirate," will be released next month.

A bachelorette, Miss Mobley lives in an Early California apartment in Beverly Hills.

"Whenever I have the time, I enjoy horseback riding and tennis and lessons of any kind," she said.

Nodding to her escort, Gary Collins of "Iron Horse" and "Whackiest Ship in the Army" TV series, Miss Mobley said:

"I cook, too. Which of my three dishes do you like, Gary? The roast, fish or chicken?"

"The fish," Collins answered. "You do something real spooky with fish."

"IN" SESSION '67, open to all high school girls (and those just graduated), is an action packed, self-improvement clinic slated for four Saturday mornings July 29, August 5, 12 and 19. Cost of the series is $10, which includes a fashion luncheon following the final session when Miss I.P-Teen 1967 will be chosen.

Registration blanks appear in pages of The Independent, Press-Telegram, or can be obtained by calling Kathy Berry at HE 5-1161, extension 237.

Debutantes make bow at smart ball

In a truly magnificent setting, patterned after Shakespeare's poetic, "Midsummer Night's Dream," 15 young women, daughters or granddaughters of members of Assistance League or its auxiliary, Las Hermanas, made their bow to society at the league's eighth annual Presentation Ball Saturday evening at the Elks Club.

Guests gathered for a social hour on the club's cool terrace, abundant with fernery and shrubs to represent a woodsy glen.

Later in the ballroom, pageantry of the Bard's era came to life under a ceiling of hanging ferns and ivy interspersed with huge, gossamer-winged butterflies. The stage from which debs made their entrance was resplendant with Yew trees, masses of foliage surrounding an Elizabethan fountain.

Attired in formal gowns of white, the debs, escorted by their fathers, were introduced by W. Odie Wright in impressive ceremonies following a festive banquet. Debutantes, their

WILD WAVES SAY

Papier mache and resin--very large this week

By IOLA MASTERSON
Society Editor

NOT WAITING UNTIL THE last minute, or even close to the last minute, is theory of Barbara (Mrs. Donald) Lubach. Member of the Long Beach alumnae chapter of Alpha Chi Omega, Barbara is in charge of making all decorations for the alums huge fashion luncheon benefit for all chapters of Southern California.

Throughout month of July, Barbara is having decoration making work sessions at her home in Rossmoor, 11241 Weatherby Road — and event doesn't take place until Nov. 2!

Other LB alums are working with her to create 1,000 papier mache mobiles which will form the leaves of centerpiece trees made from manzanita branches. In addition to the medallion mobiles, they're making the containers to hold the trees. All told, they'll create 100 such trees.

After handcrafting containers and mobiles, the gals are painting them in bright and fanciful colors to carry out the show's secondary theme, "California Kaleidoscope," in keeping with the overall, "Magic in Motion," theme.

Among alums involved in working with Barbara are Jacque (Mrs. Roger) Bauer, Betty (Mrs. Joseph) Dennis Jr., Charlotte (Mrs. William) Flower, Sandra (Mrs. Paul) Helman, Margaret (Mrs. Bob) Ludwig, Jean (Mrs. C. Ross) McKelvie, Marjorie (Mrs. John) Miller, local chapter president.

Also Jane (Mrs. George) Moore, Polly (Mrs. Edgar) Outten Jr., Diane (Mrs. W. B.) Rodecker and Helen (Mrs. Jess) Bush. So forgive the girls their paint and papier mache spackled fingernails. It takes a bit of wearing before it comes off.

One thing you handcraft hobby enthusiasts may be interested in is the way Barbara prepares the paper. She and Don, for this week's sessions, put about 25 pounds of torn up newspapers through their garbage disposal. First disposal is disconnected from regular drain system. Then they run the paper through with enough water to keep it swishing and catch it in buckets. She squeezes the water out of the paper shreds, boils the goop in wallpaper paste which then is used to cover containers which serve as tree bases. When they dry, the gals paint them and polish them off with a varnish coat.

What does all this do to the disposal? So far, nothing to harm it but committee gals and dubious neighbors are waiting for day when they'll see the plumber arrive.

KEEPER OF Joe Jost's (that venerable tavern on East Anaheim Street), Joe Jost Jr., and wife, Joanne, are moving to Medford, Ore., to make their home. But never fear, those famed Joe Jost special sandwiches, the pickled eggs and schooners of beer, which have made it the colorful, favorite spot it is, will continue to be served as they have since the end of prohibition. It will remain under family management.

Joe's sister and brother-in-law, Pat and Loether Buck, had a going away party for Joe and Joanne. The Buck's daughter and son-in-law, Kristin and John White (John will now manage the tav), gave the departing Josts one of the special sandwiches, which Joe has been serving since 1946, completely encased in resin.

Party guests Milt and Betty Cantor gave the departees a credit card good for one egg, one beer and one special anytime they wish to come back here and collect. It was paid for, according to Milt, by "100 admiring friends." Among other long time friends at the gala farewell were Carrie and Bill Croxson, "Monk" and Bee Dixon, Paul and Georgia Finerty, Larry and Barbara Dodd, John and Mattie Haden, Dr. Bill and Billie Monfort, Dick and Beverly Crosby, Sid and Mary Dunham and Bob and Marilyn Holden.

Joe and Joanne own waterfront property at a lake near Medford. To be able to move up there has been a dream of long standing. However, to be doubly sure they'll adjust as Oregonians, they've rented a home in the area and won't build a place of their own until they've let at least a year of rain soak in.

PROOF THAT she's not only an imaginative, but a singularly industrious hostess, was bridal shower Patty (Mrs. Kent) Atherton gave for Kathy Snodgrass. Patty and Kent recently moved into a home at 3579 Olive Ave. which, with the exception of grass, has a very barren backyard.

Patty fixed that. She made seven dozen paper flowers in three shades of yellow, complete with green tissue leaves. She attached her handmade posies to balloon sticks of staggered heights and brought her yard to full bloom by planting the sticks in the ground in artistic array.

Among 30 at bright party were honoree's mother, Catherine (Mrs. William) Snodgrass, and her sister, Susie, and Patty's mother, Margaret Lowe. Kathy will become bride of Dennis Cerise Aug. 19 and they'll make their home in Carbondale, Colo.

ALL SEEMED very much in order when Jack and Beth Hannaman arrived at Gloria and Paul Grandle's home for a little dinner party in honor of the Hannaman's 25th wedding anniversary. Kettles were boiling on the stove, the table was set for eight, the number Jack and Beth expected to be there, including old friends from Glendale plus their sons, John and Bill. And there was the aroma of something baking in the oven.

It was all fake. The kettles contained just water and the something baking wasn't intended for dinner at all.

Honoree, host and hostess and the "legitimate" guests were sitting on the patio having a pre-dinner drink when doors on both side of house leading to patio flew open and out roared about 40 friends shouting surprise. Ring leaders with the Grandles in planning the evening were John and Ruby Deal, Martha Ford, Cliff Cailland and Bill and Virginia Page.

After cocktails the gang drove off to the Elks Club for dinner and dancing. Among merrymakers were Dan and Lorena Farnham, Tim and Margaret Rogers, Chuck and Maria Stevens, Don and Audrey Helmer, Leo and Dorothy Neal, Maury and Peg Ruckle, Warren and Betty Mitchell and John Hannaman's girl friend, Helen Harvey.

PAPIER MACHE ON HANDS IS ONE THING—ON FACE IT'S MACHE OF DIFFERENT COLOR . . . indulging in some hijinks during work party are Barbara Lubach (left), Diane Rodecker and Margaret Ludwig. They are among Alpha Chi Omega alums of LB preparing 1,000 handcrafted decorations for big district benefit.

Still in celebrating mood, Beth and Jack plan to spend this coming week in San Francisco.

HAVING AN elegant adventure from now through August is Lindsay Graham, 18, daughter of John and Sue Graham, 251 Temple Ave. She went off to Norway to spend summer vacation with Capt. Rolv Verpeide, his wife, Brita, and their children at their home in a village about 10 miles from Oslo.

Capt. Verpeide, who skippers Norwegian freighters, and Grahams became acquainted 10 years ago on one of his trips to our harbor and have remained good friends. Just before she left Lindsay's brother, Randy, was home on leave from U.S. Army duty in Korea, so that was a lively household.

Edwards, Borger married

MRS. JAMES EDWARDS

En route to Northern California are Mr. and Mrs. James Calvin Edwards, who exchanged nuptial vows Saturday in Bellflower First Baptist Church.

The bride is the former Connie Lynn Borger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Borger Jr. of 4420 Long Beach Blvd. Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Edwards, 6122 Blackthorne Ave., Lakewood, are parents of the bridegroom.

The bride was attired in an empire gown of crepe and Chantilly lace, fashioned with a bodice of irridescent sequins and a chapel train.

Mrs. Larry Prince, sister of the bridegroom, served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were her sister, Debbie Borger, and cousins, Cheryl Borger and Linda Cablayan. David Edwards and Debbie Pratt were candlelighters.

Best man was Larry Prince. Seating the 300 guests were Steve Rogers, Bill Cool, Richard Hull, Howard Hull, Roy Hull and Dale Borger, the bride's brother.

Three couples join newlywed list

Pyatt-Stutes

Gary Richard Pyatt and his bride, the former Sharon Kay Stutes, will make their home in Torrance upon returning from a wedding trip to Carmel.

The couple exchanged vows Saturday afternoon in First Methodist Church, San Pedro, and were feted after the ceremony at a reception in Friendship Hall of the church.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Stutes of Wilmington, the bride was attired in an A-line gown of white satin and Alencon lace with a cathedral train of lace and pearls accented by a small hat and veil.

She chose Teri Dalton for maid of honor and her cousin, Susan Michelle Cutter, as flower girl. Jerry Ann Richey and Janet Coffelt were bridesmaids.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clare Burk of Battle Creek, Mich., was attended by David Wilcox. Lt. (j.g.) Gary Sandler and John Hughes, a cousin of the bride, seated guests.

An alumna of Banning High School, Harbor College and California State College at Long Beach, the bride is affiliated with Anchorettes.

Her husband was graduated cum laude from Michigan State University.

Burns-Dowell

St. Timothy Lutheran Church, Lakewood, was scene of the marriage Saturday evening of Cpl. Leonard C. Burns Jr., USMC, and Christine Vivian Dowell.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LaMoyne R. Dowell of 6117 Warwood Road, Lakewood. Her husband is the son of Mrs. Wilson Sanders of Barnwell, S.C.

For her wedding Miss Dowell chose a gown of Chantilly lace and organza over taffeta.

Mrs. Barry Robinson was her sister's matron of honor and Rebecca Rickabaugh was maid of honor. Also in the bridal party were Joy Bailey and Georgette Miller, bridesmaids, and Tammy Lynn Paxton, flower girl.

Cpl. Larry Woodward was best man. Escorting guests were Dennis Dowell, the bride's brother; Barry Robinson and Cpl. Clifford Bendikson.

The couple was feted at a reception in the church, and later at a party for family and close friends in the home of the bride's parents. They are honeymooning in Northern California and will make their home in Santa Ana.

The new Mrs. Burns was graduated from Lakewood High School and attended Long Beach City College. She was a member of Socli and is a past honored queen of Job's Daughters, Bethel 240. Her husband attended South Carolina schools and is presently stationed at Camp Pendleton.

Merton-Severance

Big Bear Lake was the honeymoon destination of Mr. and Mrs. Mickey M. Merton whose wedding Saturday evening in Covenant Presbyterian Church was followed by a reception in the Petroleum Club.

The former Lynn D. Severance chose a formal gown of lace and satin for her nuptials, and wore a satin rose headdress. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Severance of 521 Daisy Ave.

Kathy Holley was maid of honor and the flower girl was Allison Ann Baird, a cousin of the bride. Bridesmaids were her sister, Terry; Helga Farnbacher and Pat Promintz.

Joseph Stanich was best man for the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Merton of Medford, Ore. Ushers were Joseph Kenny, Thomas Delaney and Dennis Vasile.

Fling will help retarded

Young Californians will have their annual dance — "A Summer Fling" — Saturday in Terrace Room of Sheraton-Beach Inn, Huntington Beach. Working on table decorations of small bird cages and flowers are Mrs. William L. Edwards, left, dance chairman, Mrs. Dan Nelson, president, and Mrs. Bob Solomon. A no-host cocktail party at 8 p.m. will precede the dance. A midnight breakfast will end the evening. The affair is to raise funds for retarded children.

He writes music for people

school. But when he was 7 his father died. His mother took him to Germany for three years while she studied at Leipzig Conservatory of Music. Back in this country she opened a music studio—Alfred Wallenstein, later conductor of Los Angeles Philharmonic—was one of her pupils.

Everyone in the family knew what Ferde should do: enter a profession.

He had other ideas. The world was too big and beckoning, it had too many melodies, for him to settle for one. So he left home in 1906 to explore.

"I'm a graduate of the seventh grade," he beamed.

His formal education ended there, but he has never stopped learning. Two universities proudly bestowed doctorates on him, Colorado State and Illinois Wesleyan, and a third has asked for the honor. He taught orchestration at Juilliard School of Music.

As a stripling in Los Angeles he worked as bookbinder, usher, newsboy, elevator operator, lithographer and typesetter. He shoveled coke in a steel mill and drove a horse and buggy to distribute the payroll for an ironworks. Always he kept up his music study. He got a job in a theater as a stagehand so that he could work nights and study during the day.

NOW, he was writing music, too. His first commissioned work was "The Grand Reunion March" for an Elks convention in Los Angeles.

He was an itinerant pianist, playing mining towns in California, Nevada, Arizona. Many are ghost towns now.

What kind of audiences did he have?

His eyes twinkled. "I don't think I'll answer that. But I'll tell you this. One time a reporter, asked where I had played during that period. I told him in sporting houses. He wrote that I played for the games."

In 1915 Paul Whiteman dropped in at the Portola Louvre in San Francisco to hear the young man whose arrangements and jazz improvisations were causing a stir among musicians. This visit led to a long association with Whiteman and Grofe toured Europe with the famous band in 1923. His big break came when he did arrangements for Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue."

"The band was playing Ziegfeld's Follies at the time and the arrangement was literally written as quickly as Gershwin could pass pages of the score over the piano between acts."

SOMEWHERE along the way, Grofe grew disturbed over the hit or miss way jazz was played. Musicians would improvise—a one-time performance, never to be repeated exactly the same way. So he began to orchestrate jazz, reasoning that once a beautiful arrangement was written, it was permanent, to be reproduced and enjoyed over and over.

He molded the suite form to fit his needs—to give scope to his ideas. In bold red, white and blue, in muted pastels, in crashing blacks and whites, subtly and brashly, he painted his United States in musical colors.

The world loved his music. Many honors came, too.

On his concert grand piano is a picture of Grofe at the White House with President Johnson and his family. The President had asked him—on two weeks' notice—to compose "Salute to Congress"—for the Marine Band to play in October, 1965. He completed the assignment and was again invited to the White House in 1966. This Tuesday he was in the capital for an all Grofe concert played by the U.S. Army Headquarters Band, conducted by Samuel Laboda, president of American Bandmasters Association.

DESPITE illness two years ago which slowed him physically, Grofe continues to pour out his melodies. He is working now on a suite to translate the story of the California wine industry into music.

When Mrs. Herman H. Ridder founded the Starlight Serenades in 1962, she envisioned free summer concerts with fine music to appeal to many people. Grofe would agree with this concept.

"One of the reasons that American music is so popular throughout the world," he said, "is because it has been written for the people—simple. Simplicity is the keynote to good music and simplicity is elegance."

Two couples choose Saturday for nuptials

MRS. J. E. STERBENTZ

Sterbentz-McCullough

St. Joseph's Catholic Church was the scene of the Saturday wedding of Katherine Alice McCullough and John Michael Sterbentz.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Michael D. McCullough, 3140 Ostrom Ave., and Mr. and Mrs. John J. Sterbentz, 3842 Marber Ave.

The bride was attired in a gown of silk organza with tiers of Chantilly lace cascading the back of the full skirt.

Patricia McCullough was maid of honor for her sister and Mrs. Keith Nelson was another attendant. Roselle McCullough was flower girl for her sister.

Steven Sterbentz was best man for his brother. Ushers were James and Thomas Sterbentz, brothers of the bridegroom, and David McCullough, brother of the bride. Jeffery Sterbentz was ring bearer for his brother.

A buffet reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

The couple will be at home in Long Beach after a wedding trip to Lake Tahoe.

The bride was graduated from Millikan and the bridegroom was graduated from Lakewood High School. They both attended Long Beach City College.

Badstubner-Hughes

An evening service Saturday in First Baptist Church linked the names of Vickie Hughes and Michael Badstubner.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd D. Hughes of 6222 Carita St., was attired in a gown of peau de soie and lace withacapof flowers and jewels.

Her sister, Mrs. Belya Hilton, was matron of honor. Also in the bridal party were Terry Hills, Darlene Beals and Sandy Cornelius.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolf Badstubner of Lakewood, the bridegroom chose his brother, Tom Badstubner, to serve as best man. Jim Badstubner, another brother, Terry Beals and Arthur Trujillo were ushers.

The couple will reside in Sunset Beach upon returning from their honeymoon in Palm Springs. Both are graduates of Lakewood High School; the bridegroom is a student at California State College at Long Beach.

MRS. BADSTUBNER

CELEBRATION NEXT SUNDAY

Morenos note anniversary

A reception next Sunday in Moreno's Restaurant in Long Beach will honor Mr. and Mrs. N.L. Moreno, now of Garden Grove, on their 50th wedding anniversary.

MR. AND MRS. N. L. MORENO

Their five children and families will host the event which will be from 3 until 6 p.m. They include Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Aguirre, Tucson, Ariz.; Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Moreno of Pasadena; Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Edwards, Garden Grove,; Mr. and Mrs. Nolbert Moreno, Long Beach; and Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Montano, Goleta.

The Morenos were married Aug. 1, 1917, in Tucson. They came to Long Beach in 1932 and opened their first restaurant in Belmont Shore.

Their 15 grandchildren, and 3 great grandchildren will be among the 300 expected to attend the event.

Clinic aides jump the gun on Christmas

The oft-repeated phrase "Christmas in July" has been revised by Auxiliary to Long Beach Children's Clinic which will have an open house featuring holiday cards and stationery Aug. 2.

The event is scheduled from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. in the clinic, 430 W. 14th St. Tours of the clinic also are planned.

Displayed and for sale at the event will be original Christmas cards designed by several local artists, as well as commercial cards. Proceeds benefit the clinic, which provides medical services for youngsters unable to afford private care.

As an added attraction, auxiliary members will address (without charge) envelopes on orders of 500 or more cards placed before Nov. 1.

ARTIST Warren Cox, paralyzed from the neck down from an auto accident, nevertheless wields a masterful brush, using his teeth instead of his hands. He is one of the artists whose original Christmas cards will be for sale at Long Beach Children's Clinic.

Protect skin when cleaning

Summertime cleaners and gardeners need to guard their skin with protective clothing, both indoors and out. For instance, keep hair away from the face by tucking it neatly under a band or scarf.

MRS. LARRY SILVA MRS. EDWARD SILVA

Nuptial Mass links same names twice

Two brothers married two sisters Saturday in a double Nuptial Mass witnessed by 175 members and guests of both families in Holy Family Catholic Church, Artesia.

Larry C. Silva claimed Janet Trujillo as his bride, while Joan Trujillo became Mrs. Edward T. Silva.

The brides are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Trujillo of Lakewood. Their husbands' parents are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Silva of Honolulu, Hawaii.

Mrs. Gordon D. Gow served as matron of honor for her sisters and her husband was best man.

Completing the bridal entourage were Julie McGinnis, Charlotte Prothro and Mrs. Robert Trujillo, bridesmaids; Barbara Gow and Lorna Silva, flower girls.

Guests were escorted by Robert Trujillo, Alvin Silva and Robert Sakamaki. Mark Prothro and Tracy Lee Gow were ringbearers.

Just as they chose the same date for their marriages, the brides selected identical gowns of nylon organza and lace fashioned with cathedral trains. Each wore a tiara of crystal and lace and carried a bouquet of orchids and white carnations.

The couples were feted at a reception in the church hall following the ceremony. Mrs. Benjamin Trujillo presided at the guest book.

Larry Trujillo and his bride will have a wedding trip to Sacramento where they will reside while he is stationed at Beale Air Force Base. His brother has planned a Sequoia honeymoon before he and Mrs. trujillo make their home in Norwalk.

JACOBY

South's squeeze is right

The late Edward Hymes was just about as good a dummy player as there ever has been. In addition Eddie was somewhat of a showoff when he could afford to be.

He sat South and let West's king of spades hold the first trick. This gave up the overtrick if hearts and diamonds both broke 3-3 but Eddie had bid six, not seven. He didn't think that West would continue the suit but stranger things have happened and a spade continuation would give him 12 tricks in high cards.

West didn't fall into that trap. He shifted to the jack of diamonds. Eddie won with dummy's king and led the ace of diamonds. West discarded a spade. Eddie thought awhile and claimed the balance of the tricks. He said, "Perfect squeeze, if I need it."

East and West both protested so Eddie showed his hand and played it out as fast as he could get his opponents to play.

He ran off four club tricks, discarding his six of hearts. Each opponent had no trouble discarding on that trick. West threw a spade; East a diamond.

Then Eddie led to his queen of diamonds. West was down to queen-ten of spades and four hearts but he discarded a heart as nonchalantly as he could considering that it was just as if Eddie had pulled his last tooth.

Eddie remarked to West, "I don't know if you have already been squeezed or not but you can't have more than three hearts, come what may. I am now going to lead my ace of spades. If East started with one spade, four hearts; five diamonds and three clubs this will force him to jettison his own heart stopper." "O.K.," said West. "We concede."

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD

Alcohol is the culprit

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

Rich and I have been married seven years—the second time for both of us. The first years were so-so, neither happy nor miserable. When Rich is sober he is wonderful, but he drinks a lot and then he's horrible.

I took the two children and left him once. After three weeks, I agreed to go back and try again. It's the same old story, only now when he's drunk he accuses me of sleeping with other men during that three weeks and gets very violent. He's all right after he "sleeps it off."

This happens about twice a week and I'm ging out of my mind. I love Rich and I don't want to leave again. How can I hold our marriage together? How can I change him? Or, how can I live with him? MICKY

DEAR MICKY:

Alcohol is the culprit. Rich is already or fast becoming an alcoholic (which he, no doubt, vehemently denies) and I don't think you can "change" him.

If you have enough plain old GUTS you can stick with him. If you want help for yourself, see Alanon (call your local Alcoholics Anonymous for information). They can help you help yourself—and possibly, Rich.—M.M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I met Terry about a month ago and after a couple of dates he asked me to go steady with him.

Then he started breaking dates. He'd tell me he'd be over a certain night but he'd never show up. Once in a while I'd see him in town and he'd promise to see me that night but somehow he never made it.

I wish I knew what is wrong. I told him I loved him and didn't want anyone else. If I lose him I will never go out with another boy! Please tell me how to keep Terry. Or, do you suppose I should give him up?

ONE-BOY GIRL

DEAR ONE-BOY GIRL:

How can you keep something you don't have? He talks a lot (words are cheap!) but he doesn't do anything.

You might as well forget the going-steady bit because you're the only one taking it seriously.

If you don't "go out with other boys" you're a real chump and will wind up wasting a lot of time.—M.M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My six-year-old marriage is almost on the rocks. Maybe it's my fault. Maybe I'm a bit "strait-laced." Maybe I'm making something out of nothing and maybe you can set me straight.

Our first six months were very happy, but then things started to change. Finally, about a year ago, my wife filed for divorce on grounds of "mental cruelty." She said she "wasn't happy." We have separated several times before, mostly because she lied to me and also because she had "dated" her cousin. She dropped the divorce suit and promised not to date any other man nor to lie to me again. I, in turn, promised to trust her completely.

Now I have cross-filed for divorce. My reason: she knew I had to be out of town on a certain night so she arranged a date with her cousin again.

Is it wrong for her to date her cousin? Am I wrong in not overlooking this to begin with? What should I do in view of all this and the fact that we have a small daughter?

AM I WRONG

DEAR AM I WRONG:

Well, there are all kinds of "cousins" so a date with a cousin could mean a lot or nothing at all. You should know, better than I, just what it means in this case.

There's something mighty wrong with this marriage and, from here, it's impossible to form any kind of judgment. I suggest both of you see a marriage counselor sr someone qualified to help you hash out yould difficulties.—M.M.

Mythology tradition, folklore in Japanese Odori

FESTIVAL OF THE RICE PLANT is a panorama of many folk festivals honoring rice from planting to harvesting. Ceremonies to the seedling transplanting ritual, prayers for rain and good harvest have been offered for centuries in Japan. They are indicative of the farmers' religious faith.

THE AYAKO-MAI retains traces of ancient times at Kurohime Village, Echigo region. It is danced by three women, wearing old 'Genroku' costumes topped by red hoods and carrying fans.

SINCE ODORI (Dance) Festival of Japan made its first appearance on this continent July 10 through 15 at Expo '67 in Montreal, critics have been searching for new words to extol the artistry of the 40 dancers and ethnic musicians. Their triumph was repeated in Washington, D.C. and Chicago. They will appear in San Francisco Monday through Saturday, then will open in the Ahmanson Theater of The Music Center for 22 performances Aug. I through 20. Among the brilliantly costumed dances is the Oni Kenabi (left), dance of consolation for spirits of warriors who lost their lives at battle of Koromagawa. Masked, sword-wielding males dance to music deriving from Buddhism. Both boys and girls perform the Hanagasa-Odori (right). Originated at harvest time at Yashiro, famous for the annual return of the cranes, the ceremony takes place every seven years. Girls wear beautifully decorated flower hats. Tradition dictates that only the unmarried may dance the Hanagasa.

Jackson Pollock art termed 'cosmic dance'

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

The retrospective of more than 150 drawings and paintings by Jackson Pollock (1912-1956) has just opened at the Los Angeles County Musuem of Art where it will remain until Sept. 3.

Pollock's primacy in the International School of the two post World War II decades is established. It is all too easy to accept him as a great innovator—of drip paintings, of the use of huge (often unsized) canvasses, of non-structured all-over composition.

This show, however, gives the viewer another dimension. It traces Pollock's development from the '20s (influenced by Thomas Hart Benton), the early '30s (reflection of the Mexican muralists), and the late '30s and early '40s (strong Picasso and surrealist influences) to the glorious flowering of his own style in 1943-44.

BY THE MID-40s, under the sponsorship of Peggy Guggenheim, Pollock gained national and international recognition along with scathing criticism. What he was striving for is set forth in an interview taped in 1950:

"The modern artist is living in a mechanical age and we have a mechanical means of representing objects in nature such as the camera and the photograph. The modern artist, it seems to me, is working and expressing an inner world — in other words — expressing the energy, the motion, and other forces. . .working with space and time, expressing his feelings rather than illustrating."

POLLOCK never felt he had "arrived." His recurrent economic problems, his bouts with the bottle and psychoanalysis, speak all too tragically of the depth of his struggle.

Some innovators are remembered only for their innovations, but Pollock's work, long after numberless copies, has not become trite. Each is a rhapsodic human accounting, a kind of cosmic dance.

Gallery hours at the musuem, 5905 Wilshire Blvd., are 1 to 9 p.m. Tuesdays through Fridays, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturdays, and noon to 6 Sundays.

Commission to solicit private aid

Anthony Reid, executive director of California Arts Commission, has been authorized by commission members to solicit funds from non-state-government sources.

The money would aid in financing current and special commission projects and programs of general benefit to the State of California. Funds will be accumulated by direct solicitation to foundations, business organizations and individuals.

The commission is investigating the feasibility of forming a foundation to allow greater freedom in programming.

California Arts Commission is involved in extensive visual and performing arts programs throughout the state.

KATHRYN GRAYSON

Grayson, Ericson to star in Melodyland's 'Camelot'

Kathryn Grayson and John Ericson will star in a two-week engagement of "Camelot" which opens Tuesday at Melodyland Theater, Anaheim.

Miss Grayson, who played the role of Guenevere in the Broadway production of the Lerner - Loewe musical and later toured in the national company for more than a year, will be singing the part for the first time in-the-round at Melodyland.

Ericson made his Broadway debut in "Stalag 17" and after 18 months in New York continued in a nationwide tour with the national company. At MGM he played leads in such films as "Rhapsody" with Elizabeth Taylor, "Green Fire" opposite Grace Kelly, "Student Prince" and "Bad Day at Black Rock." In "Camelot" he will play King Arthur.

Stewart Rose, Broadway singer and actor, is cast as Lancelot.

The Association billed at Greek

The Association's performance with Donald O'Connor Monday through next Sunday will mark a 'first' for Greek Theater in Griffith Park.

Never, in its 15 years of summer entertainment has the theater presented a rock and roll attraction. However, the Greek management believes the popular group's excellence in its field qualifies it for appearance at the theater. Winner of a Gold Record for "Cherish," The Association was nominated for Grammies in three categories, a feat matched only by Frank Sinatra, the Beatles and Henry Mancini.

2nd Pacific Jazz Festival planned for Costa Mesa

When co-producers Ted Fuller and Ted Geissler considered the success of their first Pacific Jazz Festival last year in Costa Mesa, they decided to make it an annual event.

With Jimmy Lyons, founder and general manager of the Monterey Jazz Festival again serving as production advisor, the three-day, five-concert Pacific Festival will be held Oct. 6, 7 and 8 on the Orange County Fairgrounds, Costa Mesa.

"Negotiations are underway for the appearance of major performing jazz artists," Lyons said.

TICKETS will go on sale Aug. 1 at $6.50, $5, $4 and $3 for evening concerts and $4 and $3 for the two afternoon performances. They will be available at Mutual Agencies, Southern California Music Companies, Wallich's Music City and Coast Music Store, 1839 Newport Blvd., Costa Mesa, headquarters for the festival.

For further information, write to Pacific Jazz Festival, P.O. Box "Jazz," Costa Mesa.

Concert band

H. Robert Reynolds, associate professor of music, will conduct the 60-member summer concert band of California State College at Long Beach in its annual lawn concert in the bookstore patio. Wednesday noon.

Comerata to offer wine, cheese, music

Camerata dei Musici's fourth annual summer wine tasting party will be held Thursday at the home of Sidney Weinberg, 4605 Arbor Road.

The wine and cheese tasting will begin at 7:30 p.m. At 9 o'clock there will be a short musical program, "The Happy Sound," under the direction of Carl H. Robertson.

Camerata, a group of amateur, semi-professional and professional musicians, traditionally gives concerts without charge to the public. The programs are made possible by funds raised by the annual summer party. Tickets may be purchased at the door or may be reserved by calling Mrs. Jack Lackman, 7008 El Cedral St.

Art that doesn't hold still

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

For its impact and beauty, Laguna Beach's Pageant of the Masters requires models to remain absolutely motionless in tableaux of great paintings.

The concurrent art exhibit also is stationary.

It's a different story, though, each Sunday from 4 to 4:30 p.m. when "Performing Arts on the Green" are the focus of attention on the festival grounds.

Today, Laguna Beach Civic Ballet will give a "Strauss Festival."

The following three Sundays the Festival of Arts chorale and ballet will offer the Kurt Weill folk opera, "Down in the Valley."

All "Performing Arts on the Green" programs are free to those who hold either grounds or Pageant of the Masters tickets and are staged outdoors on the inner quad of the festival grounds.

In the All-California Art Exhibit, the grand prize of $500 went to Saul I. Bernstein of Thousand Oaks for "Banquet on the Mount." Second award of $350 was won by Richard Miller of Sunset Beach for "Three Figures."

PACIFIC COAST CLUB will tap the talents of members for its first Membership Art Exhibition which will open with a champagne reception from 3 to 5 p.m. Aug. 20.

Although the club has many prominent artist members, the show is not limited to work by professional artists, manager Dennis Coder emphasizes. All members and their families are invited to participate.

Elaine Malco, Long Beach artist, is chairman of the committee which includes Ellen Conaty, Catherine Richter, Merrill Larson and Zina Florentine. Judges will include Velma and Ben Messick, Leslie Stone and Naomi Hosterman.

There are several categories for both adults and juniors.

Entry forms must be returned by Aug. 15, entries must be delivered by Aug. 18 and judging will take place Aug. 19.

AN EXHIBIT of work by Jules Olitski, tracing his techniques in color stain painting over the past five years, will open in Pasadena Art Museum, 46 N. Los Robles Ave., Tuesday. The show was organized by the Corcoran Gallery of Art, Washington, D.C.

Olitski, one of four American painters represented in the Venice Biennale last year, is considered a leading colorist. His technique enables him to achieve unique intensities and textural effects.

An illustrated catalog will be available. The show will close Aug. 27 to go to San Francisco Museum of Art.

ENTRIES for the seventh annual Dutch Village Open Art Show will be received Monday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. in Dutch Village Arcade, Woodruff Avenue and South Street, Lakewood. Both amateur and professional artists over the age of 16 may participate in the competition which is sponsored by Dutch Village Merchants Association and Lakewood Artists Guild.

Arthur Millier and Dr. Joseph Young will be judges. Prizes include awards, in each of four categories, of $80, $40, $20 and honorable mentions in addition to the Dutch Village award of $80.

The show will open Tuesday and will continue daily through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

There will be a sidewalk sale Friday and Saturday, with many artists displaying paintings.

MAURICE SYMONDS sends word that his Upstairs Gallery, 2735 E. Carson St., is now exclusive world agent for Wade Reynolds, young artist whose work is currently in great demand. The most recent shipment was sold out, except for two paintings, in three weeks. The next delivery will be in November.

FOR A LIGHTHEARTED look at art, visit the Guggenhead Collection of Humor in Modern Art in the South Coast Plaza, Costa Mesa. From Tuesday through Saturday, 64 works with titles and tongue-in-cheek explanations will be shown on the mall, 3333 Bristol St.

Created by Paul Anthony to satirize way-out modern art, the show opened in Scottsdale, Ariz., last year to become a major tourist attraction and to receive national reviews.

Paintings are signed with such names as Jackson Potluck, Vincent Van Gone and Salvador Dilly.

The seven categories are abstract, stract, misdemeanors, nudes, objectionables, neo-classic, un-pop and animal. Among the last is a fraud, done by an unscrupulous taxidermist in chimp's clothing.

GEORGE TURNBULL, member of the fine arts faculty at California State College, Long Beach, has completed requiremnts for his masters of fine arts degree at the University of Southern California. His paintings will be on exhibit through Aug. 2 in the Upper Town and Gown Gallery, 655 Exposition Blvd., Los Angeles, on the USC campus. Hours are noon to 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays.

PACIFIC ARTISTS LEAGUE continues to make the outdoor area of Edgewater Inn a colorful spot on weekends with a show of work by members. Some 25 artists exhibit—a number are art teachers or professional painters.

ANOTHER outdoor exhibit will be San Pedro Art Association's Street Show today at 25th Street and Western Avenue.

The association sponsors children's art classes for pre-teens Tuesdays from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. in its gallery, 29265 S. Western Ave. A teen-age group meets in Peck Park Tuesday afternoons. Catherine Rosset instructs both classes.

Give Youth To Your Complexion

Good results in complexion beauty are being achieved with a tropical oil that has unique properties to bring youth and peaches-and-cream loveliness to the skin. It ends wrinkle dryness and gives the complexion dewy loveliness. Many druggists here have been able to obtain this oil of Olay. Use it daily as you would a powder base and note how the complexion soon takes on a milky look.

Iwaki to return to Bowl

Hiroyuki Iwaki will return to Hollywood Bowl to conduct Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra in all-Beethoven concerts Tuesday and Thursday nights.

William Steinberg, who was scheduled to conduct three concerts at the Bowl, was forced to cancel his engagement because of the recent death of his wife.

Tuesday evening, Iwaki will conduct Beethoven's "Ninth (Choral) Symphony." Joining with the orchestra will be Ella Lee, soprano; Joanna Simon, mezzo-soprano; Stanley Kolk, tenor; Thomas Paul, bass; and the Roger Wagner Chorale, Roger Wagner director. The program will open with the "Symphony No. 8."

Violinist Yehudi Menuhin will be soloist for the Thursday concert performing the "Violin Concerto in D major." Iwaki will conduct also the Overture to "Coriolanus" and the "Symphony No. 3" (Eroica).

Opera goes to the Grove

Concerts in the Grove at California State College, Long Beach, will present its most ambitious program to date with a four-day run of "Opera in the Grove" beginning Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. in Soroptimist House Patio.

Dr. Hans Lampl is musical director and John Noschese is in charge of staging the three-part bill, a project co-sponsored by the college music department.

The major work will be Gian-Carlo Menotti's "The Medium," of which Dr. Lampl, abouyant, confident, brown-eyed musician, says, "It's theatrically effective — a real thriller. Since its initial great success on Broadway in the late 1940s, it has lost little of its dramatic impact."

IT WILL BE followed by "Saul and the Witch of Endor," a brief (10 minute), gripping paraphrase of the passage from the Book of Samuel set to music by the English 17th century composer, Henry Prucell.

Final number will be the refreshing, infectious "There and Back" by Paul Hindemith. This 12-minute farce depicts the progress from carefree conjugal happiness to domestic murder and suicide — and "back" — the action reversed by a bit of operatic sleight of hand.

CASTS are compsed of members of the Summer Opera Workshop at CSLB with the exception of the young dancer, Jimmy Mercer, who will appear in the role of Toby, the mute, in "The Medium."

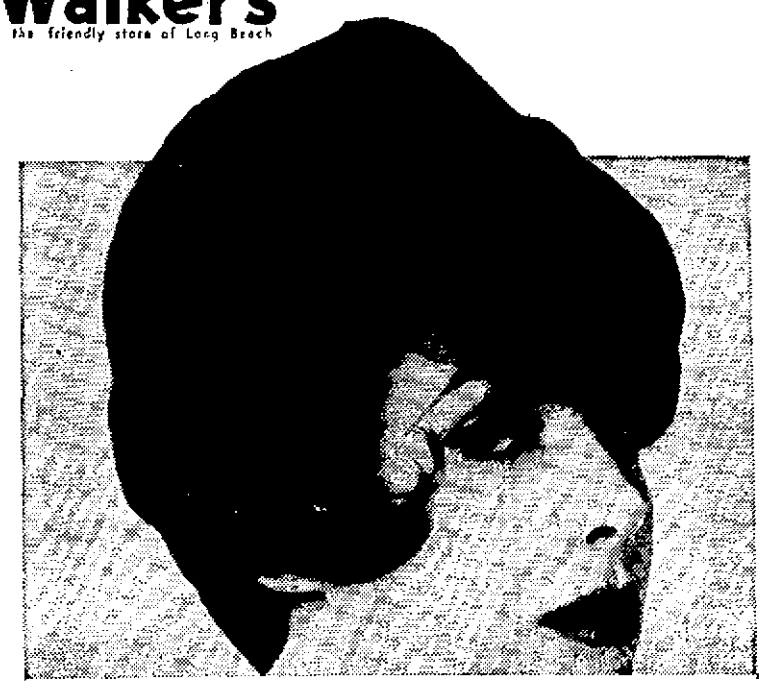

Dr. Lampl admits that staging effective opera is a challenge.

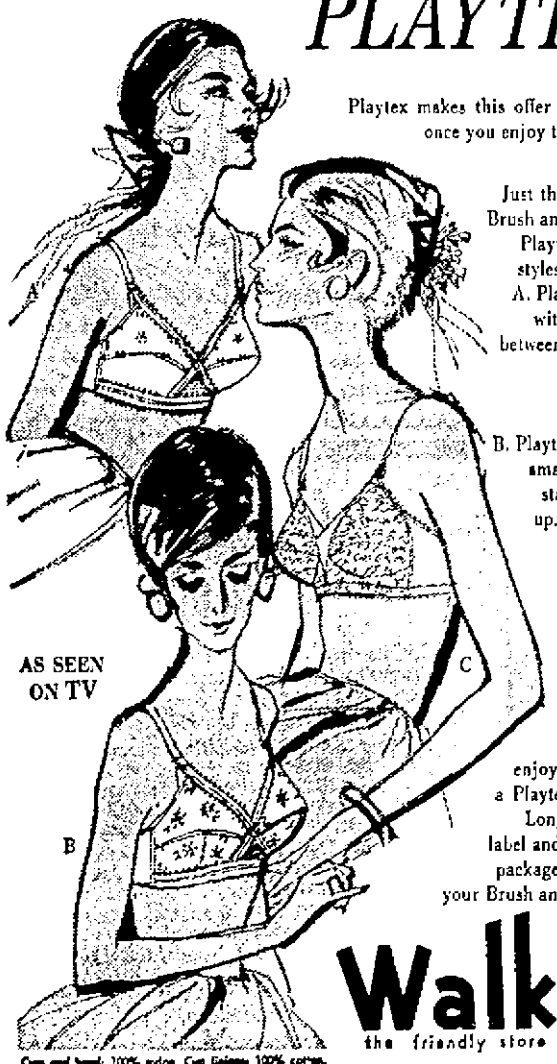

"You can, perhaps, take a beginning drama student and get a good performance in a short time. Not so opera. The voice must have had training.

"It's amazing and touching to see how many people — friends of cast members, other students — have pitched in to help with the productions. And the workshop students! Given the chance, they show what hard work, competence, talent and dedication can produce!"

Travelers beat path to priceless city of Kyoto

JAPANESE LAD WEARS a Mino, a protective garment made of straw, at Kyoto during cold weather. (Pacific Area Travel Association photo)

KYOTO, Japan — The world certainly beats a path to the doorway of this elegant city; it always has, and there's very good reason: travelers like to see the very best.

Kyoto was once the capital of Japan, moving here from nearby Nara in 794 A.D. It maintained that position until 1868, when the capital was moved to Tokyo. It has always been the culture capital, as well as the spiritual home of all Japanese and of many visitors as well.

It is therefore a city of much history, with shrines and pagodas, most of which are very old and all worth a visit. The Sanjusangendo, or 33 Spaces Hall; for example, is named for the 33 spaces between the pillars of its hall. Built in 1266 its principal attraction is the 1,001 wooden statues of Kannon, the reincarnation of Buddha, carved of Cyprus wood and arranged in 10 long rows. A newer temple, the Kiyomizu, is reached by passing through a long, narrow road crowded with shops selling the Kuyomizu porcelain; indigenous to this region. Completed as recently as 1633, this temple stands on a high cliff and affords a fine view of the city, reports the Pacific Area Travel Association.

* * * *

THE EXQUISITE beauty of Kyoto, and its priceless heritage from the golden ages of culture and architecture, spared it from air raids during World War II. It stands now, much as it has always been, a monument to history.

It is also a city of fine hotels. If Kyoto had nothing else—but it has everything—it would be famous for the Miyako Hotel alone. It's managed by S. K. Kawana, who was trained at the old Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York many years ago. Its suites are exquisitely furnished, but it is most interesting to take one of the rooms in its modern Japanese inn-style wing. The quarters consist of a living rom with alcoves and bath, and the bed is made on the floor at night. Visitors find the thick mattress, which somewhat resembles one of the old-fashioned feather variety, very conducive to good rest; there will be no waking up during the night. It is a way of living, among others, that western people could turn to with more comfort they have managed to achieve through the centuries, another in which the Japanese have managed to surpass ours.

* * * *

THE BATH is usually deep and square, and contains a wooden bucket with which to splash water upon yourself for a rinse. There is also a shower for the unimaginative. This style of room is more expensive than the western, and costs $12.50 for a night.

The Kyoto Hotel in the center of town is another good one, and it also has some Japanese-style rooms, if you're fortunate enough to get one. Both hotels have several dining rooms where the sukiyaki is cooked at your table in style and served individually. A fine old restaurant is the Nakamura-Ro, in the Gion section of Kyoto. Private rooms for dining are built around the inevitable small garden that adds so much to visual as well as culinary interest.

The silk made here is world famous for the excellence of its quality. Most of the fabrics are manufactured in the Nishijin quarter, mostly in the homes of the craftsmen and you can often see them being washed in local streams, where the dyes then color the water which turns to red or blue or yellow. When the excess color is washed away, what remains will stay put just as it is.

* * * *

MORE THAN 10 million visitors come here every year, and part of the reason for the influx is the grand festivals staged in Kyoto.

Gorgeous geisha dances are on view in spring and autumn. At these times, hundreds of geisha girls perform the traditional "Kyoto Dance," a spectacle to behold.

But it is not the numerous festivals alone that attract visitors. The charm of Kyoto manifests itself to everyone, and it is made of a combination of many things; its very appearance, its antiquity, the lovely shops, its theaters, all these and many more combine to give the city its flavor. Here is where life is much like it was in centuries past and, despite modern conveniences and the progress of science elsewhere, that seems to be what people really like. Once upon a time life was uncomplicated and charming. It still is in Kyoto.

For more information on Japan, and any of the other countries of the Pacific, write to the Pacific Area Travel Association, 442 Post St., Dept. PD-21, San Francisco, Calif. 94102.

Arizona Indian ruins inspire awe, wonder

Modern man, since the time of the conquistadores, has gazed in awe and wonder at the splendid apartment house-like ruins mysteriously abandoned hundreds of years ago by early Arizona residents.

These well preserved Indian ruins range across the state from north to south with the four-story Casa Grande National Monument near Coolidge and the three exceptionally large and interesting cave pueblos — Betatkin, Keet Seel and Inscription House — in the Navajo National Monument anchoring each extremity.

The Casa Grande Monument, one of Arizona's best known ruins, is thought to have been constructed 600 years ago in the Gila Valley by the Hohokam as a combination fort, watchtower and apartment house.

* * * *

CASA GRANDE was still in use in 1694 when the great Jesuit missionary Father Eusebio Kino passed through on an exploratory mission. At that time he noted an extensive irrigation system and the polished surface of the building's interior walls. The great house was abandoned several years after Father Kino's visit, for unknown reasons.

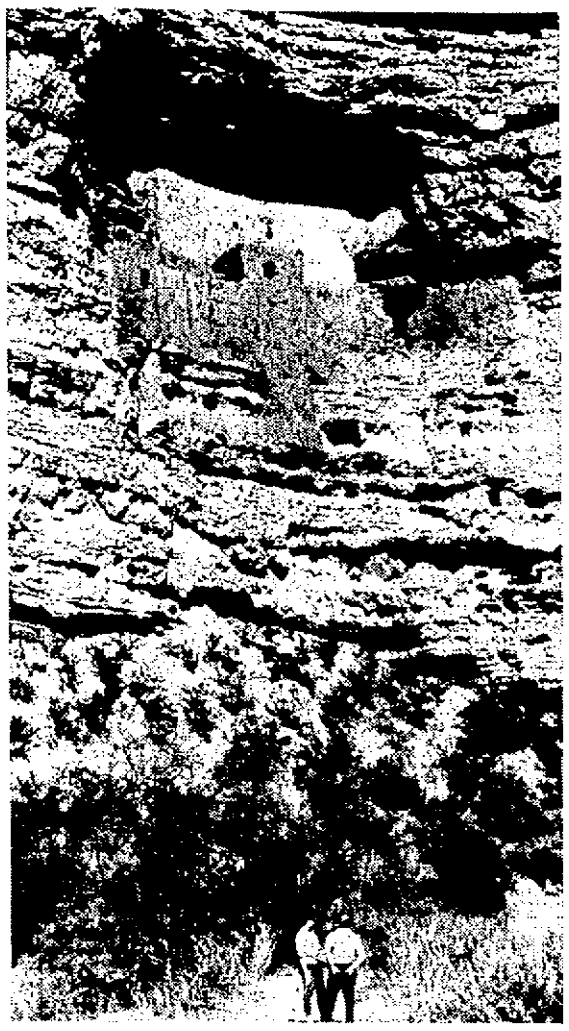

While the Hohokam were busy developing Casa Grande, the Anasazi, or ancient ones, were becoming sedentary in the Navajo National Monument cliff dwellings. The Navajo ruins, located in great caves carved by wind and water into the side of huge, red sandstone cliffs, contain approximately 500 apartments. Severe drought conditions during the 13th century apparently forced abandonment of the area.

* * * *

OTHER FINE Indian ruins in Arizona are located at Canyon de Chelly National Monument near Chinle in northeastern Arizona; Wupatki National Monument, north of Flagstaff; Walnut Canyon National Monument, south of Flagstaff; Tuzigoot National Monument, east of Clarkdale; Montezuma Castle National Monument, near Camp Verde, and Tonto National Monument, near Roosevelt Dam.

Important archeological remains within the state are also located near Fort Apache, Tucson, Phoenix and Globe.

Museums are maintained at most of the ruins to help visitors better enjoy and understand them — and draw their own conclusions on who lived there and why they left.

Just say 'Kamloops' and big trout leap!

By MIKE CRAMOND

At one time, when you heard sportsmen talking excitedly of great deeds, waving outstretched arms, and heard the word-name "Kamloops" you automatically thought they were discussing the fish of the same name, Kamloops trout. Actually, this fish, so desirable to sporting anglers, is a rainbow trout, but the district and area of sun-drenched and sagebrush-banked mountains in British Columbia bearing that name became so synonymous with the fish that the trout were given the name.

The Kamloops area probably has the greatest abundance of good rainbow trout waters in the world. In fact, the twin cities of Kamloops and North Kamloops are split by a river, the Thompson, which yearly provides some of the largest steelhead (sea-run rainbow) trout taken anywhere, and probably more of them by the pound than any other river.

* * * *

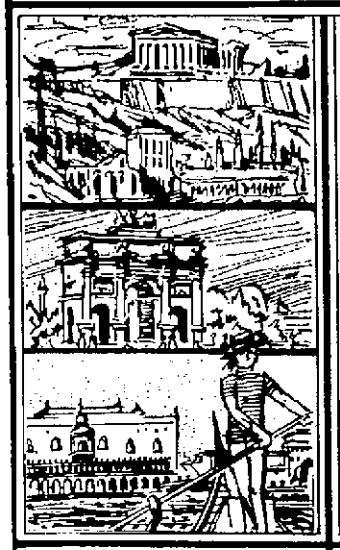

AND NEARBY lakes are just as terrific.

Six-Mile Lake isn't six miles out of Kamloops, as that cow-town, rail center would allow you to believe, but it is like, perhaps 20 others, the home of many six-pounders on the fly or hard lure.

As are Jacko, Hefly, Hammer, Leighton, Minnie, Peterhope and Stump Lakes, it is the home of rainbows that run occasionally to eight pounds — with top contending lakes producing up to 16 pounds.

Most of these lakes lie within one to two hours from the excellent cuisine of modern style hotel-motel complexes, and contemporary shopping centers in Kamloops.

Cruise the Caribbean by day. Spend the evenings in Paris.

The favorite ports of the Caribbean are even more delightful when your "home" each night is the beautiful S.S. France. The friends, the food, the parties, the air-conditioned staterooms are the perfect complement to the sunny tropical days ashore in such exotic ports as Panama, Curaçao, Trinidad, Nassau, St. Thomas, Haiti, Barbados or Martinique.

Your choice of 6 complete cruises:

Oct. 30 to Nov. 13. 6 ports, 13½ days, from $440, N.Y. to N.Y.
May also be booked Nassau to Nassau, from $420.

Dec. 21 to Jan. 3. 5 ports, 12½ days, from $480, N.Y. to N.Y.
Celebrate Christmas and New Year's at sea.

Jan. 13 to Jan. 24. 5 ports, 10½ days, from $370, N.Y. to N.Y.

Jan. 26 to Feb. 7. 5 ports, 11½ days, from $445, N.Y. to N.Y.
May also be booked Nassau to Nassau, from $425.

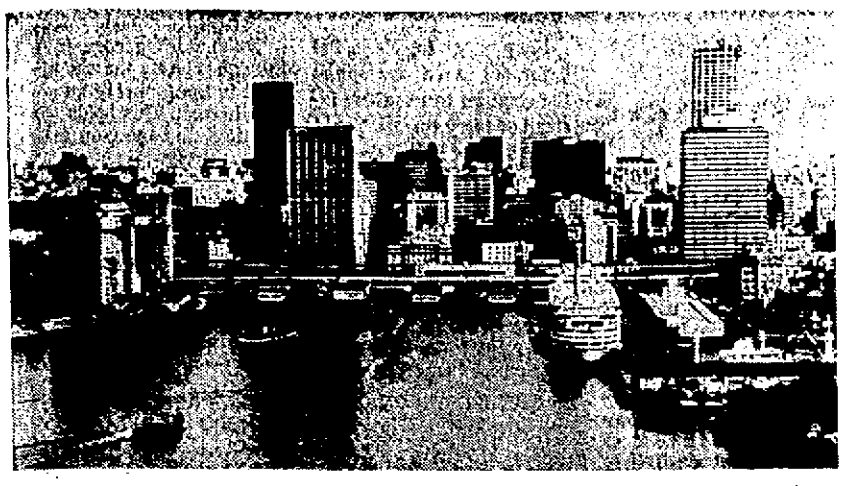

Feb. 9 to Feb. 23. 6 ports, 13½ days, from $520, N.Y. to N.Y.
May also be booked Nassau to Nassau, from $495.

Feb. 24 to Mar. 12. 7 ports, 16½ days, from $630, N.Y. to N.Y.
May also be booked Nassau to Nassau, from $600.

TRAVELS WITH DELAPLANE

Suva: real South Sea port

By STAN DELAPLANE

SUVA, Fiji — Suva is a neat, flowery British crown colony, the capital of the 300 Fiji Islands and half million people who live on them.

It is the most colorful port in the South Seas. Tropical balconies hang over streets blazing with hibiscus and parasol flamboyan trees. Fiji police direct traffic in snow-white wraparound sulus topped by Navy blue tunics with red piping.

The markets with Fijian woman whose wiry hair looks as if it had been cut with hedge clippers. East Indian women in bright saris, gold earrings and a streak of crimson paint through the parting of the hair.

Europeans in crisp white shirts and shorts and knee-length socks. Visitng French sailors with scarlet pompons on their white hats.

This is a one-day stop for cruise ships. It's a duty-free port. Shops crammed with Japanese pearls, transistor radios and cameras. Great, creamy South Pacific shells, woven pandanus mats and clusters of green coconuts.

* * * *

"WE ARE TAKING a South Pacific cruise and would appreciate any advice on good buys . . ."

Your probable ports: Papeete, Tahiti — all I ever found here was French perfume. Auckland, New Zealand: Sheepskin rugs. Sydney and Melbourne: Australian fire opals. (There's a duty-free shop in Sydney, but it hasn't the choice of Suva.)

Suva has the choice of the Japanese imports. I'd buy at the one-price department stores. Burns Philip and Morris Hedstrom. The big colonial hotel for a noon beer (get Fiji bitter) is the Grand Pacific — known all over as the G.P.H.

* * * *

"CAN YOU TELL me the formula or percentage for tipping on a cruise ships "

Once I heard several travel writers argue this. They came to a figure of 10 per cent of the cost of the voyage. A steamship man told me: "Nonsense. That's tipping for the pasasge plus the service in your room and at the table. It's like tipping the Captain and owners, too."

On a long voyage—more than two weeks—I tip for two people: table steward, $1 for each day. Room steward, the same. Deck steward, $5 at the beginning of the trip. Wine steward, $2 a week. Bar stewards, 50 cents service at the end of the evening.

On a short trip — five days — I double that for the table steward and room steward. I cut the deck steward to $3. Tips run higher on American ships than on foreign. They run higher in the Caribbean than in the Pacific or Mediterranean. Caribbean cruises are full of New Yorkers on short voyages and accustomed to New York tipping. Pacific cruises have the Australians, Canadians and New Zealanders who are realistic and not easily bullied.

* * * *

"MY HUSBAND will be on sabbatical leave, and we have a choice of places to study (tropical medicine) in warm countries. We thought of Panama . . ."

I don't know what it's like to live there, but I can't get with Panama. Colon and Panama City are honky tonk sailors' towns. I am for the islands: Trinidad or Martinique would be my first choice. Trinidad for a British-type colony. Martinique for French food and wine.

SOUTH SEAS JOURNEY

Sydney offers much, especially friendship

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When Matson Lines' SS Mariposa sailed June 5 out of Los Angeles Harbor on a regular six-week, 18,640-mile luxury cruise through the South Seas, Travel Editor Fred Kraft was aboard. Here is his fifth report on the trip.)

By FRED TAYLOR KRAFT
Travel Editor

CAPTAIN F. V. FOOT, San Pedro, master of the Mariposa on her 84th South Pacific voyage.

SYDNEY, Australia — "Number Seven, Woolloomooloo."

The cabbie pulled down his flag and eased away from the curb in downtown Sydney.

"I soiy, matey, that'd be the Mariposa. Yer soiling on her or just seein' friends orf?"

I told him I was sailing.

"'Eck!" he exclaimed, his face brightening. "Might 'ave knowed hit. Yuu be a Yoink, from the U.S. Hay."

I admitted cautiously that I was.

"Bloody good," he said enthusiastically. "Your chaise and kisses with yer?"

"Cheese and kisses?"

"Yairs, soir. That's meanin' your wolfe."

Before I could reply, he went on, his enthusiasm gaining momentum by the second as he deftly weaved his taxi in and through the mad scramble of traffic.

"That U.S. Hay! It be a great place, and I'm fer you and hit, L. S. and B." He paused to draw a quick breath and went on, "That'd be lock, stock and barrel, matey."

This bulky cabbie's attitude was typical of the friendship extended to me on every side, throughout my four-day stay in and out of Sydney. Later, I described the encounter to an Australian executive.

"America," he explained, "has been held in high esteem by us ever since the Battle of the Coral Sea, except for which we might not be here today. In recent months, for some reason unaccountable to me, the feeling is becoming more and more ardent."

* * * *

SYDNEY, unlike Auckland and other great cities of the South Pacific outside of Australia, is typically American in appearance and tempo. With almost 3 million people in her metropolitan area — one-fourth the population of the entire continent — she is an animated behemoth, driving ahead with tremendous force. She is prosperous and she is supremely confident.

More than 200,000 overseas visitors were hosted by Sydney during the past year, 40 per cent of them Americans. They found the hotel-motel situation adequate, with more such facilities rising to keep comfortably ahead of what tourism officials predict will be a 20 to 25 per cent increase this year.

Sydney has much to offer these visitors besides warm friendship: a great bridge that has become her international symbol, a port reckoned as one of the three finest anywhere, a multitude of fine stores and bontiques, restaurants that serve superb seafood, and unique animal sanctuaries bulging with such oddities of nature as kaola bears, emus, kangaroos, wallabies, wallaroos, wombats and duck-billed platapuses.

* * * *

ENTERTAINMENT is varied and endless. At least 16 living theaters are operating with professional stars in leading roles. Movie houses are showing the latest U.S. films. A dozen art galleries lure an ever-growing audience. You can see a fine concert any night in the week. A section known as King's Cross attracts those who like a bawdier type of shows. Sports like boat racing, ice skating, rugby, soccer and lawn bowling are routine.

And, oh, yes, Sydney has her night trots, but they're not what you might first think you may bet as little as 50 cents, legally mind you, on your favorite "sukky 'orse."

Beyond Sydney are the resort-studded Blue Mountains, and still farther west is the endless Outback, wild and challenging, the home of the aborigine and uncounted millions of sheep, where ranches are measured in hundreds of square miles instead of acres, where lonely village lie parched and panting. And the Great Barrier Reef, a 1,200-mile-long wonderland whose coral and fish range in sizes and colors that defy description.

* * * *

DUBBO, meaning "red earth" in aborigine, lies almost directly over the Blue Mountains, 260 miles northwest of Sydney. This is the Inback, an area whose horizons sweep into seeming infinity. Here begin the sprawling sheep ranges and here, blessed with rains abundant compared with those in the Outback, is an area notable for wheat, dairy produce and cattle.

To reach this "Hub of the West" you take the Jolly Swagman Tour and in early morning soar out over red-roofed Sydney in one of Airlines of New South Wales' efficient F27 Fokker Friendship planes. As the mists clear during the one-hour flight, blue gum and kurrajong trees cast spectral shadows across hills and valleys.

Once in Dubbo you breakfast, tour the town — actually a city of 16,000, bursting with vigor, and appearing much like her counterparts in Kansas or Iowa —and head into the picture pretty countryside that spreads aimlessly in every direction and looking much like the terrain shown in "The Sundowners," a movie filmed only 200 miles farther south. Here the ewe is queen of all she surveys. Sheep graze by the thousands on green wheat fields interspersed with spotty stands of gum trees (Australians boast 600 species of the eucalyptus), and are mustered by the famous Kelpie dogs who work with instinctive intelligence at the whistle of their master.

At another station you chat with the grazier and watch the shearers at work. Each shares at least 120 sheep a day and it is gruelling work, although the "champions" claim up to 400 in a similar period. You mingle with tame kangaroos and other animals and rare birds in Dubbo's little park, dring billy tea during a barbecue lunch on the meandering Macquarie River, and chat with Dubbo's eldermen at dinner before departing back over the "Blues."

* * * *

BACK TO No. 7 Woolloomooloo, where tons of cargo have been stowed of the good ship Mariposa, including such delicacies as kangaroo tails, fresh oysters and fish, and papayas and pineapples for already overburdened tables. Captain F. V. Foot and his crew are ready to move the ship out, and we are on our way, this time to New Caledonia, 1,069 miles to the northeast.

En route, we will feast on those kangaroo tails in a langy, delectable soup, eat the oysters for which sydney restaurants are justly famous, and share the countless other amenities that our floating palace, the Mariposa, has to offer. At the same time, having reached the turn-around point on our journey, we are heading back towards the equator in the direction of home via Fifi, American Samoa and Hawaii.

Farewell to No. 7 Woolloomooloo and to the blokes who make Americans feel so much at home, so far from home.

MR. AND MRS. CHESTER R. AMES

Chester Ameses feted on 50th anniversary

The son and daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Chester R. Ames were hosts at a reception Saturday honoring the couple on their 50th wedding anniversary.

More than 500 guests attended the event in the Ames home, 5618 Coralite St.

Mr. and Mrs. Ames have lived in Long Beach for more than 38 years. He was plant superintendant for Foremost-Golden State Creamery for 27 years.

Mrs. Ames, known as Sonie Ames, is well-known for her original color designs in china painting.

The couple was married in Provo, Utah, July 19, 1917. Shortly after, he left for France and duty in World War I. He took part in every major American operation. He was with the Army of Occupation along the Rhine River in Germany.

Their son is Capt. Bill Ames, USN (ret.) now at Vandenburg Air Force Base, where he is in scientific programming. Their daughters are Mrs. Anthony Correa, Buena Park, and Mrs. Robert Crumrine, Bellflower. They have 12 grandchildren and 13 great grandchildren.

DEAR ABBY

Had it with 'home' movies

DEAR ABBY: Is there something wrong with me, or is it "the times?"

I am a widow with a small circle of married friends. Every once in a while someone will invite me to their home to see movies of a wedding, confirmation, or a vacation trip. Then without warning, they show some movies (rented) that were made for stag parties. (Stripteasers and "dirty" movies. I'm sure you know what I mean.)

Everyone laughs and thinks it's great fun, but I am irked. I don't want to be a "wet blanket" or a "party pooper" by conspicuously walking out when they spring surprise movies on the crowd, but I don't care for this kind of stuff at all. Any solutions?

—WET BLANKET

DEAR WET: There is nothing wrong with you, nor is it "the times." Good taste is timeless. If your "little circle" of friends cannot be trusted to keep the entertainment clean, make a bigger circle.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for nearly two years, and I am just about ready to leave him for what I hope you won't think is a silly reason. I just can't take his "teasing" any more. He is always punching me, or pinching me, or squeezing the breath out of me.

Abby, I have tried to tell him I don't like such rough treatment, but he laughs and says they are only "love pats," and he keeps right on hurting me. If you were to see some of the bruises I carry from his "love pats" you would think we had been in a terrible fight.

I have begged and pleaded and even cried, but nothing works. Have you any words of advice? It's getting where I hate to see him come home at night.

—MANHANDLED

DEAR MANHANDLED: His "love pats" are conscious, or more likely unconscious acts of hostility and aggression which have nothing to do with "love," and are ruining your relationship.

Tell him so, and implore him to seek out professional help. If he refuses, prepare for a break before there are children.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing this because I just can't stand dirt and filth. Ever since my son got married he has had to live in dirt. Believe me, my home was never like that.

His wife gets up around noon, eats a big breakfast, lights a cigaret, and sits down to watch TV all day. She even takes the phone off the hook so nobody can disturb her.

You can't tell this girl anything. She is dumb and lazy. I've seen her laundry hanging on the line for three days. Boy, what a prize my son got. How do you propose he get this fat, lazy girl off her rocking chair? He's the peaceful type. He don't like fights.

HIS MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: When your son gets fed up enough with things the way they are, he'll think of something. And until then . . . it's HIS problem.

CONFIDETIAL TO "YOUNG AND IN TROUBLE": Tell your parents at once. I promise you they will not throw you out of the house. In times of serius trouble, no matter what they have said in the past, parents are your best friends and will do what is best for you.

Troubled? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a versonal reply enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

DEEP Steam CARPET CLEANING
by Dunn
Rug & Upholstery Cleaners
CALL 426-2521
3990 Cherry Ave. at Carson, Long Beach

DEEP STEAM Wall to Wall Carpet Cleaning

CLEANS DEEP actually removes soil from both the pile of the carpet and the carpet backing. It does not scrub it deeper.

GENTLE ACTION uses no brushes or scrubbing action, so it does not distort the pile of the carpet.

SAFE PROCESS scientifically developed specially for the professional carpet cleaner. It is completely safe for all carpet fibers.

RESTORES PILE the powerful extraction process removes moisture immediately, thus avoiding shrinkage, and lifts matted pile to 'like new' appearance.

ECONOMICAL reduces the need for frequent professional cleaning because it removes the deeply embedded soil and leaves no residue in the carpet fibers to collect dirt.

SOIL RETARDING AND MOTH PROOFING are included at no extra cost.

La Reina Rule Reveals—What Your Name Means

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90801, for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

MISS RULE: Would like brief genealogy on JACQUES — E. B., Garden Grove.

JACQUES may be either Belgian or French in origin. Jacques is the French form of the Biblical "John," meaning "God is gracious." The Jacques lineage achieved the status of barons in the Belgian city of Tournai. There is a church of St. Jacques at Tournai, dating from the 1100s. The ancestor was named in honor of St. Jacques. The Jacques armorial shield has three silver swans on a green background for its upper half, and three black hunting horns on gold for the lower half.

MISS RULE: Kindly explain the origin of DENNISON, DENNISTON, DENSON, DENSTEN. — J. D., Compton; S. R., Westminster; J. M. Long Beach; E. H., Bellflower.

DENNISON and DENNISTON originated from the English "Deneys," a medieval given-name and nickname for a "man from Denmark; a Dane." Deneys or Dennis was coupled with "son" for "son of the Dane," and with "-ton" for "farmstead of the Dane." DENSON is a short form of Dennison, while DENSTEN is a variation of Denniston. Ancestors of these lineages include Adam Denyson of Yorkshire, England, in 1379. The Dennistons originated at Dennistoun, Renfrewshire, Scotland, where they were recorded as land owners as early as 1165. The Dennison armorial shield is silver, crossed by a diagonal silver stripe set between a unicorn head and a red cross. For Denson the shield is black, decorated with a gold chevron placed between three silver boar heads. The Densten shield is blue, engraved with two gold lions.

MISS RULE: Would you give data on DINGWELL? — E. D., Lakewood; D. D., Downey.

DINGWELL is a form of the English surname Dingwall, which began as the 12th century location term "Ding-Voll" describing "council-field." This place was a meeting ground for a village council. The Dingwall armorial shield is blue, decorated with a golden buck deer head placed between three silver stars.

MISS RULE: Please explain FERRETTI. — D. F., Lakewood.

FERRETTI stems from the Italian term "Ferreo" meaning "of iron," portraying the ancestor as a "young man with an iron will-power." The Ferretti armorial shield is silver, crossed by two diagonal red stripes.

MISS RULE: Please inform us on SALSBERRY.— W. S., Long Beach.

SALSBERRY traces to the English city of Salisbury in Wiltshire, which was the early home of the progenitor. The original 11th century name of Salisbury was "Searo's Burgh" meaning "armored man's stronghold." Among those in bygone centuries who used the surname distortion Salsbury, was John Salsbury of Devonshire, 1601. The Salsbury armorial shield is red, emblazoned with a silver rampant lion.

MISS RULE: Kindly analyze CARLTON, CARLETON. — E. C., Downey; T. C. Long Beach; W. C., Huntington Beach.

CARLTON and CARLETON of England originated in Lincolnshire from a town called Carlton. A family living there adopted the town name as their own. There are 22 other locations in Britain by this name. Carl-Tun, the source phrase, meant "farmer's village." The Carlton coat-of-arms has three silver diamonds

OUR COVER

Things will really be humming and buzzing this week at the Los Alamitos Naval Air Station. Starting Monday and continuing through next Sunday, hundreds of model airplane enthusiasts will send their craft into the air as contestants in various events of the 1967 National Model Airplane Championships. This "World Series" of model aviation will be open to the public free of charge. Serving as official hostess will be our cover girl, Tere Rich, who holds the title "Miss Model Aviation, 1967." Nineteen-year-old Tere, the daughter of an ex-serviceman, was born in London and has traveled extensively. An Anaheim resident, she is a graduate of Magnolia High School and attends Fullerton Junior College. For a report on the latest in model airplanes and for a look at members of the Long Beach Birds club and their craft, turn to Ev Hosking's story and Curt Johnson's photos on pages 6-7.

The Pelican--Friend or Foe?

TWO BROWN PELICANS plunge headlong toward the Pacific surf. One hits the water and scoops a live fish into his enormous pouch. Pelican number two pounces on the gunwale of a fishing boat. He hops to a bait tank, ignores the indignant shouts of an aroused fisherman and plucks out several live delicacies. Gulping his catch, he spreads his wings and soars skyward.

Fishermen and bird enthusiasts are well acquainted with the California brown pelican. They see him frequently during the summer and fall, although he is a year-round Southern California coastline resident. If you ask them to describe the brown pelican's behavior, you will soon discover he is a highly controversial subject.

If you walk out on a beach front pier and discuss pelicans with an habitual fisherman, you undoubtedly will find he resents pelicans. They get in his way, steal his live bait and grab his catch. If a pelican is perched on a snack shop roof, the fisherman is likely to insist the bird has spoiled his fishing. He can't shoot the creature; state laws protect it. But he would like to shoo away the intruder.

Chat with an angler recently returned from a fishing trip. He is well versed on a pelican's ability to raid live-bait devices used for attracting larger fish. Nor are pelicans averse to stripping jig fish hooks or devouring chum or anchovies dispersed around a fishing boat.

DON'T BE surprised if the angler admits snagging a pelican or two with a fish hook. Yet, he will insist experienced fishermen have less trouble with pelicans. They weight their lines, cast their live bait out into the water without stunning or killing it, and keep their lines taut. If their wiggly bait is kept below the water's surface, pelicans are less likely to strike. As a final comment, Joe Fisherman admits pelicans are not as numerous or as troublesome as the less intelligent sea gulls.

Afternoon and evening pier strollers provide varied reactions on the subject of pelicans. One elderly gentleman, perhaps a disgruntled fisherman, would like to have all pelicans exterminated. Immediately, a bird enthusiast interrupts. She zestfully describes the antics of a pelican she observed the day before. Perched atop an adjacent post, he balanced himself on one leg and soberly eyed each passing human being. Suddenly he turned, swooped down on the water and plucked up a live fish.

A newcomer to Southern California recalls the white pelicans of his home prairie state. He tells how white pelicans work in circular or crescent formations. They drive terrified fish into shallow water, then lower their bills and devour their catch.

Another dyed-in-the-wool fisherman insists he has observed white pelicans out in the harbor. When pressed, he admits brown or grayish-hued California brown pelicans are seen more frequently.

LEAVING THE debaters behind, you descend to the beach and saunter along the pounding surf. After several hundred yards you encounter a gentleman peering up at the sky through binoculars. He turns out to be a State College zoology professor and an ornithologist. What is he watching? The skillful fishing maneuvers of a plummeting pelican. You point to the bird. The professor nods and provides you with some interesting tidbits on pelicans.

Brown pelicans are scientifically known as Pelecanus californicus. Although they inhabit the Southern California coast, they fly to the Channel Islands during March and April and build or reconstruct crude nests out of seaweed, sticks and rubbish. While gathering sticks they use a technique similar to their fish catching method. Except they land feet first rather than head first on a bush, and their impact flattens and breaks up their target. Occasionally, pelicans mistake cactus for some other bush and encounter a prickly surprise.

Mother pelicans lay one to four white eggs and closely attend their nests. After their chicks hatch, both parents alternate in catching fish for their young. One parent soars off, catches and swallows several live fish, then promptly returns to the nest. After regurgitating his catch, the parent opens his bill and allows an eager chick to pluck fish from his pouch.

THE FLUFFY, solemn-appearing pelican chicks leave their nests before half grown. They flock together and parade sedately around their rockery or cliff home. Curious and adventuresome, they investigate crevices and projecting shelves. Occasionally they hop off into a cactus patch, then flutter back bristling with cactus spines.

When able to fly, pelicans experiment with soaring, skimming, turning and landing. Should predators or man disturb a colony, frightened chicks may take off and careen out over the ocean. Turning precariously on unsteady wings, they scoot back on a breeze. And those who have not mastered their alighting techniques may hit a cliff at full speed and become a hovering gull's victim.

Western gulls are the pelican's number one enemy. If pelican parents leave their nest unattended, awaiting gulls will pounce on and puncture as many eggs as possible. Gulls also peck holes in skulls of newborn pelicans. Nor are adult pelicans free from the harassment of Hermann gulls, who may grab a fish from a pelican's bill.

MENTION white pelicans and the professor compares the two pelican species. White pelicans or Pelecanus erythrorhynches migrate to the Southern California coast in October and remain through the winter and spring. The following May they migrate to inland fresh water lakes, build their nests and raise their young.

White pelican chicks grow rapidly. Two months after hatching, their weight temporarily exceeds that of their parents. An adult white pelican weighs approximately 15 pounds. He measures up to six feet in length and displays a nine-

Who's Afraid of Sharks?

By James Coyle

WANT THE THRILL one minute of being swept out to sea by an underwater current and the next of coming face-to-face with a 15-foot tiger shark? Or of getting your name in the papers when your "lungs" fail and the Coast Guard starts a search for your body?

Skin diving is for you.

Nice thing, age or sex is no bar. (Just the other day I read about the mass burial of a family of five, caught in a sudden storm while diving off Plantation Key in Florida.) All you need is a little nerve, a body of water and a few hundred dollars worth of equipment.

Of course there are a few basic rules.

First, always dive with a companion — never alone. This is called the "buddy" system. If possible, pick a buddy with some brains. Like, last summer I was diving with a buddy off Catalina Island. I noticed my air hose was broken. I pointed to my mouth and drew my finger across my throat to indicate that I was out of air. Only, nobody was watching. My "buddy" was off chasing some girl diver around a sunken wreck. Buddies like this make you think of sharks as a man's best friend.

NOW FOR your equipment.

Basically, all you need at the start are snorkel, flippers and mask. But to achieve any sort of status you've got to invest in scuba (self-contained underwater breathing apparatus); a custom-tailored exposure suit (in case you're foolish enough to dive in water colder than 70 degrees); a "Mae West" or inflatable life jacket; underwater flashlight, watch, depth gauge, camera, etc., and a whole arsenal of diving knives, sea gigs, spears, lances and high-powered "guns" for hunting down your quarry. It goes without saying none of this comes cheap.

You are now ready to get in the water.

If you are entering the surf it's wise to put on your gear first; then to overcome the resistance of your flippers walk out backward to the breaker line. This looks kind of silly, I'll admit, it can also be dangerous. Early this year Shag Dusendorf, a member of our skin-diving club, was entering the surf south of Laguna Beach. A breaker hurled him to the sand and he was stabbed by his fishing spear. Luckily the spear went through his head rather than his heart, and he's coming along nicely.

IF YOU'RE entering from a jetty, wait for the outgoing surf. Just recently I saw a youthful skin diver make the mistake of leaping in just as the sea surged onto the breakwater at San Pedro. Practically had to scrape him up with a shovel.

If you are entering from a boat, examine the area first. Diving into a sewage outlet can be messy. Also, watch for rocks or other buried obstructions, and never dive in head first with your mask on. Fats Swaller, another member of our club, tried this off La Jolla a while back; now, with those stitches he looks like someone had been playing tic-tac-toe on his face with a butcher knife.

Once underwater, you have a choice of several pursuits.

Making passes at female bathers may sound like fun, but I'd advise against it. Last time I tried to I was not only badly beaten by the girl's escort but fined for disturbing the peace.

A less risky pursuit is specimen collecting. For this you will need a nylon handnet, an assortment of wide-mouthed jars, plastic bags, a bucket and a lot of patience. Then you'll want a home salt water tank in which to show off your "tropicals." Once the novelty has worn off you'll find keeping up this aquarium pretty time-consuming: that's the time to turn it over to your wife or your girl friend.

PHOTOGRAPHY is another fascinating underwater hobby. For somewhat less than the cost of a Mustang V8 you can get metal-machined housing for your present camera. In no time at all you will have albums full of fuzzy out-of-focus photos of undersea subjects with which to bore your guests.

Spearfishing of course remains the most popular of underwater pursuits. In hunting fish the technique is to wait till the head is close enough so you can get a "brain shot" through the eye or head. Just be sure you're not aiming at the head of a swimmer or another skin diver. If you're near-sighted, maybe you'd better forget about spearfishing. A member of our club — Specs Furtwangler — finally had to give up on this account after maiming or wounding half the club membership. Almost broke his heart.

Well, that about wraps it up. If after reading all this you're still set on taking up skin diving, there's not much I can do except wish you all the luck in the world.

You'll need it.

They Fly With Their Feet on the Ground

By Ev Hosking

Members of the Long Beach Birds test model planes at their own "airport" as boys look over a model on the ground. The group is host club with the Los Angeles Larks for the National Model Airplane Championships opening Monday at the Los Alamitos Naval Air Station.

Pete Peterson, president of Birds, will be a judge rather than a competitor in national championships.

THE STEADY DRONE of model airplanes will replace the roar of Navy jets over the Los Alamitos Naval Reserve Air Station for a week beginning Monday as the annual National Model Airplane Championships are held.

More than 1,000 contestants from the United States and several foreign countries are scheduled to appear during the week-long event which will be climaxed by a two-day air show, July 29-30, which will also serve to commemorate the 25th anniversary of the Los Alamitos station.

Highlighting the show will be the Navy's famed precision flight demonstration team, the Blue Angels, as well as Capt. Dick Schram, "the Flying Professor," and the Army's highly touted parachute team, the Golden Knights.

The event is jointly sponsored by the Academy of Model Aeronautics and the Naval Air Reserve which has hosted the events at their air stations for the past 20 years.

Host clubs for this year's event are the Los Angeles Larks and the Long Beach Birds. The Birds, one of the largest clubs in the nation, have over 175 adult members and 50 junior members from southern Los Angeles and Orange Counties. They maintain their own "airport" near the San Diego Freeway and Avalon Boulevard where the miniature aircraft are constantly tested and improved.

TO THE MODEL AIRCRAFT enthusiast, building and flying models is a very serious sport and hobby.

These boys and men, from 8 to 80, will be competing for more than 500 trophies and prizes in 30 different events. Girl model plane enthusiasts, though rare, will also be seen this year.

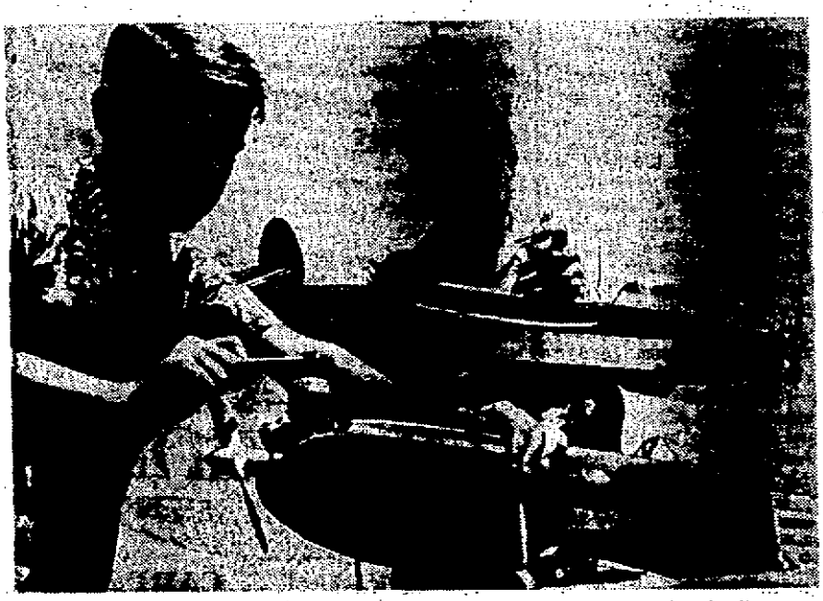

Aircraft flown in the event range from small indoor models, gliders and rubber-band powered, which cost less than a dollar to construct, to four-engine, radio-controlled scale models costing over $1,000 and taking years to build. Between the two cost extremes is a ladder of progression in aircraft complexity and cost.

From rubber band power, the young modelers progress to a tiny engine designed to fly planes with a wingspan of from 10 to 30 inches. These engines run on a mixture of alcohol and oil, plus some igniter additives, and cost around $5.

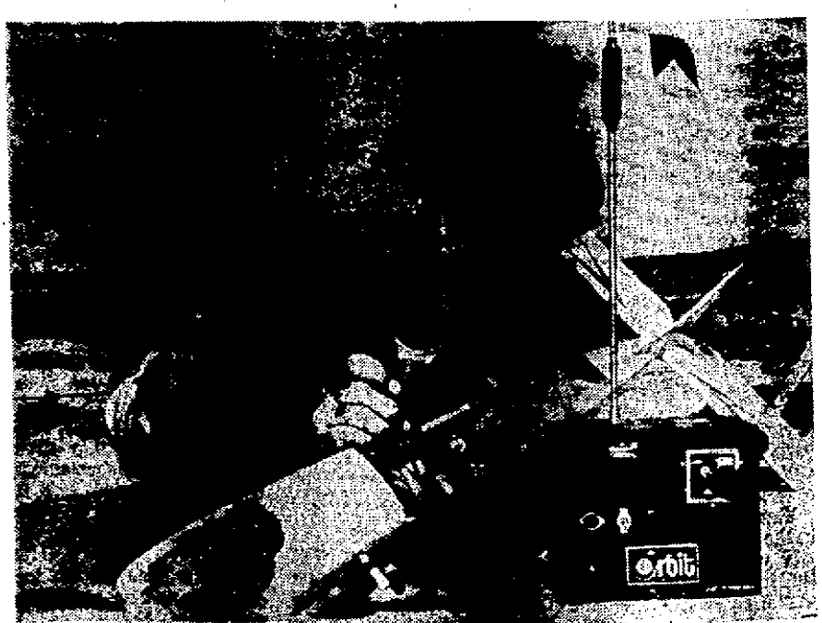

Ignition is supplied by a tiny heater element called a glow plug.

The smallest engines have a displacement of less than one-hundreth of a cubic inch, and the largest practical engines are of about six-tenths of a cubic inch in displacement. This compares with automobile engines of about 300 cubic inches in displacement. The largest model engines will easily fly models of more than six feet wingspan, including radio-controlled models weighing over 10 pounds. The academy places a 15-pound weight limit on models for safety reasons.

CONTEST FLYING breaks down into three general categories: the big radio-

Bill Hebestreit and son Chuck, 11, of Los Alamitos ready radar-control planes for competition in the National Model Airplane Championships.

Bror Faber of Long Beach adjusts gas pedal on his radar-controlled model plane. Faber has high hopes in the national championships.

Fourteen-year-old Debbie Hannon of Lakewood will fly in six events in the nationals. She holds one of her U-controlled model planes.

controlled jobs, control line and free flight.

Free flight models are generally the least expensive and were the original concept in model flying. They are hand-launched, or take off under their own power, and fly uninhibited except for pre-set adjustments to flying surfaces. The object in most events, from glider to the largest powered free flights, is duration of flight.

Control line, a comparatively new development, allows the pilot to control the up and down motion of his plane, plus engine speed, flaps, etc. by means of thin steel lines attached to one side of the plane.

This flying is done in a circle of about 140 feet in diameter. In this category, precision acrobatic maneuvers can be judged, including loops, figure eights, takeoffs and landings and other aerial acrobatics.

Speed flying is another control line event, with some models being able to achieve speed of 180 miles an hour.

The ultimate model category, and by far the most expensive, is radio control. It combines the best features of free flight and control line.

The plane is equipped with a tiny radio receiver and is controlled from the ground by the pilot's transmitter.

SOME OF THE MANEUVERS in the radio control pattern event are: three-turn spin, outside loops, inverted figure eight, Cuban eight, horizontal rolls, touch and-go, tail slide wingover and immelman turn.

Some radio pilots practice up to 40 hours a week for the nationals and competition between equipment makers and model designers is keen. It means a great sales boost for manufacturers to have their products do well at the nationals.

In addition to aerobatic pattern flying, radio-controlled models compete in pylon races consisting of 10 laps around three pylons for a total course distance of over two miles.

The models are replicas of the popular 190 cubic inch racing planes flown in air races across the country. While the big planes are averaging close to 200 miles an hour, their tiny replicas are doing laps at better than 100 miles an hour.

Another big crowd pleaser at the na-

Selling Your House?

By Jodi Lawrence

HE WATCHED his wife as she cried, sitting on the worn couch in their new home, 500 miles away from the old neighborhood. Not long ago, it had seemed like such a good move to a new job and the new dream home. But the dream had soured somehow.

"How much longer do we have to pay for that old house? We need new furniture," she said, and the look in her eyes made him doubt himself. "We're liable for those mortgage payments until somebody buys that house," he had to tell her again. And he wished that they'd managed to sell their former house before they'd had to move.

"What did we do wrong?" he wondered again.

Two million families in the United States move every year, and for many their new home becomes a nightmare when they find themselves saddled with their old house, still liable for mortgage payments because they couldn't find a buyer. Every neighborhood has such houses, easy to spot by the weed-strewn lawn and depressed appearance.

Yet, this is a nightmare you can avoid by time-tested methods. You can sell your house quickly without taking a loss and can improve your chances for a better profit if you use some of the dozens of first aid measures and real estate tips discovered by specialists. Most cost nothing but time and forethought to turn a liability into an asset. Even prospective home buyers should be aware of such tips if they want to get their money's worth by buying more objectively.

BEGIN WITH the first impression of your home, suggest real estate specialists. Ask yourself how it would look to a stranger. Take an honest look at the landscaping, the parking—or lack of it—, the location, the interior over-all appearance, the furnishings, the extra features that your home offers, the psychological feelings of warmth, spaciousness, comfort present in your home.

Lack of parking space was a headache for one couple in a beach area, and they feared it would harm sales chances for their house. "Start on the outside," they were told, and they parked on the street during the sale period, leaving the garage and driveway clear. Their house sold in three days. Thanks to that tip, prospective buyers didn't fear traffic congestion at that house.

After considering the parking situation, walk toward your house and really look at it. Lawns should be mowed and hedging clipped for a well-groomed effect. Driveways should be clean, freshly finished and all bricks and stepping stones firmly in place. Abandoned children's toys, weeds, leaves on the walks and unruly landscaping make a bad impression on buyers.

One realtor suggests showmanship, recommending that his clients plant masses of blooming flowers (annuals or potted flowering bulbs) along the front walk for a seasonal dazzler. He believes that the few dollars invested in flowers makes hundreds of dollars difference in the sale price of a house. Another realtor suggests that, for a fresh appearance, front grounds be sprinkled just before the buyer arrives so that the property looks "like a daisy on a spring morning."

"EVERY BUYER is undergoing an emotional experience when he looks at a house, trying to imagine himself living there. Set the right mood and a house will sell right away," said another realtor. "But that's where most people goof because they don't have their houses ready to sell, ready to put on a show. They don't even clean off their front doors, or oil them so they don't squeak."

Psychological factors sway many buyers. Everyone is looking for a feeling of comfort, warmth, spaciousness and cleanliness. You can achieve this by having soft background music on the hi fi during a showing, flowers in vases throughout the house, clean ashtrays and empty wastebaskets, and sparkling windows.

In small rooms especially, leave the curtains open to make rooms seem more spacious. Only close curtains on bad views like the neighbor's overflowing trash cans. On hot days, arrange drapes or turn on air conditioning to make rooms seem cool. On cold days, a fire in the fireplace is a big aid to selling because it makes a house seem appealing. Heat should be turned on well in advance of the buyer's visit on cold days.

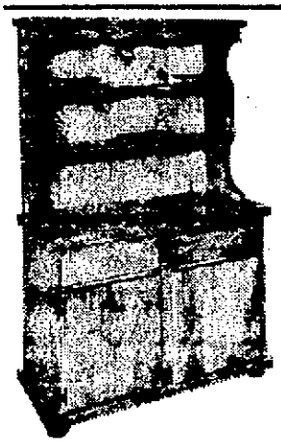

Most real estate specialists insist that people can't visualize themselves in a house without furnishings. "That's why model homes are always furnished. Always try to sell before you have to move out and, if you have to move, either leave furnishings or rent them," they advise.

Too much furniture is as bad as none. The smaller the room, the less furniture should be in it. Remove all excess furniture and avoid clutter to achieve a feeling of spaciousness.

CLOSETS ARE a clutter center. Most closets are too small, and are made to hold too much. Before selling, move everything that you can spare into temporary storage somewhere else. This will make your closets look spacious. Decorative closet trims give a "decorator look," but it helps as much to group clothing by Mrs. Eliza Tibbets, who with her husband founded California's seedless orange industry.

California's Golden Goose

By Pearl G. Martufi

HAD IT NOT BEEN for a marauding cow in the neighborhood, a transplanted Yankee might not have built a high strong fence. And had it not been for that high strong fence, which "would have stopped a shorthorn bull in full charge," two tender shrubs from Brazil might never have survived as the origin of California's stupendous navel orange industry.

Still adventurous, with half a century of his life already spent, Luther Tibbets came out from Maine in 1870 and took up 160 acres for homesteading in what is now Riverside. He brought along a considerable library, including all books, bulletins and pamphlets on agricultural subjects he had been able to collect.

To William Saunders, Commissioner of Agriculture in Washington, he sent samples of soil for analysis and requested advice on what shrubs and trees would be most suitable for cultivation. Since he was now a man of the soil, he wanted to know all about farming and growing.

When 12 budwood samples of the seedless orange arrived at the Department of Agriculture in Washington from an unknown woman, reportedly the wife of a missionary in Bahia, Brazil, the commissioner remembered the pioneering Yankee in Southern California. He sent three of the plants to the Tibbets family. "These are said to be a seedless variety of orange, if there is such a thing," Commissioner Saunders wrote. "I thought you might want to experiment with them."

TIBBETS HITCHED UP and drove to the express office in Los Angeles, a distance of 65 miles, and returned with the three live shoots. They were planted in the front yard of the Tibbets home, in among the flowers and as near to the house as feasible., in March 1874, although they had arrived in December 1873.

One night a cow strayed into the Tibbets yard and trampled to death one of the priceless shrubs. And that's when Tibbets put up a protecting fence around the remaining two.

No child ever received more tender care than those two experimental plants. The Tibbetses carefully watered them and kept the buds nipped to prevent early flowering until the roots could set strong — all the while enduring the laughs and jibes of neighbors about an impossible orange with no seeds.

After four years of holding off blossoming and fruiting to insure full production, it was now time to see what the fruit was like. In 1878 each tree was permitted to bear two oranges.

When they ripened the family decided to make a memorable occasion of it by inviting eight or ten neighbors to sample the first specimens.

Mr. and Mrs. George Garcelon, also from Maine, were old friends and pioneering neighbors. "In view of a severe ordeal through which Mr. and Mrs. Tibbets had so recently passed and her still delicate health," the Garcelons proposed making the event a combination of orange-sampling and house-warming at their own newly completed house. It was a grand structure on Seventh Avenue, near the heart of the town of Riverside — the first plastered house in the locality, and thus a sharp contrast to the primitive shacks of earlier homesteading days. They sent out invitations, and every one was accepted.

THE HISTORIC EVENING arrived and gaiety filled the new Garcelon home. The invited came from near and far. Some doubted. Some half-believed. Some merely waited to see an orange with no seeds.

Eliza Tibbets, still convalescing and pale, was the gracious "orange hostess." Resplendent in stylish dress, she proudly passed a colorful platter of segregated fruit sections among the guests.

At the first taste, the ladies emitted squeals of excitement and delight. The men nodded approvingly, slapped one another on the back with great enthusiasm, shouted in monosyllables.

"No seeds!"

"You done it!"

"Nary a seed!"

"And sweet, too!"

All were exuberant. And thoroughly convinced. Now the eccentric from Maine and his wife were covered with glory. The town of Riverside promptly held a Citrus Fair, the first in California.

The next year the trees were permitted to bear half a bushel of fruit each. And after that no limit was set. But the demand for buds to transplant became so great the two trees were finally used for propagation instead of fruitage.

Si and Sam, as Josiah Cover and Samuel McCoy were known, had a nursery business close by. They were soon swamped with requests to graft buds from the seedless orange trees into vigorous seedlings of fruit growers.

Sales rose to $600 a month for budwood from their trees, and the Tibbetses were offered $10,000 each for the two. They stoutly refused to sell.

Thousands of visitors trekked to the Tibbets home to see with their own eyes the wealth-making trees and to speak with the owners who held a magic wand. Land that previously sold for $20 an acre jumped in price to $1,000 an acre. The Tibbets family bought a fancy brougham and Navel oranges are shipped from California to every state in the Union, including Florida, to Canada and all over the world through World Markets, Trans-Pacific Exports Market and European Exports Market, including Scandinavian countries.

For the fiscal year 1966-67*, the production of California navels totaled 34,421 carloads, of which 27,814 carloads were distributed domestically.

Moved in export channels were 1,092 carloads; mostly to the Philippines, Singapore and Hong Kong.

There were 5,515 carloads processed into juice and peel products.

During the summer export shipments are delivered every week to France, West Germany, Holland, Belgium and the Scandinavian countries.

Tomorrow's Look in Transportation

Full Speed Ahead

By Bill Duncan

A huge helicopter carrying a bus-like passenger pod demonstrates new concept that may shorten the time it takes traveler to reach airport.

CARL SWENSON is a Southland urban commuter. He lives in Fullerton and works in downtown Los Angeles. For years, Swenson commuted by train—a 45-minute trip from the Fullerton train station to Union Station in Los Angeles. Then the train discontinued the commuter run.

Swenson now drives the 30 miles to work in rush hour traffic. The time: one hour, if the Santa Ana Freeway traffic moves "normally" at 30 miles an hour. Some days it takes an hour and a half.

He could take the Southern California Rapid Transit District's freeway flyer from Fullerton to Los Angeles, but he would still need an hour to reach his work. The freeway flyer is a bus that plows through the same traffic, at the same hour and on the same freeway.

Swenson is one of millions in the Southland who are faced with traveling great distances to and from work. Their situation isn't getting better — it is getting worse.

AT PEAK HOURS the Southland's fabulous freeways come to a turtle's trot. However, there is hope for the future Southland Swensons. Transportation engineers have solutions to the freeway folly, if not the funds to implement them, in fantastic surface vehicles. These mass transit machines will someday solve Southern California's massive metropolitan transit dilemma.

North American Aviation did a six-month study on problems of transportation in California, using a 50-year projection. Its engineers found that California's single major transportation headache is that of urban congestion—mostly within, but also out of and into the large metropolitan areas.

The report also found that in far too many areas of the state the only means of transportation is the individual automobile —a fact well known to Southland freeway travelers.

The NAA report visualized these transportation marvels:

—A tube train built like a wingless airplane and capable of jettisoning commuters between urban centers at 300 to 600 miles an hour.

—A surface vehicle 200 to 300 feet long that would travel along a track, with a lip on each side for stability, at speeds of 150 to 300 miles an hour.

—Hydroplanes that would skim along the Southern California coastline connecting urban centers.

—Air cushion vehicles that would travel up and down dry riverbeds.

—A new type of airplane, designed to be a cross between a conventional aircraft and a helicopter, which would fly commuters on established urban air routes at the 5,000 foot altitude.

How soon such radical means of moving people to and from the urban areas become reality is pure speculation. However, amazing — and even radical — mass transit systems are being constructed today, the closest being the ultra-modern system under construction in San Francisco.

THIRTY-FOUR metropolitan cities in the United States, including the Los Angeles County metropolitan area, have some type of rapid transit program under way. These range from the planning stage to demonstration projects to actual construction.

Los Angeles County has many study projects under way, but the mere name Southern California Rapid Transit District shouldn't be confused with either Southern California or anything rapid. Buses are used by the SCRTD and these cumbersome vehicles travel routes on freeways and surface streets, competing with other vehicles for running room, adding to the congestion and the smog.

The move toward rapid transit methods in the Southland and the nation is one of survival. Our streets are already strangled by too many rubber-tired vehicles. Experts say that the U.S. population will double from 200 to 400 million by the year 2000. Moreover, by 1970 three-fourths of the population will be concentrated in urban areas and by the year 2000 this figure will increase to four-fifths.

And, by the 1980s there will be 140 million people living in about 40 urban complexes which will spread over less than two per cent of the land. If each adult has to provide his own means of transportation in those urban complexes there won't be room to open the car door, much less drive the vehicle.

IN SAN FRANCISCO where the new Bay Area Rapid Transit system is being constructed, there are now 1.5 million automobiles that squeeze in and out of the city on multi-level freeways. San Francisco, like Los Angeles, has reached a congestion crisis in its streets even though San Franciscans still ride streetcars and buses in greater numbers than Los Angelenos.

What the Bay area is doing in rapid transit may prove to be a guideline for Southern California. Passenger service on the Bay Area system begins in 1968 on a partially completed rail system. The entire line, a modern, 75-mile-long route linking three counties, will be completed in 1971.

The $1 billion system will eventually allow passengers to ride from any point of the network in less than an hour via subways, elevated rails, surface lines, tunnels and a tube under the bay between San Francisco and Oakland. The passengers will ride in air conditioned, lightweight aluminum cars with carpeted floors and upholstered seats. They will speed to destinations at 80 miles an hour.

The train will be automated—run by a computer. The vehicle itself will run by traction motors, picking up electrical power from the third rail. At rush hours, trains will run at 90-second intervals and be made up of from 2 to 10 cars. A central computer, located in Oakland, will regulate the system, making decisions on timetable changes, train lengths and train spacing.

BART is now working on a program for automated fares for commuters, using a credit card-like magnetically coded commuter ticket.

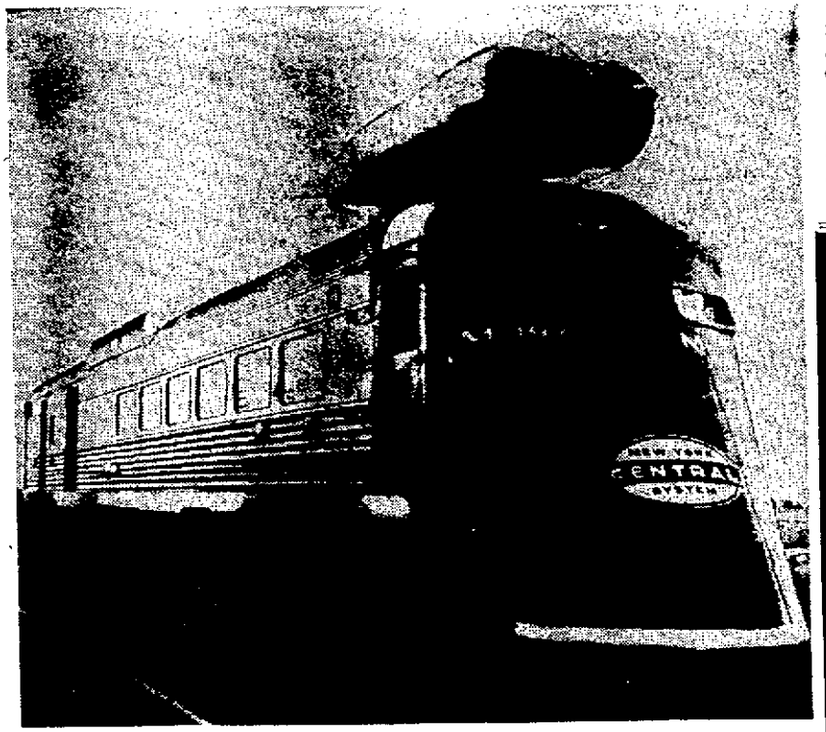

Henry D. Quinby, one of the BART system designers, said "forecasts indicate that almost 120,000 people will use the transit system by 1975." He predicted that miniature cars, possibly electric cars, would be used to shuttle people to and from the 33 transit stations along the 75-mile route.

HOW DID San Francisco get such an advance start in solving its transit problems while Los Angeles — with more cars and more people — is left at the bus stop?

B. R. Stokes, BART representative, cites a civic effort of more than 10 years. "A rapid transit system," he said, "will not succeed unless you devote as much attention to education as you do to the engineering, financing and organizational aspects. It is my firm conviction that people in metropolitan areas are ready and willing to approve public transportation improvements, if given the facts."

The fare box alone cannot provide the large sums needed for constructing and developing a modern, mass rapid transit system. The answer, transit authorities believe, is in persuading the public to pay two ways — in the fare box and through governmental assistance.

The Southland megalopolis is handicapped by a crazy-quilt pattern of separate jurisdictions. The "Southern California" Rapid Transit District includes only Los Angeles County and even excludes portions of it. Before any rapid transit system could be developed the district would have to annex Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino and possibly Ventura counties. There could be — there has been in the past — stern opposition to joining the district by the outlying Southland counties.

The RTD services Orange County now, but not the others. Things got so bad in San Bernardino that the municipally owned bus company offered trading stamps to its patrons to help stimulate business.

Officials of the Alweg Corp., builders of the Disneyland and the Seattle monorail systems, offered in 1963 to build a 42-mile network using its monorail to connect Santa Monica, San Fernando and San Gabriel with downtown Los Angeles. The proposal included future plans to tie-in Orange County and Long Beach. The plan was finally rejected.

The aerotrain, a half-size prototype of an air cushion railroad car, in test near Paris.

WHILE THE nation is speeding toward a transit system to move people in urban areas, the national system of Interstate Highways, orginally budgeted for $46.8 billion and slated for completion of a criss-cross network of highways by 1972, is almost four years behind schedule and is expected to cost an additional $5.8 billion to complete.

Carpeting the nation with asphalt and concrete is expensive. Rights of way are costly and take 40 to 50 acres of land per mile off the tax rolls. Upkeep of highways is tremendously expensive and the ribbons of pavement, cloverleafs, overpasses, on and off ramps don't improve the landscape.

Besides, national experts claim highway traffic is expected to grow at such a pace that by 1980 even more highways will be needed. The number of car registrations in the United States is expected to jump from its present 85 million to 120 million by 1980 — almost one car for every two people in the nation.

In contrast, the number of commuter trips on surface transit vehicles — ranging from trains to buses — has decreased from 485 million in 1929 to 224 million in 1959 and continues to dip. This decrease is not to be confused with an unwillingness to travel by these means, but rather is caused by disappearing means of mass transit.

Railroads, claiming they are losing billions on passenger trains, have drastically curtailed commuter trains. In Los Angeles County, rail traffic was completely eliminated on intercity routes when streetcars and the Pacific Electric Red Cars were exchanged for buses.

When the Southern Pacific Railroad Co. asked the Public Utilities Commission permission to discontinue the daily run between San Francisco and Los Angeles of its crack train "The Lark," one of its spokesmen moaned:

"The Lark has a fatal flaw: it doesn't fly."

THE RAILROAD man wasn't entirely wrong. The Los Angeles-San Francisco air corridor has become the most heavily traveled airline route in the world — most of

Wonderful Ways With Wood

By Ellen Krec

COBBLER'S children traditionally may be shoeless and painters' houses may be sadly in need of paint—but in the case of W. C. Whitley, carpenter-contractor, his home is large, well-cared-for and he built it himself!

Add one year of rebuilding a home nights and weekends to an already full schedule of building homes by day and the result is a 1½-story home in North Long Beach.

The original home was built more than 75 years ago, but little of the structure or style remains as Whitley expanded his home to fill the needs of a family with four children. As the house progressed, the children grew up and two married, leaving the Whitley family whittled to four in a home built for six!

The exterior of the home is Whitley's own design with pale yellow stucco and white redwood siding accenting a gable roof with three dormer windows dotting the facade. No rafters are apparent, having been cut back, creating combination stucco and plywood eaves for easy maintenance.

The low front porch with turned-post columns has a Mexican tile floor. The entry is directly into the center of the living and dining rooms, and an oversized, white-painted door is outlined with glass panels.

A U-SHAPED living and dining area has full sliding windows on the exterior wall.

Mrs. Whitley's department was decorating, and her qualifications were "20 years of looking" and many years of collecting antiques. Whitley made many of the authentic reproductions and one of the finest examples of his cabinet making is the pegged china cabinet in maple-finish birch.

Champagne plaster walls and pleated valances topping draperies in the same color flow into a mahogany paneled wall that caused a minor rift in the Whitley family.

Whitley found a special, unusual run of quarter-inch Honduras mahogany which his background and love of wood made him appreciate deeply. He lined one wall, backing the used brick and white-manteled fireplace, stepped back to enjoy the fine graining and Mrs. Whitley suggested antiquing to blend with the room! They went "round and round" before the walls were painted, leaving a gold half-inch shadow line between panels.

Although the room is basically Early American in theme, Mrs. Whitley added a touch of provincial in the quilted print linen ladies' chairs balanced by the table-on-table.

A carved wood frame outlines the sofa with matching commodes on each side. The piano complements the room, and Bob Whitley, 10, says he plays—but "not willingly."

Mrs. Whitley "had to marry the Whitley family" in order to get the ornate carnival glass bowl atop the drop-leaf dining table. Windsor chairs in maple finish surround the table and a matching hutch contains a glass and china pitcher collection.

One of two antique wash stands in heavy oak backed by a same-width oak and gold frame mirror stands at the side of the enclosed scissor stairs. The opposite side has a solid brass fern stand.

The stairs to the second floor were one of the real problems, with the solution possible only as they were built. Whitley says he knew he wanted a landing but didn't know until he arrived at that point, that it would be two!

A fully lighted ceiling covers the kitchen with easy-to-clean squares of suspended, louvred plastic. The original shape was retained because of the proximity to all of the downstairs rooms. Oatmeal ceramic tile was installed on all work areas with matching vinyl tile on the floor of the kitchen, dinette and family room. Identical print draperies were used on both kitchen and dinette windows — a blend of gold, orange and beige.

A MINOR discussion arose with the red brick wall in the dinette — real brick versus paneling—and it was solved easily since the brick paneling looks real and everyone was happy!

Extra-large family room (top photo) is paneled and beamed. Glass doors lead to patio. Maple-finished drop-leaf table, Windsor chairs stand under china oil lamp in dining room (center). Below, an exterior view.

A copper oil lamp reproduction hangs above the Whitley-made table, bringing the warmth of the copper appliances into all the open rooms. A low soffit gives a break between rooms without eliminating the through-view.

Random-birch paneling lines all of the den walls with acoustic tile and exposed beams accenting the ceiling. The oversized den evolved from two bedrooms.

Two leather chairs face a television cabinet she thought he couldn't build and the stereo he built to prove he could! Both cab-

'Plain,' Hearty Cooking English Pub-Style

By Mildred K. Flanary

Southland Magazine Home Economics Editor

THE RISE in popularity of British pub-style restaurants in this country is signaling a breakthrough in the clouds that have long hung over British cooking. It's signaling, in fact, a return to the true British heritage of hearty, rib-sticking food — "plain" cooking, expertly prepared.

One Englishman who is delighted at the happy return of good, plain cooking is The Honorable John H. P. Gilbey, who, with his wife, Maureen, is making a month-long tour of the United States. His occupation (as fourth-generation director of W. & A. Gilbey Ltd.) keeps him traveling some six months of each year, and he has sampled the fare of just about every country in the world.

This recipe for veal and ham pie is adapted from Mrs. Gilbey's recipe book, and can be made with plain pastry or in the more traditional way, with hot water crust.

VEAL AND HAM PIE

2 pounds boneless veal, diced
½ pound raw ham, cut in slivers
2 teaspoons grated lemon rind
1 cup stock, water or broth
2 hard-cooked eggs, quartered
1 recipe regular pastry (or hot water crust)

Combine veal, ham, lemon rind and stock, season well with salt and pepper. Spread mixture in a shallow greased casserole and add egg quarters, whites upward. Roll out pastry and cover pie. Trim pastry and flute edges so that crust is sealed as well as possible to casserole. Slash top in several places and brush well with egg wash or one egg white beaten with two tablespoons water. If desired, decorate with bits of pastry cut into leaves. Bake in a moderately hot oven (375 F.) for 40 minutes. Reduce oven temperature to moderate (350 degrees F.) and continue baking for an additional 30 minutes. Makes 8-10 servings.

HOT WATER CRUST

2½ cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup shortening
½ cup water

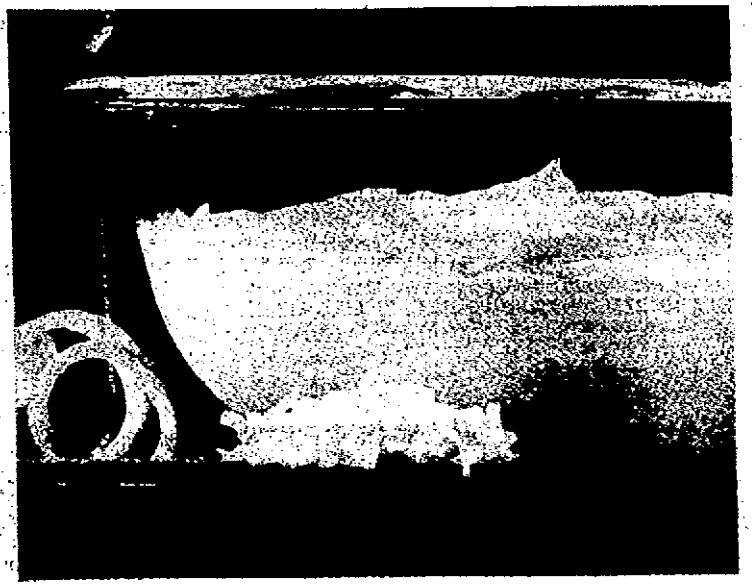

Combine flour and salt in a bowl; drop in egg yolk and cover with a few spoonfuls flour.

Melt shortening in water over low heat, then bring to a rapid boil. Pour hot liquid all at once into flour and begin mixing at once with a wooden spoon. As the pastry cools and becomes easier to handle, continue mixing and kneading with the hands until the dough is smooth and thoroughly mixed. Shape into a ball, cover and let rest on board or cloth for about 30 minutes before using.

Look what happens when you blend a bit of honey, flakes of coconut, pungent orange rind, whipped cream and real true Kraft Mayonnaise

Fruit Supreme

BLEND 1 cup Kraft Mayonnaise and 1 tablespoon honey; add ¼ cup flaked coconut and 1 tablespoon grated orange rind. Fold in ½ cup heavy cream, whipped.

THEN spoon the flavory sauce into an orange shell scooped out and scalloped, and serve with assorted fresh fruits.

It's the magic blender—Kraft Mayonnaise! Kraft blends first so you can blend better. Beats together lots of eggs and extra egg yolks, a special combination of delicate oils, a bit of flavor-teasing lemon juice—and does it so skillfully the mayonnaise stays supremely, velvety smooth. So why "cook bland" when you can blend so easily with real true mayonnaise—Kraft's! The proof's here—in this exciting Fruit Supreme!

Our Golden Goose

a rubber-tired buggy — indisputable symbols of financial success.

THE ORANGE-GROWING MANIA spread across Southern California. Groves of young navel orange plants dotted the land like swatches of sculptured carpet. The little golden sphere with the fascinating "navel" and entirely devoid of seeds was on its way to become the greatest citrus industry on the North American continent.

Then tribulations overtook Luther Tibbets. He became embroiled in lawsuits over land and water. He lost his home and property. He was shot and seriously wounded by a neighbor's farmhand. His child died as the result of a tragic accident. He became melancholy and bitter.

The Riverside Press, on July 21, 1902, carried the following insertion by Dr. E. P. Clarke:

Luther C. Tibbets, famous as the man who introduced the navel orange in this country, died at the County Hospital this afternoon.

Ironic. Ironic and particularly sad when we consider the navel orange production and exportation of the present day.

After the deaths of Luther and Eliza Tibbets, in the settlement of the estate, one of the original trees was given to Frank Miller for transplanting in the courtyard of his Mission Inn. On May 8, 1903, President Theodore Roosevelt himself assisted in its transplanting. The tree died in 1923, and was replaced with an 11-year-old tree which had been propagated from the Mission Inn tree.

The other original tree, which was presented to the City of Riverside, was transplanted early in 1903 to a small triangular area at the junction of Magnolia and Arlington Avenues, across the street from the Tibbetses' old homestead. The tree had a hard struggle to maintain life because it had been set too deep. A surgical operation on the roots saved the tree.

THE DAUGHTERS OF THE American Revolution, who have never been accused of a lack of zeal for members of their own sex, enclosed this single remaining parent tree with an ornamental iron fence and placed inside a bronze tablet. The tablet's inscription attributes the planting and success of the navel orange industry exclusively to Eliza Tibbets.

Historical records are meager and conflicting. Some verbose writers have Luther and Eliza Tibbets competing for the honor of having planted the first navel orange. But these two pioneers had a kind of cooperation and understanding that belies their competing in anything, as may be concluded from their joint participation with regard to coterie spiritualist sessions.

Although Luther Tibbets himself was no cultist or devotee, he did assist his wife in her seances. (Eliza Tibbets is the recognized founder of the first cult in California.) When Mrs. Tibbets, dressed in ceremonial robe, reclined on a couch in a semi-darkened room, her husband stood behind "gently waving a fan while she passed into a trance to await the arrival of the desired spirit."

With this kind of togetherness, it would seem logical that both Luther Tibbets and his wife shared in planting and nurturing the little budded shrubs from Brazil. After all, there were two of the parent trees. Why not accord them one each?

What matters most to succeeding generations, and to lip-smacking navel orange lovers everywhere, is that in this case the Golden Goose survived.

And how!

Care for Lawns

There's nothing more willing than a lawn in spring. Spurred by winter rains and a long rest, it grows furiously — and beautifully — for several weeks. Then comes summer, and with it a soil-baking sun and no rain, or precious little of it.

If you have laid the proper foundation through mulching with peat moss, bark or manure, summer weather poses little threat to your beautiful lawn. The soil is well prepared for drought and easily takes up water and food. An unprepared lawn dries out quickly, then becomes compacted and impenetrable. By mid-summer at the latest, it has lost its spring-fresh look and you, the gardener, have lost some pride. Take good care of it.

CROWELL'S HANDBOOK OF CLASSICAL DRAMA, by Richmond Y. Hathorn (Crowell, $6.95) is a long-needed ancillary to the plays of ancient Greece and Rome, for the classical drama, especially that of Aeschylus, Euripides, Sophocles and Aristophanes, attracting, as they do larger audiences each year in this country. For those who have not yet reached the level of these masterpieces, musicals like "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" (which Hollywood made into a film) have given an idea of the kind of salty wit to be found in the Roman writer of comedies, Plautus.

For students of the classical drama this is an invaluable reference book. To many others, the alphabetically arranged volume can provide hours of just plain peeking-about pleasure.

You learn a lot not only about the titans of the ancient stage, but about many of the lesser-known dramatists, like Cratinus, who died in 422 B.C., and was ridiculed as a drunkard in the great Aristophanes' plays "The Knights," "The Frogs" and "Peace." Cratinus reciprocated for Aristophanes in his play "The Wine Flask." Says the Handbook: "It must have been particularly galling for Aristophanes when Cratinus, whom he had portrayed as out of public favor in an alcoholic old age, won first prize with 'The Wine Flask' in 423 B.C."

The Handbook deals with all manner of information connected with the plays and not the least fascinating are the explanations of terms used in them, through which we glean a down-to-earth idea of how people lived and conducted themselves. Take, for example, cottabus. It was a game played by the Greeks at banquets. "Its object was the throwing of wine left in cups into floating saucers so as to sink them."

What did the Romans shout at their bacchanalian orgies? It was "Euhoe!"

In the wealth of the Handbook's information there are to found detailed entries on every extant play, including those of which only tantalizing fragments have been discovered; on the plays' form and language; on theatrical conventions; on persons, real or mythical mentioned in the plays; on stage business of every kind, the use of curtains, the proscenium, etc.

For each play there are historical data, the important translations in verse or prose; and critical commentary.

It all proves you can have a lot of pleasure while you learn.

Eccentric Writer Reexamined

Following Trail of Anne Frank

ANNE FRANK: A PORTRAIT OF COURAGE, by Ernst Schnabel. Harbrace Paperback Library, Harcourt, Brace, 95 cents.

"I HAVE FOLLOWED the trail of Anne Frank. It leads out of Germany and back into Germany . . . It is a delicate trail, winding to schools and through dreams, across the borders of exile to the threshold of her hiding place — and at the end becoming the pathway to death."

Ernst Schnabel searched deep to be able to fill in the portrait of the young Jewish girl, seized with her family in The Netherlands and martyred, with millions of other Jews, in a Nazi camp of death. This was

English novelist Janice Elliott's new book, "The Godmother," (Holt, Rinehart & Winston, $4.95) deals with an elderly woman whose life has been overshadowed and blunted by a wealthy grandfather. When she becomes a godmother she realizes she still is a child herself. The novel has been compared in England with Virginia Woolf's "Mrs. Dalloway."

IMPRESSIONS OF AFRICA, by Raymond Roussel. University of California Press, $6.50.

THE WEALTHY eccentric French writer Raymond Roussel deserves to become known to American readers, and the new translation of the 1910 novel "Impressions d' Afrique," by Lindy Foord and her father, the English novelist and critic Rayner Heppenstall, is a worthy start in that direction.

Roussel was influential in early 20th Century French literature; this novel reminds one of a sort of surrealistic Evelyn Waugh.

The passengers of a French liner, bound for South America, are shipwrecked on an imaginary coast of Africa, and are held there for ransom by the native Emperor Talu VII. While an emissary of Talu is on his way to France to collect the ransom, the passengers, among whom are opera singers and circus fold, scientists and inventors, an aging ballerina and assorted freaks and others, pass their time by arranging a gala fete for Talu's coronation as king of new territory he has conquered while they are in his reim.

Roussel uses a strong surrealistic touch in his unique, but never opaque style, and the novel is thoroughly enjoyable.

RAYMOND ROUSSEL: A CRITICAL STUDY, by Rayner Heppenstall. University of California Press, $4.50.

A reader of "Impressions of Africa" will welcome this life and critical study of the novelist who was ahead of his time and who is acknowledged by Alain Robbé-Grillet and Eugene Ionesco as the main forerunner of the nouveau roman and the "theater of the absurd." It is their acknowledgement that has brought about a revival, for he was an eccentric of the deepest dye. Heppenstall's critique of Roussel's novels (he wrote them in prose and verse) and his plays reveals a highly imaginative writer, a true original. N.H.

Unconventional Opinions From Playboy Magazine

PLAYBOY INTERVIEWS, selected by the Editors of Playboy. Playboy Press—Trident, $5.95.

THESE ARE reprints of 16 Playboy interviews, which have done as much to popularize the magazine as its girlie photos did to publicize it.

The expertise of the interviewers is as impressive as the unconventional opinions of the personalities, who are described as "the movers and shakers of our time." All but one are individualists, the dullard being Robert Shelton, unlettered irrational wizard of the Ku Klux Klan.

The humor of Art Buchwald and the clowning of the Beatles provide diversion from the controversial philosophies of objectivist Ayn Rand, atheist Madalyn Murray, existentialist Jean-Paul Sartre, Black racist Malcolm X and civil rightist Martin Luther King.

Dr. Timothy Leary tells why the psychedelic "trip" should have a guide; Melvin Belli argues his case against the medical profession and bar association; Ian Fleming expounds on James Bond; Ralph Ginzburg jousts with censorship; and historian Arthur Schlesinger criticizes Vietnam war strategy.

Vladimir Nabokov, who left the Cornell faculty after his "Lolita" appeared in book and movie, doesn't "give a damn for the community, the masses and so forth." Frank Sinatra states surprising views on religion, and Richard Burton denies guilt about his relationship with Liz Taylor. Sinatra and Burton have one characteristic in common with Nabokov — no interest in what their public thinks. — Morry Rabin.

BOOKS IN BRIEF

ANTHOLOGY OF MEXICAN POETRY. Translated by Samuel Beckett. Compiled by Octavio Paz. Indiana University Press, $5.75.

Poetry—better than merely competent verse — was being written in Mexico as far back as the first quarter of the 16th century, and it is there that Octavio Paz, a brilliant poet himself, begins his anthology, ending it with 1910 and omitting, with one exception, living poets.

What distinguishes the colonial Mexican poetry from Spanish poetry, writes Senor Paz in his history of Mexican poetry preceding the anthology, "is the absence of scarcity of medieval features . . . a constant inclination to prefer the universal to the national, the intellectual to the racial.

"Although the full flowering of Mexican poetry has been achieved by its contemporary poets, the poets that came before them provide, in this anthology, verse that need not blush alongside some of the best of Europe.

GREEK LYRIC POETRY. In Modern English translation by Willis Barnstone with an introduction by William E. McCulloh. Bantam Books, $1.45.

Only a small part of Greek lyric poetry has come down to us; what has survived the ravages of fire, religion and the elements is among man's grandest achievement. This anthology starts with Archilochos in the 8th Century B.C. and takes us through the Byzantine poets of the 6th Century A.D. There is an especially generous helping of Sappho.

HEROD: PROFILE OF A TYRANT, By Samuel Sandmel. Lippincott, $5.95.

"Herod is the recurrent figure who, in the guise of a Napoleon, or a Mussolini, periodically arises," says biblical expert Sandmel. The renegade King of the Jews, subservient to the Romans, completely wicked, retained his throne for 33 years by killing after killing; he even slew three of his own children. Prof. Sandmel's biography is a new look at the man and his motives.

THOSE AMAZING RINGLINGS AND THEIR CIRCUS, by Gene Plowden. Caxton, $6.50.

You have to have loved the circus as a boy, with a great passion, and to have retained that passion, to write as Gene Plowden does. This detailed history of the Ringlings traces their show from the "Carnival of Fun" they operated in the 1880s to the circus that needed 100 double-length steel railroad cars to move it. Plowden learned

COIN ROUNDUP

Collecting Bug? It Bites Us All

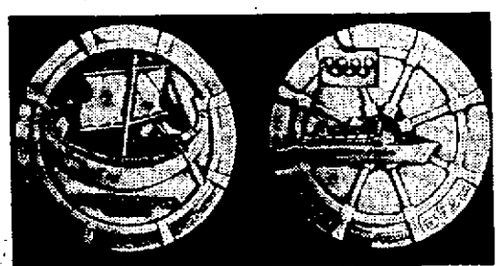

By Maurice M. Gould

EVERYONE is a collector, aware of it or not.

Some people say, almost boastfully, "I'm not a collector. I'm a doer. I have to be active and busy."

But walk into this same person's home, and there's a bit of Americana — a silver demitasse cup and saucer, a doll fashioned from a nut, a painting, maybe even some coins, old or new, which appealed to him enough to keep out of sentiment. Possibly they were given by a member of the family.

Not everyone begins collecting in the same way. Ask someone if he has any old coins, and if he is not a collector he may say he never saves coins. But he might think for a moment and suddenly recollect some foreign coins an aunt brought back from her European trip and a few Indian Head cents he came across while cleaning an old cabinet and which he has been saving for years. He might not know whether they are worth anything, but he just likes them.

Israel commemorative medal issued in 1964.

Ask a small boy, and he will invariably have a lucky piece, a silver dollar or a foreign coin. Perhaps when this boy becomes a man one of these coins will be the beginning of a fine collection.

Once he gets the "bug" he will never let change slip through the fingers, but will examine and check every piece as I once did. It becomes second nature to look for the double-strikes, hard-to-find dates or mint marks, and nothing is handled carelessly or just spent.

In the New England region the 1955 double-die cent is still discovered occasionally, as most of them were released in this area. As this coin is worth $100 or more to any dealer, it is one of the items most sought.

Other parts of the country might bring to light the scarcer San Francisco or Denver mint coins, and while most change has been combed by many millions of collectors, there is always an opportunity to pick up a "sleeper."

YOU HAVE no doubt heard a silver dollar referred to as a cart wheel, but it also has been called a "buzzard," as many of the early U.S. silver dollars had a buzzard-like eagle on the reverse.

The widow's mite mentioned many times in the Bible is a coin with the real name of lepton and was worth about two-tenths of a cent. Lepton translated means mite and was the lowest denomination of money mentioned in the sacred writings.

QUESTION: When did the San Francisco Mint cease the coining of money?

ANSWER: It stopped minting money in 1955 and now is operated as an assay office. The mints in operation at Philadelphia and Denver are open to visitors, and tours are available which enable one to see the actual processes in the making of money.

MEDICINE AND YOU

Mates of Paranoid Wives Found Alike

By Ben Zinser

Southland Magazine Medical-Science Editor

PSYCHIATRIC researchers have studied the husbands of paranoid women—women with delusions—and have found a common factor:

The husbands are willing victims.

Husbands of nine women with a diagnosis of paranoid reaction shared common characteristics:

The men were shy and hard working and had shouldered much responsibility since early childhood. They had had few friends throughout their lives and rarely dated before marriage. Average age at marriage: 37 years. They were reliable employes with stable job histories, but due to an inability to assume supervisory responsibility, all had failed to be promoted.

Despite bad treatment by the wives, none of the husbands ever considered divorce. In fact, when wives were hospitalized, husbands wished them to be discharged and returned home.

The study was conducted by investigators at the National Institute of Mental Health and the Harvard Medical School.

THE PRIMARY responsibility of teaching sex education to children is that of the schools, says Dr. Mary S. Calderone, executive director of SIECUS.

SIECUS stands for Sex Information and Education Council of the United States.

Dr. Calderone says that the burden of informing children about sex can no longer be placed entirely on parents.

Many disciplines must be involved, she said. These include the schools, churches, service organizations, the family physician and the home.

SMALLPOX vaccinations occasionally lead to leukemia, contend researchers at Krakow Medical Academy in Poland.

Two researchers have found five children and three adults in whom vaccination was followed by violent reactions and subsequent development of leukemia.

The researchers' theory: The vaccine may have been produced from leukemic cattle (smallpox vaccine is made from cowpox virus). Perhaps the disease was caused in humans by direct transmission of viruses from the cattle.

The report is in Medical World News, news magazine for physicians.

AN ANTICONVULSANT drug, sulthiame, shows promise in U.S. trials in the treatment of epilepsy.

The drug, also known as Ospolot, is already in general use abroad.

Dr. Samuel Livingston and associates of Johns Hopkins Epilepsy Clinic, Baltimore, report that 24 of 40 patients benefited from the drug.

Research with the drug is continuing. Troublesome side effects affected a number of patients, however.

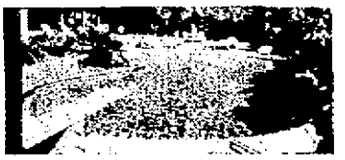

Newest research report on sulthiame is in American Journal of Psychiatry.

LACK OF adequate instrument training is the major cause of general aviation deaths, reports Dr. Harold N. Brown, member of the National Safety Council's general aviation committee.

General aviation is that excluding commercial or military flying.

For the third straight year, accidental deaths in U.S. general aviation in 1966 exceeded 1,000. The Civil Aeronautics Board says they accounted for 1,069 of the nation's 1,340 civil aviation deaths.

inets are shuttered provincial in maple finish.

Birch-paneled walls and ceiling cover the hall leading to the red master bedroom. Colorful red-and-white-print wallpaper and red-red carpeting are the foil for the sleigh-poster bed with the white woven bedspread. Another high-back wash stand holds a red china lamp and leads the eye to a predominantly white-with-red bath.

White antique satin draperies match the bedroom and open from the bath to a miniature rose garden on the side of a small red brick patio.

MRS. WHITLEY utilized some cupless antique saucers by mounting circular photographs of the children in the centers then hanging them from a length of wide red velvet ribbon.

Bob's room is called the "bear's den" because it is the ideal room for play. It easily could be called the "eagle's lair" since the walls are covered with American eagle wallpaper and a ceramic eagle hangs above the provincial wall unit. Bob's bath is the only room remaining to be redecorated.

Whitley is a farmer at heart and the rear yard is equally divided into a covered patio with raised brick rotisserie and barbecue and a vegetable garden complete with scarecrow!

Children's play equipment dominates the yard and the patio is lined with hanging fuchsias.

Two dormer bedrooms comprise the second story. Each room is decorated distinctively with provincial furniture and each room has a clip ceiling, the resulting alcove providing an ideal space for a chest and mirror.

A guest bedroom has a smaller version of the living room fireplace, a "must" for the daughter who married before her room was completed.

Whitley says: "I still have many building ideas to put into effect," and the perfect place to execute them is the combined garage-paintshop-woodworking shop with Bob's "clubhouse" fitted snugly above the 20-by-60-foot outbuilding.

The Complexities of Cats

By Eleanor Avery Price

MOST CAT fanciers are owned by common cats. The Siamese, Persian and Burmese top the list of preferred elite cats. Some people like the more unusual felines. Mrs. Dallas Sidlo in San Pedro, for one, is very well acquainted with Havana Browns and more recently acquired a British Blue, Pensylva Timothy of Sidlo, that has since skyrocketed to fame and become an International Champion. At the North Alberta Cat Show, Timmy made four of the six finals, and won Aggregate Best Cat in the Show.

All cats, of course, are interesting. But never will the chasm of understanding between cat and owner be completely bridged. Cats are creatures of fascinating moods and unfathomable expressions. We do know that a quick whisk of a tail can mean disdain; a tail projected straight up accompanied by an arched back signals anger or fear, and his circling human legs is a message of contentment or "feed me."

Pensylva Timothy of Sidlo displays inscrutable demeanor of royalty befitting a celebri-cat.

WE ALSO KNOW that the cat can profit from experience, solve certain problems, even learn to perform tricks. Certainly he is a good mouser as a rule, even though he might not eat his catch.

But do those big eyes mean the cat has extrasensory perception? The eyes might not have a thing to do with it, but some scientists do believe cats have ESP. And they have records to back up their beliefs.

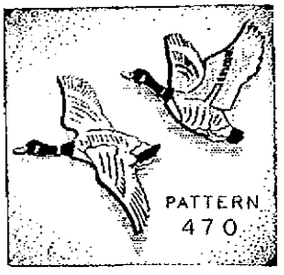

Perhaps the cat's uncanny ability to find its way home, sometimes over hundreds of miles of unfamiliar territory, is a form of ESP. There is a true story of a pregnant cat, on vacation with her owners 30 miles from home, that was given to someone else at the vacation site when her owners didn't want to take her back with them. A month later, the cat was home with a kitten in her mouth. She placed it on the floor, then, without a sound, bolted out again. Each week she returned with a kitten in her mouth until all of her five offspring were brought to the place she felt was home.

THE MOST difficult part of this story for me to believe is that the original owners didn't assist her by going after the kittens rather than letting her become footsore and weary traveling 270 miles. Perhaps they were testing her to see if she could actually do such a notable feat. The story doesn't tell whether the people took care of her offspring during this period.

Ventura Dog Fanciers will have a show and trial July 29 at Oxnard High School. On July 30, Santa Barbara Kennel Club has a show at the Polo Grounds between Carpinteria and Santa Barbara.

Entries are being taken for Santa Monica Cat Club Show Sept. 9-10 at Santa Monica Civic Auditorium at 1025 Chautauqua, Pacific Palisades, Calif. 90272.

You Make It

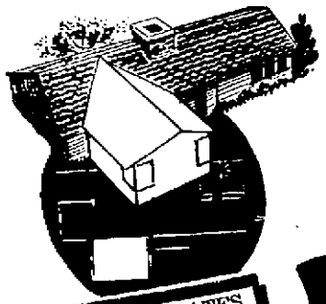

Flying geese wall plaques about 16 inches long and painted in natural colors make a beautiful decoration for any informal room. They are just the thing for that big space over a sofa or a low book shelf. Pattern No. 470, giving actual-size cutting and painting guides for these birds as well as directions and outline of materials is 35 cents and is also included in the Bird and Animal Packet No. 76 for $1. Order from Southland Magazine, Pattern Dept., P.O. Box 50, New Windsor, N.Y. 12550.

Science for You

By BOB BROWN

PROBLEM: Does Water Run Through Glass?

NEEDED: A glass or jar, water, ice cubes or crushed ice, a plate.

DO THIS: Put the glass on a plate or table (no tablecloth) and put the ice and water into the glass. After a few minutes a puddle of water is likely to form on the plate or table outside the glass, even though no water has been spilled there.

HERE'S WHY: Moisture from the air condenses on the outside of the cold glass, and often there is enough of this moisture, particularly on a humid summer day, to form a puddle.

Cool air cannot hold as much moisture as warm air, and as the air flows next to the cold glass and is itself cooled, it must give up some of its water if it becomes supersaturated by this cooling. This is the explanation of the condensation.

Three books of these experiments by Bob Brown are available: Science Circus, Science Circus No. 2, and a paperback collection by Cornerstone Library.

Full Speed Ahead on Rails

the travelers are commuters between the two largest cities in California.

People that commute today are in a hurry. To satisfy this need for speed there must be a breakthrough in the surface transit vehicle itself. In some areas this breakthrough is occurring. Examples:

—Test runs are being conducted using four experimental cars on a 21-mile stretch of Pennsylvania Railroad line between Trenton and New Brunswick, N.J. The high-speed, stainless steel cars are propelled by electric engines.

—A $5 million "skybus" — an overhead rail — has been operating in Pittsburgh almost a year as a pilot program to determine its commuter feasibility.

—Radical new helicopter-bus transportation known as the "skylounge" is proposed for Los Angeles International Airport connecting with other parts of the city. A high-speed "skyrail" from the airport downtown is also proposed.

—A 150-mile-an-hour train has been used experimentally between New York and Washington.

"Much of what has been learned in aerospace research can be applied with modification to high-speed trains, hydroplanes, monorails and other surface transportation for large numbers of people," according to Jerome Lederer, director of the New York-based Aviation Safety Center.

And what's in the future may mutate our freeways faster than the morning and evening rush hours.

Time Now to Care for Iris, Zinnias and Trees

By Joe Littlefield

MOST of the bearded iris may be through blooming by now. Some varieties respond to a feeding of a balanced plant food and may bloom a second time.

Iris hobbyists prefer periodically to pull off the oldest and poorest of the outer leaves rather than cut the foliage far down on the plants. Remontant iris, sometimes called repeat bloomers, are the reliable ones to flower again this same year some several months after the spring blooming season, or they may flower in the fall.

Old knobby four- or five-year-old iris clumps should be dug up, separated, young ones saved, and the rest thrown away. The soil should be rejuvenated by working in some bone meal and compost soil or one of the prepared planter mulches. Extra long roots of young plants may be shortened by cutting them back an inch or two. The leaves should be cut back half their length but cut into an arrowhead form.

In a triangle planting, the three plants should be spaced at least a foot apart, with the leaf ends of the rhizomes facing away from the centers of the triangle. The top of the rhizomes should be exposed if soil is heavy clay. Water the newly set out plants well several times, then water only as the soil dries. Water oftener when well started.

You still can purchase bare root iris from the iris specialists. There are many interesting wavy petaled and unusual colors and shadings of these beautiful flowered varieties to choose from. If your nurseryman doesn't grow iris in containers or doesn't sell them bare root, he'll gladly recommend an iris specialist or two from whom you can purchase the roots.

CUT CARNATION flower stems at a point in the leafy portion of the plant. This forces several new shoots to start. Later more new growth develops which means more blossoms. Better still, the flower stems are not as tall and leggy; therefore, they won't need staking. Feed the plants a balanced plant food for succeeding crops of flowers. Watch for spider mites and thrips and spray if any are found.

Prune faded hydrangea blossoms back now to within two or three buds of last year's pruning instead of waiting till dormant winter season.

Several of our garden column readers are having problems with some of their zinnias, and naturally wonder if the smog is the primary cause. Some of their zinnia plant foliage becomes limp as though suffering from lack of water, yet the plants are well watered when they are thirsty. The leafage browns, dries and plants slowly die.

We checked into this problem and discovered some of the zinnias were attacked by borers. The flying insects sting the stem, and lay eggs which hatch into borers which bore down the stems! One of the nurserymen let us pull up two young wilted zinnia plants in a flat. We split down the main stems and in one of them found a transparent, jelly-like, minute borer.

Stomach type insecticide spraying doesn't get at the borers in stem. Possibly insecticide dusting the soil might be a helpful factor should the pest bore out of the plant stem and drop down into the soil to pupate. Personally we wouldn't hesitate in replacing the wilted zinnias with young plants.

DEEP WATER trees oftener in hot dry areas, if foliage tends to drop off frequently, even though the trees are ornamental evergreen.

Trees in lawns need supplemental watering because they don't get enough water from lawn watering.

The secret of growing larger blossoms of plants is to allow one terminal bud to develop on each stalk. This means you'll pinch off the small side buds so that all the strength and growth aids benefit the one remaining bud. Additionally, this helps increase the flower size as the bud develops into the bloom.

One of the camellia bud drop causes is erratic watering during the flower buds' development. Be sure to deep water the plants periodically and shower bathe the plants in late afternoon and evening to effect humid condition.

Continue to fertilize the plants. You plants usually are fed four or five times throughout the spring and summer season, whereas larger plants are fertilized about three times. A thin mulch of leaf mold or one of the prepared mulches conserves the moisture in the soil.

Bearded iris clumps should be divided every three or four years, new plants reset, old sections discarded.

Taking Close-Up Motion Pictures

EXTREME close-up pictures are fascinating! Close-ups open up a brand new picture-taking world — a world that might include staring eye to eye with a praying mantis, a trip inside the bloom of a flower, or bumping noses with a goldfish that looks whale-sized.

When you add the element of motion to your close-ups, and project them on a screen to 30 to 40 times their life size, the result will be a sense of excitement that will keep even the most blase audience on the edge of their seats.

You don't really have to look for strange and exotic subjects for your super-close-ups. Interesting and dramatic subjects are all around you. Model trains or racing cars, butterflies, pets and similar objects are all good close-up material.

Subjects such as busy knitting needles shot at a distance of one foot, a tightly gripped pencil and a 10-year-old's nose almost touching his homework paper, a kitten's paw as it sheathes and unsheathes its claws, or a close-up of a wink, can furnish the lead to a longer picture sequence or be used merely as exciting detail shots in a normal story-telling sequence.

CLOSE-UP movies are easy to shoot — all you need, in addition to your camera and film, is a close-up lens which fits over the lens on your camera. Close-up lenses come in different strengths, or powers, such as 1-plus, 2-plus, and 3-plus. The greater the power, the closer you can get to your subject. On some cameras, you may need an adapter ring to hold the close-up lens in place. Your photo dealer will be glad to help you select the lenses and adapter ring for your camera.

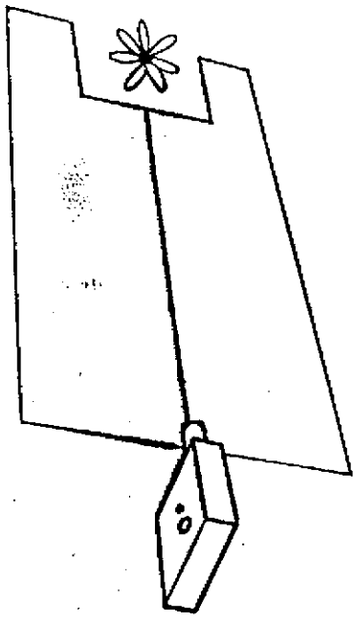

When you make close-up movies, it's important to measure the distance to your subject quite accurately. That's because depth of field (the area of sharp focus) is very small at close-up distances. Also, unless you have a reflex camera (in which you view the subject directly through the camera's lens), the viewfinder on your camera isn't accurate at close ranges. That's because the viewfinder is above the camera lens and therefore doesn't "see" exactly the same area the camera lens "sees."

Fortunately, it's easy to make a cardboard measuring device to measure the subject distance as well as indicate the picture area. Simply cut a cardboard as shown in the accompanying sketch.

If you have a close-up lens on a zoom camera and have accurately measured the subject distance, maintain that distance and you can zoom the lens to any position and still get sharp pictures.

Exposure for outdoor close-ups using close-up lenses is the same as for your normal movies. For indoor close-ups, don't use your movie light mounted on the camera — it would be too bright and too hot. Ask someone to aim the movie light at your subject from at least 6 feet away while you do the shooting.

Put variety, fun and excitement into your movie — with close-ups!

This sketch shows how to make a cardboard device to measure the subject distance for close-ups as well as to indicate the picture area. The close-up lens instruction sheet will give you the width of the cut out area and the distance from it to the camera. Hold the center line of the cardboard up to the center of the close-up lens. Hold the card board straight out from the camera. Fit your subject into the cut out area, drop card, shoot.

Kitchen on a Car Top

By Steve Ellingson

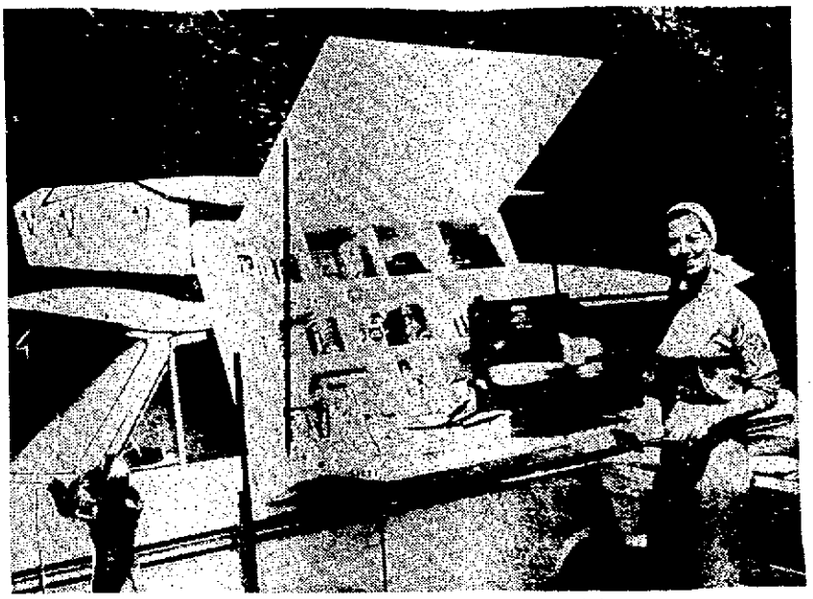

NO NEED to worry about reservations, high priced menus, or distant restaurants when you have your kitchen with you. With it you can enjoy the plushest dining room surroundings imaginable any time that strikes your fancy. Yes, if you enjoy eating out, you'll love the car-top travel kitchen shown here with Lois Lawson. Nothing like it to whip up a breakfast, lunch or dinner at minute's notice.

Here is a kitchen that's always with you wherever you park your car. You'll notice it's carried on the top where it never gets in the way. When mealtime comes, just park your car, pull out the kitchen drawer and lower it as shown. It always hangs at just the right angle to keep your supplies from falling out. It has places for utensils, food, your camp stove and other incidentals all at your fingertips and in full view. The front lowers to give you table-top working space while the top raises to give you shade.

After you have eaten, just slide the kitchen back into the car-top cover where it's safe from wind, rain, dust and insects. It has all the conveniences of home even though you're on the road. And look at the troublesome packing and unpacking it eliminates.

But, that isn't all. On the far side of this kitchen unit is another smaller compartment for your guns, fishing tackle, sleeping bags and other articles you need when you're on a trip. The easy-to-follow pattern shows how to make both compartments. Take a weekend before you start your trip to build this handy kitchen. It will repay you many times over while traveling. It's inexpensive and something that any amateur can do.

To obtain the easy-to-follow car-top kitchen pattern No. 406, send $1 in currency, check or money order to Steve Ellingson, Southland Magazine Pattern Dept., Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif. 91409.

Lois Lawson finds his car top kitchen mighty handy in a vacation trip.

Anne Frank Trail

the young girl whose diary never ceases to stir the compassion of the world.

Of the 76 persons Ernst Schnabel sought to reach, because they either had known Anne Frank or had, knowingly or unknowingly, crossed her path, 50 were mentioned in the diary. Schnabel was able to find only 42 of the 76, and they told him what they recalled of Anne. Most poignant memories of Anne are those of her father, Otto, who somehow alone survived the Nazis' concentration camp.

From the testimony of Schnabel's 42 witnesses, emerges an Anne Frank "gracious, capricious at times, and full of ideas. She had a tender, but also a critical spirit; a special gift for feeling deeply and for fear, but also her own special kind of courage. She had intelligence, but also many blind spots; a great deal of precocity alongside extraordinary childishness; and a sound and infrangible moral sense even in the most hopeless misery."

We learn a great many things about Anne Frank, but as Schnabel says, "The trail we followed fails to tell us one thing: What was the source in this child of the power her name exerts throughout the world? Was this power, perhaps, not something within her, but something outside of her and above her?" The mystery remains.

Ernst Schnabel's portrait, nonetheless, is almost as touching as the diary itself. —N.H.

MISS RULE: Please give brief genealogy data on JULIAN. — L.J., Long Beach.

JULIAN, an English surname, began as the Roman given-name Julianus, meaning "bearded youth." The surname was adopted by 12th century English ancestors. Geoffrey Julyan is in royal records for 1344. Descendants also migrated to Ireland with 12th century Norman-English invaders, and made their home in County Meath. The Julian coat-of-arms has a black cross placed like an "X" on a silver shield.

Recipe of the Week

TASTY and hearty, a meat roll combination wins this week's $5 prize as best recipe of the week, submitted by Mrs. Roger F. Miller, 844 Stevely Ave., Long Beach. The recipe:

DOUBLE CHEESE MEAT ROLL

- 1½ lbs. lean ground chuck
- 1 egg
- ¾ cup cracker crumbs
- ½ cup finely chopped onion
- 2 8 oz. cans tomato sauce with cheese
- 1 tsp. salt
- ½ tsp. oregano
- ⅛ tsp. pepper
- 1 cup shredded Mozzarella cheese
- 1 cup shredded cheddar cheese

Combine beef, egg, crumbs, onion, 1-3 cup cheese sauce, salt, oregano and pepper. Mix well and shape into a flat rectangle about 10x12 inches on waxed paper. Mix Mozzarella and cheddar cheese together and sprinkle evenly over meat mixture. Roll up like jelly roll and press ends of roll to seal. Bake at 350 degrees for one hour. Drain off excess fat. Pour remaining cheese-tomato sauce over roll and bake for 15 minutes more. Serves six.

What's your favorite recipe? For each recipe published in this space, Southland will pay $5. Men are urged to submit their recipes along with the ladies. Send yours, with name and address to Recipe Contest Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90801.

Tips on Selling Your House

colors and face all hangers in the same direction. Remember to oil the hinges on all closet doors so they open easily.

"Home buyers are drawer snoops," comments one realtor, "and most drawers stick and doors squeak." To remedy this, make sure all drawer contents are neat. Either sand down sticky drawers, or apply wax to the edges for ease in opening because they'll be opened.

"Set the stage for selling. I advise props like bowls of candy, cigarettes, magazines on tables. Lighting should be done like a stage setting," advises another realtor.

"CLEANLINESS makes a good impression and most walls and ceilings won't need repainting if they've been freshly scrubbed. Just before selling rugs should be given a once-over with shampoo and an electric shampoo machine. Wooden floors should be freshly waxed," he continues.

"The kitchen must be spotless because buyers show up at unexpected times. Bathrooms need to be neat and clean, which means that the housewife has to keep on her toes during the sale period. Tile usually needs a coat of wax. Caulking around all sinks and tubs should be recently applied.

"Even the oldest house sells fast if it looks like an ad for soap, clean and sparkling. And nothing makes the selling price drop faster than a house that looks a mess and seems like a fixer-upper."

Other areas that need work in most houses are hinges, windows, steps and nails. Hammer in all loose nails and oil the hinges of everything. Repair broken windows and fix all loose steps. Cover up, or repair sags and holes and leaks.

"I DIDN'T have time to clean up before the buyer arrived," a Long Beach housewife confided, "so, I pretended to be the cleaning lady and upset the whole house on purpose. You couldn't tell anything. When the buyer returned that evening for a second inspection with his wife, the house was spotless because I was prepared and they bought the property. We made a nice profit."

Most initial property inspections are made by wives. They are most interested in general impressions, the look of a kitchen and the appearance that the house has been well-cared-for, as they try to imagine themselves living in the house.

The second inspection is usually a family affair, taking place in the evening. Brokers suggest that you give a warm welcome by turning on all the lights at night. Some people rent outdoor colored spots to show off outside landscaping.

"Offer coffee or some other beverage to make buyers feel at home," is another time-tested idea.

Maintenance is another neglected highlight. Plumbing should not be obviously leaky. If you can't afford to have inadequate plumbing repaired, settle for replacing faulty washers and painting over stains. Glue down any peeling wallpaper and fill in flaking plaster cracks. Touch up knick marks on doorways and baseboards. Spot-clean rug stains or shove a piece of furniture over unsightly spots. Fill in tile cracks with inexpensive grouting. Most buyers spot a small crack in plaster or tile and fear entire walls will tumble down tomorrow.

* * * *

IF YOU HAVE a pool, be sure it's clean and free of leaves and algae scum. Outside furniture should be attractively arranged and clean. Remove and store any unsightly faded chaise pads or tattered chairs. It is better to have no outdoor seating than warweary examples. Some nurseries rent flowering plants in attractive pots that will give your outdoor area an instant lift and create a show-worthy setting.

If you have a garage, clean it up. This is an area prone to clutter. Remove the stacks of newspapers and items you meant to repair but never will get to. Garages look more spacious if they are clear and you'll save the futile exercise of carting extras to a new location. Grease spots should be removed with service station cleaner, or the floor should be painted.

Bill and Joanne Catton make their living by buying and selling "fixer-upper" houses, putting in a month's surface repairs to realize a year's profit. When a ceiling sags, they paint it a dark color and the sag "disappears." They put expensive-looking lighting fixtures, purchased in used furniture stores, and lush plants in decorative pots in unusual places like bathrooms and bedrooms.

They cover ragged worn tile with second-hand carpeting placed over expensive pads to give the rug a luxurious "thick rug" feel. Joanne Catton drapes an entire wall of unsightly windows with inexpensive draperies.

"WHAT CAN you do with an inadequate house? Camouflage every liability," they recommended, as they pushed a carved chest in front of a gaping hole in a house they had just purchased.

When your house is up for sale, stay in the background, advise the realtors. Overly helpful sellers spoil a sale by talking too much. Buyers feel the seller is too anxious and wonder what is wrong with the house. Remain in the background and don't make buyers feel they are intruding on your privacy, even if you must leave the house for the day or sit across the street in your car while a realtor takes a buyer on a tour of your house.

Realtors can use a written list or a verbal run-down on a house's good points. Questions about bad points should be answered honestly but briefly or the realtor will loose confidence in your property.

Giving your house an extra feature helps it stand out. Possibilities are an herb garden, a home workshop, a seat for a special outdoor view, an entertainment center, an outdoor arbor for dining, or a walk-in pantry. Any extra feature can make your house the one that prospective buyers remember and buy.

If your house is well-maintained and inviting, and still doesn't sell, ask yourself if your selling price is realistic. Prices of similar properties in your neighborhood are available through realtors, who mention that overpricing a house stops any buyer afraid to bargain. Properties that are unsold over too long a period frighten away prospective buyers.

Some realtors may suggest a selling price that's too high in order to obtain concessions from you like,

Here's Your Check List

Check this list, before you sell your house:

Have you set the scene, and made the house seem warm and inviting?

Is it easy for a buyer to park near your house?

Is the landscaping neatly trimmed?

Have you checked all the maintenance factors?

Are rooms free of clutter, excess furniture?

Are closets free of excess items?

Are bathrooms and kitchen spotless?

Are all leaks, sags, problems repaired?

Is your asking price realistic?

Does your house have any special features to make it stand out?

Are pool, garage, storage areas in good shape?

Do rooms seem spacious, comfortable?

Questions & Answers

Q. Who said that a cynic is a person who knows the price of everything and the value of nothing? H. Y.

A. Oscar Wilde. The line was used in Act 3 of his play "Lady Windermere's Fan," which was produced in 1892. Earlier, in his novel "The Picture of Dorian Gray" (1891), Wilde applied the definition to all mankind: "Nowadays, people know the price of everything and the value of nothing."

Q. In what year did U.S. women first attend prize fights? V. M.

A. Menke's "Encyclopedia of Sports" says that the first time women in any numbers attended a boxing bout in this country was for the Jess Willard-Frank Moran fight in Madison Square Garden, New York City, in 1916. The fight's promoter, Tex Rickard, put on a drive for women patrons, and about 300, most of them from the fashionable set, attended.

Q. Is Tierra del Fuego an island? E. J.

A. Tierra del Fuego is a group of islands belonging to Chile and Argentina; they lie at the tip of South America, south of the Strait of Magellan. Sometimes the name is applied only to the main island of this group.

Q. On the Union Station at Washington, D.C., is an inscription about the "wealth of the Indies." Who wrote these lines? F. B.

A. Charles W. Eliot, at one time president of Harvard University. The lines are: "He that would bring home the wealth of the Indies must carry the wealth of the Indies with him. So it is in travelling—A man must carry knowledge with him if he would bring home knowledge."

Q. Wyoming claims to have the world's biggest mineral hot spring. Where is it located? T. G.

A. In Thermopolis, a resort town and county seat of Hot Springs County in north-central Wyoming. The town is famed for its hot springs, which are included in Hot Springs State Park. The one which is rated the world's largest single mineral hot spring flows 18,600,000 gallons of mineral water, at 135 degrees F., every 24 hours.

Q. Is octopus considered to be meat or fish? H. M.

A. The Bureau of Commercial Fisheries includes octopus, squid, frog legs and turtle steaks among "shellfish."

Q. When was the Karelo-Finnish Republic given self-government by the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics (U.S.S.R.)? T. A.

A. On July 16, 1956, the Supreme Soviet voted to incorporate the Karelo-Finnish Republic (at that time one of the members of the U.S.S.R.) as an autonomous republic within the Russian republic. An autonomous republic in the U.S.S.R. is one inhabited chiefly by non-Russian people and permitted self-government in local affairs. The Karelo-Finnish Republic comprises territory ceded by Finland after World War II.

Q. Please furnish information on the origin of the practice of giving engagement rings. N. R.

A. The giving of a ring to mark betrothal was an old Roman custom. The ring was probably a simple pledge that the engagement would culminate in marriage. While at first the ring was required to be plain and made of iron, gold rings were introduced during the second century A.D. Still later, the use of engagement rings was given ecclesiastical sanction. Ring benediction ceremonies have been a practice since the 11th century.

Q. When was the Department of Justice created? G. W.

A. The office of Attorney General was created Sept. 24, 1789. On June 22, 1870, the Department of Justice was established.

Q. Must a basketball team always have five players on the court? J. C.

A. A team must begin with five players. If it has no substitutes to replace disqualified players, however, it must continue with less than five.

Sales Tips For Homes

exclusive listings and, months later, you're still stuck with the unsold house.

Real estate agents suggest listing with a broker who knows your area and receives local inquiries, rather than with a "friend of a friend" in a distant part of the community who gets few calls in your area.

Bona fide realtors hold licenses from the state after qualifying through a series of examinations. If you list with a real estate man, you'll want to deal with a qualified, ethical professional, and will want to check that he is a licensed professional.

IN EXTREME cases, a house won't sell for months but the homeowner still has some possibilities. If you have to move before selling, list with a local realtor and pay a neighborhood teen-ager to keep the landscaping neat and well-watered. If the electricity is turned on, agents won't have to show with a flashlight at night. If you can't leave some furniture behind, furniture can be rented to make the place look hospitable. Reappraising your asking price might be in order and, if it's too high, figure how much your mortgage payments on the unwanted property are denting your budget every month.

And, if all else fails, lease the house as a rental property through a professional rental firm until you can sell it.

Pelican—Friend or Foe?

foot wing-tip spread. His brown pelican relative is a couple of feet shorter in length and breadth and weighs proportionately less.

Both pelican species have short legs, four completely webbed toes, and a large distensible pouch hanging from their lower jaw. Pelicans use their pouch for two purposes: It serves as a scoop net for catching large fish, and, secondly, pelicans regurgitate their fish catch into their pouch to feed their young. Science has disproved ancient folktales claiming mother pelicans fed babies on their own flesh and blood. Nor do pelicans carry fish in their pouch, since a pouchful of fish would overbalance any flying pelican.

THE PROFESSOR suggests you take a close look at a pelican. His loose, harsh feathers and waddling gait give him a grotesque appearance while on land. Yet his powerful wings take on grace and beauty as he takes to the air and masterfully utilizes or defies every current and draft. His 20- to 30-foot plummeting dive thrills the eyes and ears of every bird watcher.

Thanking the professor, you stroll on down the beach. What have you decided about the fish-plucking bird? Perhaps you think pelicans and fishermen should not mix, but ornithologists and bird watchers find pelicans to be of great interest indeed.

Model Planes

tionals are the scale events held in each category.

Popular scale models include World War I and World War II designs. Entries in radio control class have included a twin-engine P38, the B47, a twin-engine B26, as well as the popular Spad and Fokker planes.

JOHN WORTH, Academy of Model Aeronautics director, says the caliber of the people he has met through his many years in modeling is the best in the world. He knows modelers through international competition in which AMA participates.

The fact that modeling leads to careers in aviation is supported by Air Force Col. Frank Borman and other U.S. astronauts who were model airplane builders. It is estimated that about 75 per cent of military and commercial aviators at one time built and flew model airplanes.

Proof that it is popular with the public is the fact that a half million or more people viewed the event the last time it was held at Los Alamitos three years ago.

And the millions more who are going to view it before it returns to Los Alamitos again in 1971.

ARNOLD VANN
Glamorous and Fashionable

Caricature by Pete Willette

HOST Arnold Vann has a minor but vexing problem. When they hear that he features a $1.95 prime rib dinner at his restaurant, some people immediately make a bad guess.

"Can't be any good for that price," they grumble, without knowing the facts. "Must be a dump. Probably a dirty old place in the wrong part of town."

It's really amazing how a few folks will knock something they don't understand — or haven't tried. I've dined many times at Vann's restaurant, The Tenderloin, 4363 Atlantic Ave., Long Beach. Along with hundreds of others, I'm a staunch Tenderloin booster, for the following reasons:

(1) It's not a noisy coffee shop, a dinky cafe or a dingy cave on a side street. It's a glamorous, fashionable restaurant, one of the most beautiful in town, with wall-to-wall carpeting, deep booths and modern furnishings. It's located in Bixby Knolls, one of the city's nicest neighborhoods.

(2) That $1.95 prime rib au jus dinner is an incredible value, consisting of a beautiful slice of choice beef, roasted by expert chefs. It's juicy and savory, accompanied by soup du jour or a superlative salad; baked potato, French fries or whipped potatoes; a delectable string bean creation and piping hot garlic cheese bread.

The secret of The Tenderloin's success is volume. It's one of the most popular establishments in town, serving more dinners by far than the average restaurant. Although it's a plush place, the guests can dress casually if they wish, arriving in sport dresses or sport shirts. Vann has many other modestly priced treats: filet of sole, $1.75; jumbo shrimp, $1.95, and pan-fried chicken, $1.95. His luncheon surprise is a remarkable prime rib sandwich, 95 cents, served Tuesday through Friday. The restaurant is closed Mondays.

MORE DELECTABLES — Bountiful Sunday dinners, full of old-fashioned goodness at a reasonable price. That's Hubert Hust's philosophy and he follows it faithfully. Two of his good-looking Hubert's Cafeterias, those at 218 E. Broadway and 643½ Pine Ave., Long Beach, serve Sunday dinners from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Offered for $1.50 are roast beef, leg of lamb, ham, Swiss steak, baked chicken or chicken and dumplings, with salad, potato, vegetable, roll or muffin, beverage and dessert. Both restaurants have free parking lots nearby.

You need Blue Shield to help pay the bills Medicare misses.

Up to $10,000.00. Never cancelled because of physical condition, age, or benefit use.

■Not covered under the Federal Medicare programs are expenses such as prescription drugs, the balance of your doctor's bill, private nursing care, long term hospital coverage, and others. (Estimates are that Medicare Plans A & B together pay somewhat over half your total health care bill. The rest is still up to you.)

California Blue Shield's Major Medicare Plan will, for pennies a day, step in where Medicare leaves off and pay up to $10,000.00 for vital health care services.

Mail the coupon for complete information today. If you act now, no physical or health statement will be required. (If you are over 65, and have remained out of Medicare ask about our other health care plans.) Send no money, just the coupon, but do it today and avoid a health questionnaire.

BARBARA FELDON . . . Agent Smart's Little Helper

Agent 86's Trouble Shooter

By TERRY VERNON

Over a period of years, Barbara Feldon has been a dancer, actress, model — but her long suit has been as Secret Agent 86's trouble shooter.

Come September she'll be with Don Adams again as the brainy part of the team of secret agents in "Get Smart," at 8:30 p.m. Saturdays on channel 4.

Pittsburgh, Pa., born, Barbara studied dancing seriously as a teen-ager.

"I finally gave it up. Five-foot nine-inch lady dancers have never been the vogue," she decided.

AT 17 she enrolled at Carnegie Institute of Technology and turned to drama. On graduation she went to New York and for a couple of years worked in commmunity theaters. She even got a "crawl-on" part in "Caligula."

"I crawled on stage and ate a few grapes," she recalled. "The best I ever did in acting in legitimate theater was in small parts in off-Broadway flops."

SHE GOT a showgirl part in the Beatrice Lillie revival of "Ziegfeld Follies," and during the run the chorus line was tested for "The $64,000 Question."

The questions happened to be on "King Lear" and she had a fresh knowledge of the play from college. She was selected for the "Question" and lasted almost three months. A chorus line gal with a knowlege of Shakespeare was a good publicity angle, but aside from her winnings which she invested in clothes, she didn't get much out of the experience.

Music in the Afternoon

"Eugene Ormandy and the Philadelphia Orchestra," a one-hour concert special, will be broadcast in color at 1 p.m. Sunday on Channel 2. Internationally-acclaimed pianist Byron Janis and Metropolitan Opera mezzo-soprano Rosalind Elias will be soloists.

This performance of what many consider the world's finest symphony orchestra was pre-recorded before an invited audience of Philadelphia's Academy of Music earlier this year. The orchestra will offer popular selections from its concert repertoire.

Miss Elias will be heard performing George Bizet's Gypsy Air from "Carmen" and Camille Saint-Saens' My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice from "Samson et Dalila." Mr. Janis will be the soloist for Tchaikovsky's final movement of Piano Concerto No. 1 in B Flat Minor.

Ormandy celebrated his 31st anniversary as music director and conductor of the Philadelphia Orchestra in May. He was appointed to his present position in 1936. Hungarian born, he began his musical career at the age of five as a violin prodigy. Prior to appointment to his position in Philadelphia, Ormandy was music director of the Minneapolis Symphony.

Villain Goes Comic

WERNER KLEMPERER . . . 'Puncture Pretense'

Colonel Klink — he with the monocle and the heel-clicking boots of television's popular "Hogan's Heroes" series — is smiling these days through his apparent villainy.

In real life the German compound commandant is Werner Klemperer, and the Cologne-born actor is genuinely grateful for the role that enabled him to shatter a 15-year-old mold of typecasting that made his aristocratic face one of the meanest images in contemporary entertainment fare.

As Adolph Eichman in the motion picture, "Operation Eichman," and as the Nazi war criminal Otto Hahn, in "Judgement at Nuremberg," Klemperer essayed two of the most unsympathetic roles in film history.

For most of his acting career, which started when he was a corporal in the U.S. Army in World War II, he has played whatever villain was necessary at the moment.

HE WAS, literally, cast by the front pages of the newspapers.

"Producers like to feed the public's appetite for dramas that are topical," says Klemperer. "Whatever enemy the script called for, I seemed to fit the part."

Klemperer makes it clear that all this was good for his bank account.

But what it didn't satisfy was his penchant for playing comedy. The moment he was away from the television or movie cameras he would "turn on" the comedy, he says.

"My friends and family probably got plenty annoyed at my act, but I feel comedy is the essence of health, and any analyst will tell you there's a direct corrolary between a sense of humor and good health.

That's why when the chance came to try out for the bumbling, stiff-backed Colonel Klink in 'Hogan's Heroes' I leaped at it."

NO ONE took the Nazi threat in the thirties more seriously than Werner's father, the famed conductor, Otto Klemperer, now 84. They escaped the SS men by four hours, and Klemperer is the first to state that he would not play a sympathetic German officer.

"The concept of the series," he says, as it goes into its third year, "was based on the fact that comedy can puncture pretense and pomposity more effectively than straight drama.

"The rigid, humorless approach of the Nazis is highly vulnerable to comedy, and in 'Hogan's Heroes' the American prisoners of war are far more effective in making their points against my innate stupidity than if they shot me.

"OVER AND above the mesage of the series, the show enabled me to explore to great length any comedy talents I possess," he says.

"I find that comedy lets me explore greater depths in the character of Colonel Klink. My frustrations as the character in the series grow out of the basic truths I confront day after day, as the commandant in charge of the prison camp.

"The essential truths of mankind — that there is a basic goodness and dignity in man which makes him different from animals, and those truths prevail in the long run. All the Colonel Klinks of the world find that out in time."

PAN AND FAN MAIL

I HAVE JUST learned that KHJ-TV has begun a regular weekly program featuring hour-long bullfights from Mexico . . .

This is a spectacle that certainly can stimulate anything but humanity, so for Heaven's sake let's keep it away from our young people. Everyone without the desire to witness this cruel and vicious spectacle should complain to KHJ-TV.

Bruce Wiswall,
Seal Beach

KHJ got heavy response from viewers for its bullfight shows — from organized groups opposed as well as individuals. The opposition won. The bullfights haven't been aired since July 1.

WE WOULD appreciate any information about the singer John Gary, who was the 1966 summer replacement for Danny Kaye. Will he be appearing on any TV shows, or does he have any plans for concerts or night club appearances in the vicinity of Los Angeles.

Mabel Sample
Long Beach

Singer Gary currently headlines the Cocoanut Grove show, Los Angeles (through Aug. 6), goes on five-week coast-to-coast concert tour in mid-October, a month RCA Victor company has proclaimed "John Gary Month" to push records he has made (14 albums on the label).

BECAUSE of the cancellation, would it be possible for a feature article to be written on David Janssen and "The Fugitive" series? I believe its star and the series should be congratulated and praised, maybe a few days before the program's two final shows.

T. Waide,
Long Beach

You can almost positively count on more stories about Janssen and "The Fugitive" some time in August.

I READ the recent Nimoy fan letter and I wish to object to a statement she made that "Star Trek" is superior to "Mission: Impossible." I watch both shows and enjoy them both, but "Mission: Impossible" is unmistakenly superior. The plots of "Mission: Impossible" are always clever — never have I seen one which was completely obvious (except for reruns); the acting is better — Martin Landau was nominated for an Emmy, and Barbara Bain received one; the scripts are better — they never cease to amaze me with their originality.

I'll agree that "Star Trek" is a good show, but I must say that "Mission: Impossible" is an excellent one. May I compliment the producers, the directors and, most of all, the writers of this truly thrilling show and hope they continue to demand and uphold the excellence they have begun this year.

Kathy Pape
Garden Grove

DOES ANYONE know if the new NBC tour the studio is charging for is worthwhile? After all some of their shows are televised in New York, and many filmed in the movie studios. So how many stars or shows can one expect to see?

Also, while I'm writing, I'd like to ask two other questions pertaining to television: When writing to the TV stars, is it better to write the television studios or the movie studio if the show is filmed; and I've been wondering if Star Trek has a high rating, since hardly a Sunday goes by without a letter about it from somebody?

TELEVISION TREND

Longer Prime Time Shows

By RICK DU BROW
United Press International

Television's trend toward longer prime time programs, frequently of a special nature, is indicated in two network announcements.

NBC-TV said that a two-hour prime time broadcast of a concert by the Boston Symphony Orchestra will be presented Aug. 17, live and in color from Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

Earlier, Universal Studios said it was preparing to develop a two-hour series, "The Protectors," revolving around a city administration and aimed at landing a regular network berth.

The idea of longer and sometimes more special prime time programs is not at all new, despite all the promotional huffs and puffs currently emanating from the network. It is just that the mass audience has finally joined selective viewers in a lack of excitement over the normal series junk, and that the industry knows it desperately needs prestige, and that the networks are much more concerned than they will admit publicly about the potential competition of a public television service.

LIKE EVERYONE else, the television industry does best when it runs a little scared, and it is running as scared as a multimillion-dollar business can get. On the one hand, with signs of audience boredom over regular series all too obvious, it keeps saying how great it is doing and how the critics and indepdendnet pollsters aren't as accurate as its own staff researchers. On the other hand, it is in the process of applying major surgery to the concepts, formats and content of its prized prime time. So you figure it out.

Actually, thoughts of elongated prime time series accelerated several years ago. After NBC-TV's 90-minute western, "the Virginian," proved itself in the ratings, other ideas were considered. CBS-TV's "Gunsmoke" and Ed Sullivan show were prospects for expansion from an hour to 90 minutes, but finally they stayed the same. ABC-TV's "Wagon Train" did go to the hour-and-a-half length, but failed.

THERE ARE obvious advantages in a successful lengthy television show, chiefly that it ties up the viewers more securely for one network than was possible when programs ended and began more frequnetly. Particularly in an age when leisure time activities are sharply competitive, this is a key financial consideration.

The big breakthrough for successful long programs for television was the weekly movie. Now there are six each week. In addition, "Death of A Salesman" last year signaled the rush of numerous lengthy theatrical specials that got good ratings in competition with the regular series fare.

YMA, the llama, "Daktari" "player" gets affection from Tors at Africa, U.S.A., 235-acre ranch in Soledad Canyon.

Ivan Tors

Animals' Kissin' Cousin

Through the application of a theory he calls "affection training," film-maker Ivan Tors has virtually revolutionized the domestication and training of wild animals for motion pictures.

Since 1951, when his motion picture-television career began, Tors had had an affinity for animal stories and "affection training," was a natural outgrowth of his interests.

A veritible menagerie including lions, whales, zebras, rhinoceri, porpoises and elephants has performed before the film cameras as "graduates" of the Tors system.

The old homily about "tender loving care" has never shown itself truer, for with soothing tones and calm movements, Tors can dispel fear in the wildest of animals.

Recently, at his Florida film studio which is almost a game preserve, the soft-spoken Tors tamed a huge black bear which stars in the latest Ivan Tors color production for Paramount Pictures "Gentle Giant," and next TV season's "Gentle Ben."

"While we were filming 'Africa-Texas Style!' in Kenya," he says with pride, "it took three weeks to domesticate a corral full of wild game. And we did it all with affection."

PRODUCER Ivan Tors gets an affectionate peck from Ben, the huge black bear which stars in the film "Gentle Giant" to be released next Thanksgiving, and also in the TV series "Gentle Ben."

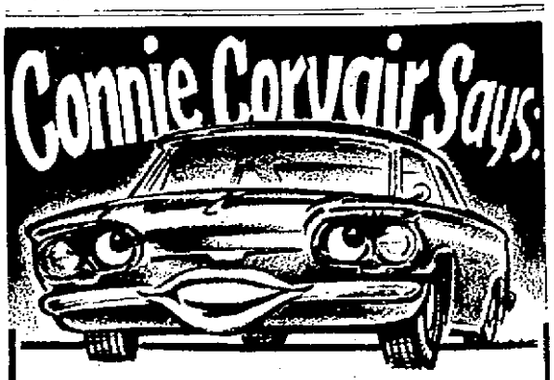

JUDY, the chimp star of "Daktari" of which Tors is co creator, exchanges "mugs" with Tors.

promotion man for the tours, says visitors have numbered 1000 a week since start of the program June 26. Obviously, reaction varies; some find it worthwhile and interesting; others not so. The tour does not guarantee you will see production under way, at the present time, although plans for adding to the tour, including a see yourself on color TV operation are in the talking stage.

We'd suggest the studio where filmed for photographs. "Star Trek" doesn't rate in the top ten — but viewers are loyal and vocal in their support.

Could you please tell me the address, or how to write to, the actual writers of "The Man from U.N.C.L.E." television series?
P.R., Lakewood

NBC tells us there are no regular writers for the show — each episode is written by different persons. However, the show is produced at the MGM lot in Culver City and we suggest you might reach your party, more or less directly, by addressing mail to: Staff Writers, "The Man from U.N.C.L.E." show, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Television, 10202 Washington Blvd., Culver City, Calif.

After reading the letter regarding too much coverage of all these erratic activities, marches, Communist - inspired demonstrations, hippies, beatniks, etc., I felt like saying "Amen!" (Mrs. Fairbanks) echoed my sentiments exactly and those of my family and friends. Even recognizing this stuff encourages it.

Again, agreeing with the letter, won't they please keep these things off TV.

Agent 86's Little Helper

"Besides, the other girls in the 'Follies' didn't think I was improving the chorus girl image."

SHE MARRIED in 1958 and left the show business for a while but planned field for a while but planned a return in TV commercials.

A television commercial agency executive told her he didn't think anybody would buy anything she advertised.

"I cried," said Barbara.

She turned to modeling and she began appearing in top national magazines. This led to television commercial work, where tongue-in-cheek, wet-lipped and rolling around on a tiger skin gasping, "Sic 'em, Tiger," she found herself a TV commercial star.

STARTING in 1964 she played George C. Scott's girl friend in "East Side, West Side," and after that, did a string of TV shows, including one role as an industrial spy in the "Mr. Broadway" series.

That led to the Agent 99 role in "Get Smart," a nonsensical series that rode in on the crest of spy spoofs and has one of the best comics in the business in the lead, Don Adams, as Maxwell Smart, Agent 86.

As long as he can keep saying "Sorry about that, Chief," and "Would you believe . . . " and doesn't lose his telephone shoe he'll probably bumble along successfully for another season—and along with him, Agent 99 to get him out of the trouble he gets into.

MELODIE Johnson guest-stars as a disillusioned actress who runs away to a Polynesian island and gets a new perspective on life in "The Time of the Sharks" on "Run For Your Life," at 10 p.m. Monday, ch. 4.

SPECIAL

ISRAEL: Victory or Else — John Chancellor, back from two years as director of the Voice of America, joins Dean Brelis at 6 p.m., partly in color, ch. 4, for a 90-min exploration of Israel's recent victory over the Arab nations. The astonishing military victory is depicted in actuality films, re-creation, and the statements of Maj. Gen. Moshe Dayan and others in command of the Israeli defense forces.

THERE ARE No Instant Negroes—Larry Burrell is narrator for a color-filmed study on our failure to win the war on poverty in Watts, screening at 8 p.m., ch. 11. Hardcore poverty victims reveal their frustrations as they await some improvement in their position, while Joe Maldonado of EYOA and James Raigoza of the Job Corps share their views on the problems in achieving any meaningful changes. (Film repeats Friday at 7 p.m.)

WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY — The doves and hawks were flying July 8 during the taping of an hour-long debate between Buckley and actor Robert Vaughn, airing at 9 p.m., in color, ch. 9. Topics cover everything from Vietnam to German nationalism to the Kennedy family — but nothing on actor-politicians.

SPECIAL

MY BOY GOGGLE — Jerry Van Dyke stars in this unsold comedy pilot as the father of a mischievous 8-year-old boy accused of biting his music teacher and turning his clay sculpture into a "hostility-oriented" blob. Teddy Eccles, Jeanne Ranier and the late Alice Pearce are featured at 8:30 p.m., ch. 2.

NET JOURNAL — Two foreign-filmed documentaries on Southeast Asia screen back-to-back at 9:30 p.m., ch. 28. British-produced "The Unkown War" follows the guerrillas in the Shan Valley of Burma priming themselves to overthrow the military junta which plans to collectivize their farms. "Thailand," a German-made film, deals with the effects on the people and economy of the U.S. buildup there.

IMPISH Jeannie the Genie (Barbara Eden) can make all kinds of people appear in her living room — even comedian Groucho Marx, who shows up on the repeat colorcast of "I Dream of Jeannie" at 8 p.m. Monday, ch. 4.

New Face on Peyton Place

Actress Gena Rowlands makes her debut as a resident of "Peyton Place," at 9:30 p.m. Tuesday, ch. 7.

Miss Rowlands, wife of the actor John Cassavetes in private life, will portray Adrienne Van Leyden, sophisticated widow, who is a house-guest of Martin Peyton.

SPECIAL

PEYTON PLACE — The town's population undergoes another change. With Leigh Taylor-Young, as Rachel, leaving last night, Gena Rowlands, as jet-set widow Mrs. Adrienne Van Leyden, enters for at least 50 segments starting at 9:30 p.m., in color, ch. 7. She is introduced tonight as the mysterious house guest of Martin Peyton.

ANDERSON PLATOON — A remarkable close-up study of men going about the business of war under stress, filmed for French television by a veteran of Dien Bien Phu, gets a reprise airing at 10 p.m., ch. 2, as a CBS news special. Aired originally July 4, hour follows six weeks of activities of an American platoon headed by Cpt. (then Lt.) Joseph B. Anderson of Topeka, a 24-year-old Negro who was graduated from the U.S. Military Academy at West Point. Pierre Schoendoerffer narrates in English. (Next week a repeat of "The Tenement," filmed in Chicago.)

DRAGNET 1967's segment, "The Subscription Racket," features Marianne Gordon as magazine subscription sales girl posing as a student nurse working her way through college, 9:30 p.m. Thursday, repeat (color), ch. 4.

Raymond Bailey
The Show Off Banker

Some actors get nervous when strangers visit the set. Others even flatly refuse to permit it. But not Raymond Bailey, who portrays banker Milburn Drysdale on "the Beverly Hillbillies," Wednesdays at 8:30 p.m. in color on channel 2.

"I like visitors on the set because I am ham enough to like to show off," Bailey says. "Why do we become actors in the first place, anyway? We do it because we want to get up in front of people and perform.

"I think most people are frustrated actors who would like to trade places with us. Even after five years of 'The Beverly Hillbillies' I look forward to every script."

Bailey says he doesn't mind that the character he plays is always being deflated.

"The crew frequently laughs at our performances, and this gives us a great boost," he says. "When the crew laughs it helps the actors give the audience a better show. Fortunately the scripts are so well written we don't have to try too hard to be funny. The harder you try to be funny, the less likely you are to succeed."

RAYMOND BAILEY

Bailey apparently convinces some viewers that he is deadly serious about banking. He receives many requests for bank loans or financial advice. one woman even sent him a substantial check for deposit. She said she wanted to impress her friends by writing her checks on a Beverly Hills bank.

★ SPECIAL

CHRYSLER THEATRE — Jean Simmons plays the prize in a game of billiards on horseback when Brad Dillman, her husband, and Alex Cord, a wealthy admirer, each decides he wants what the other man has. And the young horse-breeder is encouraged by the future the gambler's wife has read in his palm — that he's to kill a man and marry his wife. Begonia Palacios, featured as the horseman's servant in the 9 p.m. color repeat, ch. 4, is the wife of segment's director Sam Peckinpah.

TV NOTEBOOK

A SERIES of four NBC News special documentaries titled "Tomorrow's World," which will concentrate in certain areas of science, will be presented in color on the NBC Television Network early in 1968, it has been announced by Donald V. Meaney, vice president, NBC News.

The special series of four programs will be produced by NBC News for color-casting on selected Fridays at 10 p.m. beginning in January, 1968. Specific air dates will be announced.

The "Tomorrow's World" series was conceived for the purpose of informing the American people of tremendous technical improvements made in certain areas of scientific development.

Using recent progress as a point of departure, each special program will explore the future in its own field, relying always on scientific facts for the basis of its presentation.

The three subjects already scheduled for the specials are outer space, inner space (the depths of the oceans) and food production, the latter an investigation of the problem of too many people and too little food.

A FRENCH CANADIAN actress, making her American TV debut, will play the title role this fall on the "Hallmark Hall of Fame" in a two-hour adaptation of George Bernard Shaw's "Saint Joan" in color on the NBC Television Network.

The actress is Genevieve Bujold of Montreal, whose recent credits include the rebellious teen-ager opposite Yves Montand in the French film, "La Guerre Est Finie."

Robert Hartung, this year's Writers Guild Award winner, will adapt the LURENE TUTTLE, Chill Wills and Burr De Benning have been set by co-producers Harold Gast and Charles Russell to portray an eccentric, oil-rich Texas family in the "Confessional" episode of "Judd," a Vanadas Production in association with 20th Century Fox Television debuting on ABC-TV Friday, Sept. 15.

Also cast in the segment of the dramatic series, which stars Carl Betz as Clinton Judd and Stephen Young as Ben Caldwell, is John Anderson, Percy Helton, Nydia Westman, Paul Prokop and James Westerfield.

Alex March is directing "Confessional" from a script by William Froug for executive producer Paul Monash.

DAVID KETCHUM, better known as Agent 13 on NBC-TV's "Get Smart," has received international recognition for his work as a photographer. Several of his prints were selected for the International British Photo Annual of 1968.

JAY NORTH, who stars in NBC-TV's forthcoming "Maya" series, had to go to India to learn to drive. He has had to drive a jeep and a maharajah's car in the series being filmed in India. He now drives all over the Indian hills and wants a jeep of his own when he returns to the U.S.

FOR THE PAST five years American males have tuned in "Combat" to relive the bad old days of World War II, a realistic story of GIs in battle.

It might have been dull for the ladies, but Vic Morrow in the role of the tough sergeant rekindled many a memory for their husbands.

But "Combat" is canceled in its place, same network (ABC), same time slot (7:30 Tuesdays) will be "Garrison's Gorillas." It's another World War II story, but with a difference.

In place of the foot-slogging infantryman is a team of paroled convict taking on impossible assignments behind enemy lines.

The story deals with a lieutenant (Ron Harper) and four convicts whose special talents prove useful to the war effort—a safe-cracker, a cat burglar, a killer, and a smooth con-man.

They Call Her Uhura

They call her Uhura.

"It means 'Freedom,'" said Nichelle Nichols. "I love the name."

Uhura is the Swahili communications officer aboard the United Space Ship Enterprise on "Star Trek," colorcast Thursdays over the NBC Television Network.

The name, Uhura, is unusual. So is the name Nichelle.

"I won't tell you my real name but at 14 I went to my mother and said I wanted to be a star, but not with this name," Nichelle said. "Mother said if I felt that way I should change it. I said, No, I wanted the name honestly. I asked her to rename me. She came up with the name Nichelle. I said, 'Oh, no!' but everyone liked it and I've used it ever since."

NICHELLE, the seventh child in a family of 10 children, was a precocious youngster.

"Studies came easy but I was always in hot water because I was always challenging the teacher," said Nichelle. "We had lively discussion of ideas at home and we were encouraged to voice our opinions.

I finally solved the conflict at school by keeping quiet, jotting down notes when I had a question, and taking the questions home for discussion.

Nichelle enjoys "space travel." She's tried most of the earthly modes of transportation including skateboards, roller skates, ice skates, skiis, sports cars, private and commercial planes.

"I took flying lessons and during my third one I landed the plane myself without realizing it," she said. "I shook for weeks. I've given up skiing and flying. I'm a coward about anything that might interfere with my career. I don't have six months to spare for a broken leg or back."

She would make one exception: "If a flying saucer landed I'd hop aboard in spite of my career. There's nothing I'd like to do more. I would be the communications officer—if they'd also let me sing!"

NICHELLE has communicated as a dancer, singer and actress since her early teens. She appeared at the Blue Angel and the Playboy Club in New York, starred in the title role of "Carmen Jones" in Chicago, and toured the United States, Canada and Europe as vocalist with the Duke Ellington and Lionel Hampton bands. On the West Coast she appeared in "Roar of the Grease Paint, Smell of the Crowd," "For My People" and James Baldwin's play, "Blues for Mr. Charlie," for which she received high critical acclaim. She has feature roles in two motion pictures. "Mister Buddwing" and "Three for the Wedding."

As Nichelle works towards stardom she seizes gratefully on words of professional encouragement which help keep her going forward.

"I've heard my words live for the first time," writer Sam Taylor told her. "You, young lady, are an actress."

BRITISH actress Jean Simmons helped Nichelle at a moment of crisis when she lost out to a "name" performer. Said Miss Simmons:

"Do you know of anyone at your stage already competing with such name performers? Some day others will compete against you."

Pearl Bailey remembered Nichelle from years before.

"I know I pressured you, but you were a lady," Pearl said when they met again. "Keep it up. You'll be a star, honey."

CRITICS' CORNER

Excerpted Reviews from Television Critics

PROGRAM: "How Israel Won the War"; aired Tuesday night, ch. 2.

A first-class, wholly absorbing and vivid one-hour documentary. . . . A forthright, exciting combination of battle photography, interviews with Israeli and Arab military men, historical reconstructions, analysis and anecdotes . . .

—Rick DuBrow, UPI

A diffuse and confusing hour-long documentary . . . its focus was blurred by poor organization and the usual attempt to tell everything with pictures . . .

This is not to say that the program was entirely without news value. Wallace did ask Brig. Gen. Moshe Dayan about reports that there had been frogmen in Alexandria Harbor on June 4, the night before the war began. "I don't remember," Dayan replied. "But the fact is that they are there, prisoners there. So they were dropped there and I don't think I can go into more detail. But the fact is true. It is correct."

In short, the program was more interesting in its parts than as a whole.—George Gent, N.Y. Times

PROGRAM: "Los Angeles . . . Through the Looking Glass"; aired last Sunday, ch. 2.

Critique of some modern art also could be applied to this spec on art and L.A.: confused, diffused, obtuse and having no point of view that the audience could latch on to.

Edward G. Robinson narrated . . . and some of the ironic humor he injected was ironically humorous, but shattered what appeared to be concept of program, which was to point up cultural advancement of L.A. and work of artists here . . .

The conversations of supposed art buffs as they talked about paintings only illustrated the phony side of the culture and pointed up the absurdity of remarks of certain segments of status seekers who had little to say except certain paintings were "great." "Serious" commentary was reserved almost exclusively for Robinson . . .

Q. Who finances Richard Nixon's trips all over the world? — Henry Moore, Newark, N.J.

A. Some are paid for by his law clients, some by himself, his latest by Reader's Digest for which he plans to write some articles.

Q. How old is singer Betty Hutton? Was she abandoned by her father? When she recently declared bankruptcy, how much did she list in assets and liabilities? —P. Lund, Detroit, Mich.

A. Betty Hutton, 46, recently filed for bankruptcy in the federal court in Los Angeles, listing $150,000 in liabilities, practically no assets. She filed for bankruptcy, she declared, because her creditors bugged her, sitting around nightclub tables every time she performed, waiting backstage to collect from her. Miss Hutton's father abandoned his family when she was a child growing up in Detroit.

Q. The new Negro justice of the U.S. Supreme Court, Thurgood Marshall—isn't he married to a white woman?—Ann Goodson, Richmond, Va.

A. Thurgood Marshall is married to the former Cecilia Suyat, a Hawaiian of Filipino descent. His first wife, Vivian Burey Marshall, died in 1955.

Q. Why did Nasser lie so brazenly to the world about U.S. and British intervention in the Arab-Israel war when British aircraft carriers were 1500 miles away from Egypt and the U.S. Sixth Fleet was 400 miles away?—Dana Muench, Miami, Fla.

A. Losers need alibis. Nasser hoped to entrap Soviet Russia into rushing troops and aircraft to his aid; he could not bear the humiliation of telling his people the truth.

Q. Richard L. Strout of the Christian Science Monitor writes a column in The New Republic entitled T.R.B. What do those initials stand for?—H. Fuller, Salem, Mass.

A. T.R.B. are the initials in reverse of the words Brooklyn Rapid Transit, the subway line on which Bruce Bliven of The New Republic used to ride into Manhattan many years ago when the column of comment was originated.

Q. Who is Lyndon Johnson's personal and private secretary?—T. L. Taylor, Amarillo, Tex.

A. Mrs. Juanita Duggan Roberts who started out as one of his volunteer campaign workers in 1938.

Q. I am told that the U.S. Government Printing Office sells more printed matter than any other publisher in America. How many publications does it print per year? How much money does it gross? What are the bestsellers?—Louise Shepard, Louisville, Ky.

A. In the last fiscal year the Government Printing Office sold approximately 67 million copies of government publications, grossed $14,800,000. Traditional bestsellers are publications on infant care and the federal income tax.

ELVIS PRESLEY AND WIFE

Q. Did Elvis Presley pay his wife $1 million to marry him? Where did he first meet his wife? Now that he's married, will he lose his box-office pull?—Jeannie Anderson, Provo, Utah.

A. Eight years ago when Presley was a draftee in Germany, he was invited to the Wiesbaden apartment of Capt. and Mrs. Joseph Beaulieu, like him from Memphis. There he met Priscilla Beaulieu, their 14-year-old daughter. Over the years, these two fell in love, were married in Las Vegas this past May. Presley did not give his wife $1 million. His marriage is expected to have no adverse effect on his popularity.

Q. Dean Rusk and President Johnson maintained from the beginning that what is involved in Vietnam is our national honor. Each has said that, if we fail to honor that commitment, all our alliances will crumble, no nation will believe us. Why then did we evade our commitment to Israel in the Gulf of Aqaba crisis? Surely Israel, the only country which stands in the way of Soviet Russia's communizing the entire Middle East, is more important to us than Vietnam.—J. E. Nettleton, Bangor, Me.

A. The U.S. has 42 military commitments throughout the world. Having committed so much money and so many men to Vietnam, we are not in a strong position, without mobilization or calling up the reserves, to meet more than one substantial military commitment at a time. The truth is that the extent of our commitment in Vietnam was miscalculated by the late President Kennedy and the same advisers who later counseled President Johnson. The security and protection of the U.S. is the President's first obligation, and he honors the nation's commitments according to his best judgment.

Q. Please identify the following quotation: "In the field of observation, chance favors only the prepared minds."—Una Ellis, Montgomery, Ala.

A. French scientist Louis Pasteur (1822-95).

Q. In watching the UN debates on TV during the Middle East crisis, I was very much taken by the deportment of the Israel foreign minister Abba Eban. Can you tell us something about this man? — Mrs. Roger Hewlett, Evanston, Ill.

A. Abba Eban, 52, was born in South Africa, raised in London, was a brilliant debater at Cambridge, later became a Cambridge don. Abba's father was Abraham Solomon, who died in South Africa when his children were very young. Mrs. Solomon took the family to London where she subsequently married Dr. Isaac Eban, a radiologist. At this time, Abba Eban called himself Aubrey Solomon Eban. When Israel became an independent state, he observed the Israeli custom of taking the Hebrew form of his given name, has since been known as Abba Eban. Eban enlisted in the British army in 1939, rose from private to major. He speaks English, Arabic, Hebrew, French, German and Persian, is married to the former Suzan Ambache, a student he met at the American University in Cairo. They have two children.

Q. Who or what is the Procol Harum?—Lisa Ranier, Clifton, N.J.

A. The name of a British pop group whose members misspelled the Latin which means "way out." The group recently came out with a hit song, "A Whiter Shade of Pale."

Q. Is it true that there is no love lost between Jackie and Ethel Kennedy?—F. W., McLean, Va.

A. They are two different types. Ethel Kennedy is extrovertive, forthright, down to earth, fun loving. Jackie Kennedy, touched by circumstantial grandeur, is more shy and reserved.

This Sweepstakes recipe may have just won you $100.

(2,000 possible winners.)

This recipe combines the warm weather appeal of tender meatballs, flavorful rice, refreshing pineapple.

¾ cup fine bread crumbs
½ cup milk
1 pound ground beef
1 egg, slightly beaten
¾ cup finely chopped onion
2½ teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons butter
1⅓ cups Minute® Rice
1 can (8½ oz.) sliced pineapple
1 green pepper, diced
¼ cup catsup

Combine bread crumbs, milk, beef, egg, ¼ cup onion, and 1½ teaspoons salt. Gently form into 20 meatballs; brown in butter in large skillet. Add rice and remaining onion; stir gently until rice is lightly browned. Drain pineapple, measuring syrup. Add water to syrup to make 1⅓ cups liquid. Cut each pineapple slice into 6 wedges; gradually add with the liquid, 1 teaspoon salt, and remaining ingredients to rice mixture; stir thoroughly. Bring to boil. Reduce heat, cover, and simmer 5 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

The Mafia moves in on Tobacco Road

by LLOYD SHEARER

WELDON, N.C.

Each Tuesday morning, a small, dark, pox-marked Latin character named Louis — "Whatta'ya wanna know my lass name for? You some kinda stoolie?"—distributes cigarettes in the Eighth Avenue buildings of New York City's garment district.

In New York City at this writing the going retail price for a carton of 200 king-size cigarettes is $4.40 or 45 cents a pack.

Louis, a low-echelon hoodlum, sells his cartons for $4, $3.75, $3.50, $3, and his individual packs for 40 cents, 35 cents, even 30 cents. "I try," he lies with a droop-lidded wink, "to give the sucker a break."

Louis' cigarettes are "hot" in that they are untaxed. They cost $1.85 to $2 a carton depending on type and size, and constitute only a tiny traffic in what the FBI has termed a "million-dollar-a-day" bootlegging operation, which begins along Route 301 in North Carolina and ends up in factories, filling stations, beauty salons, supermarkets, groceries, pool halls, and small tobacco stores throughout the Eastern states.

North Carolina is the only state in the Union which places no tax on cigarettes. This is understandable, since tobacco and cigarette manufacturing constitute the leading industry in the Tar Heel state. A pack of cigarettes sells there for 19 or 20 cents. That same pack in New York City is taxed 24 cents—10 cents in state tax, 8 cents in federal tax, 4 cents in city tax plus a 2-cent sales tax.

No wonder North Carolina has become the tobacco smuggler's supplier. No wonder there's a steady flow of truck and car traffic between the high-tax areas of the Northeast and the Carolina tobacco country. It's difficult to go broke earning 100 percent profit on anything.

On a recent trip to North Carolina, I talked to old friends in Durham, Raleigh, Rocky Mount, Greenville, Weldon, other towns along the so-called tobacco roads, where stores and filling stations are stacked high with cigarette cartons, and large signs scream, "factory fresh cigarettes — regular $1.95 — king $2.05 — no limit — last chance at these prices" and other assorted come-ons.

The fast-buck boys

Many confessed that ever since April 1965, when New York state doubled its tax on cigarettes from 5 to 10 cents, they had been making a fast buck peddling cigarettes to the tourists, the carton pushers (small-time smugglers who buy less than 100 cartons), and the professionals who purchase by the truckload.

All quickly and defensively pointed out, however, that there was nothing illegal about their new-found bonanza. "Not at this end, anyway," one Tar Heel explained. "I sell to whoever comes along. Some of these trucks we load, maybe they're owned by the Mafia or the Cosa Nostra like people say. I don't know, and I don't care. I've got my own thoughts about people who pay in cash for 100 or 200 cases. But like I say, it's none of my business.

"I hear tell," he continued, "that trucks come down here from Philadelphia and New York, load up at night, change license plates, transfer the cargo to other trucks and fleets of cars. Maybe they do. I even hear tell they transfer the stuff to boats off Wilmington and Elizabeth, and the boats go north and unload at night in New York and New Jersey.

"Buttlegging" investigator: Brooklyn District Attorney Aaron Koota has linked New York Mafia figures to smuggling racket.

"They say New York state is losin' $50 or $60 million in tax revenues because of this business, and I'm right sorry about that, but there's nothin' we can do. Like I say, it's none of my business. Our hands down here are clean, old friend, they are clean."

Today, North Carolina's cigarette sellers occupy a position similar to the one Canadian distillers enjoyed during the Prohibition era. In the 1920's American bootleggers, largely the underworld, sent their gangsters to Canadian ports to load liquor which was legal in Canada but illegal in the U.S. Canadian authorities could do nothing about the traffic. Some of Canada's most eminent families owe their wealth and position to their former business affiliations with the U.S. branch of the Mafia.

The law in New York state holds that any individual over 18 years of age may bring back from a point, like North Carolina, two cartons or 400 cigarettes tax-free, but must do it in person. Any amount beyond that is taxable. But it is manifestly impossible for the states of New York, Massachusetts, Vermont, and Wisconsin (where the state tax on cigarettes is 10 cents per pack) or the states of New Jersey, Texas, and Washington (where the state tax is 11 cents per pack) to order their tax inspectors to check every vehicle coming into their domain for search and possible seizure of contraband tobacco. There aren't that many excise inspectors.

Police authorities agree that cigarette smuggling began as "a small-time individual racket," with tourists returning from Florida buying a couple of tax-free cartons en route home. But they now contend that the crime syndicates have moved in and are taking over what has turned out to be a most lucrative racket, with carefully organized suppliers, distribution routes, protection systems, defense lawyers, bail bondsmen, the whole Mafia setup.

The big tax bite

One federal official told me, "There's hardly a state or large city in the nation that isn't desperate for increased tax revenue. Cigarettes have long been the tax victim everywhere. In Sweden, for example, a pack of cigarettes now costs 73 cents; 61 cents goes for tax. In Denmark the tax is even higher, a pack of cigarettes costs 88 cents.

"In this country, say California, which now has a 3-cent state tax on cigarettes, decides to raise the tax bite to 15 cents, and the city of Los Angeles decides to add a 5-cent tax of its own. The cost of a pack of cigarettes might come to 50 cents.

"If the mob could somehow, by transporting cigarettes in large loads from North Carolina, smuggle those cigarettes into California tax-free, it could make a pretty penny under the circumstances. That's why I say that cigarette smuggling as a racket has great potential. It's a question of the transportation costs as opposed to tax rates.

"Illinois is even a better case in point. The state tax there is 7 cents per pack of cigarettes. Suppose that tax is doubled, and Chicago adds a 5-cent tax of its own. Add sales tax to the package, and you've got cigarettes selling for 50 cents a pack. The mob comes in and offers cigarettes for 40 cents a pack, even 30 cents a pack, and it's in clover.

"In short," he explained, "the higher states and local communities raise the tax on cigarettes, the easier they make it for the mob to move in."

There is no convicting legal evidence at this moment that the Mafia is taking over the massive bootlegging of untaxed cigarettes from North Carolina, but there is every indication that this is so. State troopers, halting trucks and trailers on the highways from North Carolina to New York, have discovered cigarettes in false and hollowed-out compartments away from other merchandise. Truckers, stopped by police and arrested for being unable to explain the source, ownership, and destination of their tax-free cargo, have quickly been bailed out by ready bondsmen. In Brooklyn recently a truck owned by the U.S. Trucking Company stopped for a red light. A car with four men pulled up beside it. Before the light changed, two men armed with revolvers leaped out, ordered the driver, William Foster, and his assistant, Donald Podolski, to jump from the truck. The two remaining hijackers immediately drove off with the vehicle. It was loaded with 18,000 cartons of taxed cigarettes valued at $36,000.

A few months ago, a Brooklyn grand jury began an investigation of cigarette smuggling and the Cosa Nostra in the New York area. Irving Seidman, of the Rackets Bureau, working under District Attorney Aaron Koota, told PARADE: "We have already named Angelo Bruno, head of the leading Cosa Nostra family in Philadelphia in our public documents. Others we've named in the investigation are John Simone of Brooklyn, Joseph Indelicato of New York, Maurice Longo of Brooklyn, and Morris Kessler of Brooklyn. Kessler has been sent to civil prison in New York for contempt, refusing to answer grand jury questions about his connection in this business with Alfred Ciffo of Hollywood, Fla., and Philadelphia, also held in contempt."

Another leading law enforcer in the New York area said flatly: "The five leading Cosa Nostra "families" in this area—the Joseph Columbo family, the Vito Genovese family, the Thomas Eboli family, the Thomas "Three-finger Brown" Luchese family, the Joe Bonanno family—are linked, we suspect, with this entire operation, every facet of it.

"No doubt about it. It's bootlegging all over again. The hoods are smuggling cigarettes into New York via car, boat, train, even airplane. A good source of their supply comes from around Weldon, N.C., that general area. They pay for the cigarettes in cash. It costs them $60,000 to load up a big trailer truck, and they make sure it isn't stopped and confiscated. They've mapped out their own distribution routes in New York and other cities, they see this thing as something big and expanding. They are not only attempting to take over tobacco wholesalers and retailers in New York City to obtain a legitimate cover for their operation, but in time I'm sure they'll move in on the North Carolina suppliers.

"People down there are pretty complacent at this time. If a man wants to buy cigarettes, they'll sell him any amount so long as he pays for them. But what these innocents don't realize is that after a while the big customer will suggest partnership, and after partnership he will stay to take over the business by force so that he can integrate vertically; that is, own the sources of supply, distribution, and retailing. The way the Mafia works is the way it worked in bootlegging liquor. First, the Mafiosi bought the stuff and sold it to speakeasies. Then they took over the distilleries, the distribution, and the speakeasies, too. That's what they have in mind for this cigarette operation, and that's what we're determined to stop, because it's costing New York state an estimated $60 million in lost taxes."

Several remedies have been suggested to eradicate the racket: 1) License tobacco retailers and require them to buy their cigarettes from licensed wholesalers. If found with untaxed cigarettes, the retailer would be deprived of his license. 2) Have North Carolina levy a state tax of its own on cigarettes. 3) Have the federal government collect the various state and local cigarette taxes, along with its own, at the source of cigarette manufacture, the factories.

Of these three suggestions, the third is most feasible. It could easily be managed, but it would require congressional approval. Unless and until that particular method of tax collection is forthcoming, the Mafia will continue to make a fast buck on Tobacco Road.

The federal tax on a pack of cigarettes is 8 cents. Added to that are taxes by the states and cities. North Carolina is the only state which levies no tax on cigarettes.

THE FORGOTTEN GRANDPARENTS

by VERA GLASER

Family get-together: The Johnsons and the Nugents at Luci and Pat's wedding. They've had little contact since. Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Nugent (right) now have a second grandchild.

WAUKEGAN, ILL.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerard P. Nugent aren't playing favorites between their two new month-old grandsons. They sent each exactly the same gifts — identical crib blankets and handknit white hood jackets, plus a sweater and cap.

One of the Nugents' grandchildren happens to be one of the world's most famous babies. He's Patrick Lyndon Nugent, and his other grandfather is the President of the United States. Little Patrick Lyndon—"Lyn" for short—was born to Pat and Luci Nugent on June 21, 1967, in Austin, Tex., with a blond fuzz of hair, weighing a hefty eight pounds, ten ounces.

The next day the senior Nugents got the good news that their other son, Gerry Nugent Jr., and his wife, Phyllis, had also had their first child—Gerard Peter Nugent III, black haired and weighing seven pounds, fourteen ounces. He was born at Camp Pendleton in Oceanside, Calif., where Gerry Nugent, Pat's elder brother, a marine captain who returned last year from Vietnam, is stationed.

Not unnaturally, the presidential grandparents got most of the publicity. Luci's baby was born just as President Johnson was holding his now famous summit meeting at Glassboro, N.J., with Premier Aleksei Kosygin of the Soviet Union, which enabled the President to talk feelingly of the need for a world in which all children could thrive in peace.

But things were pretty busy out in Waukegan, too, although on a somewhat more prosaic level. Gerard Nugent was pretty excited by the news that he'd become a grandpa twice over within 35 hours, but he went on with his normal business life – just as President Johnson did with his. To Grandpa Gerry this meant packing his shirts for a business trip to Davenport, Ia. He's a mutual-funds salesman who works out of his home, and there were clients to be seen.

Gerry Nugent and his wife, Tillie, made a big hit in Washington for their poise and good humor as they went through the shattering experience of seeing their son marry into the First Family. The Nugents didn't even start out with the advantage of being Democrats. Gerry, whose father came from Ireland's County Armagh, happens to be a Republican. That may be why President Johnson, hearing his new eight-pound-plus son described as an "elephant," quipped: "The time has come to get all the Republicanism out of these Waukegan products."

The Nugents, incidentally, didn't rush off to visit either of their new grandchildren. "The mother, father, and baby, all have an adjustment period to go through," said Tillie Nugent.

So far as age goes, the four grandparents are a homogeneous group. All are in their 50's and still youthful. But life at 215 Douglas Street, where the Nugents live in a modest rambler, obviously is quite different from the White House. When Tillie's not in the mood for wrestling with pots and pans on a Friday night, Gerry brings home a slice of ready-cooked perch. Now that his mutual-fund sales have put him in the "million-dollar club," she helps him with his secretarial work. The Nugents, who are deeply religious, live near a Roman Catholic church, and Gerry attends Knights of Columbus meetings regularly. Saturday evening usually means a game of poker or pinochle with friends. In the winter, the Nugents drive down to a trailer camp in St. Petersburg, Fla. On the other side of town in Waukegan, in a house once owned by the Nugents, lives Tillie's widowed sister, Mrs. Veronica Landers. For years she ran Skinny's Tavern, a popular Waukegan spot, but has been retired for years with a neat nest egg.

Tillie is an expert and ardent knitter, making her own baby gifts. When she was told that the President had given Luci and Pat a 1000-acre ranch and a prize heifer, her voice jumped two octaves as she cried: "No kidding! For heaven's sake! Dad, did you hear that?"

From all appearances, the families have gotten on well. Since her son Pat's splendid nuptials at Washington's Shrine of the Immaculate Conception last August, Mrs. Nugent has been getting to know Luci. There is a special note in her voice when she says, "She's our daughter."

Similarly, the young couples are friends. Luci and Phyllis grew close through a series of long-distance telephone calls while both were awaiting the stork. Last year Phyllis, gowned in pale pink, was one of Luci's 13 wedding attendants.

Of course, it's too early to tell which baby will be doing what 20 years from now. But judging by the warm relations that exist all around them, they would seem likely to grow up into cousins who remain on close terms. Certainly both seem to be sure of having grandparents—on both sides—who'll continue to take a close interest in them.

Speaking for all grandparents, President Johnson said just after Glassboro: "I would like to help make a world for young Patrick Nugent and his contemporaries—in every land—that will be safer, more prosperous, more hopeful, and certainly more peaceful."

And Gerry Nugent in Waukegan also struck a familiar grandparental note when he chortled: "I hear he looks like our side of the family!"

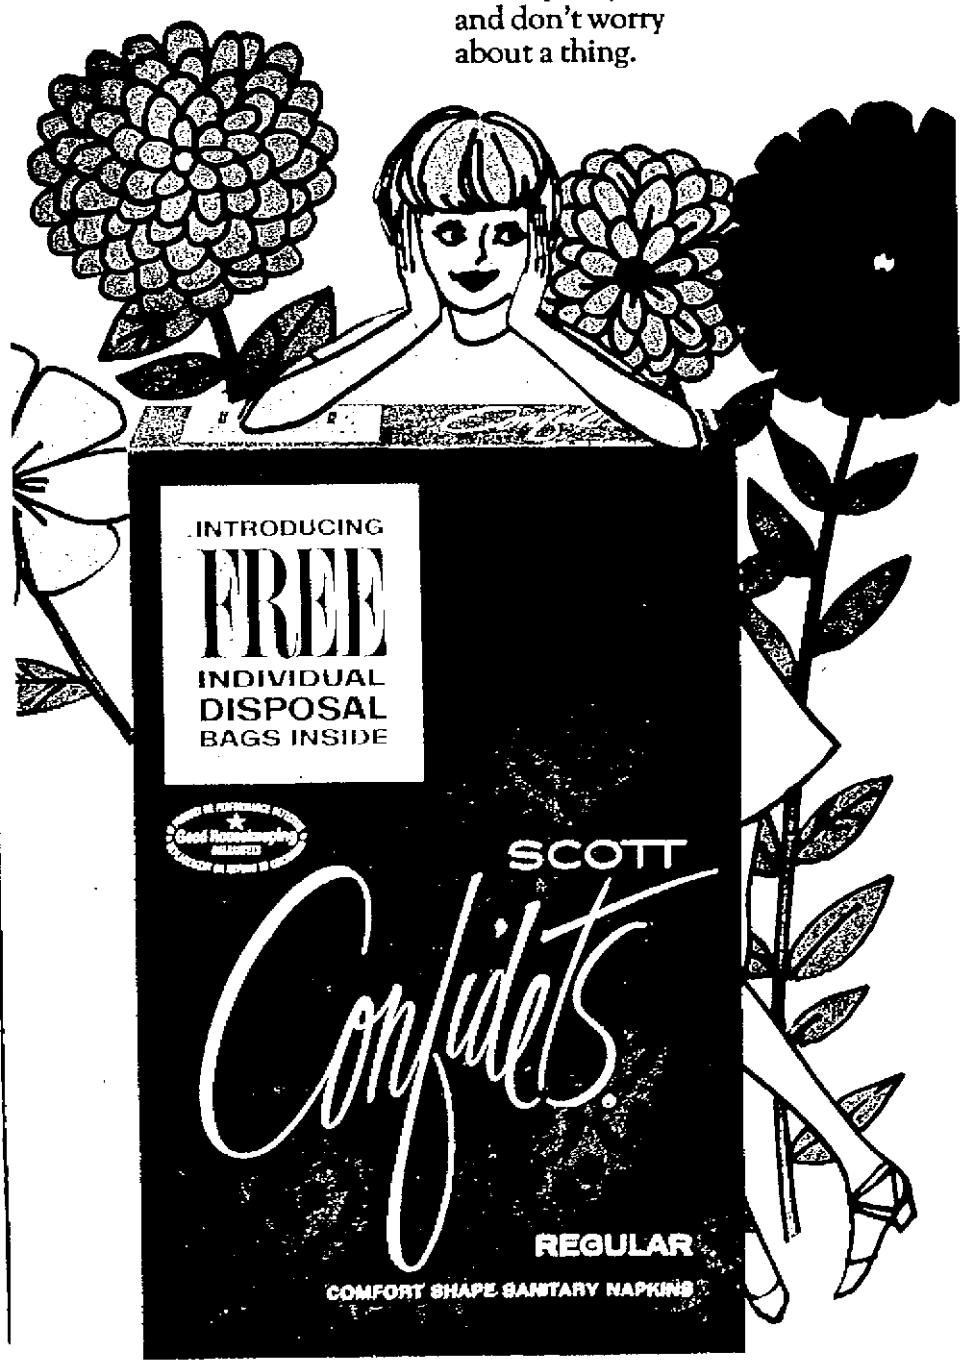

Parents Luci and Pat show off the first Johnson-Nugent grandson, Patrick Lyndon.

WEIGHT WATCHERS

by JOHN G. ROGERS

Will she make it? Mrs. Beatrice Curry, with 43 pounds gone, but 102 still to go for her goal of 135, smiles enviously at slender Weight Watcher who's already there.

"You can wear a bikini! You just have to put your mind on that diet and keep it on that diet! Forget about the Danish pastry and quit sneaking out to the refrigerator."

The audience of 100 or more fat women sat in rapt attention, entranced at the vision conjured by the pretty brunette speaker.

"Now do you hear me, you can wear a bikini! All you have to do is want to wear that bikini. You have to want it so hard that it hurts. Now what d' you say —are you gonna' stay with the diet?"

Like a college football crowd whipped into enthusiasm by a cheerleader, the fat women clapped and applauded to signify their determination. And when they left for their homes a few minutes later, each one was freshly charged with new dedication.

For this was a peek at a meeting of Weight Watchers Inc., the reducing system that's sweeping the country and even going abroad. It combines diet, peptalk, and group therapy in a massive assault on excess fat, and one estimate holds that to date it's knocked 7500 tons off a half-million persons.

The scene of the bikini dream happened to be an auditorium in a New York suburb, but it's duplicated in lots of other places. Weight Watchers thrives in 42 locations in 19 states and is growing daily. In New York City alone, 260 classes meet regularly—the number doubled in two months.

Housewives predominate at Weight Watchers' meetings, but the attendance is far broader. Doctors, lawyers, nurses, psychiatrists, teachers, and businessmen are among those who've sought aid from the formula that's melted pounds with equal success from a 9-year-old boy and a 79-year-old woman. Some are extreme cases of obesity—the prize was a college student who dropped from 425 pounds to 172 in a year — but some are just chubby. The only persons turned away by Weight Watchers are those with ten pounds or less to lose. Such people are likely to demoralize members who have much greater weight problems.

The founder and constant inspiration to the Weight Watchers is Mrs. Jean Nidetch, an attractive, blonde housewife from New York City who cut her own bulk from 214 pounds to 142 several years ago. She was so delighted with her "miracle" that she's been talking about it ever since.

"I never stop talking," says Mrs. Nidetch with a grin. "Even when I was fat, I used to talk people to death in Cub Scouts, at the P.T.A., everywhere. So, after I finally managed to bring my own weight down, I naturally talked about it to my friends, and then they started bringing in their friends. With me cheering and urging them on, these people began losing weight too. And then the word spread, and strangers started showing up or calling me to help them. I was doing so much running around talking on my own time that my friends told me I ought to do it professionally. That's how Weight Watchers was born — out of talk."

The rededication process

And there's no question but that "talk" is the principal secret of Jean Nidetch's success. Anybody can write out a diet capable of cutting pounds, but the problem is how to stick to it. As often as he or she feels the need, a successful Weight Watcher simply goes to a meeting and gets his dedication batteries recharged by a peptalk.

"I go once a week for my mental fix," says a St. Louis housewife.

continued

Jean Nidetch founded Weight Watchers after she lost 72 pounds. Behind her is her former fat self.

Smiles of triumph: These svelte ladies feel pretty good after losing 190 pounds.

There's one other tissue just as soft as Chiffon facial tissue.

It comes in rolls.

Both the bathroom tissue and the facial tissue have the same touch of luxury—in colors as gentle as the tissue itself. Two layers of tissue make Chiffon doubly soft and doubly strong. By the box, or by the roll.

"It's something like brainwashing or hypnotism," says a Detroit lawyer.

The "brainwashing" lecture — always by a former fatty who's made good as a weight loser—is the highlight of the two-hour Weight Watchers' meeting. Before it comes the official weigh-in, after which each member's progress—or lack of it—is entered on a card.

To get into Weight Watchers, a person must first have authorization from his doctor. Once he's obtained that, he registers at an initial cost of $3 for a 16-week period. In addition, it costs $2 a week to attend as many meetings as he wants. If he misses a week, he must pay a new $3 registration fee and start over. (This is to discourage skipping.)

Meantime, he's been given a high-protein, low-calorie diet to follow. On a typical day breakfast consists of tomato juice, one egg, one slice of unbuttered bread, and coffee; lunch is four ounces of tuna, a mixed salad, one slice of bread, and one or two glasses of powdered skim milk, and dinner is six ounces of white turkey meat, four ounces of sliced tomato, string beans, tossed salad, half a cantaloupe, and coffee.

The menu varies in detail from day to day, but these "don'ts" guide Weight Watchers every day without letup:

Don't be swayed by friends' advice; don't take alcoholic drinks; don't rationalize, a slip spells disaster; don't relax, pounds are easily regained; don't skip regular meals or eat snacks; don't substitute, stick to the diet; don't think ahead, diet a day at a time; don't worry about rate of progress, easy does it, and don't forget to see your doctor before you start dieting.

The atmosphere at a Weight Watchers' meeting—they're held both by day and by night, and some are for men only—is always warm and friendly. The members are chatty, keep comparing progress with each other, and feel no self-consciousness because they're among their own kind—fat people. And, since the lecturer is always an ex-blimp who has shed all sorts of pounds herself, she stands forth as a living example of what can be accomplished.

The pretty brunette who held out the bikini vision, for example, was Helene Adamsbaum, one of the 72 Weight Watchers' lecturers in New York City. She weighed 205 pounds not so long ago, but is now at 135. The other night she comforted a group of new members, including some compulsive eaters who frankly feared they could never even get started, with the following explanation:

"Look at me, I think I can get you started. I'm really a fat person. I think fat. I'm a fat lady walking around in a thin body. To be successful in Weight Watchers, you have to identify with somebody who's already made it. I'm here to be your somebody. You have to say to yourself, 'If she can do it, so can I.' And you can."

Jean Nidetch, still somewhat amazed over the way a personal hobby has grown into a farflung commercial business in four years, remains enough of an amateur to get a sentimental kick out of her members' thanks.

"I was reborn," says one of her big losers.

"At your store I bought life—for $2 a week," says another.

And a third reports: "The other day I had the biggest thrill of my life. On the street a man whistled at me."

Many people who suffer fatness for years are impelled to Weight Watchers by a sudden, cruel shock. One woman joined when she found she was losing her husband. Another got stuck in a World's Fair turnstile, attracting much embarrassing attention. Another caused a flurry on a plane when no seat belt would go around her. Jean Nidetch encountered her shock in 1961, when she was 38, a compulsive eater, a 214-pound mother of two boys. She met a friend who asked, "When do you expect your baby?" (Mrs. Nidetch wasn't pregnant.)

Expanding while they slim

Stung by shame she went next day to the New York Board of Health Obesity Clinic and picked up a diet. She was grimly determined that this time, after many failures, she'd lose some weight. She got through the first tough weeks, gathered up resolve as the pounds slowly slipped away, talked to herself as later she would talk to others, and emerged a success — 142 pounds well stacked on a 5-foot 7-inch frame.

Not long after its founder turned professional by holding her first meeting in 1963 in a loft over a suburban New York theater, Weight Watchers began to expand in all directions. Today, in addition to its constant spread across the U.S., it operates in England, Canada, Israel, and Puerto Rico, and franchise requests have come in from Switzerland, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, and several Latin American countries.

"I don't know where this will all end," Jean Nidetch wonders aloud.

As one who has been through the mill herself, Mrs. Nidetch knows the importance of recognition for her Weight Watchers. Hence, when a member loses ten pounds within the initial 16-week period, he's awarded a WW pin. Then, for every additional ten pounds that come off afterward, a rhinestone chip is added. When a member has achieved his weight-loss goal, he goes on "maintenance," which means that now his job is to hold the line, to resist backsliding.

The members on maintenance often continue to attend the meetings, and among the company still struggling to lose, they are the distinguished "eagle scouts." They give advice to the discouraged, whip out their "fat" pictures to dramatize what can be done, and just love to talk about the lovely present as compared to the unpleasant past.

"When I got up to 241 pounds a few years ago," says one of them, "my husband frankly told me he was leaving. With Weight Watchers I lost 112 pounds, and my marriage was saved. And there's an added twist—I got my husband to join. So far he's lost 38 pounds."

Jean Nidetch has two blind clients, both enjoying free membership. One came in guided by a Seeing Eye dog, and Mrs. Nidetch saw to it that diets were printed up in Braille. So far the blind members are doing well.

One question that Weight Watchers ask frequently is: "Can I take a drink once in awhile?" Mrs. Nidetch advises against it, and is strongly supported by Helene Adamsbaum. Her comment reflects the soaring elation that seems to invest all of these housewives who become winners by losing.

"Don't waste any of your precious calories on alcohol," says Helene. "Be like me. I can get high just thinking about my size 10 dress."

Here's one day's food for Weight Watcher: No butter on bread, and milk is powdered skim. Stick to it, and pounds will vanish.

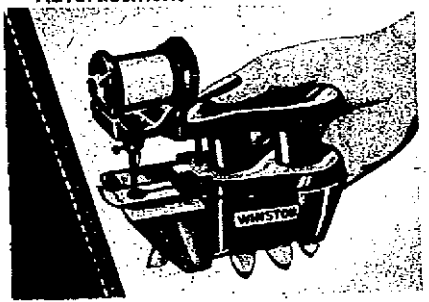

A moment of truth: The weekly weigh-in tells whether she is winning by losing.

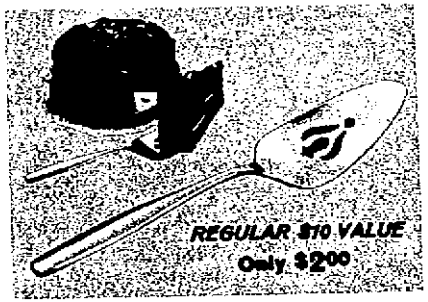

A rousing peptalk starts them off: Weight Watchers' lecturer assures members of new class that they can lose pounds. She tells women they may even wear bikinis.

Amazing New "Indestructible"

SOLID-STATE LIFETIME GOLF BALL!

This professional golf ball is unconditionally guaranteed for life!

CAN'T CUT CAN'T CRACK CAN'T CHIP
CAN'T LOSE ITS SHAPE, COMPRESSION, DISTANCE — EVER!

"Astonishing!"...."The world's first perfect golf ball!"...."The most amazing breakthrough the game of golf has experienced in over 60 years!" These are just a few of the enthusiastic kudos we've received from cynical sports editors and even the "pros" themselves since introducing the "PRO-STAR" to the American golfer just a few short months ago.

No wonder! It's fantastic how the "PRO-STAR" actually forces you to drive farther, hit straighter and putt truer—shot after shot, hole after hole, game after game.

Unlike those "fad" golf balls you may have seen advertised recently, the "PRO-STAR" meets the exacting specifications of the United States Golf Association. Yes, the "PRO-STAR" is absolutely legal to play on any golf course in the world—there's no question about it.

Here's what makes the new "PRO-STAR" better than any other golf ball you can buy at any price:

1. It is precision molded in one piece. There is absolutely no tolerance for error, in shape or material.
2. No core to lose its punch or balance... no inner "windings" to stretch, snap or break... no outer casing to cut, crack or discolor.
3. The "PRO-STAR" is absolutely indestructible no matter how badly you "top" it or "hack" it. You can't even dent this ball with a chisel or an axe.
4. It completely eliminates hooking and slicing due to faulty spin or damaged shape. Ballistically stable, the "PRO-STAR" stays perfectly round forever... assures you longer, straighter drives consistently.
5. It bounces farther than any other golf balls on the market. That means lots of extra yardage every time you tee off.

Pretty good for "openers"? You bet. But words can tell only so much. You've got to play the "PRO-STAR" just once to realize what a truly great golfing innovation it represents—to understand why so many golfers throughout America have given up all other brands of golf balls entirely.

Try the "Pro-Star" at our risk. Full 30-day money-back guarantee.

Every "PRO-STAR" you purchase is guaranteed for life—FREE replacement of any ball that does not live-up to the astonishing promises we've made in this advertisement. Equally important, you may use and enjoy your "PRO-STAR" for 30 days at our risk entirely—money back in full if you are not completely delighted and amazed at the strokes they cut off your score.

Order today.
Use coupon at right.

Whether you're a duffer or a "pro," you owe it to your game to try the "PRO-STAR." Just send coupon at right with check or money order for $5 (low introductory price) for four "PRO-STARS"—or just $12 for a full dozen. Mail to:

National Golf, Dept. 101
56 Lake Shore Drive

☐ 4 "Pro-Stars" for just $5.
☐ 12 "Pro-Stars" for just $12.

My check or money order is enclosed. I understand these amazing golf balls are guaranteed for life as stated above—and that I may return them for a full money-back refund within 30 days if not entirely delighted.

If you have the determination to follow this world-famous physician's Final Diet, then

You can lose 20, 40, 60, 80, Even 100 pounds and never gain an ounce of it back.

This is an entirely different kind of reducing ad—for an entirely different kind of reducing book. It is the LAST reducing book . . . the LAST reducing product you will ever have to buy in your lifetime—if you have the determination to learn the TRUTH about permanent reducing, and stick to it!

Let us state the most vital fact over again: If you follow this Final Diet, you can lose 20-40-60-80—even 100 pounds and never gain an ounce back.

We are going to repeat this statement of fact, over and over in this advertisement, so you can never lose sight of it.

If you follow this Final Diet, you can lose 20-40-60-80—even 100 pounds and never gain an ounce back.

This is the essential fact. Here are the details:

Medically proven on thousands of patients, it can give you a new figure and a new life—if you follow it so religiously that you eat when it says eat even if you're not hungry!

What this book gives you is a strict and precise diet—which carefully and scientifically controls your every eating moment—but which has the surprising result of making many of your weight-loss problems far less difficult than you ever dreamed!

Here are a few of these "pleasant surprises."

Although, of course, this diet forces you to eat less food overall, it may actually force you to eat MORE food at certain times of the day. For example, if you are like most over-weight people, you are simply going to have to eat MORE for breakfast, whether you want it or not. And this diet allows you OVER THIRTY different kinds of snacks—one between every meal, and one every night before you go to bed.

There is no longer any need to try to STARVE yourself into a weight loss. Because when you follow this Final Diet, you can lose up to 100 pounds, and never gain an ounce of it back.

Certain foods, of course, are omitted. But certain other, surprising foods are quite actively included. For example, you are allowed ice cream up to three times a week. Watch your friends' eyes pop open when they see you eating that delicious ice cream dessert—and STILL shed inches and pounds!)

And, at the same time, you'll have sandwiches for lunch and, if you wish, a cocktail before dinner and wine with it.

And very important—if you overeat one day, then you are simply NOT permitted to cut back on your food the next day to "make up" for it! This is the fatal mistake most dieters make that destroys their diet. Instead, you eat YOUR FULL DIET the next day, and forgive yourself, and go on losing weight.

Is your weight unevenly distributed? Are you afraid that dieting will make your face look older? Do you ever eat at parties? Here are medical solutions to these problems:

And—again—with this Final Diet, you can lose up to 100 pounds and never gain an ounce of it back.

Now let us examine some of the remarkable side effects of this diet:

In the first place, because of the scientific nature of this diet, it has proven—in case after case—to be of special help to men and women whose excess fat is primarily on or below the waist.

Secondly, because this diet is NOT a crash diet, NOT a torture diet, it does NOT cause the skin of your face to collapse, wrinkle and furrow in that terrible way that crash diets so often do.

On the contrary, if you follow this Final Diet precisely, your face can look younger from almost the very first week. And you can lose 20-40-60-80—even 100 pounds. And never gain an ounce of it back.

And you will be able to lose this weight, and keep it off, despite all the "social eating and drinking" everyone of us must do every week of our lives! Because this is the first diet you have ever seen that gives you specific techniques for dealing with these "food traps." That allows you to SEEM to eat and drink as much as your friends, when you are really LOSING POUNDS AND INCHES at the same moment they gain them!

Many patients found this approach so effective that they lost twice as much weight as they had originally hoped to.

CLOSE TO 100,000 COPIES ALREADY SOLD!

Why such run-away sales? BECAUSE IT WORKS! Read the thrilling details on this page! Try it—entirely at our risk!

Let us make this perfectly clear: the first thing you do when you receive this book, is write down the exact amount of weight you want to lose inside it. 10-20-40 pounds—or more. It makes no difference.

Then, you begin the diet. But with THIS thought:

Every one of the thousands of successful patients before you, has also written down what they wanted to lose. But once they learned these new eating habits, many of them sloppy went FAR BEYOND that first weight-loss figure:

For example, one woman wanted to lose 10 pounds, and be as slim as she was five years before. But as she first melted away from her body, she decided to GO ON and lose 20 pounds, and be as slim as she was on the first day she was married!

Why did these patients decide to lose more and more weight? FOR THE VERY SAME REASON THEY DID NOT PUT THIS WEIGHT BACK ON AGAIN! Because by following this diet precisely, these men and women LEARNED NEW EATING HABITS. They literally retrained their appetites! They discovered the fat-causing food patterns that had kept them overweight for years.

— LEARN THESE STARTLING MEDICAL FACTS! —

- The one fatal TIMING mistake that make most people fat (90% of all overweight people do it.) Not what you eat, but how you eat. See page 19.
- The simple secret of making the same amount of food seem TWICE as much. See page 20.
- How to handle tension-eating. See page 22.
- How to stop smoking without gaining weight. See page 25.
- How to make artificial sweeteners go twice as far. See page 125.
- Twenty-seven Escape-Valve foods, that you can eat in any reasonable quantity. See page 120.
- "Slim Shakes"—delicious, satisfying, non-fattening snacks. See page 114.
- Eat this delicious food, and kill your "uncontrollable" craving for sweets. See page 122.

Scientific Weight-Loss Charts—the exact amount you can expect to lose each week. And why—as has often happened—if your loss twice or even three times the expected amount in the first week or two, you must consider this is a lucky bonus.

A strict diet in a strict book? Yes! BUT ONE THAT PRODUCES RESULTS! That gets you off the weight-loss, wait-gain see-saw for good! Prove it to yourself, today!

This was by no means easy—but they did it, and you can do it too! And once you have done it, it will be practically impossible for you to eat in the same old fat-causing way that you ate eating today!

Once you follow this Final Diet precisely . . then you must lose up to 100 pounds—and never gain an ounce of it back.

Prove it to yourself at our risk.

The choice is now yours. You have been on fad diets—easy diets—miracle diets. You have lost some weight. You have gained it right back again!

Now do you want to lose it for good?

There is no wardrobe in the world you can buy that will make you look as attractive. There is no pill in the world that will give you as much renewed energy, or add more healthy years to your life.

Dog Nearly Itches to Death

"I thought we would have to put Daisy to sleep . . . but I could never do this. I suffered as she suffered almost two years with large running, itching sores. I had almost given up trying things when I came across Sulfodene. Now her back is all healed, her hair is coming in thick. The Lord should bless you for such a fine product," says Mrs. John Burmester, New Jersey.

SULFODENE is a scientific liquid medication developed by famous veterinary scientist, Dr. A. C. Merrick. SULFODENE works fast to clear fungus infection, stop fungus itch and heal itch-sores (often called mange, eczema, hot spots). So soothing, the most frenzied itching is relieved almost instantly. Biting and scratching is stopped. Quickly promotes healing. Open sores heal over. Scales disappear and hair grows back. Used by kennels and leading veterinarians. For dogs and cats. Why women suffer irregularity plus fullness and intolerance to fats.

It's true. These symptoms frequently occur together. Because they have the same cause: irregular bowel habits and improper diet. The pace of today's modern woman is hectic. With special pressures and problems they face, no wonder women pay the penalty of chronic irregularity and indigestion.

That is why, for women, physicians frequently specify Caroid® and Bile Salts Tablets rather than an ordinary laxative. Caroid and Bile Salts Tablets are unique. They are designed to treat the full complex of symptoms.

Caroid and Bile Salts Tablets act gently in 3 ways: they improve the digestion of proteins, fats and fat-soluble vitamins. They increase the flow of natural bile from the liver. They gently, effectively stimulate laxation.

With the help of Caroid and Bile Salts Tablets, you can relieve irregularity, bloating, fullness and intolerance to fats.

For fast gentle action, get Caroid and Bile Salts Tablets today. No prescription needed.

New! 14-inch Heavy Duty Foil

...we call it Broiling Foil

Why Broiling Foil? Because it's just the right width for lining your broiler pan. No messy scouring! This new, all-purpose, heavy duty aluminum foil is also perfect for freezing, cooking, lining your grill... wherever the 14-inch width fits best. And like all Reynolds Wrap, it's oven-tempered for flexible strength, a special strength that resists tearing. Re-usable too.

Reynolds Wrap.
A foil by any other name just ain't the same.

BARBECUE FISH-BAKE*

1 to 3 lb. fish, cleaned	1 cup catsup
	¾ cup water
Texas Barbecue Sauce	1 teaspoon chili powder
¼ cup cider vinegar	3 drops Tabasco Sauce
¼ cup corn oil	2 teaspoons salt
⅓ cup Worcestershire	Reynolds Wrap Broiling Foil

Combine barbecue sauce ingredients and bring just to a boil. Place fish on center of a large sheet of Reynolds Wrap Broiling Foil. Sprinkle salt and pepper inside fish. Bring up foil around fish and spoon sauce over it generously. Close the foil, double-folding edges together. Bake over hot fire, allowing 15 minutes for 1 lb. fish; 25 minutes for 2 lbs.; 35 minutes for 3 lbs. Serve right from foil, spooning juices over each serving. Note to fishermen: Fresh-caught fish stay fresh when wrapped in Reynolds Wrap Broiling Foil and frozen.

FUN & GAMES CLINIC

MEADVILLE, PA.

The Fairyland Clinic here may be the only medical institution in the world where children cry when it's time to go home. This haven for the handicapped combines the appearance of an amusement park with the facilities of a medical center—a kind of child's world of therapeutics.

The clinic, which is entirely free and treats only outpatients, was founded more than a dozen years ago by Dr. Ed Connor, a local pediatrician, and Owen K. Murphy, the president of the Niagara Therapy Corporation. Both found that children were often frightened by the cold and sterile look of most clinics. So they bought a white framehouse and engaged an artist to decorate the treatment rooms and offices with Mother Goose figures and bright, gay murals of circus scenes.

In these rooms, a staff of technicians and therapists manage to turn the normally grim process of being treated for physical handicaps into fun. Treatment rooms are stocked with oversized toys in which the children, whose ages range from infancy to 13, either sit or stand. Therapy is applied through hidden cyclo-massage units, and often the child is unaware of it. Thus a youngster may sit in a steamboat or airplane, supposedly guiding its controls, while his limbs are receiving the mechanical stimulus to develop the proper circulation.

To encourage children to use their muscles, a special ladder has been built, decorated by the figure of a cat with bulbs for eyes. The incentive for climbing to the last rung is the pleasure of pushing a button which makes the eyes light up. A similar purpose is served by a flexible toy tiger inside a circus wagon. Strings are attached to the moving parts of the animal, and, as the child sits in front of the cage, he is encouraged to exercise hand and finger muscles to make the tiger move. A "parakeet walk" encourages children whose walking needs correction to keep moving along a special, railed platform, and equally unique methods are used for those with speech defects. Even the floors of play cribs are constructed to include special scientific equipment.

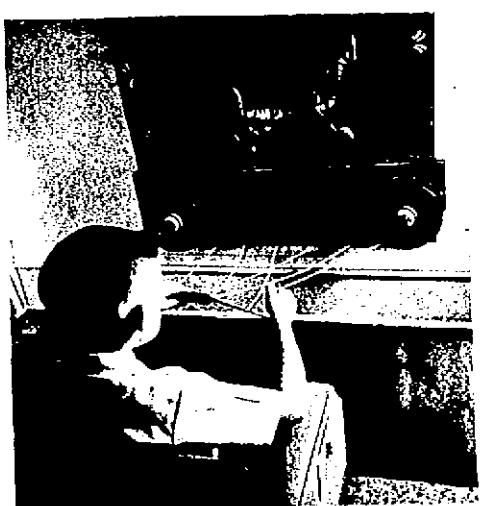

Many of the children who come to the Fairyland Clinic have been bypassed or rejected by other institutions because it was felt that nothing could be done for them. But at Fairyland they have learned to accomplish tasks, like feeding themselves and tying their own shoelaces, which might otherwise have been denied them. Dr. Connor devotes his time and skill to the clinic; Mr. Murphy assumes the maintenance costs, which run to some $30,000 a year. Both find the satisfaction of helping children reward enough.

Fairyland Clinic's founder, Owen K. Murphy, visits with some of the young patients. Steamboat above is constructed with cyclo-massage seats and special tension-control pedals to exercise the legs.

Patient Chip Perkins climbs ladder determined to press buttons, one to light up cat's eyes, the other to set woodpecker pecking.

Patients' manual dexterity is improved by moving this puppetlike tiger. Pulling the strings is John Gladis.

SWEET & SOUR MEATBALLS

by Beth Merriman

PARADE FOOD EDITOR

Sweet and pungent flavor is prominent and popular in Far Eastern cooking. There meat is combined with vegetables and fruits and served in a sweet-sour sauce, accompanied by rice. PARADE's version of the Oriental dish features tiny meatballs rather than pieces of meat covered with the flavorful sauce. Especially good for summer, it can be prepared in advance and reheated at dinner, while the rice is cooking.

ORIENTAL MEATBALLS

2 pounds ground lean beef
2½ teaspoons salt, divided
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 egg, beaten
2 tablespoons flour
Few grains pepper
½ cup vegetable oil
1 can (14-ounce size) chicken broth
3 tablespoons cornstarch
2 teaspoons soy sauce
½ cup vinegar
½ cup light corn syrup
3 large green peppers, cut in sixths
6 slices canned pineapple, quartered
12 maraschino cherries

Combine beef, 1 teaspoon salt, and ⅛ teaspoon pepper. Shape into 30 small meatballs about 1½ inches in diameter. Combine egg, flour, ½ teaspoon salt, and few grains pepper, and beat smooth. Heat oil and add remaining salt. Dip meatballs lightly in the batter, and fry in hot oil, turning them until brown on all sides.

Remove meatballs from pan. Drain off all but 2 tablespoons oil. Blend ½ cup chicken broth with the cornstarch. Add remaining broth, soy sauce, vinegar, and corn syrup, and cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until thickened and clear. Add green peppers, pineapple, and cherries, and lower heat. Cook for five minutes, then pour over meatballs. Serve with rice. Makes six servings.

Gerber® Baby Sock Story

Making headlines . . . scrumptiously soft baby-cuddling socks that say comfort afoot every step of the way. Featured in Durene® mercerized cotton with snug-fitting heels, or 100% stretch nylon to grow with baby. Each pair proudly reflects the quality you expect from Gerber. Washing after washing they keep their shape the way fine baby socks should. Long-wearing, too!

Because you love your baby . . . and want only the best for him—or her—next time you hear the pitter-patter of little feet, be assured they're pampered in our baby-loving socks.

A day on the beach with your baby is bound to be filled with fresh air and fun.

But remember that reflected rays from the sand add to the scorching power of the sun. So be sure to put some kind of covering over baby's shoulders after a few minutes exposure.

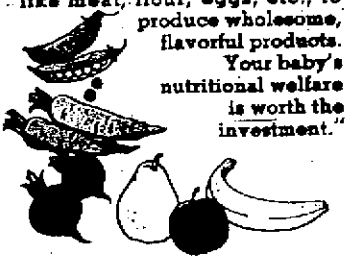

Cooling thoughts
Beach activity usually brings on a big thirst. Good idea to take along some cooled cans of Gerber Fruit Juices. Toddlers and tykes take to them as well as babies.

With Gerber you can choose orange juice, apple juice or 8 different blends of juices. Delicately refreshing for sun-drenched days and nourishing, too. All are equally rich in important vitamin C.

Dan Gerber explains how our large, new research laboratory serves your baby.

"Our experts work with farmers and seed growers to produce better vegetables, with orchard men to produce better fruits. Quality control specialists set rigid standards for all ingredients like meat, flour, eggs, etc., to produce wholesome, flavorful products. Your baby's nutritional welfare is worth the investment."

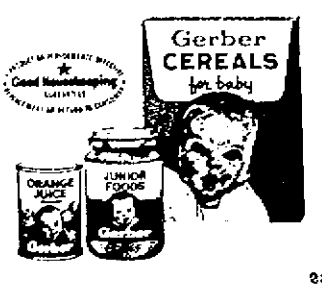

When you get home
Cool supper suggestion from Gerber that a toddler might enjoy:
Salad Dressing Delight
1 jar Junior Peach Cobbler
1 Tbs. Orange Juice
1 jar Cottage Cheese with Pineapple
Combine and serve over a simple fruit salad.
Gerber offers 7 other desserts. Has baby tried Dutch Apple Dessert or smooth Butterscotch Pudding?

Words about water-babies
If you've a toddler, it's wise to let him (or her) approach the water on his own. Under your ever-watchful eye, of course. Most children are naturally cautious with the unfamiliar. A baby who's doused in water without warning, may develop a fear that will be hard to cure.

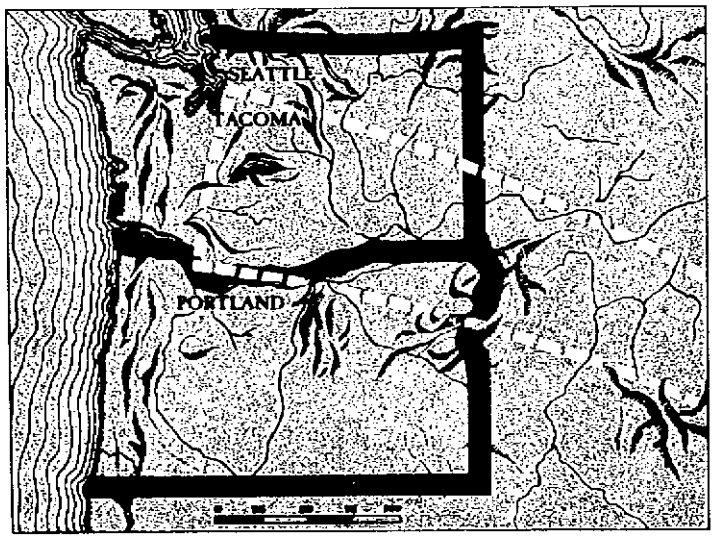

Note: Gerber prepares infant formulas and over 100 baby foods. Comfortable, durable babywear, too.

Continental opens its "NW/SE territories"

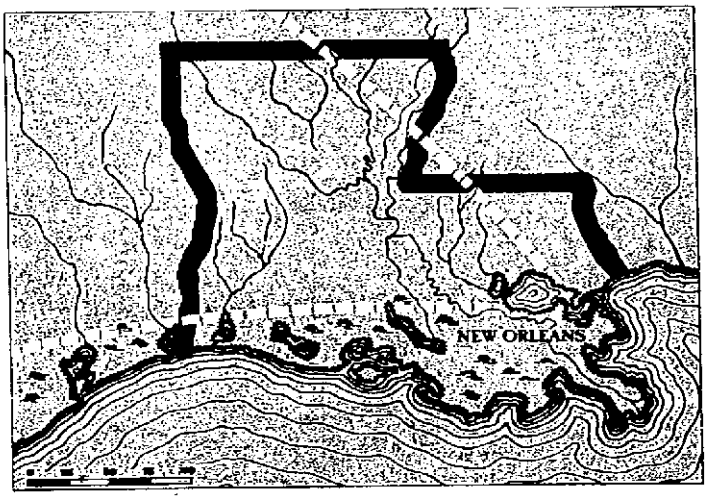

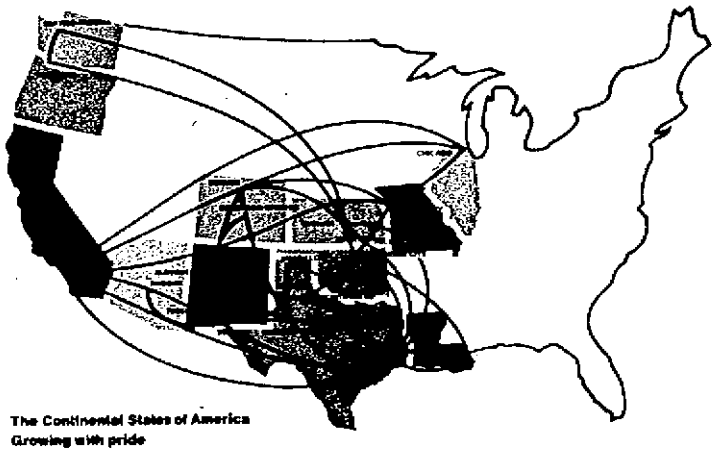

Wouldn't you know it! The Continental States of America is only a few months old and we're experiencing our first territorial expansion.

A recent route award has made it possible for us to add the states of Washington, Oregon and Louisiana to the C.S.A. This means the present number of states in our country stands at twelve, instead of the previous nine ...and we're very excited about that.

But the real story is even bigger. For the first time, the Pacific Northwest and the Gulf Coast have a direct jet connection...no more plane changing. Continental Airlines now provides service between Seattle / Tacoma, Portland, Wichita, Tulsa, Oklahoma City Houston and New Orleans.

This means a new opportunity for more people to travel more places in the Continental States of America and feel the difference pride makes.

my favorite jokes

by Allen Kent

EDITOR'S NOTE: Allen Kent, born Allen Arenson in Nanticoke, Pa., 48 years ago, is the only comedian in show business who holds a degree in aeronautical engineering from the California Institute of Technology, one of the nation's most prestigious scientific educational institutions.

Kent, a fighter pilot in World War II, attended Cal Tech on the GI Bill of Rights, then went to work for Chance-Vought Aircraft. He didn't particularly care for the 9-to-6 routine and left to become, of all things, a dance teacher. He then decided to become a comedian "because they earn more than dance instructors." Kent broke into the "humor business" in the Catskills with a routine which was "half borrowed and half original." He caught on slowly, got himself booked into small clubs and hotels, gradually worked his way up the scale to the Steel Pier in Atlantic City, the Casino Royale in Washington, D.C., the Americana in Miami Beach, and the Playboy Club circuit throughout the country. One of the few bachelor comics in show biz, Kent is currently searching for "a nice, appreciative, humor-loving woman who'd like to get married, not just fool around." He'd prefer a girl "who is not wealthy, just rich."

Herewith some jokes culled from Kent's routines:

The Israelis have notified President Johnson that they will take over our war in Vietnam for cost plus 10 percent.

The Israelis have great military men. In fact President Johnson has offered them Dean Rusk, Robert McNamara, 100 Cadillacs, and George Hamilton for two weeks of Gen. Moshe Dayan.

I don't want to say that the Israelis were overconfident about the war in the Middle East, but even before they started to fight they were booking bar mitzvahs for the Cairo Hilton.

You've heard about the English model, Twiggy. She has no front—only two backs.

I've been a popular unknown for years.

Two secretaries arrived in their office one morning. The blonde was wearing a brand new mink coat. "How do I look?" she asked her friend.

Said the friend, "Guilty."

Two drunks wandered into the world-famous San Diego Zoo and watched in awe as a lion let loose with a tremendous roar.

"Let's get outa here," said one drunk.

Every woman complains about it

This doctor did something about it

By Mary Morgan

His name was Arthur B. Donovan. He was a prominent Boston doctor and obstetrician. And for years, he had listened to women complain about one thing. The thing that makes women women. The menstrual period.

Was there no better way to cope with the problem of sanitary protection than bulky napkins that twisted and slipped—and caused chafing and odor problems?

Wasn't there a more hygienic way for women to go through those three to seven days a month?

Wasn't there a way for women to have a full month's freedom so that they could swim and ski and play tennis and do the things they wanted without making excuses?

Before he could answer these questions, the late Dr. Donovan thought it best to examine the kinds of sanitary protection then available. And herein lies the story of the development of a new, highly absorbent, self-conforming tampon that more and more women today are thinking of as worry-proof.

First, the first ones

The most commonly used form of sanitary protection, at the time Dr. Donovan first began his experimentation, was disposable napkins. These had been introduced just after World War I and, of course, were recognized by the doctor as an improvement over the homemade pads women had used for generations.

More advanced than this method, however, was that of internal sanitary protection. Applicator-type tampons (introduced about a decade after disposable napkins) did away with such napkin problems as bulkiness, chafing and odor.

What about "tamponage"?

This, Dr. Donovan decided, was the method he ought to pursue in his effort to develop a still better kind of sanitary protection. Like many physicians, Dr. Donovan had employed "tamponage" in his practice. This medical principle of internal absorption, he knew, was sound. Internal absorption not only eliminated external friction and odor, it was cleaner. And completely invisible.

The task that Dr. Donovan set for himself was to design a small, easy-to-use tampon which had no applicator and which provided the absorbency of a sanitary napkin.

If the applicator were to be eliminated, what could replace it to assure comfortable insertion? And how could it be made more absorbent and still remain compact?

A coated tip

Years of research, testing and disappointments followed. But at last, Dr. Donovan found the answer to the problem. It was a tampon with a unique tapered tip to which was applied a clear, absolutely safe coating. This harmless coating acted as a prelubricant—made insertion easy, gentle and medically correct. It entirely eliminated the need for an applicator and its attendant disposal problems.

As for its absorbency, it was remarkable for the size of the tampon. Dr. Donovan had designed this tampon to be compressed to one-sixth the size of its original absorptive material. Upon contact with moisture, it gradually expanded sideways—not lengthwise to exert uncomfortable pressure—the secret of why it fits without being felt. Thus, the tampon conformed to the shape of each individual woman, with the rate of absorbency being governed by each woman's needs.

Tests with doctors, hospitals and women of all ages brought unbelievably favorable responses. Teen-age girls found its compactness the answer to their needs, while married women praised its absorbency. Their reactions were more than Dr. Donovan had hoped for. He had finally achieved his goal.

The tampon was named Pursettes® (a whole box will tuck into the smallest purse) and the Campana Corporation was chosen to market it. Today, women everywhere know it as the tampon that's right even for single girls.

If you would like to try Pursettes, just send 10¢ to me, Mary Morgan, Box P 77, Batavia, Illinois, and a trial supply will be sent to you.

Even single girls

As one married woman said: "I am thirty-four and 'Pursettes' are the first tampons I have ever been able to use." And a high school girl wrote: "I never thought I could use a tampon. But I just hadn't tried the right one. Too bad every girl hasn't found Pursettes."

After years of complaining, women are finally beginning to change their tune. More and more, women are discovering the tampon that's right even for single girls—Pursettes.

PARADE'S SPECIAL

INTELLIGENCE REPORT

BECAUSE OF VOLUME OF MAIL, PARADE CANNOT ANSWER QUERIES ABOUT THIS COLUMN.

UNSUNG HERO. Defense Minister Moshe Dayan received most of the public acclaim when Israel defeated the Arab nations in five days, but the real credit, according to many Israeli officers, belongs to Maj. Gen. Yitzhak Rabin, 45, the Israeli Army's Chief of Staff, and his brilliant deputy, Gen. Haim Barlev, 43, a graduate of Columbia University, New York City.

Rabin, who was born in Jerusalem, fought for the British in World War II and against them after the war. When Israel achieved its independence, Britain invited Rabin to attend its staff college at Camberley. He was graduated at the top of his class, later came to Fort Bliss, Tex., for further training. In 1963 Rabin again toured U.S. military posts, picked up pointers on mass tank maneuvers.

Handsome, married, the father of two children, a professional soldier since he was 18, Yitzhak Rabin is regarded as the number-one military strategist in his country. He is not as colorful and publicity conscious as Dayan, but the men he leads are dedicated and devoted to him. Unlike Dayan, who started out in life as a lawyer and is now regarded as the political heir to David Ben-Gurion, General Rabin has eschewed politics. But at 45 he is relatively young, and when the political call comes, it may well prove irresistible.

MAJ. GEN. YITZHAK RABIN

CONVENIENCE STORES. According to the president of the National Association of Retail Grocers, Malcolm J. Reid, "The fastest growing area of our industry is the convenience store. Many firms have sold their supermarkets and gone into this type of operation."

A convenience store is a neighborhood market, generally franchised, which carries a limited number of groceries, frozen foods, dairy products, delicatessen, fruit, and vegetables -- but no meat.

The convenience stores are spreading most rapidly throughout the East where they are known as Jiffy Mart, Little Giant, Tom Thumb, and other similar names.

At a recent grocers' convention in Las Vegas, Reid pointed out that the average convenience store can be opened with a capital of $40,000, whereas a supermarket costs about $250,000.

Convenience stores are usually open seven days a week from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m., are frequently run by a family who has paid the franchise fee of $2500, in return for which the franchiser provides the site, inventory, training, and supervision.

BRAIN GAIN. Come September, Great Britain's Ministry of Technology plans to set up offices in the U.S. for the recruitment back to England of disappointed British and disgruntled American scientists. The idea is to attract to Great Britain a number of engineers who prefer the slower, more placid rat race. The British are even talking of raising the salary scale of engineers. They pay their scientists about half of what we pay ours.

PROJECT ABLE. NASA, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, has shelved one of its most imaginative proposals, Project Able. The project involved the orbiting of reflector satellites to illuminate the Vietnam jungles at night. By so doing, American aircraft might be able to bomb North Vietnamese supply lines on a round-the-clock basis, reduce the sanctuary of darkness now enjoyed by the Viet Cong.

The proposal called for the Saturn V rocket to shoot half a dozen satellites into a synchronous orbit with each providing enough moonlight to illuminate a 200-mile-diameter circle of the earth.

The plan, according to Homer Hewell, NASA's chief scientist, is feasible. But it would cost about $150 million to develop and would take anywhere from two to five years before the satellites could be launched.

RELIEF. Approximately 7.3 million Americans are currently on relief, receiving welfare payments from various agencies. How many of them are employable?

Joseph A. Califano Jr., an aide to President Johnson, recently revealed the following statistics on relief recipients:

"...over the next few years, out of the 7.3 million Americans on relief, only 50,000 males may be capable of getting off -- even if every program, public and private, were adequately staffed and efficiently run.

"Of the 7.3 million citizens on welfare, 2.1 million, mostly women, are 65 or over, with a median age of 72; 700,000 are either blind or so severely handicapped that their work potential, if any, is extremely limited; 3.5 million are children whose parents cannot support them. The remaining 1 million are the parents of those children, about 900,000 mothers and 150,000 fathers. Two-thirds of the 150,000 fathers on welfare are incapacitated. Only some 50,000 are capable of being given job skills and training that will make them self-sufficient."

The Califano report confirms what most professional social workers have long held to be true: Most people on relief are unable to get jobs.

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT. Fifteen years ago 25% of Americans were opposed to capital punishment. Today's polls show that more than 50% now disapprove. To date, 13 states have abolished the death penalty, and even those which have not are more sparing in their executions. Since 1930, about 3860 persons have been executed in the U.S., 3333 for murder.

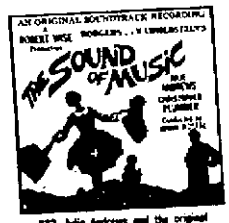

Twenty states now use the electric chair, which was first installed in New York in 1891, while ten employ the gas chamber, and six the gallows. In Utah the condemned man can choose between hanging or firing squad. In 1958 murderer Barton Kirkham chose hanging when he learned that the construction of the gallows would cost the state far more than death by firing squad.

At this writing there are 405 men waiting in various death rows for the life-or-death decisions of legislatures and governors. Although capital punishment has been shown to be no deterrent to murder -- most murders in this country are crimes of passion -- no Southern state has yet abolished the death penalty, although in Georgia the minimum age for execution has now been raised from 10 to 17.

N-NOW... SHE'S LOOKING STRAIGHT AT ME... AS THOUGH SHE WANTS TO SPEAK...

CAN YOU HELP ME... PLEASE? OH, I NEED SOMEONE TO HELP STOP THIS ETERNAL FLOOD OF TEARS THAT SO PAINS MY HEART.

COME DOWN HERE... HAVE NO FEAR... THERE IS NOTHING IN ME BUT LOVE AND LONGING.

I-IF I TOUCH YOU... WILL I FEEL ANYTHING? I MEAN... AFTER ALL, YOU ARE A SORT OF GHOST OF TRISTRAM'S AUNT.

TOUCH— AND FIND OUT!

W-WHO'S THERE?

IT'S ME, KIT CARSON. CAN I TALK TO YOU, TRISTRAM?

ME TALK TO SOMEBODY, KIT, AT THIS HOUR?

TO HER, TRISTRAM.

AND THE PIRATES

by GEORGE WUNDER

TO AVOID AROUSING BUCKY'S SUSPICION, KISSOFF PRETENDS TO PREPARE HIS "SCIENTIFIC ARTICLE"! HIS DEPARTURE IS DELAYED UNTIL...

THERE! IT WILL BE OUT OF SIGHT OVER THE HORIZON IN A SECOND, KISSOFSON. LET'S JOIN THE OTHERS.

YOU ALL SAW IT OF COURSE?

MAGNIFICENT SIGHT, MRS. DERBY. EVEN I HAVE NEVER SEEN AN INTER-PLANETARY VEHICLE ENTER OUR ATMOS-PHERE BEFORE.

TIME, COURSE, TRAJECTORY JUST AS OUR SPACE EXPERTS CALCULATED. IT'S THE BOOSTER ROCKET FROM OUR LAST "COSMOS" SHOT BURNING UP ON RE-ENTRY!

CAN'T LET IT INTERFERE WITH MY GETTING AWAY FROM HERE—NOW! I THINK I'VE ACTED OUT MY PART CONVINCINGLY—AND I HAVE FOUR NOTE BOOKS FULL OF UTTER GIBBERISH TO PROVE IT!

MY CONGRATULATIONS, MRS. DERBY, ON ANOTHER TRIUMPH... AH, SINCE MY RESEARCH HERE IS COMPLETE, IT'S TIME I GOT BACK TO MY TYPEWRITER. I'LL BE LEAVING AT DAYBREAK SO I WILL SAY GOOD-BYE NOW...

NONSENSE, KISSOFSON! I'LL NEED YOU AS MY WITNESS WHEN THE REPORTERS ARRIVE.

"WITNESS"? DID YOU SAY "REPORTERS," MRS. DERBY?

I DID! I INTEND TO CONTACT THE WIRE SERVICES BY RADIO-PHONE FIRST THING TOMORROW.

BUT, AH, SURELY, IT WOULD BE BETTER TO SAVE IT FOR YOUR HOMECOMING PRESS CONFERENCE, JUST AS WITH THE FIRST SIGHTING...

"THE LANDING OF A SPACESHIP ON THE NEXT ISLAND WAS WITNESSED ONLY BY MY GROUP. HOWEVER, THIS TIME, YOU WERE PRESENT!

THE STORY OF MY LATEST DISCOVERY WILL BE ON THE DESK OF EVERY SCIENCE EDITOR IN THE WORLD. IF THERE IS ANY DOUBT, THE NAME OF THE CELE-BRATED SCANDINAVIAN JOURNALIST, "KISSOFSON," WILL TAKE CARE OF THAT!

7-23

CAREFREE SUMMER SAILORS! WHO NEEDS A LECTURE ON PREPAREDNESS? SHUT OFF THAT CRAZY DOOM PEDDLER! LET'S HAVE SOME GO-GO! — YEAH! YEAH!

"SEEING IS BELIEVING." SURE IT IS! AND IT'S ALSO DECEIVING, SOME-TIMES; ANNIE SAW AN AVALANCHE BLOT OUT WARBUCKS,.....AND YET...?

SURE! WHY NOT? TEN THOUSAND MILES FROM THE SHOOTING, AREN'T WE? ..... WHILE THREE HUNDRED FEET BELOW, IN A FOREIGN NUCLEAR SUB .....

GEE! I NEVER RE'LIZED THIS BEFORE!

HATE TO ADMIT IT, BUT "THEIR" BRAGGIN' ADMIRAL WAS RIGHT! THIS 'FICIAL BOOK ON NAVAL STRENGTH SAYS ZACTLY WHAT HE SAID!

"THEY'VE" GOT 380; SUBS TO OUR 207. ON SURFACE STUFF WE'VE GOT 'EM TOPPED! BUT SUBS COULD CHANGE THAT SURFACE PICTURE AWFUL QUICK, I S'POSE!

AND I READ SOMEPLACE 'BOUT HOW FAR AHEAD "THEY'RE" GETTIN' WITH BIG FISHIN' FLEETS AN' SHIPS O' ALL KINDS! WHAT'S TH' MATTER WITH US?

WHEN "DADDY" WAS ALIVE NOBODY GOT AHEAD O' HIM! HE HAD MORE SHIPS THAN ANYBODY, ALL ON OUR SIDE!

SO HE WAS LIKE SOME KIND O' PIRATE, TH' SISSIES SAY! YEAH! LIKE TH' YANKEE TRADERS WHO BUILT THIS NATION'S TRADE WERE "PIRATES"!

OH, WELL! HE'S GONE NOW, AND SO'S A FEW BILLION BUCKS O' BUSINESS! HARK! WE'RE SLOWIN' DOWN! HEY! WE'RE COMIN' UP! I WONDER WHERE?

AS THE SUB SURFACES IN THE DARKNESS IT'S EVERY MOVE IS "SEEN" IN A DISTANT CHARTROOM!

SO, THEY HAVE ARRIVED!

BUT WHY DID THEY BRING ANNIE HERE?

WERE THE SAHIB WARBUCKS ALIVE, AND THEIR PRISONER HERE, THE ANSWER WOULD BE CLEAR!

BUT WE BOTH KNOW THE SAHIB IS NOT ALIVE!

I CAN RECALL TIMES WE HAVE FEARED THE SAME BEFORE, ASP! ARE YOU FAMILIAR WITH THIS SHORE?

YES! BEYOND THIS POINT THERE IS A DEEP SECLUDED ESTUARY!
